Crimson Rambler: Was sorry not to see you there. The day I sent my letter to the Corner telling you I had found the way to your house I also received the one from you giving me full directions. I thank you for the invitation to Interested Reader and myself to spend the day with you. Shall surely call on you in the good old summer time.

Joan and Fannie M. K.: I am so glad I met you.

Effie M.: Hope the beans did not hurt you.

Thought of all you Willimantic sisters whom I met while you were celebrating your anniversary. Would liked to have been with you but couldn't this time. All good wishes for the success of the Corner.

HAPPINESS AND THANKFULNESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Happiness is the sunshine of the heart. It rays dispel the clouds in life's sky and drive away tempests of doubt and storms of despair. If the heart is full of sunshine it brims over in the eyes and flows from the tongue like liquid silver. Happy words are ever welcome words and blessed is he whose earthly mission is to make cheerful and bright those around you. There is always a corner in every household for the happy guest; the guest who is contented with everything, who demands little and whose sunny presence is reflected in every face into which he looks. He has a courteous way of smoothing out little difficulties and of smiling down impatient words and of seeing the best side of everything. Blessed are the happy hearted. Would that earth had more of them! The oft repeated question, What is life? Can only be answered by each individual making a personal thing of it. What is your life. Is it a selfish, thoughtless existence or a loving sacrifice for the glory. God has granted you an extra day in which to count the mercies of past years. Sum them up if you can and you will say He has given you good measure pressed down and running over. Surely your cup of blessing is more than full. A good way to appreciate your mercies is to think of the ills you have escaped. Every trouble disappointment and sorrow which you have been spared is a blessing. Every calamity which has touched others and passed you by gives you reason for fresh thanksgiving and if you were half as grateful as you ought to be you would sing for joy all day long. What if there have been shadows? Do not shadows intensify light? What if there have been disappointments? Have there not been sweet surprises as well? Don't forget the unexpected blessing that God has showered upon you every day. Don't take them as a matter of course but remember they are special gifts from Him and should be thankfully received by you. Though so unworthy we are all the daily recipients of God's bounty, love and care and as such our hearts should continually praise and magnify His name. My father what and I long and Thy mercies sweet like quail fall. So constant o'er my way through every changing day.

Deep feeling is contagious. Words from burning hearts are sure to kindle the hearts of others. Hearts that stand everything else are often melted by a tear. Let the heart palpitate in every line and burn it every word. We need more heart, we do not care enough for our neighbors welfare; we concern ourselves too little about the cares and responsibilities, the sorrows and suffering of others. There are deeths within us that have never been sounded, feelings that have never been touched, sympathies that lie dormant. Oh for the heart to feel as God loves as we ought! Let us cultivate a deeper interest in humanity and our influence shall kindle other hearts and quicken other spirits and the world will be the better for our having lived in it.

RURAL AUNTY'S ORANGE PUDDING

Dear Social Corner Friends: I will try and write a few lines, as one sister says if you keep putting it off it might be too long. What nice letters we are having! It seems as though they grow more interesting all the time. And what a good lot of recipes which are very nice. I think the Corner is making friends every day and if we would have friends we must show ourselves friendly. I thought it a good time to write as the wind and rain rattled the windows which sounds rather dreary, but the sun will shine all the brighter soon and make us forget the storm.

Dutchy: Glad to have you join the Corner. Also you are welcome to join Club No. 4. I think I know you. Isn't your initial L?

Grandma Grey: Your poetry is fine. Every word true. Hope you are feeling better.

Historian: Do wake up and let us hear from you. Perhaps you are resting up so you will be able to go to the beach this summer. Glad to see so many joining the Corner. What a large family we have got to be! As a number of my friends wanted my recipe for orange pudding I told them I would put it in the Corner so here it is.

Orange Pudding: One and one third cups stale bread crumbs, 1 cup water, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup of orange juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 eggs and an extra yolk, 1 tablespoon butter melted and a quarter spoon salt. Soak crumbs in cold water for 20 minutes, then add other ingredients and pour into buttered pudding dish and bake in slow oven. Beat the eggs until well blended. When done cover with a meringue and serve pudding cool. Delicious with whipped cream. Try this and see if it doesn't melt in your mouth. Never fails if made properly and serves six people.

Good wishes to all.

LETTER FROM ONE OF EARLY WRITERS

Dear Social Corner Editor: I promised a dear sister I would write this week. But it really is a long time since I have written, although I am always interested in all the letters. Since my home was broken up and the dear one gone it does not seem the same as it did when he too took interest and we would talk and read the letters over. And as I read the letters from week to week how many changes among us all! Am always glad to read letters from old writers as well as the new ones. There is Aunty No. 1. Where is Faye Verne? Believe she wrote about our homes, flowers, pets and Faye Verne told me how to plant early seeds for pansies and what beauties I had. I will close for this time as I am very tired. I attended a nearby grange meeting last night and had a wonderful time but a tired head tonight. With good wishes to you all.

SWEET LAVENDER.

LATE BUT SINCERE ANNIVERSARY GREETINGS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Here we are now, fast approaching good old spring. So far March has been rather rough on us, which has rattled our dry bones some. Am very sorry that I forgot our anniversary week, which came last week. Never mind I am here if just a little late and trusting all the sisters and our few shy brothers are well and preparing for the spring duties.

You don't suppose it is because Ma of Green Gables has begun to clean house that we don't hear from her.

Had a letter from Balsam Fir. She writes snow banks are still ten feet high up in her section now and the lumber men are drawing logs right over those banks.

I guess this section at this time of the year is good enough for poor me. I will make my letter short as I have some very nice verses which are over 100 years old I would like printed when there is a chance as many of the sisters might be interested.

Best of wishes to our large circle, As ever.

KOCHIE.

ENJOYED ANNIVERSARY MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What a large crowd we had at the anniversary of the Social Corner. I had not been for quite a long time but enjoyed it very much. We had a fine dinner and after dinner a nice entertainment. Every one seemed to enjoy themselves. I sympathize with the sisters. May the year be one of good luck for the Social Corner, also for the editor.

EARLY BLUE BELLE.

ENJOYED WILLIMANTIC MEETING

Dear Social Corner: I am a member of Social Corner Club No. 2 and was a visitor to your Club No. 1 last Wednesday and can assure you I had a very enjoyable time.

The new writs entered were complaints brought by Solicitor John Ferguson Jr., for the collection of Westerly Fire District and town of Westerly taxes. These cases were marked, if not answered during the day, continued one week.

The cases against Fiore and Bigos were called and passed temporarily and the case of the state vs. Tyron Whitford was taken up. Solicitor Ferguson told the court that the defendant who was arrested last Saturday night, pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging a loud, drunk, and disorderly person in speech and behaviour. Judge Williams asked the accused what his plea was and Whitford continued the case of not guilty, saying that he was not ready for trial and that his brother had engaged an attorney. Judge Williams called the brother, who was in the court room, and he stated that his attorney had directed a plea of not guilty to be entered and the case continued until the following day. Solicitor Ferguson in urging trial claimed that the state's witnesses were already in court. Addressing the court the brother remarked that he did not know what "you fellows" were going to do about the case and as far as he was concerned, he would be unable to secure the $1,000 bonds set by Judge Williams after the town solicitor had requested an additional $1,000 bond. He claimed that the accused had always been in some sort of trouble and might not appear in court again. The brother was recalled before the bench and admonished by Judge Williams to remember where he was and then a week's continuance was given and the witnesses directed to appear in court on Friday next at 9 a. m. without further notice.

The case of the State vs. Thomas Fiore was taken up on a complaint of an infraction of the Westerly hackney-carriage ordinance. Fiore was represented by an attorney, who stated that his clients former plea of not guilty was changed to one of polo. It was brought out that Thomas Fiore was in the employ of Anthony Fiore, who was arraigned on similar complaints a week ago. In the two complaints the first, under the old town ordinance, was discontinued upon the payment of costs; the second was continued for sentence.

Trial was begun in the cloth theft cases from the plant of the Westerly Textile company, it being that of State vs. Adam Bigos, who was taken into custody and had pleaded not guilty to a larceny complaint. This plea was continued. The defendant first claimed that he needed an interpreter and a recess was taken for a conference. Trial was resumed when Mrs. Julia Davis took the stand as the first witness. She testified that she lived on Pleasant street and had been in the employ of the Textile company for eight years and was the only support of four children. She was a weaver at the mill and had a locker adjacent to one of the accused and in which she found remnants of cloth and had reason to suppose that they were placed there by Bigos, as she had seen him coming away from the locker and also as he had motioned that he had put it there. Cross examined she testified that she had pleaded guilty to a larceny complaint and was practically discharged by the Westerly Textile company and that she had taken the cloth to her home. She said that her loom worked on taffeta and that the accused operated a loom on which the drapery cloth brought into court were woven.

James A. Donahue, overseer of weaving for more than four years at the Westerly Textile plant identified the cloth remnants produced as evidence in the court room and said that he was present when cloth was found in Mrs. Davis's locker and that President Fowler of the textile company was the one who took the cloth at the time following the investigation.

Charles S. Fowler president of the textile company testified that the accused had been in the company's employ for four or five weeks and from memorandum identified the cloth remnants and one that came from Mrs. Davis's locker. He said that Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was called into the case and that the accused admitted his cutting the cloth, which he placed in the locker and that his defense was at the time "that the pieces were no good." He valued the cloth, unfinished, at 50c a yard. Mrs. Davis was recalled to the stand and testified to the location of lockers.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown testified to searching the room of Mrs. Davis at 13 Pleasant street, where the cloth was found in a closet and brought to the police.

Attorney for the defendant said that he had no evidence and argued that his client, from evidence shown, had cut the cloth but left it at the mill. He asked that his client be discharged.

For the state, Attorney Ferguson said that the charge of larceny was preferred and that the case could be proceeded with against Bigos as principle or accessory.

Judge Williams stated that the defendant was found guilty and he would sentence him to pay a fine of $100. Attorney Flynn interrupted to say that the accused had already been in jail three days, when Solicitor Ferguson told the judge that there were no extenuating circumstances and that the larcenies began when Bigos entered the employ of the Textile company.

Continuing sentence, Judge Williams directed Bigos' confinement for 90 days in Providence county jail. Giving notice of an appeal to be taken, Attorney Flynn asked what the bail would be and it was made $1000. Waclaw and Victoria Dabrowski became surety.

Attorney Ferguson's requested the case against Julia Davis was continued for one week.

Following a half hour recess the truancy case of R. L. Slocum, truant officer of the town of Westerly, vs. Thomas Nardone, was heard. Verdict of guilty was entered and a fine of $10 and cost was imposed, amounting to $12.80, which was paid and the defendant discharged.

Interest in the disappearance of cloth from mills in Westerly was heightened on Thursday afternoon in an inverse way, when Benjamin Randall, janitor of the Briggs building, reported the finding of a roll of cotton cloth, at an estimated value of $150 floating in the Pawcatuck river under the building. It is supposed that this was part of a shipment which had fallen from the railroad into the river and floated to the place where it was discovered.

Westerly public schools, from announcement made by Supt. Willard H. Bacon on Friday have gone into the matter of dental clinic for the school students. Dr. Harold F. Doyle will be the examining dental surgeon and will be assisted by School Nurse Miss Gertrude Tuite.

Opening of this clinic is the result of a decision made recently by the school committee with the recommendation of Dr. Doyle, who reported that in scores of cases his inspection and advice went for naught because of the parents' failure to send their children to dentists for needed treatment. The expense of private dental service is given as the principal reason why many boys and girls in need of treatment are neglected. Rather than make the children suffer on account of their parents' poverty or lack of interest, the school department itself will hereafter bear the expense of dental work in cases that are considered worthy.

It is planned to begin examining and treating pupils of grade four at the high street school next Friday. Dr. Doyle will use a portable chair that may be moved from school to school. He is to devote two half days a week to the work.

Location of the new flag pole in the lawn at the west end of the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad will be carried out on Sunday next, having been postponed from last Sunday because of the stormy weather.

The parade will form in front of the Memorial and Public library at 3:30 p. m., with the right of the line near the post office. It will be headed by the committee (R. J. Rooney, Charles Witter, and Fred Holdredge) and the Westerly Band. Next will come two children representing Uncle Sam and the Goddess of Liberty, bearing between them the flag that is to be raised.

Other groups and organizations will follow in this order: Escorts to the flag; veterans of the Civil war with members of the Woman's Relief corps as escorts; Battery E, 243d Coast artillery, Capt. John F. Datson in command; Capt. Amos P. Chapman camp, No. 6, Sons of Veterans of the Civil war; Amos P. Chapman camp, No. 11, Daughters of Veterans; Westerly Girl Scouts; Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, with auxiliary; Robert Brucker camp, United Spanish War Veterans, with auxiliary; Harold W. Merrill post, American legion; Boy Scouts.

The committee has issued a general invitation for all citizens to carry flags and join in the parade. All sons and grandsons of Veterans of the Civil war who are not members of Amos P. Chapman camp, No. 6, are invited to march with that organization in the parade. Such men should report to Commander Charles Witter at 3 p. m. Sunday at camp headquarters, Walton block, the committee has announced.

Interested voters from Mystic attended the special town meeting in the Groton town hall at Pequonnoc Wednesday evening. The number in attendance was estimated at 75. Add the school and fire tax, which was 13 mills in Mystic last year to the 26 mills of the town, real estate owners here find they have a heavy tax rate to pay and it is being increased each year and some are disposing of their real estate and investing it otherwise. It was expected the Starr Hill road would be accepted and the appropriation of $3,000 to finance the building of the road voted and it went through as planned.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Paddy the Beaver Wonders

Things which overmuch perplex
Are likely in the end to vex.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Paddy and the two young Beavers had passed a most comfortable and uneventful winter. Nothing had disturbed them. Nothing could disturb them except the breaking of their dam, and this hadn't happened. They had nothing to do but to eat, sleep, and be happy. And all winter long they had eaten, slept and been happy. When rough, Brother North Wind had howled through the Green Forest and had driven the snow in great clouds that had known nothing about it. When

There was some one on the roof of his house

Jack Frost had pinched the trees until they cracked Paddy and his family had known nothing about it. Beneath the ice it was always peaceful and neither warmer nor colder.

Whenever they were hungry they dove into one of their tunnels, passed through it out into the water under the ice, swam over to the food pile under the ice, got a stick and with it swam back to the house. In the comfortable big room in the house they ate the bark from the stick, and then took the stick outside. Nothing worried them. No enemy could reach them.

Paddy knew that Sweet Mistress Spring was near. He knew it because the water from the Laughing Brook was flowing into his pond faster than before. Paddy was beginning to be a bit impatient. He was beginning to long to put his head above water—to see and talk with some of his neighbors in the Green Forest, to get a bit of fresh bark from a newly cut tree. So it was that he rejoiced when he discovered that the ice had melted so that there was an opening at the point where the Laughing Brook entered his pond. He swam over there, and for the first time in many weeks he put his head out of water and looked around. My, how good it seemed to look up and see the blue, blue sky. How good it was to draw a long breath and feel that he hadn't got to hold it as long as he could! He looked all around at the familiar trees. Then he looked across the ice at the roof of his house, standing well above the ice. Paddy caught his breath. He blinked. He blinked again. There was some one on the roof of his house. That wasn't so surprising in itself, for Paddy knew that that roof had been visited many times during the winter. He knew that Yowler the Bobcat had been there, and Old Man Coyote and Reddy Fox. He had known when he built that roof that he would have many visitors, and he had built it so that none of them could tear it open.

But this visitor was the last one in the world he ever expected to see there. He knew him instantly. He knew that it was Puma the Panther, for long ago, far far from there, when he was a little fellow, Paddy once had seen Puma the Panther. Puma was tearing at that roof, but it was still frozen hard, and he tore in vain. He snarled with disappointment. Then he turned and returned to the Green Forest.

Paddy the Beaver was very thoughtful as he swam back under the ice to his home. "I wonder if that fellow has come to stay," thought Paddy. "If he has, it means more danger for me and mine. If he has, we shall have to watch out as never before. I rather would have seen almost any one than Puma the Panther. I wonder if he really is going to say. U-I-I'H almost be tempted to move."

The Smoothest thing on wheels

This is the characterization most frequently applied to the Willys-Knight Great Six by its swiftly mounting number of delighted owners. And it aptly sums up this car's truly marvelous performance-ability.

No other automobile has the super-power and speed, the smoothness and silent running qualities of the Willys-Knight Great Six. No other steers so easily or rides so comfortably.

The patented Knight sleeve-valve engine, the only known motor car engine that improves with use—and a steering-mechanism equipped with 8 Timken bearings, more than any other car built—these are two major superiorities, exclusive with the Willys-Knight, that contribute immeasurably to the Willys-Knight owner's advantage.

CAPT. C. H. NILES, ONCE SOUND PILOT, DIED AT NEW LONDON, AT AGE OF 94

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 13.—Captain Charles H. Niles, 94, one of the best known of New London mariners, died this morning at his lodging house, 109 Golden street. So far as is known his only surviving relative is an aged sister who is a resident of Hartford. Captain Niles was for many years employed as pilot of sound and river craft and later became master of harbor craft. He was at one time master of the ferryboats plying between this port and Groton. He retired from active duties about 11 years ago, his last post being captain of the ferryboat Col. Ledyard. Captain Niles was a member of the Jibboom club, New London's organization of seafaring membership and had served as the club's presiding officer, Commodore. He had been in feeble health a number of years, and most of the time had been confined to his home, although he appeared at the annual banquet of the club on Washington's birthday.

Rocco Basile, residing at 10 Hebron street was found to be in the possession of copper cable wire that did not belong to him, so when was to be the use to be made of it excited the curiosity of the police. It was agreed that Rocco was not to build a chicken coop with it nor was he likely to have the purpose of setting up a radio set with it, so the officers nosed about and from Rocco himself they obtained information that the wire was the property of Earnet Gordon. It was then learned that the wire had been stolen. Rocco was presented in court this morning. He gave he police information that led to the opinion that there were others concerned in the stealing of wire, so to discover the facts Rocco's case was adjourned 24 hours and he was released, on a bond of $50, Rocco's brother became surety on the bond.

John Pullen was found to have been riding with the police cours when he was presented this morning for investigation. He was ordered to be committed to jail on the offense committed yesterday, but he revealed that he was in the court last October for which was shown leniency in that case. This time to pay a fine of $5, the former leniency and he was given a disposition to pay, the court ordered him committed to jail for the other offense. The police say Pullen to be a fellow who spends the girls money to ... Tom Reed is an idler till ... gets it and then he gets over ... of the liquor.

He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

The alleged assault was revealed this evening when the youthful complainant appeared at the police station accompanied by her sister and declared that last evening while walking through Huntington street, near the corner of Williams street, she was suddenly accosted by Clark who approached her and assume an air of intimacy with the girl. The girl, according to her statement, continued to walk along and finally Clark, she claims, seized her and finally grabbed her by the throat and started to kiss her. The girl finally broke away and went to her home. During the day she related her experience to her sister and then decided to lodge complaint against Clark. The two girls arrived at the police station shortly after 6 o'clock, but because the complaint had been withheld nearly 24 hours, the girl was advised to go to the office of Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J Hollandersky, where she again repeated her story with the result that a warrant for Clark's arrest was issued. Patrolman George Perkins and Augustus Ray, accompanied by the two girls went to the Clark residence where the complainant positively identified Clark as her attacker. He was then taken into custody and brought to the police station only to be liberated on bail an hour later.

BOSTON COMMERCIAL MAN DIES FROM PNEUMONIA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 13.—Death came today at Lawrence hospital to Philip Strickland Goodnow, 35, of Boston, a commercial salesman, death resulting from a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Goodnow's body was forwarded to Boston this afternoon. Mr. Goodnow arrived in New London several days ago and was suffering from a severe cold. He was attended by a physician at the hotel where he was a guest, but with the development of pneumonia he was transferred to the hospital.

Peter Athanalas was the cook who prepared luncheons for the girls of Connecticut college who ate their cake and ice cream and drank hot chocolate, etc., at Peterson's in this city. Peter will now have opportunity to prove that he is not the bad man he is accused of being, when he appears in the police court Tuesday next. He will appear then because he is in jail now unable to furnish a bond of $1,000. Peter was arrested in Perth Amboy, where he is alleged to have gone to ship on a towboat as cook. His whereabouts became known when his companions were arrested and accused, he was called back and appeared in court this morning. It is manifest that he will be tried with the other men, Frank Tudisco and Max Goldstein, when the time comes for their appearance. It is known that Tudisco has "blown" and revealed all that he has to tell to the prosecutor and to the police. He has related a connected story that reveals all that was done by the alleged crooks and has disclosed how they operated and what they did with the plunder, which was some cash and the rest goods taken from the store. Manager Kellas of the Patterson store, accuses Tudisco of having taken candy, butter, chickens and other goods from his employer, and to have disposed of them for cash. Mr. Kellas declares that he has witnesses who saw these goods in the automobile in which Tudisco was sporting about the city, and that some of the witnesses of the whereabouts of the stolen goods are members of the police force. He will find that the officers are disposed to corroborate the story for they were, it is understood, asked by Kellas to view the contents of the automobile. How the first information as to the alleged thefts and the swindling of Patterson leaked out is not known, but it is certain that the leak was so complete in its disclosures, that it became an easy matter to follow the clues disclosed. All the men as used are represented by attorneys. So there will be a battle in court to find them probably guilty and to send them to a higher court for trial.

KANSAS PRAIRIES WILL RING WITH SINGING OF MESSIAH

LINDSBORG, Kan., March 13 (AP)—For the fortyfifth consecutive year Kansas prairies will ring with Lindsborg's rendition of Handel's Messiah next month.

It will be a gathering of musical artists—Claire Dux, soprano with the Chicago Opera company; Dusolina Giannini, another American soprano who next fall is to appear as guest prima donna with Berlin and Hamburg, opera companies; Charlotte Cummings, Chicago tenor and others.

But the Messiah's swelling refrains, as always, will be sung by natives of this little community who have sung it for years.

It was back in 1881 that an industrious and far-seeing young Lutheran minister, Carl A. Swensson, by dint of hard work and enthusiasm organized the first Messiah chorus of 40 voices. Today that chorus numbers 500 members. Mrs Swensson, organizer and first director of the chorus, still sings in the soprano section. Doctor Swensson died in 1904.

Soloists already have been chosen for the one hundred and thirty-first, thirty-second and thirty-third productions, March 28 and April 3 and 4. Eighteen recitals and concerts have been planned, and for the first time in its history the festival will sponsor a music and art contest.

The soloists for the Messiah include Mrs. Agnes Clark-Ginister, Denver, soprano; Mrs Raymond Havens, Kansas City, contralto; Carlton Cummings, Chicago, tenor, and Sigurd Wirsen, New York, bass. In addition each of the soloists will give a recital. Bethany Symphony orchestra will assist.

The Flonzaley quartet, organized 23 years ago, will open the festival Palm Sunday afternoon.

The scene of Lindsborg's festivities, the child of Bethany college—is the college auditorium, a huge octagonal-shaped building which houses a beautifully-toned pipe organ.

The auditorium, seating 2,000 was built in 1905 with lumber donated by C. A. Smith of Minneapolis, a Swedish lumberman. Two dozen Lindsborg citizens gave simple to the wood.

GRASSLESS GOLF COURSE CARVED FROM MOUNTAIN

HELENA, Mont, March 13 (AP)—The turfless golf course of the Helena Country club is evidence that grass is not essential to a golf links. This pleasant 18-hole course is without a blade of green on tee, fairway or putting "green."

The Helena club carved the links out of a mountain side among the rugged peaks of the Rockies, with only disintegrated granite as a base. Scraggly pine trees and a few shrubs lend the only tinge of green to the course. Great rocks, some as large as houses, punctuate the "rough" between the descending and ascending fairways. They resemble a graded roadway and in fact are "mowed" with a grading machine to keep them smooth.

The putting "greens" are circles of oiled sand, and each player perfects the surface of those areas himself, using a scraper basher a piece of high piped secret on its edge as a "lawn mower" to make the crushed silicon level between his ball and the cup.

The scenery about the club is magnificent. Grand vistas across valleys so far away ranges of peaks that cleave the sky make the course seem small, although it is really large and more than 6,200 yards long, occupying the whole side of a foothill.

Toppling over the entire club ground is a rocky spur crested with pines. A great valley leads back to the Montana capital, passing hot springs that furnish all the warm showers and plunges the heated golfer may want.

The one disadvantage of this grassless course is the dust that rises as players walk over it. But the dust is clean, washed for ages under the rains and snows that have crumbled the masses of granite to friable fragments. Some of the great boulders that have withstood this assault of nature are used as tees that rise above the fairways like embattled towers.

The course is difficult, but may be neared in par by a good player. The surprising part is in holding power of the fairways. At first sight, members of the Golfers Magazine expedition who played the links decided they could "drive a mile" down the descending fairways but Jim Barnes, Jock Hutchinson, Chick Evans and other experts in the party found that the ball rolled only about as far as it did on eastern sod. There seems to be a softness to the pulverized granite that takes off the speed as does grass.

The citizens of Helena had not given much thought to golf until A. L. Smith of the Windsor club of Chicago went there as a banker. He enlisted a few friends and by much persuasion got them to subscribe a fund to build the course. The scheme was the chief topic of wit and humor in Helena for months, but now the club has 300 members and a waiting list. One or two similar clubs are in the making to take care of outsiders.

PUTTING ENGLISHMEN BACK IN EVENING CLOTHES HARD TASK

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—Leaders of fashion are having a difficult time driving Englishmen back into evening clothes.

Some of the prominent London clubs have adopted rules that only men in evening attire may dine in the main dining rooms. The result has been that a few members dine in lonely state in the big dining rooms while the smaller rooms are crowded with diners in business attire.

The war raised havoc with formal attire for men. Shirtmakers and tailors are trying to lure men back into their pre-war customs, but without much success. Men cling to soft collars and cuffs and roomy lounge suits.

Tact does not remove difficulties; it merely goes around them.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Palace Theatre

The tremendous drama of mother love, "Tell Me Why" which will be the big special offering at the Palace theatre in Norwich starting tomorrow to and including Wednesday was highly recommended by officials of Brockenridge where this exceptional picture was shown recently.

Dr. T. W. Cobb, city health officer, said "I do not hesitate to give hearty endorsement of this picture from a moralistic standpoint and entertainment."

W. E. Grimsinger, chief police said: "I consider 'Tell Me Why' one of the best educational pictures I have ever seen. I cannot say enough for it."

E. L. Routh, district attorney said: "I desire to unqualifiedly commend 'Tell Me Why' to the public as one of the greatest instructive lessons that could be given among our people, especially among boys and girls."

Michigan, Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri officials and public have also given their approval and endorsement of "Tell Me Why," which is just released in New England.

That the success of modern marriage depends entirely upon the full knowledge of the laws of sex, and ignorance of these laws results in discord, divorce, the double standard of morals and sometimes suicide and murder, is the lesson taught in the tremendous drama of mother love entitled "Tell Me Why?"

"Tell Me Why?" is not a so-called sex picture harboring itself on the rot the so-called sex pictures do. "Tell Me Why" is a photodrama of real life, dealing with one of the most important and problematical subjects of the modern day. A drama that every Father, Mother, Son and Daughter should see, think and reflect.

Does ignorance mean "virtue" Is "Birth Control" right or wrong?

Who shall decide these questions? There will be special shows for women only and men only.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons for women only and at 8 p. m. for men only.

Children under 16 years of age not admitted unless with parent; because of the delicate nature of the subject. No performance Tuesday night.

Breed Theater

A bevy of beauties! This is one of the attractions of Sally, Irene and Mary, the Edmund Goulding production coming to the Breed theater, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Not only are the three principals, protegees of the goddess of beauty but members of the supporting group are also dicipies of Venus.

This production was made on a lavish scale and is studded with luxury from beginning to end.

Constance Bennett plays Sally, the Broadway type of show girl.

Irene is enacted by Joan Crawford. She is the unsophisticated little girl from the east side who becomes a dancer in The Ziegfeld Follies.

Sally O'Neil shines as Mary, the young Irish girl who is not lured by the glitter of gold.

Sally Irene and Mary reveals the lives of three stage favorites and how misadventures in love happening to all three made Mary realize what a fool she was in her newly reported sweetheart, Jimmie Dugan, an East Side plumber.

Edmund Goulding directed the picture and wrote the story of the screen version of this stage success by Edward Dowling.

Clyde Cook in Should Sailors Marry, the Pathe news and Topics of the Day make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of The Johnstown Flood, the sixth chapter of The Green Archer and the Pathe news. Continuous show today 1:30 to 10:30.

Broadway Theatre

In conjunction with Mr. E. E. Baker, teacher and conductor of Norwich Philharmonic symphony orchestra, the management of the Broadway theatre takes great pleasure in announcing, for Monday night only, a violin symphony ensemble of twenty five young people of Norwich.

Much discussion can be heard for this is the first entertainment of its kind ever held on a local stage. From the interest that is being shown, an exceptionally large crowd is expected and those contemplating going to this affair had better make immediate arrangements to be on hand early.

The list of young players follows: Margaret Morley, Catherine Morley, Dorothea Buckley, Ethel Brown, Ellen Brown, Edna Coulding, Irving Schubert, Virginia Freeman, Doris Raine, Frances May Young, Helen Lichwell, Clarice Cormier, Beatrice Hilda, Marion Krohn, Eleanor Welsh, Marion Kirby, Carl Vallin, Joseph Sheridan, Frederick Meletschnig, James Casey, Joseph Lonzo, Nicholas Poprozky, Forrest Helnrich, Norman Belleveau, William Krauss.

Lyceum Theatre, New London

"The Poor Nut" tells the story of an undergraduate, which is not such an easy thing to do if it aims to be recurate and amusing at the same time. The Nugents, J. C. and Elliott, have overcome this difficulty with wonderful success so that those who have forgotten their college days will remember them with a smile, and those who are still living them will see vivid pictures of realism.

To the older generation, who are busy paving the way of the average college students it will present a study in the psychology of youth and the problems, trivial in themselves, which go to make up the experience of the young and form an important part of their education.

It is an interesting play, well put together, and holding the interest from the start in the university book store to the finish in the fraternity house. The action never lags, the laughs roll on one another and the cast is the same that won its spurs on Broadway, namely Elliott Nugent, Norma Lee Guth Hammond, Percy Helton, Grant Mills, Wright Kramer and fifty others.

If we could neither laugh nor cry life would not be worth living.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Laughter is the most infectious of all human experiences.

An incident during the filming of "The Cohens and Kellys", the Universal-Jewel coming to the Broadway theatre on Sunday proves it.

Harry Pollard, the director, was making a scene in which Charlie Murray draws the laughter from a large group of extras. The set was surrounded with a fence to keep visitors away and the scene was ordered shot.

Inside, extras laughed their heartiest, while outside, people passed by on their business. As the laughter struck their ears they smiled, for no logical reason at all. While they were within hearing of the mirth, they beamed, but as soon as they got too far away, the contagion of joy left them and they became serious again in their pursuit of the fruits of life.

The very contagion of laughter is one of the reasons for the popularity of comedy-drama such as "The Cohens and Kellys."

This picture was produced with an all-star cast headed by Charlie Murray, George Sidney and Vera Gordon. Others in the cast are Kate Price, Jason Robards, Olive Hasbrouck, Nat Carr, Mickey Bennett and Bobby Gordon.

The second feature is a thrilling out door drama with Ken Maynard in "The Haunted Range," while other features include a comedy and kinograms weekly. The price is only 35 cents for any seat and to miss this program is to regret it for some time to come. Be sure and see it.

Moving Picture at Y. M. C. A. Sunday

What can justly be termed a heart gripping picture of true life will be shown at the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Sunday at 4 p. m. The picture title is "A Maker of Men" it is a six reel feature produced by the Plymouth Film corporation, one of James K. Shields best productions.

The hero of the film feature is Bruce Douglas who is first seen as a boy in a rough mining town, and he early learns to play his part like a true soldier in the battle of life. When Bruce becomes a man he is he hero of a mine explosion, saving other lives at the great risk of his own. His mother dies and he is adopted by the mine owner, goes to college and comes out with high honors equipped for a brilliant career. Bruce announces his determination to become a preacher of the gospel because his mother wished it so. Because of this announcement his adopted father disowns him and drives him out of the house, and he becomes an outcast, but one has heard the call to a higher duty than laying up treasures on earth He is called to preach in the mountain valley of Tennesee and under God transforms this rough community. Time passes as through the years Bruce becomes more and more a power for good. It is Thanksgiving day and the aged mine owner who had cast Bruce out of his home years ago, sits by his fireplace, the snows of eighty winters have passed over his life, remorse like a javelin pierces his heart, his life has been spent in laying up treasures that are useless to him now. At length the mine owner and Bruce meet again and putting out a trembling hand the miner said to Bruce, "I was all wrong and you were right, yours has been the life worth living." This feature is at once interesting and profoundly impressive. It is the kind of picture that touches the human heart very deep y. All over fourteen are cordially invited.

ALIEN SMUGGLING ON WEST FLORIDA COAST DECREASING

TAMPA, Fla., March 13 (AP)—Smuggling of aliens through the port of Tampa and other localities along the west coast of Florida is steadily decreasing, said Inspector William A. Whalen.

From the beginning of this year to February 7 not one alien was captured here and no report was made as to the landing of any. Smuggling here during 1925 showed a decrease from 1924 Mr. Whalen declared.

FLIVVERS URGED TO OPEN 'EM UP ON THIS HIGHWAY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 13 (AP)—There is one paved highway in Texas on which there is no speed limit. Such signs as "Flivvers, do your best!" and "Boys, let the girls drive," erected by a San Antonio auto repair shop greet the motorist at intervals for 35 miles.

The road is not a state highway but a private one, built by San Antonio sportsmen. It leads to Medina Lake, a hunting and fishing resort, in the hills west of here. A charge is made against every car as it enters and leaves the vicinity of the lake.

A Tremendous Drama of Mother Love and Life's Evolution—Not a so-called SEX PICTURE, harboring itself on ROT as the so-called SEX PICTURES DO. MARKET GROWS STRONGER

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The upward movement of prices was resumed in today's stock market with the rails and oils again in the forefront of the advance. Scattered profit taking and bear selling took place, however, in the main body of industrial stocks. Trading showed a substantial falling off in volume, the day's sales totaling 1,237,000 shares, or about 300,000 below those of yesterday.

Bullish sentiment was created by the improvement in the credit position as indicated by the substantial decrease in brokers' loans in the week ended March 3, the decrease in rediscounts last week and the continuance of relatively easy money rates.

Delaware and Hudson led the advance in the railroad group by soaring nearly 8 points to 174 1-4, the highest price since 1912, on rumors of an early distribution of its coal company assets. It yielded three points of its gain on realizing. "Nickel Plate" common closed nearly six points higher at 163 3-4, after having sold a point above that figure, and Chesapeake and Ohio common and preferred advanced to record high levels at 136 1-4 and 136, respectively.

Other rails for which there was a sustained investment demand were Lackawanna Pennsylvania, Union Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio. Norfolk and Western was heavy.

Persistent rumors that General Petroleum was to be absorbed by the Standard Oil company of New York or merged with some California company, sent that stock up 3 3-4 points at 67 3-8 on total transactions of over 110,000 shares. Marked strength also was shown by General Asphalt and Maracaibo. Texas company was heavy on selling inspired by the government's suit against that company for cancellation of patents on the so-called "cracking process" for refining gasoline.

Buying of the steel shares was stimulated by reports of a substantial increase in inquiries in the first ten days of March and by rumors of an early resumption of dividends on Republic Steel. United States Steel common closed 3-4 higher at 127, after having sold slightly above that figure. An extreme break of over 3 points in American Agricultural Chemical preferred was accompanied by reports that the federal trade commission was bringing a suit against that company. General Motors was run up 2 points to 127 1-3 on predictions of record breaking first quarter sales.

"With no repetition of the recent extreme depression in the stock market, the general situation has a more reassuring aspect," says Dun's weekly business review. "Various constructive factors, among them the full employment of workers," it adds, "tends to sustain confidence and signs of actual gains in transactions are not lacking as spring approaches."

Bradstreet's reports that storms and bad roads have retarded distributive trade over the greater part of the middle west and the south, but emphasizes the high rate of steel production.

The principal commodity markets were better. Wheat prices moved up in sympathy with higher Liverpool quotations, the May option closing over two cents a bushel higher. Cotton showed net advances of 24 to 33 points on heavy short covering of near month contracts. Sugar futures were slightly easier and the coffee market was dull.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling and French francs held relatively steady at $4.85 5-8 and 3.64 cents respectively. Scandinavian rates rallied briskly, Danish krone soaring 18 points to 26.30 and Norwegian krone 25 points to 21.89 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Sixty men attended the meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church in the church vestry Thursday evening. There were selections by an orchestra composed of William O'Brein, piano; Jerome Leon, saxophone; and Edgar Caron, violin. E. Tracy Clark was song leader. The speaker of the evening was Judge John H. Barnes of Norwich, who was introduced by the pastor of the church, Rev. Edwin G Saowdis, who is president of the club.

Mr. Barnes took for his topic, "Some Fallacies", saying that if he were a minister he would announce his text before he began to speak, but as he was an attorney-at-law, he would speak first and give the text afterward. His talk proved to be a criticism of the theory of evolution, and in his argument Judge Barnes quoted from the works of scientists and historians.

"We are told that we are living on the glory crowned heights," said Mr. Barnes. "We are the people. Our ancestors were barbarians. By virtue of the law of evolution, this world is to become better and better and it is composed of supermen. Are these things true, or are they fallacies?"

Mr. Barnes sketched the life of Plato, who founded a school in a grove near Athens, presented to him by his friend Academus (we get the word Academy from his name), and his school became very famous and acquainted quite a reputation. One man came from Macedonia intending to remain two years. He remained seventy years. His name was Aristotle and when he was 40 years of age, Philip of Macedonia, asked him to return and tutor his 16 year old son, he took all the knowledge and learning of the Athenians, and he made up his mind that he could show the barbarians a thing or two, but when he crossed the Hellespont on his way to Asia, the pyramids of Egypt had stood for two thousand years. Instead of finding barbarians, Alexander stood in amazement at the ruins of Persepolis. There were ruins of observatories that had been built 1500 years previous to his arrival. Those Chaldean astronomers had calculated the length of the year, and came within 15 seconds of actual fact.

The civilization of Egypt was next traced by Judge Barnes. There was at Alexandria, a library with four hundred thousand volumes, and an annex of three hundred thousand volumes. The rules governing those libraries were very much the same as the rules of the New York public library today. There were botanical and zoological gardens, laboratories and museums for the artificial hatching of eggs. All this was blotted out in the year 47 B. C. Did evolution have anything to do with that? Not the slightest thing in the world. Man, lust and love of gold did it.

One thousand one hundred years before Christ, judges handed down decisions as they do now. Children were taught to read and write. There were law courts, and women were allowed to hold property in their own names. The Saracens gave us algebra, said Mr. Barnes. They named the stars—the same names we use today.

In Peru there was the great Incas civilization. Adultery, murder and theft were capital crimes. The community gave tillable land to young men when they came of marriageable age. The youths were taught trades. The hours that men worked at hard trades were shortened and their companions so adjusted so they would be in a party with those who performed lighter tasks. Then came the Spaniards led by Pizarro, under the banner blessed by the church and in the name of Jesus Christ, destroyed the Inca civilization.

Mr. Barnes told of the destruction of the Aztec civilization in Mexico when Cortez and his Spaniards came to Mexico they saw the finest jewelry, carved work and garments of feathers of birds that they ever laid eyes on. They invited 200 of the Aztec nobles to a fete, and when they came wearing their richest ornaments, they butchered them and robbed the corpses. Hatred, greed, love of gold, not evolution, did it.

It is the idea of some that life came from a protoplasmic cell through spontaneous generation, and that God had nothing to do with it. Mr. Barnes' quoted the story of creation from the book of Genesis in the Bible, and said that for life to come from a single cell was impossible. He spoke of Louis Pasteur who showed by the aid of the microscope, that if you sterilize inorganic matter there will be no germs; of Darwin and his works, Origin of Specie and The Descent of Man; of Luther Burbank, who he said couldn't explain why from one egg came a humming bird and from another a giant condor although the contents of the egg were the same—albumen, etc. He read from a book of Thomas H Huxley, and spoke of a well known clergymen of a Baptist church in New York, who "plays to the galleries and toadies to money."

He asked his hearers to use common sense on this question.

After Mr. Barnes had concluded, the club members gave him a rising vote of thanks for this talk. At the short business session that followed Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis presided. It was voted to hold two more meetings this season, the final meeting to be a supper and ladies' night. A committee is to be appointed to make arrangements for this meeting.

After adjournment, refreshments of ham sandwiches, cheese sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee were served by a committee including John D. Sharples, Walter S. Grant, Charles T. Webster, Louis Wohleben, Albert Mathewson, Ralph Lillibridge, Robert Cooper and Fred Ince.

The members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society gave an enjoyable whist at their rooms on Providence street Thursday evening. Miss Imelda Raymond won the first prize for ladies, the second going to Miss Catherine Fontaine and the consolation to Mrs. Theodore Belval. Ulric Pepin was the winner of the first prize for gentlemen, James Hanlon the second, and Silas Sandberg the consolation. After cards there were refreshments served by a committee of members, Miss Mary Hanlon, chairman. Miss Elizabeth Ward, Miss Mayme Murphy and Miss Ward.

The basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN SETS GOAL OF 500 IN NORWICH DRIVE

Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, held an enthusiastic meeting Friday evening in the Post rooms at which time the plans for the membership campaign were discussed. Clarence E. Whitaker, general chairman, explained the object of the campaign which is to increase the Post membership to 500. A list of about 1,400 eligibles has been compiled and members of the Post named to interview these ex-service men.

Announcement was made that four large bill posters have been erected through the courtesy of the Norwich-New London Bill Poster company and that the Connecticut company, beginning this (Saturday) will carry American Legion campaign boards on their trolley cars. The local campaign begins this (Saturday) morning while the state wide campaign is scheduled to begin Monday morning.

Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, commander of the post, issued the following statement concerning the appeal of the legion to war veterans.

"Is there any veteran of the World war so poor in spirit and patriotism that he is not proud of the part he played in the greatest of all military struggles since history began.

"Have not we veterans a justified pride in our service? If any man were to assert that we had not played our part as men and Americans, how quickly would we resent it.

"The American Legion offers the best opportunity for you, comrade, to testify to the world of your loyalty and service during the war. The lapel button of the legion is a notice to all that you failed not when your country called, and that you still subscribe to the patriotism and Americanism for which the legion stands.

"Without the legion button, the service man has no method of differentiating himself from the thousands who did not go. He may have served, but no one knows it. And the world finds it easy and convenient to forget.

"With the legion button, you quietly but effectively identify yourself as one of America's veterans, and as an active participant in the work of a patriotic society, which is dedicated to the preservation of American principles.

"You place yourself as both a war-time and peace-time patriot and true American.

"Be proud you can join the American Legion. Hundreds of thousands of young men would rejoice indeed if their lives could so be made over that the legion might be open to them. Those who did serve but who have not up to now, come into the legion are sending in their applications by the thousands. They are proud they answered the call. They want the world to know it.

"The legion's great days are ahead. Its strength and influence grow daily. With each new success it becomes stronger. Its principles and its service commend it to all. It is far better to be in the legion than to explain why you are not. The legion invites you to comradeship. Be one of the active legionnaires of your community. JOIN UP!"

MASTER GEORGE COIT BUTTS GIVES HONOR DECLAMATION

George Coit Butts, Jr., 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Butts, of Sachem terrace, who is a student at Tilly school, Southboro, Mass., being an honor boy, was chosen to deliver his own declamation before the entire school and guests, this week.

Master Butts has to date won nearly every honor the school offers, in deportment, athletics and scholarship. Doubtless some of his incentive to do his best comes from the fact that it is his cousin, William I. Nichols, of Harvard, who has just won a Rhodes scholarship.

Master Butts' declamation was delivered as follows, winning the commendation of his teachers and the applause of his schoolmates:

Courage

We must face life with confidence; we must believe all is well; we must believe, with Socrates, that, "To the good man no evil thing can happen." It will help us to endure whatever we have to face.

We must seize our opportunities with eagerness and zeal; we must be waiting to run the risk of chances; we must not turn back when we come to stony ground; we must not whine if life is not a bed of roses.

Men have borne the heat of the day for us; men have suffered agony and died that life for us might be enriched. We live in a free land, because in other days men fought to make their country free with courage that has written their names in letters of gold across the pages of history.

Shall we fall on counting now? Shall we be unworthy of the glory that is ours?

Let us hold fast, let us stand firm; let us be strong and of good courage. Above all, let us say to each other, "I will stand for the right if I stand alone."

NEURO-PSYCHIATRIC CLINIC AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

To give part time work to their patients who are not strong enough to undertake a whole time job is the aim of the new committee of the neuro-psychiatric clinic which has been formed recently at the Backus hospital. An appeal through the newspapers has shown an answering interest on the part of the public and the committee is grateful to those who have shown their willingness to make the tiresome way back to normal living easier and shorter for those who have been nervously sick.

The committee asks that every one who can give part time work whether that of household tasks, sewing, nurse maid's work, tinkering or odd jobs about the house or garden or office or farm work will communicate with Miss Elizabeth Huntington, the chairman, or any one of her committee, Mrs. Louis Crandall, Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell, Mrs. Alfred Allen and Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott. These patients have had experience in their lives of work and will appreciate the chance to give good service to those who understand their situation and have sympathy. With the growing interest in psychological methods applied to nervous illness and with the growing emphasis on the importance and necessity of the human factor between employer and employed this bureau should have the help the committee believes, of all intelligent and kindly people. A list of their names will greatly facilitate the committee in placing those patients who need part time work.

For Burial in Bridgeport.

MISSIONS MEETING HEARS TWO INTERESTING REPORTS

The regular monthly meeting of the missions department of Park Congregational church was held on Friday afternoon in the Osgood Memorial parish house. After the devotional exercises led by Miss Edith Miles the report of the previous meeting was read. Miss Alice Cogswell then spoke of her visit last summer to the Orphanage at Athens, first telling of the causes that led Greece to have so many refugees dumped upon her at once. In all there were over a million and a quarter and this after ten years of war. In 1922 the Turks ordered all Greeks behind the lines in Anatolia to leave at once and 150,000 fled to Smyrna to find only a temporary place on the long quay. In a short time the fire which devastated Smyrna sent thousands more to that place, so that 350,000 were hemmed in on the quay between the fire on one side and the water on the other, with no means of living. Through the American consul and an another American, ships of the allies were allowed to come to Smyrna, provided they would not fly the Greek flag.

Getting all these people away must be done in a week. Between 1922 and 1925 the refugee problem for Greece was practically settled. At the Orphanage which Miss Cogswell visited there is a good training school for the children. The blind are taught and the deaf and dumb have special instruction. Greek girls, speaking excellent English are trained for this work. A special gift of an X-ray machine from the Americans has been invaluable in curing certain skin diseases among the children.

Miss Cogswell was followed by Dr. John H. Evans who has been working in the Caucasus for the last four years. Dr. Evans emphasized the enormous amount of money, ninety millions in all, the Americans have sent for Near East work. There are 6,000 voluntary workers in America trying to raise money each year for these people they will never see, children of which races appealing to them because of their helpfulness. From Anatolia into Russia a great horde of orphans was taken care of. 10,000 children were placed in orphanages and some 8,000 in homes. The great problem has been how to train them so they would grow up to be useful citizens in spite of the handicap of being herded together, as is inevitable in institutions holding so many. All kinds of trades are taught them, in fact there is hardly anything which they do not know how to make. It seemed to Dr. Evans there were four things which had been accomplished and were very much worth while. A nurses' training school under American supervision is doing good work. There is a school for the blind, thanks to Miss Jordan's efforts. What to do with the lepers who come to them was a serious question, but that has been solved, sending them to Kazan where there is a leper farm. An agricultural school has been established.

To show how ingenious those at the head of this relief work have been in supplying necessities when there were no funds, Dr. Evans mentioned the bowls from which the children eat their meals, fashioned from clay, the spoon knives and forks are unknown; each child wears hung on a cord around his neck has been made by him out of wood and his drinking cup has been made from a condensed milk can.

To us Americans who really know so little of Russia, it was a revelation to learn that the soviet government aids in many ways the relief work in the Caucasus, exempting many things from duty and allowing the workers to travel free of charge.

SLEEVES LONG THIS SEASON— SKIRTS PLAIN OR FLARED

The long sleeve is a distinguishing mark of the 1926 coat and dress. Many of the newest sleeves are puffed.

There is no rigid rule regarding skirts. Some are straight and others flare.

Printed silks figure largely in the fashion display, coming in the most fascinating colorings and designs.

Evidently ribbons are going to have a big season. They are employed in a dozen ways in millinery, with modish effect.

For early spring coat wear, Copen blue will be very much favored, lending itself most artistically to the uses required of a smart wrap. One strikingly handsome coat seen Friday, the second of the Norwich Style Days, was of Copen, edged with soft mole. Its collar in rich gold thread embroidery on white.

In millinery offerings, horsehair is the foundation of some especially elegant models shown. One large design in cardinal horsehair has for trimming American beauty roses.

A navy and gray large shape was exquisitely trimmed in applique of navy and gray felt.

There will be a good opportunity today to look over the big stocks in millinery, coats, dresses and accessories.

A guide to profitable and satisfactory buying will be found in The Bulletin's advertising columns.

Flannels and small boys are apt to shrink from washing.

LENTEN SERIES TALK MADE DEEP IMPRESSION

Seldom has there been as deep an impression in any religious meeting held at the local Y. M. C. A. as that held Friday noon, which was the fourth in the Friday Lenten series addressed by Dr. Frank Romeyn Danforth of New London. Herbert B. Cary, first vice president of the Y. M. C. A. presided. The familiar hymn "Tell me the old, old story" was sung, and Edmund A. Prentice offered prayer after which Hugh Kinder rendered a touching vocal solo. The topic was the fourth on the general subject of "Power," and was "The Power Around Us." Among the many impressive sentences spoken by Dr. Danforth were the following:

"We are surrounded by it all the time. Only once in a while do we think of it. It is the way we breathe. Blood and air do not touch one another in the lungs. They come so close, each to the other, that each is changed by the other. So the man and his surroundings are like that each affects the other.

"You know some men who are always receiving much more influence than they are exerting. We call them passive. Others are dynamic. They broadcast strongly and widely. We call them active. Happy is the man who can in his own life balance the two and have his intake and his output square with one another.

"Sea and land are full of power. The sky above us is lashed with invisible waves which beat upon the shores of our being. Now and again some man comes to grasp a bit of this power and behold a great invention startles the world. He just saw and used a power which was there all the while. An acre of land at Broadway and Wall street, is worth more than the whole Antarctic Continent. Why? Just people make it so. The human surrounding of each one of us is a greater power than natural forces or areas of land. A man is in some ways not so strong. You measure that force of your engine not by so many man power, but so many horse power. We know that in some ways a horse has the advantage of us. But if was the man who gave value, other than that of a natural lawn-mower, to the horse. And it is the invention of the man that has so largely superseded it.

"People influence us and we influence them. The human power around us is marvelously strong. See how largely our lives are shaped by the people about us. To a growing extent humanity is imposing its will on nature. And the individual man is a part of humanity.

"Around nature and around man is God. The outer boundary of both is God. And the inner throbbing spirit of both is God. He is the greatest power around us, as he is the source of all the power that is. In him all live and move and have their being. Be in harmony with him and power is yours beyond all dreams and visions. "For all things work together."

Dr. Danforth offered an earnest prayer in closing.

EXPECT ABOUT $400,000,000 TAXES FOR FIRST QUARTER

Mdnight Today is the Deadline For Filing Income Tax Returns—It is Estimated That 2,300,000 Fewer Taxpayers Will File Returns This Year Because of the Increased Exemptions.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—Collection of almost $400,000,000 in taxes for the quarter is expected by the treasury from income tax returns, which must be filed by tomorrow night.

Although the new tax rates, most of which may be taken advantage of in the filing of returns now due, went into operation less than three weeks ago, internal revenue officials report that most of the vast volume of returns have been made.

Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau, has ruled that taxpayers with incomes of more than $5,000 and domestic corporations will be allowed to file tentative returns at this time upon the payment of one fourth of the estimated tax. An extension of two months in which to file amended the final tax returns will be allowed in these cases.

Midnight, tomorrow, is the deadline for the filing of returns. If the return is in the mails before that hour, the treasury will accept it as having been filed within the limit.

As a result of the increased personal exemptions under the new law it is estimated that 2,300,000 fewer taxpayers will file returns than last year. The exemptions were increased from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons.

Discussing the reduced rates provided by the new revenue law, Clem Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, in a statement issued today, declared "credit mostly belongs to the democrats of the congress who, though in the minority, fought effectively for the citizen of small and moderate means."

FIVE BODIES RECOVERED FROM HOTEL IN SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, La., March 14—(AP)—The bodies had ben recovered tonight from the ruins of the Crewell hotel, a three story brick structure destroyed by fire here last night and early this morning.

More than a score of guests escaped without injury.

The dead: Thomas W. Hoskins, 50, hotel clerk.

Augustus Brichet, 65, Cincinnati, Ohio, traveling salesman for the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the American Safe and Lock company.

Jack Hutte, 35, Escanaba, Mich.

Martin Lester, 24, Shreveport.

A. H. West, address undetermined.

The blaze was discovered shortly before daylight in the rear of the building by a negro porter. He aroused several visitors before being forced to leave the smoke filled structure. W. H. Jones and Ray Norton, after being awakened by the porter, led in spreading the warning.

Many of the guests leaped from second and third story windows into fire nets below. Persons occupying rooms in the rear portion of the hotel had little opportunity escaping then other guests as the smoke was more dense in that section.

One man was seen at the window of a room on the third floor calling for help. He failed to heed a warning to remain at the opening until a ladder could be raised. He disappeared before would-be rescuers reached the room. He was the last man seen. His body was found today in an adjoining room, building and suitcase at his side. It is believed that efforts to save himself cost him his life.

COL. COOLIDGE CONTINUED TO FAIL SUNDAY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 14.—(AP)—Colonel John C. Coolidge continued to fail today. Reports from the sick room of the president's aged father, received at his farmhouse home here indicated that his vitality was receding slowly. His physician, Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, after visiting public in the afternoon a statement which bore little hope to the many neighbors and friends, prepared to pay a second visit to the sick home tonight.

Colonel Coolidge's long illness, the reports indicated, has reached a point where only his great vitality is keeping up his life. Only a little hope of recovery can be taken. And the weakness of the 85-year old patient, according to Dr. Cram, who preserved close reticence in the earlier stages of the colonel's illness, now has lifted all hope, and the neighbors who attended a day in the Plymouth general store to hear reports from the sick room believe that the end is but a matter of time. Today's bulletin follows:

The condition of Colonel Coolidge has remained unchanged during the past 24 hours except that the heart is a little slower. Temperature and respiration are normal.

He is very quiet and in no pain but is weaker than yesterday. All possible is being done for his comfort.

JEWELRY BANDITS ARE ACTIVE IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Jewelry bandits transferred their activities to the east side today, when three smartly dressed young men overpowered Sam Kandel, an Essex street jeweler, and escaped with the contents of his safe which he valued between $90,000 and $100,000. Cash and heavy jewelry were ignored.

Throngs of Sunday shoppers were passing the jewelry store when Kandel unlocked his door to admit a friend. The three robbers, lurking in a hallway, pushed their way into the shop, forced the proprietor to open the safe and then bound and gagged the two men. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

The robbery was similar to one which occurred in the Bronx last night when five armed men held up the jewelry store of William H. Sinn & Co., and escaped with loot valued between $70,000 and $100,000.

TWO STORY HOUSE WAS BURNED IN PLAINFIELD

PLAINFIELD, March 14.—(AP)—Fire late tonight destroyed a two-story wooden building owned by E. L. Mercier, on Railroad avenue, and for a time threatened the recently completed Mercier department store next door. The loss was estimated at $14,000.

The upper floor of the building was occupied by a pool room and it is believed that the fire started there. The lower floor served as an annex of the department store.

Seventy automobiles in garages adjacent to the building, were saved by firefighters.

NEARLY 300 PERSONS WERE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Must Not Criticise Mussolini

FLORENCE, Italy, March 14.—(AP)—Italian jail cells are waiting for foreigners who are indiscreet enought to publicly voice criticism of Premier Mussolini, according to a court decision here. Acting on the case of William Ellisson, an Englishman, charged with having made "offensive remarks about the premier, the court held that the recent law, rendering such conduct criminal, was applicable to all foreigners.

FIVE ITALIANS ARE TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

CHIETI, Italy, March 14—(AP)—Thrice destroyed, many times embattled and bathed in blood during thirty centuries of tumultuous history, this town has had too many sensations to get a thrill out of still another scene—the trial next Tuesday of five men charged by the Italian authorities with having dealt the blow which ended the life of Giacomo Matteotti, millionaire socialist deputy who vanished in June 1924 and whose body was found two months later.

The townsfolk of this medieval hill city, built by the Greeks after the fall of Troy, and which changed hands innumerable times during succeeding centuries, are continuing their humdrum provincial routine, quite undisturbed by the approaching trial. It is not difficult to understand why the fascist government chose Chieti as the locale for what is described as the formal liquidation of the murder of its arch enemy, Matteotti.

The most important reason is the simplicity of the problem of maintaining order and surveillance in this city of 34,000 inhabitants, perched atop a 1,000 foot hill overlooking the Adriatic.

The problem of keeping out all undesirable is simple, since the town is accessible only through several ancient gateways and by electric street car plying from the railway station, seven miles below in a valley.

If trouble makers are excluded, the government is certain that the trial will be carried out with the utmost calm. In order to insure coolheadedness, the authorities have issued orders to keep the fascist hotheads so as to prevent anything resembling a concentration of "black shirts" from other parts of the country.

Preparedness appears to be the dominating feature, for the city is virtually swarming with policemen uniformed and in plain clothes, while picturesque carabineers walk about in squads.

J. J. STORROW, NOTED BANKER, DIED IN BOSTON

BOSTON, March 14.—James Jackson Storrow of Boston, senior member of the banking house of Lee, Higginson & Co., who was federal fuel administrator for New England during the war, died last evening at the Hotel Plaza, this city, where he had been staying for several weeks. His death ended a prolonged illness that was aggravated by a recent injury to his spine. He was 67 years old. His wife and son were with him when he died. It is expected that funeral services will be held at noon on Tuesday in King's chapel, Boston. The body will be taken to Boston today.

For many years Mr. Storrow not only had been one of the leading bankers in New England but also a vigorous champion of good government and a zealous helper in any cause that he felt would improve the standard of American citizenship. Last June he was elected President of the Boy Scouts of America, which he had served as a member of the National Executive Board and as chairman for the New England states. In the World war period he was chairman of the Massachusetts committee on public safety, pioneer organization of the kind in this country. While chairman of the Boston school board from 1905 to 1908, he removed the influence of ward politics from the schools and thoroughly reorganized their administration.

Mr. Storrow's widow is the former Miss Helen Osborne, a sister of Thomas Mott Osborne of Auburn, N. Y. Their son is James Jackson Storrow, Jr. Also surviving are a brother, Samuel Storrow of Pasadena, Cal., and a sister, Miss Elizabeth Storrow of Philadelphia.

When he was in college Storrow captained the crew in 1885, his senior year and had the satisfaction of winning the race against Yale. All his life he was devoted to outdoor activities being especially fond of hunting, fishing and walking. Canoeing was a favorite sport with him, too, and he paddled up and down most of the New England rivers in the last 30 years.

YALE RECEIVES LETTER WRITTEN 188 YEARS AGO

NEW HAVEN, March 14—(AP)—Yale university has received from Chauncey Brewster Tinker Sterling, professor of English at Yale, a letter written 188 years ago by Dr. Isaac Watts, the great English hymn writer, to President Elisha Williams, of Yale college. The letter mentions volumes of "Calvinistical writers and moderate men on the side," which Dr. Watts was sending at that time to the Yale library. The letter was written from Newington, near London, on June 7, 1736.

According to Andrew Keough, Yale university librarian, these particular volumes, John Howe's works, two volumes, London, 1724; William Bates' works, London, 1700; and Thomas Ridgley's "Body of Divinity," two volumes, London 1731-33, were received later in the same year, as such an entry exists in the manuscript annals of Yale college, kept by President Clap under the year 1736.

"The Yale library also possesses," said Mr Keough, "a copy of the London, 1737 addition of Jonathan Edwards' faithful narrative of the surprising work of God in the conversion of many hundred souls in Northampton" which bears on the front end paper in the handwriting of the Rev. Benjamin Colman, of Boston, "for the library of Yale college in New Haven from the Rev. Dr. Watts and Dr Guise of London, forwarded by B. Colman."

BROCKTON, Mass., March 14—(AP)—Charles O. Emerson, for 45 years a shoe manufacturer here, died at his home today. He was 70 years old. He founded the Emerson, Weeks Shoe Manufacturing company in 1890 and nine years later became treasurer and junior partner of the R. L. Grover Shoe company.

BAD CHECK PASSER WAS CAPTURED IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, March 14—(AP)—An alleged bad check passer giving his name as Philip Smith, 15 Charles street, Boston, but whose identity police have established as Henry B. Stedman, Hartford, who is known to the police in many cities, was arrested here this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Daniel Brolley, after it was charged he had passed two worthless checks, one for $1,000 and the other for $200 on Albert W. Smith, builder of 185 Curtiss street. Stedman, formerly the name of J. T. Bedford, Jr., son of the oil magnate at Greens Farms, whom he represented himself to be.

Stedman was severly trapped by the builder, whom he approached with a proposal to purchase some materials. After some questioning, Smith communicated with police headquarters and Detective Brolley entered the case as an associate of Mr. Smith. The arrest followed.

When brought to headquarters the accused refused to talk and was about to be booked under the name of "John Doe" when he finally gave the name of Smith with the Boston address. A letter in his pocket addressed to Henry B. Stedman gave the police their first clue as to his real identity.

HELD FOR MURDER AS THE RESULT OF DUEL

PINEVILLE, Ky., Mar. 14 (AP)—Mrs. M. M. Coleman was ill in the sheriff's apartment at the county jail here today, under charges of murder as the result of a duel late yesterday in which she killed Ernest Coleman, her brother-in-law. Her husband, for whose love she shot and killed his brother, was at her side. She will be given a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

The story she told is that of a woman who fought with all the weapons at her command to save her honor and the love of her husband. Her brother-in-law, according to court records, had been acquitted of a charge of gossiping after he had accused her to be untrue to his brother. Her husband arrived here today saying he believed in her despite the statements of his, now dead brother.

"She shot first in defense of her honor and the second time in defense of her life," was the way he explained her two attempts to kill Ernest, the second of which was successful.

The trouble began several weeks ago when Ernest went to M. M. Coleman and told him his wife was unfaithful. The interview ended when the brothers opened fire on each other. Neither was hurt.

15 MEN TAKEN IN NEW HAVEN GAMBLING RAID

NEW HAVEN, March 15.—(AP)—Fifteen men were arrested tonight when the police raided an alleged gaming house in an unfurnished room over a blacksmith shop at 17 Whiting street. The men, charged with gaming, were released under bonds of $100 each. The police were attracted to the place by the presence of high priced automobiles parked in the neighborhood. It had not been learned tonight who owned or conducted the place.

CLOAK MODEL WOUNDED RESISTING A ROBBER

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Miss Betty Edwards, a 24-year-old cloak model, was wounded tonight, when she resisted a robber who broke into her bedroom, and seized $2,500 worth of jewelry. The robber and a companion escaped with the jewelry after shooting Miss Edwards in the wrist.

Miss Edwards occupies a West 75th street apartment, with a Miss Mahoney, who, after Miss Edward retired, answered a knock at the door.

MUST NOT INTERRUPT AFTERNOON BEAUTY NAP

BERLIN, March 14—(AP)—The sanctity of the afternoon beauty nap has been upheld by the rent arbitration commission, a semi-judicial body.

Ruling that in Germany a person is entitled to rest undisturbed from two to four in the afternoon after a heavy dinner, the commission sustained the complaint of a Charlottenburg landlord who wanted to oust Olga Ossinski a Russian music student professing operatic aspirations, because she insisted on exercising her voice between those hours.

Tex. Representative Rants Against Tilson

Creager Takes Exception to Action of the Republican Leader in the House.

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman from Texas, today assailed Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader in the house, for taking a hand in the controversy over republican patronage in Texas.

While the republican organization in that state "welcomes suggestions courteously offered by republicans from other states," he wrote, "it respectfully but very firmly declines the advice tendered in a hectoring and dictatorial spirit."

Mr. Creager, who is now in Washington, made public a letter to Mr. Tilson tonight, asking cognizance of what he described as an "unfortunate" communication by the floor leader in defense of Representative Wurzbach republican, Texas, to Leonard Withington, secretary of the Texas republican state executive committee which was approved Friday night by the republican congressional campaign committee.

If Mr. Wurzbach, who recently criticized the handling of Texas patronage on the floor of the house fails to be renominated, said Mr. Creager, "it will be solely and alone because of his own folly and for no other reason."

The Texas committeeman announced that he considered his letter to Mr. Tilson a reply also to Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the republican congressional committee, who had written him in support of the T[illegible] on position.

Mr. Wood's letter, published today called attention to the action of the congressional committee in condemning, "without a dissenting vote, your attitude toward Representative Wurzbach," which was emphasized recently when Mr. Creager expressed hope after a conference with President Coolidge, that State Senator Real would oppose Mr. Wurzbach for the republican nomination in the next primary.

The campaign chairman said the republican organizations in many southern states and in Texas appeared to be "more desirous of the 'loaves and fishes' than they are of republican success based upon principles."

Mr. Creager's letter to Representative Tilson recited statements in the floor leader's communication charging use of patronage in Texas to destroy the republican majority in the house and suggesting that the "so called" organization in the state was functioning solely for the distribution and enjoyment of patronage.

"You ignore the fact that Texas republicans now have actual, legal, functioning organizations in 241 counties (out of a total of 254 in the state) where five years ago there were less than 40," he continued. "You ignore the fact that during these five years we have had republican representation both in the houses of the state legislature—last year we have elected and now have more than 150 republicans in major county and district offices throughout Texas—that in 1924 we polled for the republican candidate for governor more than enough votes to have elected the governor in any preceding election in the history of the state—you ignore the fact that this year, for the first time in history, Texas republicans are in the 'major party' class with the democrats and must hold state wide primaries.

"Congressman Wurzbach recently in a speech in the house maligned republican leaders, not only in Texas and throughout the south, but national leaders as well. He charged national leaders with trading patronage for delegations to republican national conventions.

"I would suggest to you, Mr. Tilson, that here was a proper case for disciplin[illegible] and one coming more nearly within your jurisdiction. • • •

"Your proper function, as I see it, is to support and assist to elect republicans after they are nominated—never, under any circumstances, to intrude into the realm of free party choice in party primaries."

COL. COOLIDGE SHIELDED FROM THE PUBLIC NIGHT AND DAY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 14—(AP)—The president of the United States has a corps of secret service men to guard him, but the father of the president, critically ill in his modest farm house home here, is shielded as effectively from the public. Night and day "the sheriff" keeps watch over Colonel John C. Coolidge in the house where Calvin Coolidge spent his boyhood, and never yet has an unauthorized person invaded the sick man's privacy.

Angus Macaulay, a deputy sheriff of Windsor county, was assigned to duty here when the health of Colonel Coolidge failed early last summer. At first his work was to keep traffic off the road that passes the Coolidge house and gives access to several farms farther on. As the condition of the colonel grew worse he added to this task the duties of male nurse and general assistant, and he became the fourth member of the household with Colonel Coolidge himself, Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse and Miss Aurora Pierce, the housekeeper.

A native of Scotland who has spent most of his life in Vermont, "the sheriff" combines the reticence and the dry humor of the lands of his birth and adoption.

NO TRACE FOUND OF DEATH AUTOMOBILE

STAMFORD, March 14—(AP)—No trace has been found of the automobile which fatally injured Mrs. Amy Prior, who was killed late last night in Hope street. An automobile was found abandoned in Rock Spring road, a short distance from the scene of the accident this morning and it was at first believed that it had been involved in the accident. It was learned later, however, that the owner of this car had driven the machine into a drive way when he ran out of gasoline.

STEADMAN SENTENCED TO STATE PRISON FOR FORGERY

NEW HAVEN, March 14.—(AP)—Harry P. Steadman pleaded guilty to forgery in criminal superior court here June 25, 1924, after having impersonated Harry Payne Whitney here. Posing as Whitney, he flooded New Haven and vicinity with worthless checks and promises to the extent of $5,000. He was sentenced to state prison for not less than one nor more than two years.

Rhode Island Man Found Murdered

Barking of Dog Led to Discovery of Body of Harold Hillman at Bellefonte.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 14.—(AP)—Reported by his wife as missing at 10:30 o'clock last night, Harold Hillman, manager of a Mayflower store in Auburn, was found murdered early this morning in a secluded spot about five miles from his home. The entire day's receipts of the store he is known to have had with him when he left the store last night were missing.

The discovery of Hillman's body was made by Hugh Manning at Bellefonte when he went to learn what had caused his dog to bark nearly all night.

That he was shot in front of his own home is the belief of the Cranston city police department which is investigating the murder. Hillman had driven his small sedan to within a few yards of his own doorway. A shot was fired and heard by members of his own family, who at the time thought it was the report of the backfiring of an automobile. When her husband did not appear at midnight, she reported him as missing, and efforts were made during the night to find him.

An autopsy done this afternoon showed the man had been shot first and then beaten about the head. A reward of $1,000 for the discovery of the person or persons who killed Hillman was posted today by the Mayflower Stores company.

It is believed the murderers intended to rob Hillman, and when he rebelled shot him, and then drove the car with Hillman dying to the isolated spot in Bellefonte where it was found.

LITTLE OF IMPORTANCE CONFRONTING CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—Passage of the last of the regular appropriation bills by the end of this week is the aim of leaders of the house, with these out of the way, the house will have little of importance left in its program for the session.

Senate leaders, meanwhile hope to get two more of the supply measures through during the week, those for the interior department and the state, justice, commerce and labor departments. The senate calendar for the week also calls for further consideration and possibly a vote on the Gooding bill to prevent carriers from charging more for a short haul than for a long haul.

Prohibition is slated to occupy attention again in the two houses. The senate judiciary sub-committee appointed to consider the pending modification bills is to meet early in the week to prepare for presentation next week a recommendation as to whether public hearings should be held.

The authors of the wet bills still are confident that the judiciary committee will order hearings, to begin about April 1. If this program is followed, many government officials, educators and others will be summoned to give their views as to whether the dry laws, in the interest of better enforcement, should be liberalized.

After the Gooding measure is out of the way, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee plans to call up the controverted Italian debt settlement bill which, with appropriation bills, will follow, with agriculture next.

The railroad labor and radio legislation bills sandwiched in between. The house is to vote tomorrow on the White bill to control radio and the senate interstate commerce committee will consider that measure before reporting any bill to the senate.

Both the senate and house agriculture committees will give further consideration to farm relief measures, the senate committee taking up the co-operative marketing bill and the house committee giving attention to measures designed to supplement this legislation.

ADVENTURES OF AMERICAN NEAR EAST RELIEF WORKERS

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 14—(AP)—The thrilling adventure of two American near east relief workers, Miss Belle Bass, of New York, and Miss Agnes Evon, of Pittsfield, Mass., who narrowly escaped death in the clashing between the Druse tribesmen and the French at Damascus, are related in messages from Beirut to relief officers here.

Miss Bass was traveling from Beirut to Damascus to join Miss Evon, who was operating an American milk station for refugee babies, when her train was stopped by a Druse attack. Rebels had derailed the train from Damascus on the opposite track and robbed the passengers, even relieving the men and women of most of their clothing.

When the train bearing Miss Bass drew alongside the wreck, rebels opened a fusillade from the hills, many bullets passing through the coach windows and wounding the passengers. Despite the dangers, which increased with the arrival of French troops, Miss Bass busied herself in finding blankets for the shivering women victims of the robbers.

Reaching Damascus next day she and Miss Evon were walking along the street called straight, when a Damascene was killed beside them by a stray bullet.

Seven thousand American tourists on Mediterranean cruises have received notice in Constantinople in the last few weeks that they will not be permitted to visit Damascus owing to the disturbed conditions.

DOORSTEP KISSES ARE UNLAWFUL IN TURIN, ITALY

TURIN, Italy, March 14—(AP)—Doorstep good night kisses of engaged couples are illegal here, the supreme court has decided.

Luigi Rossoni said good night affectionately at the door step of his fiancee, Maria Peccarelli, a few days ago, and turned around to find a policeman's hand on his shoulder. NO FURTHER CONCESSIONS WILL BE MADE GERMANY

Conflict is Predicted at League Assembly in Geneva Tuesday —Indications Are That Germans Will Not Be Permitted at the Table of the Council Unless Poland Has Representatives There—The League Crisis is Regarded as Perilous

GENEVA, Switzerland, March 14—(AP)—A direct statement from highly placed French sources that unless Germany is willing to find Poland at the table of the council of the league of nations when she herself sits there, Germany will not get into the council, indicated this evening that no progress had been made in the league crisis and how perilous the situation had become.

As for Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary's pessimism, already extreme, had, if anything, increased. He had apparently, though with great reluctance, reached the conviction that it was unavoidable to have the assembly of the league pass upon the supreme issue of whether Germany or the allies are to be held guilty before world opinion of the present imbroglio. The British spokesman said that as there were only thirty-six hours to the opening of the assembly Tuesday, those who were creating obstacles must publicly shoulder their responsibility.

Throwing the conflict into the assembly Tuesday seemed, therefore, early tonight as inevitable unless tomorrow some agreement between the Germans and allies is reached. A new angle of the general situation developed tonight from British circles, where it was pointed out that the question had become delicate, almost impossible of solution, because public opinion of the various countries concerned in the conflict had taken strong positions one way or the other, and that it would be difficult for the delegates to make further concessions because of the high state of excitability of home opinion.

Hence, it was logical and right, in the opinion of the British, that the dispute should be brought into the open and publicly discussed by the representatives of all minds, so that the people throughout the world might have a better opportunity to place the responsibility.

The French spokesman declared that France would not budge an inch from her position of favoring a non-permanent seat for Poland simultaneously with a permanent seat for Germany, and voiced the French conviction that the majority of the assembly would support the allied position as one of conciliation and generous compromise.

This information, it is believed by most of the delegates, was not only put forth to express the attitude of the allied delegations, but also as a sort of last-hour pressure on the Germans to make them realize that the allied governments were in earnest.

From German headquarters came a slightly optimistic note, which was found in the fact that the German jurists had been sitting all day struggling over the composition of a formula, which, as one unofficial spokesman said, "would bind Germany morally, but not legally" to support Poland's candidacy.

A number of representative delegates not connected with the present crisis, with whom the correspondent of The Associated Press talked, seemed hopeful that the controversy would be regulated. They refused to believe that the question of six months' time, which in effect was all that divided the allies and Germany, could be made justification before international opinion for the destruction of the Locarno pacts and endangering the future of the league of nations. Most of the delegates feel confident that Poland could be elected to a non-permanent seat in September, and that the point really at issue is whether she will be elected immediately or later.

The delegates generally expressed the conviction that the allies and the Germans were gradually getting closer together and that no break would come. That the situation even seemed humorous to some was shown by the suggestion made by many that the allies and the Germans put their Polish solutions in a hat and have a neutral delegate draw.

Both Premier Briand of France and M. Vandervelde of Belgium held private conversations with the German statesmen, which, for one thing, demonstrated the exactitude of the British contention that both the French and German leaders are fearful of their home opinion. Mr. Vandervelde denied the statement accredited to him in a local newspaper that Germany had with her three-fourths of the assembly formerly, but today had nine-tenths against her.

"What I really said," explained M. Vandervelde, "was that on the question of the enlargement of the council and concerning the creation of permanent seats the German attitude probably was supported by three-fourths of the assembly, but that after Germany's refusal to accept a conciliatory and moderate proposal relative to the creation of a new temporary seat, she would have nine-tenths of the assembly against her."

Nothing whatsoever was heard today in league circles about the Brazilian and Spanish candidacies for permanent seats, but one of the Brazilian delegates informed the correspondent that Brazil was still pushing her claim to the permanent chair reserved for the United States.

GERMANS HAVE ARRANGED A COMPROMISE FORMULA

GENEVA, March 14—(AP)—Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister, on returning to his hotel late tonight after having dinner with M. Unden, the Swedish foreign minister, said: "I am hopeful for tomorrow. Of course, our hopes depend upon the attitude of the other people. This is all I can say now."

It is understood that Dr. Stresemann and M. Unden have arranged a compromise formula which will be submitted to the leaue council Monday.

The allied and German statesmen labored throughout the day in a spirit of good will in the hope of finding a solution to what is considered a critical problem. Viscount Ishii, as president of the council, cancelled today's session at the request of M. Unden, who explained that he wanted more time to attempt mediation.

Japan was described by one of its representatives as favoring the immediate study of the question of enlargement of the council based on the underlying principles of the covenant, which advocate calm reflection, and later a report by the investigating commission after it had examined all the candidates including the Brazilian, Spanish, Chinese and Polish claimants.

Viscount Ishii had made a personal to the council as the first reasonable solution in the interest of the league. The members of the council and other prominent delegates spent the day urging the representatives of Spain and Brazil not to push their claims for permanent seats at the present time, as they would undoubtedly secure them when the council was enlarged at a later date. They also urged the Spanish and Brazilian ambassadors not to make the controversy more acute when there was some hope of settling the Polish question.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTING ITS 98TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, March 14—The ninety-eighth anniversary celebration of the founding of the local Methodist Episcopal church began today and will be continued with a program of services and exercises that will last four days, lasting to and including Thursday, with the exception of Wednesday. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, pastor, is in charge of the exercises, the program for which has been prepared by a large and enthusiastic committee of members of the various church organizations.

Bishop William F. Anderson of Boston will be the guest of honor Monday, "Reunion Day," and in the evening there will be an official board banquet, with Rev. Willis C. Norris of this city toastmaster. Thursday evening, a union meeting of all the societies of the church will be held.

Over two years ago, the ninety-fifth anniversary of the church was observed on a large scale. Already plans are under way for the one hundredth anniversary in 1928.

More than one hundred years ago, the people of the Methodist faith who lived in Willimantic were supplied by pastors from the Mansfield Circuit when services were held in a schoolhouse. In 1828 they built a one-story wooden meeting-house on the site of the sepreta Alling building on Main street facing the north end of the footbridge. Preachers from the Mansfield Circuit however, continued to supply the local pulpit until 1850. Among the prominent members of the early church organization were William C. Boon, Jonathan Fuller, Ella Dunham, Ralph Williams and others.

The present church edifice was erected in 1851 when the old church building was sold to Warren Atwood, moved to where the Johnson block now stands on Church street and converted into what he termed "The Christian Boarding House." When the Johnson block was erected, the historic landmark was destroyed. Since the first regularly appointed minister of the church, Rev. Moseley Dwight, was appointed in 1828, a total of forty-three ministers have served the church.

The services today were known as "Church Family Day" and began at 10:45 a. m. with public worship and sermon by the pastor, the theme being "The Family." At 12:15 o'clock "Par-ter Day" was held by the church Bible school. A booster meeting was held in connection with the Epworth league devotional service at six o'clock and at seven o'clock a Lenten service of praise took place, with special musical numbers.

The services Monday will be known as Children's Day, beginning at 4 p. m. with a children's program and address by Miss Ethel Glandon, superintendent of the Deaconness Home in Providence, R. I.

Tomorrow, "Reunion Day," the first service will be at 2:30 p. m. with a union meeting of all the women's societies of the church and a sermon-address by Bishop Anderson. At four o'clock there will be the children's greeting to Bishop Anderson and at six o'clock, the official board banquet. A sermon by Bishop Anderson will be given at the reunion service at seven o'clock.

Thursday will be designated as a Day of Prayer with a union meeting of all the societies of the church for worship, at 7:30 p. m.

In police court Saturday morning, Judge Frank H. Foss on the bench, Edgar Lavoie, charged with non-support of his wife and three minor children, told the court that he worked in the woods and did not have much money. He claimed that after he had sought some cigarettes and "played a little pool" there was not much left, as he did not have steady work. He admitted that he attended a few dances, but that did not cost him anything.

Mrs. Lavoie told the court that she had not received much support from her husband for some time. He had bought some groceries, but that was about all. She said that her husband was a baker by trade.

The accused told the court that he could not get employment at his trade and was forced to get what work he could in the woods, walking four miles each day on days that he worked.

The court was inclined to give him a chance to support his family, continuing the case for six months, placing him in charge of Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham and suggesting that he find a steady job and support his family as he should.

Charles Deschenes, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace, pleaded guilty without hesitation. He was arrested at three o'clock Saturday morning. According to his wife, Deschenes chased her out of their home and threatened her. She said that she was tired of being abused by her husband when he became intoxicated and did not care to have him around the house any longer. The accused said that if his wife did not want him around the house, he was willing to pay her $15 a week for her support. He was informed by the court, however, that he was not being tried on a non-support charge. According to Mrs. Deschenes, she was receiving partial support for herself and four children from her mother and mother-in-law.

Judge Foss also showed leniency in this case by giving Deschenes some good advice about looking after his family and going straight. A sentence of thirty days in jail was imposed on the charge of breach of the peace, but was suspended and he was placed on probation for six months. A fine of $10 and costs was assessed on the intoxication charge. Deschenes was informed that the fine would be remitted if he caused no more trouble in the six months' probationary period, but that the costs of $9.15 must be paid.

Mrs. Annie Boucher delightfully entertained the members of the alumnae association of St. Joseph's hospital, at a St. Patrick party Friday evening at her home. Three tables of cards were in play, prizes being awarded to Miss Alice Hough, Miss Martha Pearl, and Miss Arthur L. Welch. An appetizing luncheon was served by the hostess. A color scheme of green and yellow was effectively carried out in the living and dining rooms.

A. C. Tyler auxiliary, U. S. W. V. held a meeting Friday evening with Mrs. Grace Sweet, president, in charge. The "Spark Plug" was awarded Mrs. Nora McCarthy.

THIRD COMMUNITY SERVICE IS WELL ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 14—Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the First Congregational church, delivered the sermon at the third in the series of four community lenten services held in the Capitol theater this afternoon, which was well attended. The singing was led by Edwin F. Cross, chorister of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Mrs. Charles H. Beebe was in charge of the orchestra. Rev. Mr. Wheelock's subject was "The Man That Nobody Knows."

The service opened with special music by the united choir. The invocation was by Rev. John H. Knott, pastor of Franklin Congregational church. A song service was followed by scripture reading by Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones of Mansfield Center. Rev. Edwin M. Pond, pastor of South Coventry Methodist Episcopal church offered prayer, followed by the sermon. The Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church was in charge of the service. Harold S. Maine of Windham Center directed the ushers.

These services were attempted as an experiment in community worship and co-operation. The committee in charge it is stated, has been more than pleased with the results as proof that the religiously inclined people of the city stand ready to endorse co-operative efforts made in the interest of the community. The lenten season has its appeal to thoughtful men and women and there is a growing conviction that the individual life is made much more worth while by fostering of religious ideals. The hope of the world today is not in diplomacy, intrigue or force, but in the practical application of the teachings of Jesus Christ.

DANIELSON

FIRE DAMAGE OF $4,000 AT WM. WILLIAMS' HOUSE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 14.—Danielson's worst residential fire in years did several thousand dollars' worth of damage to the William Williams' house on Maple street, Sunday morning. The damaged structure is one of the largest of the borough's residential properties. Before the firemen had extinguished the blaze much of the roof on the main part of the house had been burned off and the interior of the two and a half story structure was deluged with water from attic to cellar.

It is possible that the fire was caused by sparks from a wood fire, igniting the shingles on the roof. The fire was blazing away when the firemen arrived after responding to an alarm that came in about 8:30 from Box 17, at the corner of Maple and Griffithe streets.

Two, and then three streams of water were directed at the fire, but the water main through Maple street is not of sufficient size to furnish all the water that the big pumper requires in supplying multiple hose lines under pressure, so Chief A. P. Woodward, who was directing operations of the department, cut the number of streams down to two. Bursting hose and near-zero weather also handicapped the firemen, who did excellent work under trying conditions. The firemen were engaged for nearly two hours before the recall was sounded. Chilled, tired and with their usual Sunday morning rest period disrupted they were especially grateful for the coffee and other refreshment served them in such generous quantities from neighborhood homes.

Winfield A. Colwell occupied the first floor of the main part of the building, Lucius Williams the second floor, while the ell is occupied by William Williams. The main structure sustained the bulk of the damage. Tons of water that were poured onto the burning roof came down through partitions beneath and eventually to the cellar, saturating furniture and floorings.

Chief A. P. Woodward could not definitely estimate the loss Sunday. It will amount to as much as $4,000, largely covered by insurance, both on the building and contents.

A few of hose and some firemen were left on duty after the apparatus returned to the central station, but there was no further outbreak of the fire and the guarding detachment was off duty shortly before 1 o'clock. Those in the vicinity of the damaged house looked, after the fire, much like some of the trees after an ice storm. Here and there lines of hose were frozen in ice. Men who fought the fire found their gloves frozen to the hands and their garments of almost the same consistency of concrete after they had become wet in carrying out their work.

LIEUT. CHARLES HIBBARD AT PEAL HARBOR, HONOLULU

(Special to the Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 14.—Writing from Oahu, Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard [illegible] which that is of interest per[illegible] the islands and what the United States government and Americans generally are doing over there.

[illegible] of Americans have been [illegible] the winter in Honolulu, Dr. [illegible] states. There are so many [illegible] in fact, that getting back [illegible] states is something of a problem. Liners carrying passengers have [illegible] enough accommodations for [illegible] want to come home—to every [illegible] in the union—and Dr. Hibbard [illegible] found that getting reservations [illegible] himself and Mrs Hibbard prior to [illegible] is a very difficult task. There [illegible] one steamer a week between [illegible] and San Francisco.

Dr. and Mrs. Hibbard arrived in Honolulu January 23—dead of winter [illegible] in New England—to find the [illegible] temperature averaging about 65 degrees. They have had a delightful [illegible] weeks. Their son, Lieut. Charles [illegible] U. S. N., is stationed at Pearl Harbor navy yard, a few miles [illegible] the city. He went over last [illegible] to be maintenance officer having particular supervision over submarines stationed there. Twenty [illegible] going submarines are based at Pearl Harbor at all times. In mid-February Lieut Hibbard was promoted to be planning officer at Pearl Harbor, consequently rates as superintendent of the navy yard.

Any naval vessel entering the yards and desiring repairs of any nature is subjected to his direction to an examination by experts working under him. On their reports, he gives authorization for such work as needs be done, the government allowing $50,000 monthly for such contingencies. Only recently the station ship from Samoa, 5000 miles distant, came in so badly in need of repairs, that the entire money allotment for the month was needed to restore her to seaworthy condition. Lieut. Hibbard acts as chief docking officer and handles every vessel that goes into the huge drydock the government maintains at Pearl Harbor. This dock is 1,000 feet [illegible] and 80 feet deep.

Dr. Hibbard mentions that there are [illegible] officers, regulars, at the Schofield barracks located in the center of Oahu island. This is the largest army post maintained anywhere in the United States army organization. The regulars are mighty trained, efficient troops.

The doctor tells of the fine hospitality developed over there by the government and many other interesting things about these beautiful islands.

Violators of the dog law in the town of [illegible] were brought before a justice in that town at the instance of representatives of the bureau of domestic animals.

JEWETT CITY

GLASGO BEING TRANSFORMED UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 14—The village of Glasgo today is a place of hustling improvements and changes. A few months ago when the American Thread company relinquished its business activity, Glasgo, within the space of a few short weeks, dropped to a duplicate of Goldsmith's Deserted Village. The advent of the Shawa, the establishment of the Glasgo Finishing Co., and the occupying of improved tenements by new families, came like a boom, almost over night. Parts of the mill with new machinery of improved type, is already in operation, and before the first of April the entire plant will be moving, representing the last word in equipment for finishing in its grade. Supt. F. A. P. Clement, who is managing the schools of Griswold, has his eye upon the increased educational problem, with the probability that the local school board, Earl B. Gilbert, James H. Shea and Richard J. Dudkowski, will immediately arrange for Glasgo's needs. The new concern will employ more hands than the mill has ever needed in the several sorts of business which have been carried on in the village.

The plant first started as a paper mill, proved to be a losing venture, then being taken over by the American Thread company, a thriving village and a successful business prospered for years. Evidently the new enterprise is to meet every favorable expectation of the new firm.

Two innovations are promised the village a permanent barber shop and a moving picture theater.

The present owners are giving every evidence of being wide-awake to the value of maintaining a contented, and fairly paid organization, thereby insuring the best results in return.

The Sisters of The Holy Ghost of the local convent accomplish most beautiful needlework, the various articles being done with infinite skill and patience. They have dressed three lovely dolls, which are on exhibition in Hourigan Bros., windows. One is dressed as a nun, another as a bride with flowers, lace embroidered veil and all, and a maiden right up to date in her silk gown. Children and their elders stop to "oh!" and "ah!" and admire.

James Duggan of Boston spent the week end at his parents' home on Hill street.

Charles Carden of Yantic was a week end guest at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. T. Stewart.

William L. Spencer of the New Lon-don County Cow Testing association is to be at Round Hill farm today (Monday) to test J. B. Palmer's herd.

Mrs. Ezra James was pleasantly sur-prised last week on closing her work in the paste room at Aspinook Bleachery to receive from her associate workers a bath set, as a token of their regard. Mrs. Florence Barber made the presentation, after which cake and ice creams were served. In another week, Mrs. James expects to enter the employ of the Glasgo Finishing Co.

Governor Gifford Pinchot of Penn-sylvania, who was at Hartford, Conn., Saturday to attend the funeral of a Yale classmate, Henry S. Robinson, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance, declined to discuss political matters during his stay.

GIRL GAINED 7 POUNDS NINE YEARS AN INVALID

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co. or any druggists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

Over a Cliff in this STEEL BODY without injuring the DRIVER!

A careless driver . . . A triple somersault over a cliff . . . and this is the car—a Dodge Brothers all steel safety car.

A triple somersault over a cliff with the car you see in this picture! Such was the experience of its owner, who came through the fall uninjured.

After an hour of repair work, he drove the car from Montana to Minneapolis—a more sensible driver and much wiser.

All steel construction saved his life, as it has saved many other lives in the past, and will save thousands more in the future . . . . .

Dodge Brothers print this advertisement because they believe motorists are entitled to all steel safety and should insist upon it.

That's why Dodge Brothers introduced all steel construction more than eleven years ago—and recently announced additional all steel safety features.

The streets are swarming with 20,000,000 motor cars—millions more are on the way.

Safety is the issue. Armor yourself and your family with steel.

Dodge Brothers Motor Cars—both open and closed—are all steel in the strictest sense of the term. Steel reinforced by steel—framed, braced and buttressed by steel—with all seams solidly and permanently welded together by electricity.

Slim steel pillars replace the old bulky wooden corner posts—permitting unparalleled driving vision—a safety feature of the first importance.

Compare such bodies with the usual wood, or wood-and-metal body, and you will be astonished that every automobile builder has not adopted this advanced safety construction.

Remember, also, that safety is the watchword of Dodge Brothers construction throughout, as witnessed by Dodge Brothers exceptionally large, quick-action brakes, and the exceptional ruggedness and dependability of Dodge Brothers axles, frames, steering parts, and other vital units.

This car will continue to be a "four."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Great Fear in Lightfoot's Yard

For fear there's always this excuse;
In saving life it is of use.
—Old Mother Nature.

To the yard of Lightfood the Deer a great fear had come. It was such a fear as the members of Lightfoot's family had not known since the few days when hunters with terrible guns were seeking them. But this new fear was even a greater fear than that creeping out the fear of the hunters with terrible guns had ended until the next morning. But this new fear was with them by night as well as by day. You see the Merry Little Breezes had brought to Lightfood the news that Puma the Panther was in the Green Forest.

Puma the Panther is the worst enemy that deer have

Of course, the yard of Lightfoot the Deer was nothing at all like what you and I call a yard. It was simply a great number of paths crossing and recrossing in all directions and kept trodden down so that Lightfoot and Mrs. Lightfoot and the two young Lightfoots could move about freely despite the deep snow. These paths led to supplies of food. To get out of those paths would be to be helpless in the deep snow.

Now Lightfoot the Deer knew that there is nothing Puma the Panther likes better than tender deer meat, and he felt sure that sooner or later Puma would visit their yard and try to get one of them. "My dear," said he to Mrs. Lightfoot, "we must never for one little minute be careless. Someone must be on watch all the time. We must at all times keep together."

"Who is Puma the Panther?" asked one of the twins, her big soft eyes full of curiosity.

"Puma the Panther is the worst enemy that deer have, except those two-legged creatures with terrible guns," explained Lightfoot. "Puma is soft-footed and moves in the black shadows. It is difficult to know when he is about. You will need to use your eyes and your nose and your ears as you never have used them before; and we must hope that gentle Sister South Wind will come soon and melt away the snow. Not until we can move freely will we be even reasonably safe from Puma the Panther."

"When we were little," said one of the twins "Mother used to frighten us with stories of Yowler the Bobcat, but you never seemed to fear Yowler. Is Puma the Panther more to be feared than Yowler, or than Tufty the Lynx?"

Lightfoot shivered, and the two young deer saw him. It was then that fear really took possession of them. "Yes," said he. "I do not fear Yowler the Bobcat, nor do I much fear Tufty the Lynx, for only if they caught me in deep snow would they attempt to harm me because I am fully grown. But Puma the Panther is to be feared at all times, even by one as big as I. I wish he hadn't come to the Green Forest. Now, remember children, we must stay together and each must watch out for the other."

So it was that fear came to the yard of Lightfoot the Deer. They had to eat, for without food they could not live, but their appetites were small and always while three ate, one kept watch. At the snapping of a twig they would bound away in fright. When they slept, one kept watch and none slept well. Day by day Lightfoot anxiously watched the snow to see if it were disappearing. And when he felt gentle Sister South Wind blow in his face, he rejoiced, for he knew that she would melt the snow. Those were not happy days in the yard of Lightfoot the Deer.

Jewish Farm Population

The Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., issued a report the past week, showing the work of the organization during the last quarter-century. The Jewish farm population in the United States in that period, according to the report, has grown from about 1,000 to more than 75,000. About $1,000,000 acres are being farmed by Jews and the real estate and personal property value of their holdings exceed $100,000,000.

BAGGED COAL

For the purpose of giving proper protection to the consumers who are obliged to buy fuel in small quantities, to the poor, a bill has been introduced in the legislature in Massachusetts making it obligatory for those selling coal in bags to designate upon the kind of coal that is being sold.

The demand for this legislation is brought about by the discovery during the recent coal strike that purchasers of coal in bags, a quantity weighing 25 pounds got three pounds of domestic size anthracite and the remaining 22 pounds were made up of buckwheat, screenings and bituminous. In other words the little fellows were being made to take their substitutes whether they wanted them or not and they were being made to pay for them at the rate of $26 a ton. Under such circumstances there can be no wonder that Massachusetts deems it the proper time for stopping such a practice in the future.

It is unfortunate that it is necessary for economy to buy their fuel in such small quantities. Those who can least afford to pay the high prices that are exacted for coal in such quantities are the ones that buy it. But if they must get their coal in this manner they should at least know what they are getting before they get it home. If they can not get anthracite, well and good if they must take substitutes they should be informed. It is the misrepresentation that causes much resentment. Such a requirement as is sought by the Massachusetts law will not reduce the consumption of coal in bags. It would not have affected the sale of it during the recent strike. The fuel was needed and substitutes would have been purchased quite as freely as anthracite if hard coal was not available. But it is only fair that the consumer should know what he is getting and that he should not be charged for anthracite when he was being handed something else and something cheaper. Protection for the unwary coal consumers seems worth while and it will be surprising if the legislature does not adopt the bill.

BROOKHART AGAIN

Is Senator Brookhart trying to save his seat in congress? That impression is to be gained from the way in which he has recently voted upon the appointment of C. W. Hunt of Iowa as a member of the federal trade commission. He not only voted for it against the lead of the other Republicans but he spoke in his behalf. Mr. Hunt has been a member of the federal trade commission since last summer. When he was appointed his selection was looked upon with favor by the radicals, but they have not been impressed by the manner in which he has acted in office, so of course they sought to block his confirmation. Brookhart's vote wasn't the deciding one but it was in direct contradiction of his record and the course adopted by his fellow insurgents.

There was, of course, a reason for it. Brookhart has been watching the handwriting on the wall and he not only sees his time in the senate cut short but his political career brought to an end. He recognizes the fact that the contested election report promises to be against him and he is now trying to shape matters so that he can muster all possible strength in dealing with such a report.

Brookhart has a way of playing his own game quite cleverly. In the last campaign he came out as a republican. That was the means of getting him the nomination, but after he had gotten onto the ticket as a republican he then proceeded to show himself everything but a republican. Is he employing much the same tactics at the present time? Is his support of a republican nomination to be regarded as an attempt to create the impression that he has returned to the republican fold?

There are close observers of Brookhart who claim that he has modified his course since his early days in congress, but Brookhart is still Brookhart. The people of Iowa have had a chance to get a better idea of the man and it is of course the people of Iowa who are going to be in a position to administer the real spanking should he be turned down in the senate and then present himself as a candidate in the primary against Senator Cummins. Brookhart cannot fool all of the people all of the time.

NEGOTIATING FRENCH DEBT

Although nothing had been heard about it there was no surprise in the report which was given publicity last week to the effect that negotiations were underway between France and this country for the adjustment of the debt of the former. It was no secret that Senator Berenger came to this country for the special purpose of carrying on such negotiations.

When Premier Caillaux led a delegation for the same purpose it was with a great flourish of trumpets and a display of the utmost optimism. He had but a brief time he could spend in this country, passage back had been engaged for a certain day and there must be a hurried settlement of the debt. Well he did things in a hurry and with much publicity. He took back with him a hurried decision and the result was repudiation. The Caillaux methods were a decided failure.

Thus when M. Berenger who happened to be a member of the Caillaux mission, set out on the same task alone it wasn't clothed in secrecy but he didn't report to the Caillaux ideas. His arrival was noted but since that time he has submerged himself in the study of the situation and the negotiations which he has been carrying on with Secretary Mellon. He hasn't been shouting his head off or giving interviews every time he turned around. He has apparently been getting down to bedrock, putting forth the French situation and getting the American viewpoint.

Probably the negotiations would have been completed with the debt funding commission before this time but for the fact that there has been no ratification of the adjustment made of the Italian debt. The senate has delayed action upon this matter and it is not to be expected that there is going to be any report made of the French debt arrangement until the Italian debt agreement is approved or disapproved.

It is interesting to note, however, that satisfactory progress is being made in connection with the French debt and that there should be only a short time before it is settled.

PLAYING ABOUT DANGER

A 14 year old boy was killed near Worcester when 15,000 volts of electricity went through his body. He had nearly reached the top of a 65 foot tower which carried high tension wires and came in contact with one of them. He had put himself in grave danger the right place to have his life quickly snuffed out. He had shown that he could climb the tower but he had also demonstrated that he was no more immune from the effects of electricity than most other people.

There was a time when there were very few such towers for high tension wires. But in keeping with the demands for power and light there is today a network of such wires to be seen and the very fact that they can be seen means that they should be avoided.

Doing stunts has always been a strong attraction. When such activity is restricted to the difficult, but not dangerous, tests it is to be encouraged. But however attractive the high tension towers may seem for a climbing stunt the risk should not be taken.

Too many instances are there where those who are familiar with pole climbing and familiar with the task of getting through a network of wires are stricken even as was the boy near Worcester. Certain if experts are unable to avoid such dangers there is little chance for those who are unmindful of them. Many boys have sacrificed their lives in the same way as did the Worcester lad, and such a waste of life is entirely needless and avoidable.

Deplorable as such deaths are it is even more deplorable that the lesson isn't remembered sufficiently long to prevent others of just the same character.

GERMANY AND THE LEAGUE

The trouble at Geneva is that they seem to be rushing things. There has been shown a disposition to go outside of the agreement reached at Locarno a step which is not agreeable to one party to the agreement.

When the understanding was reached at Locarno whereby Germany's entrance into the league was planned and where a better relationship between European nations was started it was arranged that Germany should be given a seat in the league council. That was not dependent upon some other country or countries also being given seats, but when the time came for Germany to be given its seat in accord with the terms it is found that there are four other countries which either seek seats or are having seats sought for them.

Germany protests. It is unwilling to go any further it maintains that it is not being treated in accord with the terms reached at Locarno and those who had anything to do with those terms must be aware of the justice of the claims.

While Germany was invited to enter the league, just as it declares that it is ready it is told that it can come in but that its wings are going to be immediately clipped, and inasmuch as that is something to which Germany had not originally consented it balks.

It seems to be time for the league to proceed to do one thing at a time. It is now the time to see that the provisions of the Locarno agreement are carried out in respect to Germany. If at some later time the applications of other countries for council seats are ready for action they can be taken up and be disposed of. Germany has a right to expect fair treatment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Those who haven't made their income tax return must step lively.

Briand can come back but it is always a question how long a cabinet can be kept together.

If General Andrews quits as he threatens to under certain conditions whose will the victory be?

Those robbers who stopped a train to get alcohol and got nothing had either a poor hunch or a poor scent.

Now that the coal strike is over there doesn't appear to be any efforts in behalf of legislation to prevent another.

The man on the corner says: What a difference between the old fashioned music and jazz as served up by radio!

Germany's entrance will make 56 in the league of nations. There's no danger however that the United States will become one of the 57 varieties.

The elimination of politics is considered necessary by the French minister of finance to pull that country out of a financial hole, but that is what France doesn't seem willing to sacrifice.

No wonder the senate turned down government operation of Muscle Shoals. The way in which the whole project has been handled indicates that the best thing to do is to keep it free of government operation.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Lamb fat makes excellent shortening for ginger snaps.

Sour milk beaten into mayonnaise dressing gives it a delicious flavor.

Mice object to camphor. If it is put in places frequented by them it will drive them away.

A circular motion of the broom will sweep up stubborn threads and hair from the carpet.

Rub the hands with a little salt and dry mustard to remove the odor of onions.

Ice cream freezers should never be filled more than 2-3 to allow room for expansion.

Cork the ammonia, gasoline and other bottles containing volatile substances tightly or they will quickly evaporate and lose their strength.

For starting morning fires use pine size kindling charcoal. It is excellent in broiling steaks, lobster or fish.

Turn your window boxes once a week. It is a mistake to allow plants to grow always in one direction.

Cakes should be baked as soon as mixed. The time for baking will vary a little but the average time for a medium sized layer cake is from 15 to 20 minutes.

To mend a broken doll quickly bind tightly with strips of adhesive plaster. It will hold the broken parts firm for quite a while.

When cooking onions place a tin cup of vinegar on the stove and let it boil and there will be no disagreeable odor from the vegetables.

When beating eggs take care that your beater is clean for any grease on it will prevent the eggs from frothing.

To remove the smell of cooking put into a basin of boiling water about five drops of oil of lavender. In a few minutes all smell of cooking will have disappeared.

To a quart of apricots put through a sieve add a pint of water, the juice of two lemons and an orange, and a cupful of powdered sugar. Add ice water and serve with cracked ice.

TWO IN ONE

When boiling ham preparatory to baking save the water in which it is boiled and in it cook the cabbage. It will have much more flavor than if cooked in plain water and can be boiled while the ham is receiving a spicy brown coat in the oven.

PAPRIKA

Paprika has very little flavor unless cooked with some food. Uncooked it is practically tasteless, but lends an attractive color to salads and dressings. It is a Hungarian red pepper, but lacking the heat of cayenne pepper. It is particularly good in pot roasts and goulashes.

AN EVEN CAKE

When pouring batter into the layer cake pans fill the sides well and if possible leave a slight depression in the middle. The center of a cake always bakes first and in this manner a cake straight across the top is assured.

HEALTH AN BEAUTY

A paste of starch and water covered thickly over the bruised skin will prevent the bruise from turning black.

Never use a file, knife or sharp instrument to clean the finger nails. It only roughens the bulbs of the nails and causes them to pick up dirt more easily. Use an orange stick or a stiff brush, hot water and plenty of soap.

The woman who wears artificial hair should wash it every time her own hair is shampooed. The oil and grease gets in the false hair the same as it does in her growing hair and to have a perfectly clean head both should be washed.

The best way to prevent that cold from progressing is to resort to old-fashioned means. First a dose of castor oil then a hot bath. Bed immediately with plenty of covers. Then have someone bring you a hot lemonade. If possible then sleep and keep those covers on until you perspire freely no matter how warm you are.

REMEMBER IT

Form the habit of putting on the side of the baby's crib as soon as he is tucked in. Then you are not likely to leave it down accidentally some time and cause baby to have a nasty fall.

THE INVALID'S TRAY

Use china of a different pattern from that used by the rest of the family on the tray for the sick room. It gives a note of interest to the invalid and makes it easy to keep the dishes separate for washing.

A CHILD'S QUILT

An attractive covering for a quilt for a childs bed is composed of paper cut from three or four linen fast-color story books, alternating the squares with blocks of plain white muslin. It will always be fascinating to the youngster who owns it.

PROTECT THE POINT

A large cork may be kept on the end of the ice pick when not in use. Then should the pick have a fall it cannot harm anyone in transit.

THE DOWNY DUCK

To remove the down from a duck is a real job. First pick out the big feathers and the pin feathers. Then pour melted paraffin over the duck where it is downy and when set peel it off. With it will come all that obstinate down.

AVOID SOGGY STUFFING

Never add milk or water to the stuffing for poultry or roasts. It is that which gives the soggy, solid texture to bread filling and takes away the delicacy of the dish. Melted butter should be the only damp ingredient.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Among the most important colors for spring are bois de rose and grey in the more delicate shades.

Very decorative and practical lamp shades are made of brilliant batik papers pleated and bound top and bottom with glazed chintz.

The popular cloche hat with its high dented crown is duplicated in pelting ribbon in the bright colors that are in vogue in spring fashions.

A new day frock of crisp taffeta has a tight little bodice and full skirt in front. The back is cut in one piece to give a long straight line.

A rounded band of gold which fits close about the throat, is the latest jewelry novelty. It comes in both plain and etched designs.

The vogue for shantung and rajah silks extends to the juvenile wardrobe and very smart frocks for the small girl are made of silks of this type beautifully smocked.

Shawls of a fine white woolen material not unlike challis or albatross come already stamped for embroidery in bright wool.

Decorative shades for the bedroom or living room are made of organdie on the outside veiling the design so that the coloring is more subdued.

A color which is much in evidence in mid-season modes is the brilliant shade of the poppy. It is especially effective when chosen for dance frocks of chiffon, taffeta or tulle.

Velvet ribbon, not seen as frequently as the grosgrain and belting ribbons, is, however quite smart, perhaps because of its comparative newness.

A very smart version of the popular frock has the bumper of black flat crepe while the skirt slightly circular in front, is of crepe in a brilliant shade of red, blue, green or powder blue.

Ribbon is very important in the mode this season. Not only does it play a major role in millinery, but it has gained prominence as trimming on new spring coats, short coated suits and for silk and cloth frocks.

From present indications, it appears that taffeta is destined to enjoy quite a vogue during the spring season. There is hardly a shop along fifth avenue that is not stressing the bearing which taffeta has on the season's mode.

SUMMER FUR ON NEW SPRING COATS

Now that winter is really with us, the summer furs are commencing to make their appearance. The new coats which will be worn with charming new taffeta frocks this spring and which are even now being worn in the south are trimmed in the most classic with collars of the soft summer furs such as krimmer, flying squirrel and summer ermine. The coats usually are of kashmir lined with taffeta to match or contrast with the dress beneath.

RIBBON IS WIDELY USED

Ribbon is very important in the mode this season. Not only does it play a major role in millinery, but it has gained prominence as trimming on new spring coats, short coated suits and for silk and cloth frocks.

The short coated suits that are in such evidence among the new spring collections are very often of blue rep with detailed trimming of navy or black grosgrain or belting ribbon.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Wring chamois out of soapy water without rinsing; when it dries it is soft and serviceable, instead of stiff.

A teaspoonful of salt thoroughly stirred into the basin of starch will add a splendid gloss to linens.

Bread crumbs, rubbed over the scorched places in linen will cause the burned places to disappear.

Put a little borax in your starch and you will find it gives a more permanent stiffness and that fabrics will iron more smoothly.

The laundry will be brightened and improved if white oilcloth is pasted on the tops of the stationary tubs. It is easily wiped clean and is so much more attractive than the gray metal.

Don't ruin your clean ironing board cover by testing your hot irons on it. Have a folded newspaper at the end of your board with salt on it. Then test your iron and you will clean it at the same time without discoloring your white cover.

TELEPHONED ORDERS

Telephoned grocery orders are quite unsatisfactory when the store with which you deal maintains a delivery service. However it is inconsiderate to phone for one or two small items. A wise way is to keep a list of things that can be bought and used at a later date and add a couple of these to the small order. Soap, cleanser, starch, toilet paper are a few suggestions.

NEW MATTING

Do not fit and cut the corners of new matting. Wet it thoroughly with hot water to which one cup of salt has been added. It will then be pliable and the leftover piece can be turned under without breaking. It not only makes a neater finish but saves the matting for use in another room.

MAKING MAYONNAISE

Mayonnaise dressing made from pure olive oil is a very expensive dressing these days. If you will start the mayonnaise with olive oil and when the oil and egg have thickened substitute a good vegetable oil for the remainder of the dressing you will find you will have much the same flavor at a greatly reduced cost. In this way one can of pure olive oil will last during many cans of the less expensive variety.

ALWAYS ON HAND

A half pound of sharp cheese should be in the house at all times. So many things are improved with a little chipped cheese making an interesting dish out of a plain one.

TO CLEAN ISINGLASS

The windows in motorcar curtains soon become clouded unless care is taken. Rub them with slightly warm cylinder oil. Then wipe off oil with a piece of clean cloth. A clean cloth dampened with gasoline removes the remaining traces of oil and leaves the isinglass like new.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Constantonople has 20,000 women industrial workers.

Women farmers in Pennsylvania now number more than 10,000.

Women staff an engineering works and direct a steel company in London.

About one-half the federal employes located in Washington, D. C., are women.

New York state has more working women than any other state in the union.

Forty-seven cents a day is the average pay received by women weavers in the mills of Japan.

British women today are taking bigger sizes in gloves and shoes the hands and feet of the women being much larger than they were five years ago.

So successful have women become as letter carriers in England that now more than 4,200 are employed in that capacity by the post office department.

A LITTLE SALT

A pinch of salt is well added when cooking or preserving tart or acid fruits to bring out what sweetness there is in them.

A DELICATE PERFUME

A tiny bag of orris root placed in the water in which handkerchiefs are boiled will give them a faint scent of violets and banish any odor from the iron.

RECIPES

Chocolate, Marshmallow Mint Sauce: Scald one quart of milk in a double boiler with one and one-half squares of unsweetened chocolate and beat until smooth and well blended; then add one-third cup water one-eighth teaspoon of salt and two tablespoons of granulated gelatin that has been soaked ten minutes in three tablespoons of cold water, stir until gelatin is dissolved, then strain into individual molds that have been dipped in cold water. Chill over night. When ready to serve, unmold on cold individual plates and garnish with "billows" of marshmallow mint sauce.

Marshmallow Mint Sauce: Make a thin sirup by boiling together one-half cup of sugar and one-fourth cup of water, then add one dozen marshmallows cut into small pieces with the scissors and gradually add the white of one egg beaten until stiff. Add one drop of oil of peppermint and enough dissolved green color paste to make the mixture a beautiful shade of green. Chill thoroughly before serving.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Albert Bushnell Hart, who has resigned the Eaton professorship of the science of government in Harvard university, is a Pennsylvanian, educated at Harvard and in Germany, who began to teach American history at Harvard as far back as 1883, when he was an instructor only three years out of college. He has written numerous books and has edited many series written by others. He has been prominent in municipal reform movements, and always has held himself ready to cooperate with causes for human advancement. Many years ago he formed an intimate friendship with Theodore Roosevelt and became the recognized leader of the progressive party in New England. There is none of the arm-chair, pedantic, doctrinaire type of university professor in Dr. Hart's makeup. He has often shocked his Harvard colleagues and his New England neighbors but he has never changed his conduct or policies because he did so.

From Small Beginnings

William Davies, the Street Singer, a Living Poet

In the city streets of England a few years ago, people stopped to listen to a street singer. There was in his voice an appealing quality and in his face an expression of sensitiveness that attracted attention. They stopped for a moment to listen to the songs that he sung and then they passed on, without a thought that the one who had been singing would have his name recorded in books of literature, that he would write poems and novels and essays that people would treasure, and that he would be what the world calls a famous man. The singer was William Davies, now recognized as an important modern poet, essayist and novelist.

When William Davies was a small boy he went for a time to the lower schools, but the hand of poverty called him from the classroom and put him at work earning a living with saw and mitre, framing pictures. Day after day he worked in a little, poorly ventilated shop, and bent over his humble tasks.

When Davies grew older he wished to see more of the world than his work would permit, so he found a position on a cattle steamer and came to the United States. There, moving from place to place, and supporting himself as he could, he managed to see much of the country.

Back again in England, a while later, he continued a wandering life, sometimes singing on the street, and sometimes selling things from door to door. All this time he was reading as well as observing and thinking. Occasionally he put his thoughts into writing, and after a time produced his first book of poetry. When he was 38, acting under the advice of friends to whom he had told of his many adventures in wandering about, he wrote a book called The Autobiography of a Super-Tramp. For this book no less important an author than George Bernard Shaw wrote a preface, calling it to the attention of the public.

From that time on William Davies has issued various other books, both in prose and verse. In recent years he has turned his attention more in the direction of the observation of nature. From being in all reality a tramp he has become an important writer of the day.

Effort seems to be necessary to success, and William Davies had the energy to make the effort to become a writer.

Stories That Recall Others

They Will Talk

Mr. J recently had an opportunity to rent his house and knowing that it cost him only a small amount he agreed among other things to pay the telephone charges. He believed the price he was getting justified the assumption of such a debt. Everything went well until the telephone bill came in and Mr. J found among other things that there had been two telephone calls to a distant state one amounting to $6.70 and the other $13.30.

Neglecting None

The head of the family sent his son to the drug store one evening for a bottle of medicine. The lad was waited upon by a new clerk.

"Daddy sent me for some medicine," the boy told the clerk.

The clerk filled the order and handed the boy the package, who started toward the door.

The clerk not knowing the boy or what the family had a charge account, asked: "Well, son, who is this for?"

"The little fellow turned and replied: "For all of us."

Look for the Man on the Label

A RUBEROID roof is like a good insurance policy—when you get one you have the comfortable feeling that the future is well taken care of. A Ruberoid roof is an insurance against roofing troubles for years to come. Many laid in 1892—when Ruberoid was first made—are still in service and have cost practically nothing for upkeep.

Ruberoid Roll-roofing has a record of durability which cannot be paralleled in the industry. With the mineralized surface (of natural crushed slate) it is particularly attractive for use on barns, silos, sheds and similar buildings.

Ruberoid Strip-shingles are ideal for residences where there is a possibility of great variety in color treatment. Due to their unusual form, you may lay them in any one of many distinctive patterns. Furthermore, it is not necessary to use a single color in any of these patterns. You may obtain an attractive blend of colors, since the shingles are made with surfacings of natural crushed slate in sage green, Venetian red, and steel-blue.

Come in or phone us to-day for samples and descriptive folders which will give you some very important information about Ruberoid Shingles and Roofing.

ST. ROCH'S CHAPEL SOUGHT BY HOPEFUL UNMARRIED GIRLS

NEW ORLEANS, March 14 (AP)—For years St. Roch's chapel in New Orleans has been the mecca for unmarried women on Good Friday.

Tradition has it that every unmarried woman who will visit nine churches, say a prayer and make an offering at each one of them, and then visit St. Roch's and make the stations of the Cross," finally lighting a candle before the altar, will be happily married before the year is out.

St. Roch' chapel was erected in 1871 by Father Trevis in fulfillment of a vow that if none or his parishioners died during the 1866-67 epidemic he would build a chapel in thanksgiving to God. Soon the shrine became a favorite place for the pilgrimages of the pious and the walls are covered with the "ex votos" or believers.

No man ever thinks enough of his mother-in-law to make his wife jealous.

POETRY

Bankrupt and Didn't Know It

My religion is no creed,
But practical in word and deed;
I pay my bills, and yet me say
That's good enough for me today!"
Pay your bills. You think you do.
Taxes, grocer, all their due;
But, my Brother, you I fear
Scores to who you are in debt!
Have you paid your mother all
For her care when you were small?
Night and day for many years
She worked for you mid hope and fears.
Have you paid your father's bill,
Not presented but due still,
For his sacrifice and care
Spent on you for many a year?
Have you paid your teachers yet
Or never thought of such a debt,
Paid them for the things they did
For you a careless growing kid?
Have you paid the preachers who,
By reproofs and wisdom too,
Pointed to the upward way?
"Paid them?" Yes, them! When did you pay?
Have you paid the debt you owe
To the town you brag of so?
For streets, protection, home and friends?
Answer! Here my quibbling ends!
You're a fraud a common cheat,
Owing everyone you meet!
You owe God, and never yet
Tried to settle His fair debt!
You're a rubber through and through,
And this estimate is true!
You're a bankrupt and can't pay
Half the bills you owe today!
"Religion good enough for me,
Is saving bills!" You boast with glee!
Show me your receipts for those,
Or get down on bended knees
And confess what others see
Heathen moral bankrupter!
But worst of all your conscience lets
You quite ignore these damning debts!
—Rev. William Wood.

Rondeau

"And this is freedom!" cried the serf;
"At last
I tread free soil, the free air blows on me";
And, wild to learn the sweets of liberty,
With eager haste his bosom bounded fast.
But not for naught had the long years amassed
Habit of slavery; among the free
He still was servile, and, disheartened, he
Crept to the old bondage of the past.
Long did I hear a hard and heavy chain
Wreathed with amaranth and sandsdel,
But though the flower-breaths stole the weary pain
I cast it off and fled, but 'twas in vain;
For when once more I passed by where it fell,
I took it up and bound it on again.
—Lucy White Jennison.

TWO CHURCHES CELEBRATE GREAT WORK OF IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT

Music and sermons appropriate to the celebration of St. Patrick's day were given Sunday evening at St. Patrick's church and at St. Mary's Memorial church before large congregations who listened with close attention as they heard the speakers recount the wonderful work accomplished by the patron saint of Ireland.

At St. Patrick's Church

Rev. Matthew Brady of St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, who has been the lenten preacher at St. Patrick's church, spoke eloquently of the life of Saint Patrick, declaring that divine history shows that when God has an extraordinary work to be done he equips his messengers with the character and the graces necessary to carry out the divine commission. Of such a type were Moses, Aaron and the fishermen whom Jesus called to be His apostles. In the history of the church we also find this carried out and in no case more so than in the life and work of Saint Patrick, who was God's chosen missionary for the conversion of Ireland. He was a zealous apostle and of saintly character, spreading the faith alike by his zeal and his spirit of sanctity. The life of Joseph in Egypt can be seen repeated very largely in the life of the apostle to Ireland. Sold from France by a band of pirates to a farmer of Antrim, for six years Patrick tended the flocks on the hills of Antrim, hearing the language and becoming familiar with the religious beliefs of the Druids, from which he was destined to free the Irish people. Fleeing from Ireland after six years, he entered the monastery at Tours, France, was elevated to the priesthood by St. Germaine, followed him through England for 15 years, and about 423 A. D. landed in Ireland. There he kindled a fire that is to burn forever, spending 63 years of his life in teaching and evangelizing that land.

The whole nation became converted, an entire nation brought to the faith by the work of one man, a work which has no parallel in the history of the church. And this was accomplished without the shedding of a drop of blood which speaks well for the culture of pagan Ireland and the spirit of Patrick, who was a man of prayer and saintly life. It is said that he founded 300 churches, consecrated 3,000 priests and many bishops and founded 700 monasteries. Truly Ireland could be styled the "isle of saints and scholars" when St. Patrick ended his ministry in the 125th year of his life.

In the 16th century Ireland experienced a persecution such as has not been seen except in the persecution of the early martyrs by the Roman empire, but for three centuries the faith planted in the heart of the Irish people by St. Patrick has prevailed. The exodus resulting from persecution has been the cause of the spread of that faith to all parts of the world, for wherever the Irish exile went he brought his faith. The Irish people know and appreciate the debt they owe to their apostle and wherever the far-scattered children of that land go they turn with tear-dimmed eyes to their far away home.

Today they behold her in the glory of her faith and today the Irish Catholic rises to salute Catholic Ireland, glorious, resplendent, resurgent in her Catholic beauty and grace, and they rise to salute the saint and apostle of Ireland.

Musical Part of Service

The musical part of the service, which was in charge of organist Henry J. LaFontaine, was arranged with special reference to St. Patrick and was splendidly carried out by the chorus and soloists. It began with a twenty minute concert of Irish airs, which were rendered on the organ by Mr. La Fontaine whose playing brought out the beauties of this fine instrument. The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls was sung by the chorus and Mrs. Edward McKeon gave a very effective rendering of Moore's beautiful song, Believe Me.

Mrs. M. C. Bursy's beautiful soprano voice was heard in The Kerry Dance, which she sang with fine spirit. Frank R. Murdy rendered Wearin' of the Green, singing in excellent voice and with deep feeling, and Mr. La Fontaine gave The Minstrel Boy, for which Mrs Bursy played the organ accompaniment. The service closed with benediction.

A short period of temporary discomfort in the service after the sermon was caused by the transformer outside the church burning out due to an overload. The only lights left in the church were a few was jets burning on the altar and in the sanctuary. Monsignor M. H. May at once quietly counseled the congregation to keep their seats and word was telephoned to the electric station and to police headquarters. As a precaution in case of panic several policemen were sent to the church by Sergeant Mathew Delaney, but the congregation remained in perfect quiet until the lights were restored in about twenty minutes by a workman from the electric station.

Candles were secured in the choir so that the singers could see the music and part of the service was carried on in the dark until the lights came on again.

An American flag and an Irish flag were displayed on either side of the sanctuary and some of the lights on the altar and in the sanctuary were in green.

At St. Mary's Memorial Church

The influence of the ideals of St. Patrick on history, particularly the history of Ireland, the United States and South America, was emphasized in the sermon delivered Sunday evening at St. Mary's Memorial church, by the rector, Rev. W. A. Keefe, in observance of St. Patrick's day which occurs this week. There was a congregation numbering about 400 at the service, which opened at 7:30 o'clock with an excellently rendered programme of Irish airs and songs. The programme was in charge of the organist, Mrs. M. J. Farrell.

In his sermon Rev. Father Keefe said it is customary for the church to call attention to the influence for good of her saints. In this spirit of honoring St. Patrick the Catholic church calls attention to the influence for good of the ideals of St. Patrick, which have inspired acts of heroism throughout Christianity. These ideals have inspired thousands to erect great schools and colleges, and to spread the Christian message throughout the world.

When the successors of St. Patrick were hunted and slaughtered, the sons and daughters of Erin gathered to offer up the sacrifice. The sons of the "Emerald Isle" never wavered in their love for the ideals of St. Patrick.

The noble spirit that inspired these men made Daniel O'Connell the emancipator of 7,000,000 people. He was the greatest orator of his time. The same spirit laid the foundation of Christianity in the republics to the south of us. Speaking of the influence of the ideals of St. Patrick on the history of the United States, Father Keefe said that Irish heroism and Irish blood baptised the young republic, raised the starry flag gloriously on the high seas and defended the glory of our republic all through the revolutionary war.

Irish heroism also defended the glory of our country during the war of 1812, and the war of 1861-1865 and the Irish Catholic of America stood shoulder to shoulder with Woodrow Wilson during the World war. When Marshal Haig was standing with his back to the wall, the heroes of our country, inspired by a large percentage of Irish blood, turned the tide of battle and saved the allied armies.

In closing Father Keefe said: By our example and holy life teach the lesson of Jesus Christ, the lesson of brotherly love and the spirit of peace. Make America the happiest, the purest and freest nation in the world. The benediction of the most blessed sacrament was given by Rev. Father Keefe.

HELD RELIGIOUS SERVICE AT NORWICH JAIL

Sunday morning at 9:15 o'clock Y. M. C. A. representatives conducted a religious service for the inmates of the local jail. Secretary Edwin Hill read the scriptures and offered prayer. Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos to his own accompaniment on the organ, and Edmund A. Prentice gave a very helful address to the men. He spoke in part as follows: "Men, I want to show you if I can how near the right path is to the wrong path in its inception. When you come to the forks of the road, you are very close to the right way and also very near to the wrong way, and it makes a great deal of difference which road you take, so with your character, only a little more following of Christ and you will be on the right road in your life.

There are three reasons why I am here with you today. First, I love God, who is the giver of all the good things of life. Second, I want to here you men win back your reputation for you have evidently lost your good reputation and your good character. When you get out of here, you will not have an enviable reputation nevertheless, stay right here in Norwich and by the help of God build a noble character, you can do it. You will have plenty of opposition, but if you seek first the kingdom, and the Christ all will be well. To build a character, you must have the right foundation, not sand but a rock foundation, build on Jesus Christ. The third reason I am here is because you all seem so hungry for the truth. Let me tell you a true story. Years ago, three boys lived near to each other and the speaker this morning was one of the three. Charlie and George, alas, went into the wrong paths, which by God's help I avoided. Charlie lived fast and finally filled a drunkard's grave. George went the limit into sin, but one day he heeded the advice of a friend, and turned right about face and took Christ into his life, and today he is a most respected man in his community and has the largest business of its kind in that place. He has a beautiful home and family and they all love and serve God. He went down, but came back as every one of you can do.

Most of the men in the audience asked to be remembered in prayer that they might become better men.

CITY MEETING TO VOTE ON EXTRA APPROPRIATION

The voters of the city will meet in special city meeting this (Monday) evening at 8 o'clock in the town hall to act on two appropriations. One calls for $16,000, this amount being necessary to defray the expense of keeping the city streets open and clear of ice and snow during the recent severe snow storms. This work, it is pointed out, had to be done by the street commissioner or business and traffic would have been almost completely tied up. In order to keep the streets open it was necessary to work night and day for some days.

The other appropriation asked for is $4,000 for oiling and sprinkling. In the past this appropriation has been included in the estimates acted upon at the annual city meeting in June and this year it is proposed to act on the appropriation at this time so that the street commissioner can start the oiling and springling as soon as the warm weather arrives. Otherwise he would have to wait until practically the middle of summer as the money would not be available and consequently much of the value of the oiling and sprinkling of the city's streets is lost.

The banquet will be held at Twin Oaks grill room, 163 West 46th street. Mr Thresher is president of the society and Frank A. Lester secretary.

PSYCHOMETRY DEPARTMENT AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY

Mrs. Annette P. Conyers of Malden, Mass., was the speaker and medium at the Spiritual academy Sunday and interested the congregations at both services by her wonderful demonstrations of psychometry. This phase of mediumship is rarely found, and Mrs Conyers is exceedingly accurate and by her brilliant writing and lectures, proves a most popular worker in the spiritual field.

It was announced that the program for next Sunday presents Mrs Francis B. Sheperd, a new and interesting medium, whose startling message work is a revelation to all.

VOTES $200 CONTRIBUTION TO JEWISH RELIEF FUND

At a meeting of the Workmen Circle in Steiner hall Sunday evening a contribution of $200 was voted to the United Jewish Relief fund in which the campaign is now being conducted in Norwich to reach the quota of $25,000.

VERMONT CITY MOURNED FOR REV. P. M. M'KENNA

A Norwich man who returned during the week from Vermont tells of the signal honors paid a former Norwich curate, Rev. Patrick M. McKenna, for over 33 years pastor of St. Monica's church, Barre, who died suddenly from heart trouble on the 25th ult. The Barre Times noted that blinds were drawn in the business district and that Father McKenna's church was crowded, during the solemn requiem mass at 10 o'clock, Tuesday morning.

The celebrant of the mass was Very Rev. J. F. Gillis, vicar-general, of Burlington, the deacon Rev. Eugene Cray, of Brandon, sub-deacon Rev. John Dwyer, of St. Johnsbury, masters of ceremonies Rev. Dr. Richard J. Cahill, of St. Monica's—who was Father McKenna's faithful curate—and Rev. Patrick Brennan, of Burlington; censer bearer, Rev. Thomas Leonard, of Middlebury, acolytes, Rev. Thomas Liddy, of Randolph and Rev. Francis Welsh, of Montpelier. The eulogy was pronounced by Rev. W. P. Crosby, of Montpelier.

In the mourning congregation were, with nearly a hundred priests of Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut, all the prominent Protestant clergymen of the city, the entire city council, representatives from the Sisters of Mt. St. Mary's, from St. Joseph's orphanage, from DeGoesbriand and Fanny Allen hospitals in Burlington, Sisters of Mercy from Montpelier and White River Junction, and from the Sisters of St. Joseph in Rutland.

All the parish societies were represented and delegations from these organizations had provided the guard of honor. Some of the members composing the choir who sang the mass had been singing for Father McKenna for over 25 years.

Following the church services, the body was taken by special train to Burlington, where Rt. Rev. J. J. Rice, bishop of the diocese of Burlington read the burial service and pronounced a brief eulogy at St. Mary's Cathedral. Burial was in Burlington, Bishop Rice leading in the services of committal at the priests' plot in the cemetery.

The honorary bearers were representative of Barre's most prominent men and the active bearers were eight leading men of the parish. Among the scores of messages of sympathy received was the following from United States Senator Porter H. Dale, from Washington: "The life of Rev. P. M. McKenna has been an uplift in Vermont for half a century. Since childhood, I have held him in affectionate esteem as clergyman, citizen and friend, and the message of his passing brings great sorrow. Mrs. Dale and I offer genuine condolence."

Father McKenna was for a time stationed at Island Pond, Vt., which is Senator Dale's home community.

Among the sorrowing members of the parish who deeply grieved for their dead pastor were the hundreds of children in the parochial school, who attended a special mass of requiem earlier in the day of the funeral.

Father McKenna, who was 75, had suffered from heart trouble for a long time, but had kept actively about his parish duties till stricken suddenly. He was born in Liapole, County Kerry, Ireland, March 2nd, 1850, the fourth of a family of the thirteen children of John and Johanna Moynihan McKenna. The surviving members of the family are Rev. Maurice McKenna, permanent rector of Holy Angels' church, Oakwood Boulevard, Chicago, two married sisters and two brothers residing in Ireland, Miss Margaret McKenna, a cousin, of Barre, had been housekeeper at the rectory since 1911.

Father McKenna had been a priest for 45 years, having come to Salem, Mass., when a young man, later entering the University at Ottawa to study for the priesthood. From Ottawa he went to Nicolet, Canada, where he was graduated in philosophy and theology, making a name for scholarship and application. He was ordained priest at the Cathedral of the Assumption, Three Rivers, by Rt. Rev. Louis de Goesbriand, first bishop of Burlington, Dec. 17th, 1881. His appointments included St. James' church, Island Pond, St. Patrick's Fairfield, Vt., where he remained seven years. Then a throat trouble compelled a change to a milder climate and he came to Norwich, serving four years as curate at St. Patrick's. Returning to his native diocese of Burlington, he was appointed by his bishop pastor of St. Monica's, Barre, Nov. 8th, 1894, when the parish numbered 250 families. At his death, his congregation was over 2,400. Since Oct. 14th, 1921 Father McKenna has had the assistance of Rev. Richard J. Cahill.

The Barre Times in its tribute to the dead pastor said: "Father McKenna has been almost an institution in the life of Barre for the past three decades, standing for the best things in the life of the community and wielding a powerful influence in the moral and spiritual well being of the city."

WATCH MORAL CHARACTER OF PUBLIC SERVICE DRIVERS

So great is the responsibility imposed upon drivers of public service motor vehicles, especially large busses carrying many passengers at a time, that an extremely careful investigation of the character of each before he is licensed is proposed by the state motor vehicle department in the March bulletin just issued.

"The process in the past has been that no intending public service operator could receive a license without a certificate of moral character from some police chief," he says, "but that law has been changed until now the phase mentioned is more limited. It is now provided that the commissioner of motor vehicles may not issue a public service license to any person, who has a criminal record. This is impossible of ascertainment, unless the intending operator himself tells about it. There ought to be provided in its stead a careful checking-up of the man and he should be obliged, in advance of qualification, to file information with a competent authority, possibly the state police, with references."

The bulletin also calls attention to the need of additional law for the management of interstate jitneys, a closer distinction between motor vehicles bearing the marked with the "O" prefix i. e., taxicabs and livery cars and a method by which manufacturing organizations, schools and such institutions may transport their employees or members at the least possible cost for greater service. The entire bulletin of the current issue is devoted to a discussion of public service motor vehicles and their operators.

Careful consideration of the scope of federal court decisions which at first view, were construed to permit interstate busses to "run wild," so far as regulation by the different states was concerned, "has led to the conclusion," according to the bulletin, "that a state may, in the exercise of its police power, impose regulations which tend to safeguard its citizens." Therefore, the Connecticut motor vehicle department has insisted upon registration of interstate busses under Connecticut markers bearing the symbol "IN".

The state has also exercised control by enforcement of police regulations to the same extent as it does over purely intrastate vehicles. The control is incomplete, however, as compared with that exercised over the intrastate jitneys. The existing law is construed as not authorizing the state to regulate routes of details as it does in the care of intrastate jitneys.

It is recommended that people or organizations which rent cars on the so-called "drive-yourself" basis be required to protect the public by insurance or similar courage on all vehicles, against personal injury and property damage, and by required inspection and determination of the qualification of the person who is going to drive each car rented.

With respect to public service operators in Connecticut, the bulletin says that the department's statics "show good driving on the part of most present public service operators." They have not participated in many accidents and "they are generally able and of good character."

Connecticut College

The first two of the interclass plays were held in the gymnasium on Friday evening, March 12. The junior class presented "The Florist Shop," one of the Harvard 47 workshop plays. The story is that of a young telephone girl in a florist shop who takes a personal interest in each and every customer ordering flowers. By great ingenuity she brings to a climax the romance of a young woman who has been engaged for the past 15 years to a man who has 'somehow forgotten to get around to it." By the end of the play the forgetful lover has asked his fiancee to order the bridal bouquet. The part of the telephone girl was excellently portrayed by Miss Louise Wall. The patient fiancee was well acted by Miss Margaret Battles; Miss Florence Hopper took the role of the proprietor of the shop; Miss Ruth Ward that of the fiancee; and Miss Francis Jones the part of Henry, the flower shop boy.

Between the plays group singing was enjoyed by the adulence led by Miss Madelyn Smith, the college song leader. The sophomore and junior classes sang mascot songs as well, the mascot hunt beginning on Tuesday morning, March 16.

The sophomores presented Mother Mercy, another of the 47 workshop plays. The scene is one on a small farm on Cape Cod. It is the story of the never-ending sacrifice of a woman who gives up her husband and boys to the sea. All her sons excepting the youngest, Ben, have either gone to sea, or off to the town. She has lost several sons, and her husband and elder son are just returning from one of their long fishing trips. The elder son is to wed Hannah, a young village girl. Ben is now old enough to return with his father and elder brother to sea when they again leave. And, although the mother is loath to let her youngest go, she sacrifices her own desires when she discovers that his own wish is to become a sailor and eventually a captain, as his father and brothers have been. The part of the mother was realistically portrayed by Miss Edna Somers. Miss Emily Gallup added greatly to the play by her acting in the part of the old captain. Miss Dorothy Bailey as the older son and Miss Eleanor Wood as his fiancee interpreted their roles well as did also Miss Henriette Owens in the part of the youngest son.

Miss Marjory Halstead coached the junior production and Miss Lois Day the sophomore play. On March 23, the senior and freshmen plays of the interclass competition are to be given.

WOUND PROVED FATAL TO PAYMASTER CAPT. TSUJI

TIENTSIN, March 14.—(AP)—Paymaster Captain Tsuji has succumbed to wounds received Friday when Chinese national army troops fired upon two Japanese destroyers while the ships were entering the Pei river at Taku.

The Japanese naval officer, wounded in the arm and breast, was taken to Port Arthur after the incident. The Japanese consulate issued a statement to the effect that casualties aboard the destroyers were more numerous than first given out, in addition to the fatality, the statement says, nine were wounded, including the Japanese pilot. While the consulate statement says the pilot was seriously injured, an independent informant who conversed with him after the incident states that his leg was merely grazed by a splinter. The pilot was standing by Captain Tsuji when the latter was wounded.

A partial unraveling of events leading up to the incident reveals that the first destroyer approached the port with manned guns. The Taku forts opened fire on the ship and the commander was momentarily disposed to use his heavy guns in return.

However, he was dissuaded by the pilot who pointed out that as a member of the Pilot's association he probably would be compelled to restore if the warship bombarded the batteries.

UNIVERSITY STAUNCH AID TO INDUSTRY OF NORTHWEST

SEATTLE, March 14, (AP)—Economic development of the northwest, husky young commonwealth constituting one of the corners of the union, has received staunch aid from the University of Washington.

The college of fisheries developed a process of canning crabs that added, the first year, $450,000 to the resources of Washington and Alaska. It now is devising a method to can smelt and is giving studied assistance to the cod fishing industry in the north Pacific, where there are 50,000 square miles of cod banks engaging 36 vessels.

The college of forestry originated a kiln for drying Douglas fir in 65 per cent the time formerly required. A large lumber firm estimated the saving in th last five years at more than $250,000.

The college of mines is devising methods of using sponge iron for the manufacture of foundry iron and steel and a way has been found for converting scrap iron into marketable steel cheaply, quickly and efficiently.

In the department of ceramics, means of making roof and floor tile from Washington clays have been evolved so that now almost half the tile used in the state is produced within its boundaries.

Prof. Hewitt Wilson with a view of utilizing a vast deposit of kaolin in eastern Washington invented a compound to produce cheaper china of a grade supposedly obtainable only in England and Germany.

Definite an explosive made from sawdust and pronounced as effective as dynamite was discovered by Dr. William Dehn at the college. It can be produced at approximately a fourth of the cost of dynamite.

FEEDING CATS IN ENGLAND IS EVIDENCE OF OWNERSHIP

WIGAN, England March 14 (AP)—If a person feeds a cat this act in itself is accepted in English law of assuming the responsibility of ownership.

That was how the law was interpreted to John Henry Draper, when he was sued for the value of two pigeons alleged to have been worried by his cat. Draper denied ownership of the cat but admitted that he had given it milk.

MGR. FLETCHER LOOKS FOR IMPROVED SHOWING BY PHILLIES THIS YEAR

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—With a strengthened infield and a pitching corps he regards as more formidable than that of 1925 despite the loss of Jimmy Ring, Manager Art Fletcher of the Philadelphia Nationals looks forward to an improved showing in this year's pennant race. The Phillies finished seventh last season but Fletcher, in an outline of his prospects for the Associated Press, expresses the belief that they will be fighting for a first division berth in the coming campaign.

"We will be stronger at first and second base this year," Fletcher declared. "Bentley at first is a veteran and a sure fielder as well as a slugger. Friberg will help us a lot at second. He will field far ahead of any second sacker we have had since I have been with the team. I expect him to have a fine season. Then in Leschang the young outfielder who joined the team last summer, I have a comer. He is a fine fielder and a mighty good hitter.

"I have lost Jimmy Ring from the pitching staff but I have five of the most promising young pitchers in the game today and I am confidentially counting on a much stronger staff than last year. In the place of Ring I have Wayland Dean, a fine young pitcher with a world of stuff. I also have Maun, drafted from Indianapolis. Both of these boys have had big league experience under McGraw and should be ready for regular service this year.

"In Willoughby and Pierce I have two youngsters who pitched in sensational fashion for me last fall against National league teams. Both have shown well down here this spring especially Willoughby whom I look to as a regular and a winner this year in spite of his short league training.

"Then there is Ulrich who pitched for the Waterbury champions in the Eastern league. He is a fast ball pitcher and is developing a curve this spring.

"Of the veterans Carlson is in better form than I ever have seen him Hentley will pitch some games for me in the summer. If our young pitchers do what we no whave a right to expect them to do we will fight for a first division berth this year clear to the last."

LITCHFIELD WILL MEET TERRYVILLE IN C-D FINALS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., March 14.—Litchfield and Terryville came through in the semi-finals of the high school tournament here today in flying colors. The Litchfield high school defeated the Guilford high five, 30 to 20, and the Terryville five won from the Leavenworth high school of Waterbury, 14 to 11.

Litchfield, the playing through champions, will stack up against Terryville on March 19 for the final game of the tournament. This arrangement was made so each team would have a rest before the hardest game of the tournament. Litchfield has already played the Terryville team twice, winning at home and losing at Terryville. Both teams have played good basketball and it would be impossible to pick the winner.

Guilford gave the Litchfield "Cowboys" a hard battle in the first half, holding the Litchfield team even at 15 all. But in the second half Captain Crutch of the "Cowboys" got going and put Litchfield ahead, scoring eight field goals and one foul goal for a total of 17 points.

Terryville won from the Leavenworth high school of Waterbury in the second game of the semi-finals, 14 to 11. At the end of the first quarter Leavenworth was out in front, 2 to 0. Neither team could make good their many opportunities to score and at half time Terryville was ahead, 6 to 0. The second half was a repetition of the first period with Terryville out in front at the final whistle, 14 to 11.

DELANEY-M'TIGUE BOUT FEATURES TONIGHT'S SHOW

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Two pugilistic encounters of more than passing interest are scheduled for New York this week. Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., meets the former light heavyweight champion, Mike McTigue, at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and Paul Berlenbach, present titleholder in the division, faces Jimmy Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, Friday.

The bout between Delaney and McTigue will produce the official contender for the title now held by Berlenbach, according to a New York state athletic commission ruling. Delaney appears to be the favorite for a victory on points, as McTigue never has heard ten seconds counted over him. If the former champion shows the offensive ability that gained him his crown and guards as he is expected to against his opponent's dangerous right, he is given an even chance of gaining the verdict.

Berlenbach's appearance Friday is the beginning of his invasion of heavyweight ranks and his championship will not be at stake.

SECOND GAME OF BALTIC AND TAFTVILLE SERIES TUESDAY

The second game of the big series between Baltic and the Taftville Crescents will be staged at Parish hall, Taftville, on Tuesday evening. The Taftville team, after a strenuous workout, is now in top form and feels confident of taking the measure of the Baltic aggregation. Baltic fans say they will back their team to the limit but from previous performances the chance seem to favor the Taftville team for a victory.

Taftville will be represented by Gauthier, E. Murphy, Jim Murphy, Eccleston and Coleman. Little is known regarding the Baltic lineup but it is expected that they will assemble their fastest players for a victory will clinch the series for Baltic.

There will be a fast preliminary game.

"Y" SENIORS SEASON AGAINST DANIELSON TONIGHT

The local "Y" Seniors are scheduled for a hard tussle in the "Y" gym tonight, when they are to play as their final home game of the season, the fast Armory Five of Danielson. The latter captured the Armory championship of Connecticut last season and expect to have the following lineup for tonight's game: Gale, formerly of Wesleyan university, Brundage, a former Conn. Aggie man, J. Eston and W. Eston, former Plainfield high stars, Armington, former P. T. S. star, Lambert and Pairier. Realizing the strength of their opponents the Y'ers have special preparations for tonight's game, and will include as their lineup Al Grebe, Rolland Harris, Niel, Finlayson, Aubrey Brown, Fred Handy, Dave Blinderman and Milton Adnopoz.

MISS WILLS AND PARTNER BEATEN IN NICE DOUBLES

NICE, France, March 14.—(AP)—Miss Helen Wills, the American champion, and Charles S. Kingsley of England, went down to defeat before Mlle. Vlasto and Henri Cochet, the French stars, in the final of the mixed doubles of the Nice tennis tournament today. The score was 4-6, 7-5, 18-11.

Thus the French players duplicated their Mentone victory over Miss Wills and J. H. Van Alen, but only after they had been through a battle and 45 games had been contested.

With one set to the credit of each, Cochet and his partner succeeded in getting a lead of four to one in the third set. Miss Wills then went to the net leaving her partner on the backline, and by superlative efforts and skilfull handling of her racquet, captured the next three games.

The ninth game with Kingsley serving went to deuce 15 times, before Miss Wills succeeded in placing the deciding stroke.

The games see-sawed back and forth many times at deuce, with the exception of one, until the score stood 11-all. Miss Wills then lost her service and Cochet won his service, concluding the set with the score of 18-11 and the match, which had occupied two hours and a half.

The American girl alone appeared not to have tired, though she covered the court equally with Kingsley. Her only comment was: "Yes, it was a long game."

Mlle. Vlasto left the courts almost fainting, and the male members of the quartet showed the effects of exhaustion.

COEB LEADS COLLEGE HOOPSTERS IN SCORING

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Captain Carl Loeb of Princeton has won his battle against Red Laub, Columbia forward, for the individual scoring title in the eastern intercollegiate basketball league by a mere two points. The last minute rush of Laub, during which he totalled 26 points in two games, almost upset the Princetonian who had led throughout the season, but Loeb shot three field baskets against Pennsylvania Saturday, just enough to win.

Columbia clinched the team title on Wednesday by defeating Princeton and finished its season with nine victories and one defeat. Dartmouth with six conquests is assured of second place as Cornell and Yale are the only teams with another game to play. If Cornell wins—and Yale has not won a game for more than two years—there will be a triple tie for third place among Pennsylvania, Princeton and Cornell.

BIKE RIDERS LEAVE FOR EUROPEAN TRACKS

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Foreign riders in the six-day bicicle race at Madison Square Garden which closed last night, today prepared for the journey home to Europe and they will be accompanied by several Americans, including Reggie McNamara and Harry Horan, who will appear as a team in Paris next month.

The race just ended served to strengthen the claims of McNamara to honors as greatest of the active six-day performers, for with the little Italian, Franco Georgetti, he captured the event by two laps after holding off strong opposition throughout the week. This victory follwed close upon his Chicago conquest in which he rode with Bobby Walthour.

METROPOLITAN PROMOTERS EXPECT ACTIVE OUTDOOR BOXING SEASON

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Metropolitan boxing promoters are preparing for the busiest outdoor fistic season since 1923 when Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine "cave man" began his meteoric rise to near championship.

Eight clubs, all with sufficient seating capacity for title encounters, will operate in the Metropolitan arena during the summer and to them will go the pugilistic plums which are too large for indoor consumption and have been preserved for the warm nights.

Madison Square Garden with its $150,000 ventilating system will attempt to operate throughout the summer months in opposition to the three baseball parks and the smaller outlying clubs.

The proposed heavyweight championship match between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney doubtless would draw the largest gate of the season. Tex Rickard is expected to promote it and either the Yankee Stadium or the big pine saucer in Jersey City known as Boyles Thirty Acres will be the scene.

While contracts for the baseball parks have not been signed, Rickard has an option on the use of the Yankee stadium. James Jim Johnston is dickering for the fistic rights at the Polo grounds, Humbert J. Fugazy, the Italian who promoted the Italian hospital fund matches at the Polo grounds last summer already has signed contracts for matches at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

In addition Charlie Henderson will promote matches at the Coney Island stadium, Simon Flaherty will conduct bouts at the Queensboro stadium across the East river in Long Island City while John Chapman, promoter of the six day bicycle races will operate the velodrome at Broadway and 225th streets.

Paul Berlenbach, world's light-heavyweight champion, is already under contract to Rickard to meet the winner of the Jack Delaney-Mike McTigue battle in a title clash which the promoter plans for the Yankee stadium.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will be notified by the state athletic commission to fight the winner of the proposed Joe Dundee-Willie Harmon bout. Fugazy is in the front rank of those after this championship affair.

Tiger Flowers, the Atlanta negro, who holds the world's middleweight title, is under contract to Rickard to defend his crown in a return match with Harry Greb. This is on the books at Madison Square Garden as an indoor attraction but developments may move it to an outdoor setting.

Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg, world's bantamweight titleholder, has been suspended by the state athletic commission for refusing to accept a challenge from Bushey Graham, the Utica, N. Y., contender. The possibility in this situation will be straightened out and the match fought in one of the three baseball parks.

Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, N. Y., the lightweight king, has plenty of challengers on his trail with Sid Terris of New York and Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., in the lead. Dan Rogers, Kansas's manager, has turned down all offers for title fights in the east but Rickard is hopeful of an outdoor match.

Rickard still believes that Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion, will fight again. In the event Leonard does return to the ring, a bout with Mickey Walker may be realized.

Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., the junior lightweight champion, has a logical opponent in Sue Gilca, the hard-hitting South from Brooklyn. Lines already have been laid to clinch this match for a summer attraction.

Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., the feather-weight king, will be called upon to defnd his title this summer but the opposition in this division appears mediocre.

The eight metropolitan clubs and their probable promoters follow:

Madison Square Garden—Tex Rickard.

Yankee stadium—Tex Rickard.

Polo grounds—James J. Johnston.

Ebbets field—Humbert J. Fugazy.

Boyle's Thirty Acres—Tex Rickard.

Coney Island stadium—Charlie Henderson.

Queensboro stadium—Simon Flaherty.

Velodrome A. C.—John Chapman.

Hagenlacher announced today he intends to become an American citizen and had taken out his first citizenship papers more than four years ago. FOUR TIED FOR FIRST IN "BIG TEN" BASKETBALL

CHICAGO, March 14.—(AP)—A four-way tie for the basketball championship of the western conference marked the season which ended last night as unique in the history of the circuit.

Thre times the season ended in a triple tie, and four times honors were divided by the two teams, but Iowa called the turn by a driving finish which placed them alongside Purdue, Indiana and Michigan as champions.

The Hawkeyes closed the season last night in a last minute spurt to defeat Minnesota 17 to 15.

It is the first time in conference annals that Indiana has been rated champion, Iowa and Michigan have been at the top onch each before but, as in this case, involved in ties for the pennant.

Title hopes rose and fell in the past season in bewildering succession. Wisconsin started off brilliantly, but went to pieces in mid-season. Michigan ranked high, dropped suddenly and then came back at the last to get in on the finish. Late in the season the Illinois seemed established at the top but were blasted by a swift series of defeats.

The final standing:

	W.	L.	Pts.	Opps. Pts.
Purdue	8	4	358	310
Indiana	8	4	379	333
Michigan	8	4	354	345
Iowa	8	4	249	257
Illinois	6	6	282	298
Ohio State	6	6	315	305
Minnesota	5	7	275	302
Wisconsin	3	8	298	331
Chicago	3	8	228	364
Northwestern	3	9	324	373

SPRADLING TOPS "BIG TEN" BASKETBALL SCORERS

CHICAGO, March 14.—(AP)—The 107 points which Captain George Spradling collected in Purdue's 12 games stands as the record individual point total for the 1926 big ten basketball season, according to unofficial figures here. Beckner, Indiana Star, ranks a close second with 106 and Behr of Wisconsin is third with an even 100.

A total of 133 points made by Miner of Ohio State, led the individual scoring for the 1925 season.

ART CENTER NOW DRAWS FOREIGN BUYERS TO U. S.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—American art dealers, who in the last several years have brought many European collections to this country for disposition, now are having visits from foreign buyers intent upon taking back some of the treasures.

These visitations, however, are not expected to become numerous, because the fact that New York has become a great art market leads art dealers to believe that Americans are in a financial situation to pay higher prices. Estimates have been made that sales here alone this year will total at least $15,000,000 a big increase over 1925.

One of the notable examples of the activity of foreign dealers was in the sale of the Leverhulme collection here. Reports were current that the British royal family and others were represented in the bidding.

Frank Partridge and the firm of Charles of London each purchased many of the objects, but most of the collection went to Americans. As an indication of the prices brought by important collections, the total receipts on this one was expected to pass the two million dollar mark.

The C. K. G. Billings group of fine paintings, which formerly hung in his home on Washington Heights brought $401,300. That part of the collection of the late Senator Clark not left to the Corcoran Galleries, in Wichington, was disposed at auction here for $450,000.

Officials of the American Art Galleries reported a particular interest in rare books, manuscripts, autographs and old letters. America also has registered a great increase in sales the most important of the year being the Manning, the Turner-Munn and the Samuel T. Shaw collections. The latter was a group of American paintings.

Gray probably had no vision that a first edition of his Elegy one day would sell for $3,300. Two pages of an original manuscript by Robert Louis Stevenson brought $1,110. An original manuscript of one page, written by Robert Burns, sold for $1,000. A log book and journal kept by Prince William Henry during his service in H. M.

Ford

Costs More to Build Is Worth More— Yet Sells for Less

If any other manufacturer endeavored to produce a car similar to the Ford according to the high standards of quality in material and workmanship used by the Ford Motor Company and with the same tried and proved design it would be impossible to offer it at anything like the present low Ford prices.

If, on the other hand, the Ford Motor Company would substitute ordinary design for the basic Ford features, Ford cars could be produced and sold for less than the present Ford prices. Yet by so doing, Ford simplicity, durability and reliability would fall below the standard insisted upon by the Ford Motor Company and established throughout twenty-two years of leadership.

Just think! 13,000,000 model T Ford cars have been produced since 1908—almost as many automobiles as were built by all other manufacturers combined. In 1925, almost 2,000,000 Ford cars and trucks were built and sold—and plans for 1926 call for the production of even more than 2,000,000.

Today, more than ever, the Ford car is the most popular automobile in the world.

It was the superiority of Ford design in 1908 that established Ford leadership. It is this same Ford design, improved but basically unchanged, that is continuing to make the Ford car the outstanding leader among all automobiles.

FAMILY OF BYRD'S NOTED IN VIRGINIA'S HISTORY

RICHMOND, Va., March 14 (AP)—Almost every state may produce its family of Tom, Dick and Harry, but Virginia believes it has an unusual combination in the Byrd brothers, scions of one of the state's illustrious colonial families.

One is governor of the Old Dominion, another an intrepid aviator-explorer of the United States navy and the third a former army officer who won renown in the World war.

Harry Flood Byrd was inaugurated governor last month, delivering his address from the south portico of the capital from which there stretches in S. Prince George in New York, 1751-52, brought $2,051.

Three years ago, the American Galleries sold Hamilton's presentation copy of the Federalist to Baron Von Steubin, believed to be the only such copy in existence, for $240. A few days ago, it again was placed on sale and brought $740. A letter written by Benedict Arnold after he had betrayed his country sold for $3,900.

Those familiar with the art market do not expect prices to decrease. They believe that donations of art collections, rare books, manuscripts, letters and autographs for public use are taking many of the treasures permanently from the market.

Prominent among these are the gifts of J. P. Morgan, Henry Huntington, A. C. Chapin and Archer M. Huntington and the $40,000,000 left the Metropolitan Museum of Art by Frank P. Munsey.

fleeting glimpses the city founded by one of his ancestors.

Governor Byrd—one of the four youngest men to be called to the state's executive chair—also is a successful newspaper owner and editor and the largest individual grower of apples east of the Mississippi river.

His climb to the governor's chair followed activities as chairman of the state democratic executive committee and member of the Virginia senate.

Richard Evelyn Byrd, Jr., was in the bleak north with the MacMillan expedition when his brother won last year's gubernatorial election. Now the lieutenant commander is preparing to end another dangerous flight into the Arctic region before many months have passed.

Born an adventurer in the words of his mother, he early formed a liking for the navy and attended the naval academy. During the World war, he received 17 citations for gallantry and bravery in action.

His record also includes service as commanding officer of the United States air forces in Canada, a connection with the trans-continental flight of the NC flying boats, and a leading part in the organization of naval reserve air stations.

The third brother Thomas Bolling Byrd, served with distinction in the World war and now is a bankers man and manager of his brother's apple orchards.

Richard Evelyn Byrd Sr., father of the boys, was a prominent attorney and served several years as speaker of the house of delegates. He died shortly before his son's election, his last words expressing regret he could not live to witness the inauguartion.

UNCASVILLE MOTORIST'S EXCUSE BEING CONSIDERED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 14—Motorman Phinney, of the Connecticut company, has lodged complaint with the police because of the alleged reckless driving of an automobile by August W. Gley, of Uncasville, Friday night. Phinney declares that the car he was operating came to a stop on Montauk avenue, corner of Sherman street, to permit a passenger to alight. The passenger, a man, alighted and as he did so the machine operated by Gley and headed in a southerly direction, passed the trolley car at a terrific rate of speed and the passenger barely escaped being run down. It has since developed that Gley admits his act, but provided a reasonable excuse for so doing. Gley states that at the time he had a sick child in his machine and was rushing the patient to Home Memoral hospital and the serious condition of the child and the fact that the patient needed immediate medical treatment caused him to violate the law by passing a trolley car which was receiving or discharging passengers.

WESTERLY MAN DRANK— SLEPT OUT ALL NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 14—Robert Hughes, 52, of Westerly, was taken in charge by the police this forenoon when it became evident that Hughes was of unsound mentality, but he was later turned over to a relative. Hughes visited the police station and declared that he was being followed about the streets by men in automobiles and he believed intended to do him injury. Hughes was locked up and the Westerly authorities were requested to notify Hughes' relatives of his predicament. During the afternoon Hughes' sister visited the police station and the man was given into her care. It then was learned that Hughes is a hard drinker and yesterday started to walk from Westerly to New London. He walked to Mystic, arriving there late in the afternoon and slept in the open for the night. This morning he resumed his walk to New London and almost immediately upon arriving here he visited the police station and related the story of being followed.

CLAIMED HE GOT FRESH— BUT CHARGE NOT PROVED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 14—Ellsworth Clark, Jr., was charged in the police court Saturday with having made an assault upon a girl of about 16 in the night season, Thursday last. The girl, Gladys Hornosky, an employe in a tailoring shop, did not identify to the satisfaction of the court, but was declared not guilty. Clark got off light that he will not care to undertake again. He was not only accused by the girl but circumstances attending the alleged attack were strongly against him. Clark is a cashier at the pay out station of the New Haven railroad at Fort Neck. He has been in the employ of the company many years and by the agent here is trusted and has full confidence. Miss Hornosky represented that she was on the way to a grocery store on Williams street, went into the store and bought two pounds of sugar. She said that Clark was in the store when she traded there. When she went out Clark followed her, she said, and coming to the side of the street opposite the store he asked the privilege of carrying the bundle Miss Hornosky carried. She declined his proffer and then he asked the privilege of kissing her. That also was refused. Then the girl charged Clark took hold of her and pushed her so that she went up against a stone wall about three feet high and tumbled over into the pasture lot which grounds what was formerly the J. N. Harris estate, but where a school building is now being erected by the city. She said that Clark scratched her neck in taking hold of and pushing her, and that her sugar was spilled in the lot. It was found there as stated, by two policemen who investigated her case. She then got out of the lot and met a woman on the sidewalk, who advised her to go to the store and report what had occurred. The girl did now and then she reported the matter to the police department, when she was sent to the prosecutor.

Miss Tinsley, proprietress of the store, testified that Clark was in the place as stated by Miss Hornosky and that he went out after her. Two other women followed the appearance of the girl in the store after her reported experience with Clark and told what was said and what the girl claimed.

Clark's defense was that he was in the store, where he had gone to make some purchases. He declared in contradicting the testimony of Mrs. Ganey that he used the telephone, but said it was for the purpose of calling a team to take him to the freight office where he had some beer he had purchased and which he desired to take to his home for the entertainment of his father-in-law and mother-in-law, who were at his home playing cards. He denied that he was the man who followed the girl, though she picked out as her assailant as soon as she came on and in the presence of the police officers. Her words being: "That's the man!" Clark brought the case of beer into court to show that he was telling the truth. The appearance of the taxi at the store was confirmed by Mrs. Ganey, but it was denied that the account occurred at that appearance and the girl related that there was a taxi nearby at the time of the assault. The case turned on the identification of Clark and it was the complaint that the girl offered proof that was undoubted in the presence of Clark where the assault was committed and of the fact that Clark attacked the girl. That evidence was not presented and the decision of the court was that Clark was not guilty.

SUB BASE OFFICER LACKED PROPER MOTOR LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 14—An automobile owned and operated by Edward Skoczylas, 657 Ocean avenue and a machine operated by James H. Dehkyea, chief petty officer stationed at the submarine base, were in collision at the junction of Montauk and Willetts avenues, late Saturday afternoon. Both cars were overturned and Delkyea's little son was slightly injured. Delykea was ordered by Sergeant John Cavanaugh to appear in the police court Monday morning charged with violation of the automobile law in failing to posses an operator's license.

Delkyea was operating his machine westerly on Willetts avenue and as the car started to cross Montauk avenue, Skocylas' automobile headed southerly on Montauk avenue, was in the act of passing the point of intersection. Before either operator could bring his car to a stop, the machines came together with terrific force and landed on their sides in the middle of Montauk avenue. The occupants scrambled from the cars and pedestrians assisted Delykea and Skocsylas to right their machines. In the meantime a telephone message had been sent to the police station reporting the accident. With the arrival of Sergeant Cavanaugh, Delkyea and Skoczylas related different versions of the accident, but as Delkyea did not have a license he was ordered to appear in court.

Rocco Basilica, charged with the theft of copper cable wire, was discharged. Rocco had wire that he admitted did not belong to him, but the man who was supposed to own it, Barnet Gordon, would not appear to accuse Rocco. Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky Saturday afternoon conducted a hearing at his office for the purpose of determining whether sufficient grounds existed to warrant William Elwood, public service operator to be ordered to appear in the police court on a charge of reckless driving. After the examination of several witnesses it was revealed that Elwood has not been guilty of the reckless operation of his machine. The hearing resulted from Mrs. Margaret Cleary, Ocean avenue, lodging complaint with City Manager William A. Holt that Elwood had been guilty of reckless driving and that although she had been seriously injured as a result of Elwood's alleged act, no action against the driver had been taken. Mrs. Cleary was on Ocean avenue, near her home, several months ago when she attempted to cross the highway, and in doing so she was run down by the machine operated by Elwood and suffered a fractured leg. Elwood was operating his car in a southerly direction and claimed that Mrs. Cleary stepped from the sidewalk directly in front of his car and that he did not have the slightest chance to avoid hitting the woman. Mrs. Cleary declared that Elwood was driving in a northerly direction and that in the exercise of ordinary care and caution he could have avoided running her down. Sergeant John Cavanaugh, who investigated the accident at the time it occurred and then declared Elwood was not at fault for the accident, repeated his opinion at yesterday's hearing and several witnesses of the accident declared that Elwood was not a fault.

LANDLADY BEAT UP BY HER STAR BOARDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 14—John Arionchuk, until recently a resident of New London, now living in Niantic, and Mrs. Mary Utach, of East New London, were taken into custody at Niantic this afternoon by Constable Charles R. Tubbs, each charged with breach of the peace. Neither could provide a surety on the respective bonds of $500 and both were committed to the county jail here to await being tried in Niantic Tuesday afternoon.

Arionchuk is reputed to have been the star boarder at the Utach residence for some time, but affairs at the Utach home went along smoothly until a few days ago when Arionchuk decided to vacate the place and transfer his abode to Niantic. This he did but in doing so he started the wrath of Mrs. Utach for about 3 o'clock the woman arrived at the Arionchuk home to interview him. When a child about the house declared that Arionchuk was asleep, Mrs. Utach started to wreck the place and succeeded to a considerable degree, for she smashed windows and furniture and finally wrecked two doors. Arionchuk was aroused from his slumber by the noise of the house-wrecker and going to the lower rooms found the woman still at her task of demolishing things in general. Neighbors had the authorities notified and Constable Tubbs hastened to the Arionchuk home where he found Arionchuk and the womah quarreling. The woman was bleeding from a scalp wound and her hands and wrists were cut. The wounds, according to Arionchuk, were sustained by the woman in the smashing of the windows but the child declared that the cut Mrs. Utach received resulted from a blow struck her by Arionchuk.

Harold Pinney, son of Captain of Police and Mrs. Charles A. Pinney, and located in New York, where he is in the law business, spent the week end with his parents on Howard street.

Harold Smith, formerly stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy here, was taken into custody this afternoon by Sergeant John Cavanaugh, charged with theft of clothing from three of his former guardsmen D. A. Smedley, Philip Penston and Erich Pender. He was unable to procure a surety on his bond for appearance in the police court Monday morning and is in a cell to await the convening of court. Smith was discharged from the coast guard service last December and on the night of Dec. 26th he occupied a room at a lodging house, 32 Golden street, that had been rented by the three sailors. During the early morning hours Smith arose and departed from the place and when the sailors awoke in the morning they discovered not only was Smith missing, but so were two suits of clother and three overcoats. Complaint was lodged with the police against Smith, but he was nowhere to be found. However, he returned to New London in a day or two and this afternoon located by Sergeant Cavanaugh. Smith was taken into custody.

Two automobiles, one a Chrysler phaeton, Connecticut registration 15665, and the other a Chalmers touring car, Connecticut registration N910 were stolen from the streets of New Haven late late night and today the New Haven authorities requested the New London police to be on the lookout for the missing cars.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The way the spectators at the opening performance at the Broadway theatre behaved was something awful. "The Cohens and Kellys," the Universal-Jewel had them howling with joy one moment as its delicious comedy reigned, then when drama and pathos followed the house was perfectly silent, only to be plunged into laughter again when another comedy bit was flashed on the screen.

As the fiery Irish policeman, Charlie Murray has given one of the performances of rare skill for which he is noted. Comedy and not a little real acting fall to him during the picture.

Harry Pollard, the director, was careful that the picture should at no time approach slap-stick and there is no hint of that type of humor. Rather the story is a serious heart drama with a goodly dose of comedy thrown in by the clever acting and the intelligent directing—so much comedy in fact, that the picture is labelled as a comedy-drama.

Vera Gordon first became prominent because of her role in "Humoresque." That was an exceedingly dramatic part. "The Cohens and Kellys" proves that she is also gifted with the ability to time her acting with subtle comedy touches.

An exceptionally appealing father is played by George Sidney, while Kate Price does her best comedy work as the wife of Murray.

Two very appealing newcomers have the romantic leads in the picture. They are Jason Robards, and Olive Hasbrouck.

The story is clever. It is Aaron Hoffman's stage play transported to the screen. An Irish and Jewish family are neighbors in the East side of New York city. They have never had money. Beneath all their quarrels they are the staunchest of friends. Then without warning, the Jewish family inherits a million dollars and moves to Park avenue, street of aristocrats.

That's where the fun begins and it would detract from the pleasure of witnessing the picture to tell the whole plot. The story can't be beat and the cast was well chosen.

Besides those already mentioned Nat Carr, Bobby Gordon and Mickey Bennett have prominent and well-acted roles.

Engagement is limited until Wednesday night.

At this evening's performance the most unusual entertainment ever presented on a local stage will be presented by the management in collaboration with Mr. E. E. Baker teacher and conductor of Norwich.

A young people's violin symphony ensemble, with twenty-five young people of Norwich taking party. Here is an attraction that we feel sure every one will want to see, but we advise early attendance.

Palace Theater

That the success of modern marriage depends entirely upon full knowledge of the laws of sex and that ignorance of these laws results in discord, divorce, the double standard of morals and sometimes suicide and murder, is the lesson taught in the photodrama Tell Me Why? dealing with birth control, which is now showing at the Palace theater. The picture has been endorsed by clergymen, press and public health officials, as well as the public, wherever shown and what was once considered a delicate subject is depicted so as to tell and show all that is necessary to know, to make the author's contentions plain. Life before birth is explained in a grafic way in the film.

Among prominent persons who have indorsed the motion picture, Tell Me Why? are Dr. H. Bundenson, health commissioner of Chicago; Isaac D. Rawling, health director for Illinois; the Illinois Woman's Athletic club.

Tell Me Why? is a tremendous drama of mother love, and should be seen by every father, mother son, and daughter.

Breed Theater

They are not three of a kind.

Sally, Irene and Mary represent widely different types of young women.

Sally, played by Constance Bennett, is the brilliant one, beautiful like an orchid and poisonous as well.

Irene, played by Joan Campbell, is the ravishing beauty of the study type like an American beauty rose.

Mary, who is interpreted by Sally O'Neil, is the roguish one, like a bright blossom of springtime, a hyacinth or perhaps a tulip.

They all appear in Edmund Goulding's production Sally, Irene and Mary, which is now playing at the Breed theater.

William Haines has the male lead, while Henry Kolker, Douglas Gilmore, Ray Howard and Kate Price are also featured.

Clyde Cook in Should Sailors Marry and the Pathe News make up the remainder of the bill for today and Tuesday.

BLACK HILL

Birchwood farms have taken off several thousand baby chicks.

Benjamin Cornell, Amos Cornell and Henry Moore attended the automobile show in Boston.

Eric Falk is on a business trip in New York.

Lucius Exley of Cincinnati, who has been in the hospital recently is reported as much better and plans to visit his parents soon.

The Magic of the Medicine Man

In the pioneer days of this country, the Indian Medicine Man found in the roots and barbs of the woods and fields a remedy for almost every ailment of mankind. So potent did it prove that the relief from suffering seemed almost like magic.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., made her famous Vegetable Compound which many women have relied upon for over fifty years.

KITE FLYING BUREAU IS AID TO WEATHER FORCES

WASHINGTON, Neb., March 14 (AP)—The small boy likely would view as the finest kind of play, the important meteorological work carried on by the staff of the kite station at the Drexel observation bureau here.

For them the kite house in the center of an unobstructed 40-acre field, kites as big as a woodshed are flown on piano wire, sometimes six or seven on a single strand, the highest quite out of sight.

C. S. Ling, veteran government meteorologist in charge, has six assistants who devote all their time to kiting. Scarcely a dozen days a year fail to see the kites aloft, where they remain five or six hours.

The instrument carried up is called a meterorograph. Weighing but two pounds, this aluminum cylinder records wind velocity, direction, altitude, humidity, temperature and the amount of static electricity encountered. The information transcribed from its recordings is for use in future forecasting, for possible military flying information in future years, and for immediate information to army and mail aviators. To the latter, daily information has been furnished for several months, but no regular weather forecasts are issued.

From the circular six-ton kite house, which revolves like an astronomical observatory and has sliding round doors, the kites are but up. A large drum, bearing eight miles of piano wire, is operated by an electric motor. The whole is insulated against static electricity.

Unlike the small boy's kite, with which he must run a few yards to get it up, the weather kites are taken down the field a short distance and given a boost. The drum pulls the kite into the teeth of the wind at a speed of 11 miles an hour and the box kite scoots upward.

However, aloft a few hundred feet the kite begins to sag as it load of piano wire increases. Additional kites are then strung on at thousand-foot intervals, each with its own lead wire of a hundred yards or so. As many as half a dozen kites soon dot the sky, each perhaps in a different wind level and each tugging an opposite direction from the main line. But the load is distributed and the top kite carries on its work of supporting the meterograph.

The kites are rectangular in shape. Their greatest dimension is eight feet. The corner struts are half inch straight-grained spruce. The muslin covering is drawn to drum-head tautness. The only tails they bear are the "weather tales" they bring down.

Frequently a kite a mile aloft breaks away. Directed by a label on the side, the finder usually returns the kite at once. Only five per cent or less kites fail to reappear. However, when the wire breaks at the winch, a swiveling steel tail trails along with the fleeting kites, playing havoc with rural phone lines and fences.

Seldom is the wire hit by lightning, but the static which causes grief to radio fans, frequently reaches 40,000 to 50,000 volts on the wire. It is safely led off through a grounded escape wire.

Thirty-inch hydrogen filled rubber balloons are released several times daily at Drexel. Watched through theodolites their course is plotted, and from this are deducted details of the upper air strata.

Drexel also provides kites for other stations. Dahl Baxter, who has made weather kites most of his life, operates the kite shop. Fifty-two completed kites fill the loft of a large shop.

MORE PRODUCTIVE FARMS PROSPECT IN SOUTHWEST

DENVER, March 14 (AP)—The farming belt of the United States, moving westward again, is expanding to include in the area of great productivity the region embracing western Kansas, parts of Oklahoma, the Panhandle of Texas and eastern New Mexico, says A. Lincoln, irrigation engineer of the department of agriculture with headquarters here.

Mr. Fellows has just completed a survey and reached the conclusion that the transformation of this area into profitable agricultural land will be accomplished largely through the supplementing of dry farming with irrigation. Irrigation will make great strides here, he predicts, with the largest number of irrigation projects located in the Texas Panhandle.

Older methods of dry farming must give way to more advanced and intensified methods under pressure of economic conditions, in his judgment.

"Where the farmer who first settled the dry farming belt was contented with a bare living and very few of the comforts of life, the present day farmer must have his modern conveniences, automobile and radio included; and must make better profits to pay for these things," he said

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

REVIEW OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Trade activities last week drifted in the healing stage preceding the definite opening of spring business. The evident policy of bear speculators in pushing the decline in stock prices to the extreme and unwarranted limits which characterized the earlier advance eliminated the stock market: for the time being, as a reliable forecast of the situation, and actual business developments of the week were only slightly illuminating.

The prevailing uncertainty as to trade conditions, however, was accepted as a natural sequel to the recent blow given to speculative confidence and its inevitable restraining influence on business operations. Even with order restored, in the securities markets, commercial interests are expected to move with considerable caution in extending their commitments.

To a similar degree, the future trend of stock prices, barring the play of purely speculative forces, is likely to await more clearly defined signs of trade progress or reaction. So far only the automobile industry has advanced the only real claim of a spring revival or having On the crests of optimism created in the first ten days of March, one of the largest manufacturers of motor cars and trucks estimate to equal or exceed the month's sugar and Packing company item took part in the recovery, public utility issues forged ahead under the leadership of Consumers Power 5s American Telephone 5 1-2s, and International Telephone 5 1-2s.

New financing diminished to volume with bond offerings aggregating $77,000,000 compared with more than $100,000,000 in the preceding week.

Annual recommendations regarding the terms of the four per cent bonds to be issued for Belgium, will be framed within a short time and an offering of the foreign portion of the bond issue which will run between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 is expected quickly to follow in the South American field a joint London and New York loan for the state of Sao Paulo is in prospect.

Steel record established in October Additional price reductions and the lowering of the automobile tax have been important factors in stimulative business.

Conditions in the steel industry were less favorable. Confirming the recent indications of slower business the United States Steel Corporation reported that unfilled orders at the end of February were 256,000 tons below those of the preceding month. New business coming to the mills in the trade reviews estimated, was not sufficient to replace current shipments in view of the present high rate of output

While railroad car loadings for the first two months of the year comparing favorably with the corresponding period of 1925 it is evident that the general distribution of commodities has been maintained at a high rate the turnover of merchandise in retail channels however has been retarded by the continuation of cold weather in many sections of the country.

ARGUES STORRS COLLEGE ASSET TO MANSFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 14—Is Connecticut Agricultural college a liability or an asset to the town of Mansfield?

Residents of the town have argued the question pro and con over a long period and the main point of contention lies in the fact that the college, as a state institution is exempted from paying the town taxes, many claim that Mansfield's income has diminished, because a large drag of land formerly taxable is now owned by the college and the town is unable to collect taxes on it. The claim is also advanced that Mansfield's expenses have increased because of the necessity of furnishing school facilities for children residing in tax exempt houses.

Here are briefly the main questions Mansfield people consider as they vote at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, and the relation to the town at large.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS IN NEW ENGLAND DISTRICT

United States Employment Service Reports a Gain in Number of Workers Employed in Connecticut—Conditions in Rhode Island are Reported "Excellent"—Throughout New England There is a Seasonal Surplus of Farm Labor.

BOSTON, March 15—(AP)—An increase in activity in the shoe trade and increased employment in the textile industry in Massachusetts during February was reported today by the New England district of the United States employment service. In Maine there was a slight improvement in industrial employment conditions. Some decreases and part time operations in textiles, shoemaking and railroad repair were reported from New Hampshire.

A gain in the number of workers employed was noted in Vermont and Connecticut. Rhode Island reported improved conditions. Throughout New England a seasonable surplus in farm labor was reported. The report by districts follows:

Boston—Reports from all sections of the state indicate increased employment in these centers where there was previously seasonal slackness. Created a surplus of workers, the released hands were absorbed in ice cutting and snow removal. Many of the larger cities reported a shortage of skilled men in the metal trades. Overtime continues in the hat, clock, silk, machine and shoe industries. Several new building projects were started during the month providing work for all kinds of craftsmen in the various communities. While most of the cities report a surplus of farm help, in some sections the echoes of labor is employed at the tobacco warehouses.

Maine—There was a slight improvement in industrial employment conditions during February. While part time schedules continue in effect in the shoe, cotton, machinery and a few other industries, the working quotas in many cases are increased during the month, and in some centers the shoe industry resumed full time operations. A general seasonal slackening in building activities is reported. Very little demand for farm labor at this time of the year.

Massachusetts—Increased activity in the shoe and allied industries in preparation for the Easter trade, was the feature of the month in Massachusetts. Reports from all shoe centers indicate that factories in this industry are operating full time and with full working quotas. Snow removal during two weeks in February provided temporary work for hundreds of laborers who were out of employment. A surplus of clerical workers exists in the larger cities. Continued activity in the metal working trades with a shortage of skilled mechanics, is reported from many points. Textile mills and textile machinery plants showed increased employment during the month, with some of the mills resuming full time operations and others increasing working quotas. While weather conditions retarded building activities in some places, other cities reported renewed activity. Part time operations obtain in the comb, railroad repair shops, and textile industries in some localities. Reports from all districts show a surplus of farm help, with very little demand for this class of labor.

Rhode Island—Industrial employment conditions throughout the entire state are excellent. While the rubber industry is on a five day week basis in some parts of the state, the released workers are quickly absorbed in more active industries. Resident labor generally well employed; overtime schedules continued in the silk and worsted mills in certain sections. OLD WOOLEN MILL AT ROCKVILLE IS CLOSED

ROCKVILLE, March 15.—(AP)—The plant of the Rock Manufacturing company, one of the oldest woolen mills in the country, was closed here today and Frederick Swindells, its president, said that it would not be re-opened. He refused to give a reason for his action. It is understood that the mill will be sold.

The Rock Manufacturing company was organized in 1821 and incorporated eight years later. It is owned entirely by the Swindells family and Mr. Swindells' son, Frederick W. Swindells, who is now in Jamaica, is superintendent. The plant employed between 200 and 400 workers and many who have been working there for a quarter of a century are now looking for other positions.

Mr. Swindells, who is 74 years old, came here in 1891 and gained control of the plant a few years later. The mill is assessed for $291,000.

VOTES FOR SEATING OF SENATOR STECK

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP)—The senate sub-committee investigating the Brookhart-Beck Iowa senatorial contest today reported formally to the full committee that Daniel S. Steck, democrat, had received a plurality of votes over Senator Brookhart, republican, and should be seated.

The sub-committee was unanimous in its conclusions that Steck had received a plurality, but Senator George, democrat, Georgia, differed with the other members on some details.

The report held that Steck had a plurality of 1,429 votes under the committee rule that the "interest of the voters" should be the deciding factor in election contests, and that, regardless of the intent of the voters, Steck still would have a plurality of 76 ballots.

Most Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, who drafted the report, and presented it, Chairman Ernst announced that the entire committee would meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow, to report or accept the sub committee's recommendations and prepare a report to the senate.

BLOCK ISLAND HAS RUN OUT OF MEDICINAL WHISKEY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 15.—(AP)—Block Island with a population of 1,200, has run out of medicinal whiskey and is unable to get any more. There is plenty of the bootleg kind available, the island being noted as one of the wettest spots in the country, but there is none of the legal liquor for the sick.

Failure on the part of the operators of the steamer May Archer to renew the Treasury bond permitting the vessel to transfer alcohol thus cut off Block Island from receiving medicinal alcohol issued only by government representatives, according to F. Earl Dodge, the Island's only druggist.

"As a result," he said, "prescriptions cannot be filled and patients now under physicians' care have either to suffer or die for want of medicine." Just now he added, there is more sickness than usual.

Operators of the May Archer refused to renew the vessel's bond according to Dodge, because it costs them $100 to do so and they receive only a fraction of this amount for carrying the island's annual supply.

INCOME TAX RETURNS SWAMP HARTFORD OFFICE

HARTFORD, March 15—(AP)—While from twenty five to fifty persons were being accommodated at the long counter of the United States internal revenue office continually between the hours of 9 a. m. and 10 p. m., the last day for income tax returns, three deputies of mail had accumulated a pile of more than 10,000 income tax returns in the mailing room of the office. Twenty two members of the office force, working throughout the day on the incoming mail, had succeeded in checking and blocking a large percentage of the returns at closing time today.

Major Fred L. Appleton, chief deputy collector estimated that probably 75 per cent of the returns had been received tonight and expressed the belief that tomorrow's mail, which is expected to be even larger than today's, will greatly increase that figure. The total number of returns due is about 100,000.

HARTFORD, March 15—(AP)—Olive Phoebe St John of Wilson who married Irvin C. Arndt, self-styled Arizona ranch owner, after she had answered his letter to Mayor Stevens advertising for a wife, has brought a suit in the superior court to have the marriage annulled on the ground that Arndt is a bigamist.

Her brief complaint sets out that before Arndt married her at Portchester, N. Y., on November 7, 1925, he had married Margaret Nuchten Arndt, of Springfield, Mass., on March 31, 1925 at Deland Fla. Miss St John alleges that the Nuchten woman is still living and not divorced from Arndt. Her suit is brought through Roger Walcott Davis. She asks the court for an allowance of alimony in case the annulment is granted.

They also said that last month he registered at the Biltmore hotel with Josephine Maertins, of Newark, N. J., a chorus girl.

COM. KLEIN COMING TO NEW LONDON SUB STATION

LAKEHURST, N. J., March 15—(AP)—Commander Jacob H. Klein, Jr., executive officer of the naval air station here, has been relieved of this command, which he held for three years, it was learned today. He was ordered to report to the New London, Conn., submarine division.

Officers at the air station said his transfer was purely a matter of routine.

Commander Klein was one of the four American officers who made the trans-Atlantic flight in the dirigible ZR-3, now the Los Angeles, and took many test flights in the ill-fated Shenandoah. He was in command of the station last September when the Shenandoah was wrecked in a storm in Ohio resulting in the death of Commander Zachary Lansdowne and 13 of her crew. NEW YORK FIREMEN TELL OF HEROISM OF ANIMALS

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Tales of animal heroism were brought from a smouldering building in Cortlandt street today by firemen who fought flames that caused the deaths of 2,000 canaries, 150 parrots, 40 monkeys and several cats and dogs.

Several constrictors lashed about, terror stricken, in their cages, monkeys chattered and parrots shrieked, creating a bedlam of noises such as a jungle explorer might hear in a nightmare. The jungle law of the survival of the fittest prevailed, and the weaker of the imprisoned creatures perished. So freightened were the boaconstrictors and two wildcats that they were rescued without attempting to attack the firemen.

The outstanding hero of the fire, as reported by firemen, was a baboon, which took his inseparable companion, a kitten, in his arms, broke open the door of his cage and escaped to safety with his charge. In another cage firemen said they found a monkey crouched in her cage, choked by the smoke and her hair singed by the flames. When they removed her they found she was lying on four of her young, protecting them with her own body. The mother later was revived.

A loss of more than $25,000 was caused by the fire. Most of this was caused by the deaths of the animals and birds. The animal store, known as Bartel's Pet store, is patronized by circus men. Three ant eaters, a South American vulture and many chicks and rabbits, intended for the Easter season, were among the casualties.

Representatives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, rendered first aid to the animals which it was though would recover. Those more seriously injured were killed.

RATES OF THEFT AND LARCENY INSURANCE

BRIDGEPORT, March 15—(AP)—The towns of New Canaan, Norwalk, Greenwich, Stamford and Darien, today were given a 45 per cent reduction in residence burglary, theft, and larceny, insurance rates by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, comprising 48 insurance companies.

This reduction followed a careful investigation into the decrease of burglaries and thefts in these towns, which has been attributed to the increased vigilance of the police of these districts and the severe fines and sentences imposed upon those arrested, John L. Hines, manager of the local branch of the Travelers' Insurance company, said.

Bridgeport, along with the rest of the state except the section near New York city, has for several years had a rate of $2.10 on $1,000, one of the lowest rates in the country, while New Canaan, Stamford, Greenwich, Norwalk and Darien have had a rate of $2.75 on $1,000, a higher rate, each year. This was because of the proximity to the metropolitan area. Starting this morning the rate was reduced to that of the rest of the state.

GLOVE CLUE TO SLAYER OF HAROLD HILLMAN

CRANSTON, R. It developed today that Hillman either had good reason to believe he would be held up and robbed of the day's store receipts Saturday night, or was apprehensive that he might be held up. Edward Carpenter, his 18 year old assistant, told the police today that Hillman was nervous on Saturday and once remarked "I suppose they'll get me one of these days." To the store's milkman, however, he said, "I'm afraid something is going to happen to me tonight."

TNNOUNCE PLAN TO HELP THE AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE CO.

HARTFORD, March 15.—(AP) — A plan to spread over a period of a year the undertaking of raising ten million dollars, much of which is to be used to help the Automobile Insurance company out of its difficulties, was adopted by the directors of the Aetna Life Insurance company today.

It was outlined to the stockholders, whose approval will be necessary, in a letter sent out by President Morgan B. Brainard after the meeting. The increased capital would be received, under the plan, in four installments of $2,500,000 each, the first payable June 1 and the last April 1, 1927.

"There has been disclosed through a review of the business of the Automobile Insurance company the existence of classes of business on its books of an unprofitable character, with the occurrence of heavy underwriting losses for which the reserves set up are inadequate," said President Brainard's letter.

The stockholders' meeting to act on the recommendations of the directors will be held at the Aetna Life building, Tuesday, March 30, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

NEWPORT MAN ARRAIGNED ON LIQUOR BRIBERY CHARGE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 15.—(AP)—On five indictments, all charging conspiracy, Johnny Campbell of Newport, was arraigned in the United States district court this afternoon and held in heavy bail for trial along with 13 others against whom the federal grand jury recently took action following an investigation into alleged collusion between the coast guard and rum runners to land liquor on nearby shores.

Campbell pleaded not guilty and was held in bail totalling $14,000, $10,000 being demanded in one case and $1,000 each on the additional four indictments.

After he had been arraigned two of the indictments against him were made public. One charged that he attempted to bribe Thomas A. McGirr, a former coast guardsman by offering McGirr $2 for each case of liquor McGirr would assist Campbell in getting ashore from rum row. The second indictment names as co-defendants Joseph E. Jolly, former member of the general assembly from the town of North Smithfield and former prohibition agent; and Harry Shattin, Providence, both of whom have been arrested and held in heavy bail for trial.

Gerald Chapman Is Doomed For Gallows

Supreme Court Has Denied the Petition Presented by Counsel For the Gunman.

WASHINGTON, March 15—(AP)—The supreme court today refused to step in between Gerald Chapman and the gallows.

With a two-word verdict the highest tribunal swept aside all hope of relief in that quarter for the notorious offender against state and national laws, who after three reprieves is under sentence in Connecticut to die for murder three weeks from tomorrow.

Th court merely wrote "petition denied" at the end of the long recital of technical objections on which Chapman's counsel had sought to bring the whole question of his status up for review.

In effect, the action gave approval to the course followed by federal and Connecticut state authorities in bringing Chapman before the state courts for trial for the murder of a New Britain policeman. So that the verdict of the trial court might be carried into effect Chapman was given a presidential commutation of the federal sentence he was serving in Atlanta federal prison for mail robbery.

This, Chapman contended, was illegal. He insisted that President Coolidge exceeded his constitutional authority when he signed the commutation over the condemned man's protest.

In a reply which the supreme court accepted as sufficient, Connecticut asserted that federal prisoners could legally be taken for trial by a state while serving a term imposed by a federal court, and that as soon as Chapman crossed the state's borders, it had authority to try him.

When Chapman's attorneys were in Washington in connection with the filing of their petition they indicated some further expedient would be adopted should the supreme court close the door against them. They did not disclose, however, in what quarter they would make their next appeal.

CHAPMAN INFORMED OF SUPREME COURT DECISION

HARTFORD, March 15—(AP)—Gerald Chapman, thrice reprieved murderer and mail robber, was told late today in his cell at the state prison at Wethersfield that the United States supreme court had refused to review his case as petitioned for in an appeal from the decision of the circuit court of appeals for the second district.

Heretofore when a court decision has been handed down the prison authorities have let the man read of the findings in the newspapers. Today, Warden Henry K. Scott told Chapman that he had lost at Washington. It was expected that later his counsel will call at the prison.

Chapman received word of the adverse decision today without emotion. He has been a quiet prisoner, saving little but reading a great deal. The routine which is part of his daily life will undergo no change now that the shadow of the gallows falls upon him more deeply than before. It was thought that his counsel will call upon him tomorrow, associate counsel waiting to hear from Frederick J. Goebl, of New York, senior counsel, as to a future course.

COL. COOLIDGE SAID TO BE RESTING COMFORTABLY

PLYMOUTH, Vt. March 15.—(AP)—The condition of Colonel John C. Coolidge remained unchanged tonight, a bulletin issued shortly after 8 o'clock said. The president's father, who rallied today after several days of failing strength, was said to be resting comfortably.

It was said that Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, the family physician planned to telephone Major Coupal tomorrow to come to Plymouth.

An early morning report from the Coolidge farm house said that the colonel had rested comfortably during the night and was brighter than usual. Shortly after noon Dr. Cram issued his daily bulletin, the first cheering announcement for several days.

"Colonel Coolidge has passed a very comfortable night and seems much more cheerful this morning, the bulletin said. "He was able to greet his pastor, Rev. John White of Sherburne with a handshake and smile. His heart rate is near normal and his temperature and respiration normal. He has taken a little more nourishment and there seems to be no cause for immediate apprehension."

BRAZIL THE ONLY NATION NOW OPPOSING GERMANY

Sweden and Czechoslovakia Have Agreed to Sacrifice Their Seats in Council of League of Nations so That Poland Might Be Elected to One of the Vacancies—A Telegram Has Been Sent to Rio Janeiro Appealing to the Brazilian Government to Authorize the Brazilian Delegate to Vote For Germany.

GENEVA, March 15—(AP)—Brazil, no longer Poland, held the key to the league of nations crisis tonight.

With amazing swiftness the focus of interest of the big political drama being enacted at Geneva has shifted from Warsaw to Rio Janeiro, and apparently the only obstacle impending solution of the council controversy is Brazil's insistence that she will vote against Germany for election to the league, and, what is vastly more important, against Germany for a permanent seat in the council.

An urgent cablegram has been sent to the Brazilian capital embodying an earnest appeal from the league council that the Rio Janeiro government modify the instructions heretofore binding on Senor Mello Franco, and authorize him to vote for Germany. This appeal was transmitted through Mello Franco, and hardly had it started on its long journey to South America when there began a specially convoked meeting of representatives of Latin-American states to discuss the situation created by the Brazilian attitude, which was that Brazil would veto the election of Germany to the council unless she herself got a permanent place.

The delegates of eleven Latin-American countries attended the meeting, which adopted a resolution that Germany's election to the league was particularly a European question and that American states had no right to prevent it. The sense of the meeting also was that although the Latin-Americans did not wish to pass on Brazil's candidacy for a permanent seat, they were unanimous in holding that the exercise of the right of veto against Germany did not have the approval of the other Latin-American countries.

Both Sweden and Czechoslovakia have agreed to sacrifice their non-permanent seats in the council in order to permit the immediate election of Poland to one of the vacancies thus created. Such was the big development today in the Polish aspect of the crisis, and it opens the way for the settlement of the problem which for the past four days has endangered the Locarno accords and even the whole league.

Both Germany and France in a spirit of compromise have accepted this plan. Poland's friends feel convinced they can elect her, and that when Germany takes her seat in the council she shall find Poland there.

This solution of sacrifice was not achieved without a struggle. The German statesmen, steadfastly opposed the first proposal that Sweden alone should resign—for M. Unden, the Swedish foreign minister, decided that he should go in order to prevent the great tragedy of rupture. The Germans declared that this would not please German home opinion that they had abandoned their friend in favor of a potential enemy.

To avoid the sting of such a solution they suggested that two countries should give up their seats, thus permitting a more general election. Then Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakia's popular foreign minister, came forward and lined himself up with M. Unden saying simply that Czechoslovakia wanted to save the league and remove from peril Locarno's happy accords of European reconciliation.

A scene impressive and solemn marked this double offer of sacrifice. To most of the harassed and discouraged members of the council, and especially to Premier Briand and Sir Austen Chamberlain, it was a light in the darkness. They accepted the two-fold renunciation, but with expressions of profound regret that it should be found necessary.

There is an impression that the Japanese are discontented with today's solution, because they believe that when men with the fortitude of Samurai gave renunciation it should be to attain some higher goal and the Japanese seem not to be convinced that today's sacrifice was for the furtherance of the larger and lasting aims of the league but rather for the smaller purpose of settling a quarrel between a few members of the league.

Will Brazil adhere to her determination to veto Germany? Will Spain, angered at the failure of her campaign to win a permanent seat, resign from the league? These two questions were being anxiously asked tonight.

The secret session of the council which ended at 8.30 o'clock this evening again struggled with the problem in its entirety and the members separated none too optimistic in appearance.

M. Briand said: "It is too early to say we have arrived at a definite result."

Dr. Benes remarked: "The seas are still buffeting us."

Holland is being strongly urged for one of the two projected vacancies in the non-permanent seats of the council.

China also will undoubtedly be a candidate with Poland for a non-permanent seat.

HOUSE PASSED RAIDO CONTROL LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) — The first big piece of radio control legislation to receive approval of either branch of congress was passed today by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 218 to 124.

It was embodied in the White bill, designed to create a federal radio commission of five members to cooperate with Secretary Hoover in keeping order in the air, where broadcasting and other forms of wireless in the past have operated in some instances with great confusion.

The bill provides for issuance of station and operators' licenses by the secretary of commerce. Opposition to it centered about the contentions of some members that no machinery was provided that would insure against radio monopoly and that it gave the secretary too much power.

Only one major amendment was added to the committee draft of the bill. This change, proposed by Representative Davis, democrat, Tennessee, struck out a provision to give the commerce department the power to remit fines imposed for infraction of radio regulations.

The five members of the radio commission would be appointed from five zones to be established. Operators who were refused licenses would have the right to appeal to the District of Columbia court of appeals. It was stipulated that the president should have power to close any station during war "or other emergency."

LADY ASTOR HONORS U. S. RHODES SCHOLARS

LONDON, March 15—(AP)—Lady Astor threw open her town house in St. James square tonight for a brilliant dinner and dance in honor of nearly 100 American Rhodes scholars and two score American girls who are also attending the University of Oxford. To meet these young Americans, Lady Astor drew 500 representative guests from all ranks of London's official, social and diplomatic life.

The party brought to a close a week-end's respite from serious thinking by the American students, who have been house party guests for several days at English homes in London and the nearby country.

For the girls, especially, it has been a state of freedom, for in the cloistered seclusion of the Oxford colleges there is nothing of the co-educational relationship between the men and women students such as is an ordinary part of American university life.

RUMORS OF TROUBLES OF FLORIDA PROMOTERS

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP)—Widespread rumors that one of the largest of the Florida promotion companies was in financial straits which have been in circulation for several days, created sufficient uneasiness in Wall street today to bring about heavy liquidation of some of the southern railroad shares. Atlantic Coast Line broke 13 1-4 points to 208 and then rallied to 215. Seaboard Air Line common dropped 5 1-4 to 33 3-4 and snapped back to 36 and the preferred closed 2 1-4 lower at 37 3-4, the minimum quotations in all cases representing new low records for the year.

Wall street heard all sorts of stories regarding Florida conditions, including reports that real estate mortgages were being offered at a substantial discount below their face value and that the winter season in some of the prominent resorts had been cut short by the early exodus of northern vacationists. Some of the large real estate developments also are reported to be having difficulty in meeting their commitments, but these lacked official confirmation.

While bankers generally declined to comment publicly on the situation, it is known that they have been urging extreme caution for the last few months and that in some cases they have recommended the restriction of development programs, not only in

CHURCH AND THEATER IN EFFORT FOR CLEAN TASTE

DETROIT, March 15 (AP)—If the church is at odds with with the theater it has principally itself to to blame, believes Jessie Bonstelle, theater owner, actress and noted American woman producer.

"The drama," she pointed out, "was born in the church. It was employed originally to make more impressive the lessons of the Scriptures. The church became careless of its offspring, and the drama strayed afield. The mother neglected her child! If the child became naughty, it is the fault of the parent."

Miss Bonstelle is an ardent cooperationist between theater and church. The Bonstelle Playhouse here, a unique enterprise that is the fruition of the life dream of its founder, has been used unsparingly as an agency toward developing a better feeling and a clearer understanding between these institutions.

Lenten services are held each year in the Playhouse. All denominations are represented among the prominent speakers who appear on successive Sundays during the Lenten period. There are, too, leading professional men, industrialists and business men, each of whom discusses the Christ topic from the viewpoint of his own special field.

Miss Bonstelle in arranging these services, seeks for her laymen speakers those who have attained success by rising from poverty, believing that the religious lessons by these men will be far more impressive than would the words of men who have never known want or suffering.

"It is not unusual for ministers to state that the Playhouse is doing much to create clean, wholesome appetites among those who attend its offerings," Miss Bonstelle said. "If this is true, it is because ostensibly there is no purpose to moralize; the play is produced for the play's sake. If it has a wholesome influence upon the spectator, it is because whatever lesson it may convey is insinuated rather than preached to him."

"I am no moralist," Miss Bonstelle continued, "and I know the theater-going public will not stand for preachment plays, or plays that pretend to tell the public how to regulate their lives. The American is not built that way.

"The theater teaches by suggesting: by picturing certain conditions, certain mental processes. When I am preparing a play for presentation I always stress its dominant message to the actors. I urge them to bear it constantly in mind but to avoid being preachy. In this way the message gets over the footlights effectively, the audience receiving it unconsciously."

GEARGIA SEAL REQUIRES 20 MINUTES FOR ITS OPERATION

ATLANTA, Ga., March 15 (AP)—Twenty minutes are required for an expert to attach the Great Seal of Georgia to a document. Only a couple of seconds are necessary for the process in other states.

The difference is between the Seal of 1799, which the state still uses, and the Seal of modern invention.

Sealing wax is rolled into thin wafers when Georgia's seal is made ready for operation. Glit paper, cut circular in form, the exact size of the die with serrated edges, next is laid upon each side of the wax paper. At the same time, ribbons are inserted between the wafer and the paper discs. The wafer then is placed between the plates of the die and stamped tightly, leaving the devices imprinted on either side of the soft wax and revealed like an engraving on the gilded paper. This is attached by narrow ribbons to the document of state, forming what is known as a wax pendant.

Although legislation was passed in 1868 to have the seal re-engraved, it was never done and now the law is dead on the statute books.

The exact origin of the seal is not known, although state records indicate a belief that it was designed by Charles Fraser, a 15-year-old South Carolinian, in a competition arranged by Governor James Jackson, the prize being $30.

No matter how little we love our neighbors we can see no reason why they shouldn't have a kindly feeling for us.

As far West as the Mississippi

"We have obtained business by telephone as far West as the Mississippi River," states Mr. W. B. Marvin, Treasurer of the Birmingham Iron Foundry, in Derby. "We frequently call up Boston or New York and obtain orders amounting to $20,000 or thereabouts. Recently we telephoned to a customer in Chicago, at a nominal cost, and received an order for $10,500 without further effort on our part."

Unusual instances? Scarcely! Mr. Marvin expresses his attitude toward toll telephone service when he says that they depend upon it "to get into personal touch with our customers when it is impossible or unnecessary to make a trip to see them."

In fact, it is becoming more and more usual for firms all over the country to use toll telephone service to get business. Here in Connecticut a great many of them, in a variety of lines, are doing it—and their number increases right along. Their sales managers and other executives have learned that toll telephone calls can oftentimes eliminate expensive selling trips, and that many calls can be made for the cost of even a short journey. They cover more territory and make more sales at markedly decreased selling cost. And this, they know, means greater profits.

One of the functions of our Commercial Service Department is the creation of Telephone Sales Plans to meet individual requirements. Its services are available, without charge, upon request.

INGROWN NAIL
Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Relieved of pain in time to go to party

BACKACHE GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Tried simple home treatment and pain stops

An aching back is often the result of tired, over-strained muscles, and can be given quick and complete relief with a very simple home treatment.

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do," writes a New York woman. "I looked through my medicine cabinet to see if I could find something to help me—and there was a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. I used it, and in half an hour I was better. The next day I went to a big engagement party. Now, when anyone has a pain, I say 'use Sloan's.'"

The marvelous effectiveness of Sloan's is due to the stimulating effect that it has upon the circulation. Straight to the sick, aching tissues, it sends a healing tide of fresh new blood—clears out the trouble—kills the pain.

So pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub. Just pat it on gently and you will get immediate results. All druggists—35 cents.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson, of Georgia, was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother-in-law told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash," she writes. "I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I was not the same woman at all. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does me more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."—Mrs. Belle Thompson, R. 2, Rossville, Georgia.

FUNERAL AT DAYVILLE OF FORMER BALTIC RESIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 15—Monday morning the funeral of Albert E. Reeves was held from his home in Attawaugan with funeral services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Many relatives and friends attended the service. The body was entombed in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were William Kinder, A. L. Reeves, A. Melin, Patrick Corrigan, Andrew Corrigan and James Corrigan. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Mr. Reeves, 51, a native of Baltic, died suddenly late last Friday afternoon in a woodlot where he was engaged with a force of men employed by Mr. Kinder, the owner, in clearing up sections of the property. The property is a tract of about forty acres located just over the northerly border of Killingly in the town of Putnam.

Mr. Reeves leaves his wife, a son Albert and a daughter, Miss Blanche Reeves.

However much other sections of the country may point an accusing finger at the east, and find all manner of fault with it for its worldliness, it may be made a matter of record that its radio broadcasting stations do not devote their Sunday programs to blaring blasts of jazz, frankly announced as dance programs, as do numbers of stations in the west, particularly Chicago. New York has one offending station, but dancing and dance hall songs seem to be the rule at ndmbers of stations broadcasting Sunday entertainment from western stations.

Steady progress is being made by the concern that has the contract for the elaborate decoration of the interior of St. Joseph's church at Dayville, and the pastor, Rev. Ignatius Kost, is anticipating that the work will be completed for Easter Sunday. Staging about fills the interior of the church at the present time, the artists working high upon the ceiling paintings. The cost of the work will be several thousand dollars. Father Kost also has contracted for the decoration of the interior of the chapel of the Five Wounds, a mission of St. Joseph's parish at Ballouville. This work, costing about $1500, will be undertaken in the near future.

Considering what New England purposes to do this year in a publicity campaign intended to do for New England what has been done for Florida, Danielson might have the Foster gold mine re-discovered and put into the papers. Of course, Foster isn't Danielson, but it's near enough to us. With a new gold strike at Red Lake, another in Utah and still another in Alaska, this appears to be a good year to go into gold strike publicity. If Florida can get $20 a square inch for undersea houselots and developments reclaimed from swamps and mires, this territory ought not to be so bad with a forsaken gold mine as bait. It likely will be contended that southern New England has ample attractions to broadcast about without resorting to drum beating and stagey stuff, and that is true. But this nation has hundreds of thousands of people who want something spectacular and are willing to pay for it. They might pay plenty to even look at the Foster gold mine, which drew a great amount of publicity a score of years ago.

Feast days this week on which they are to be special services at St. James' church are St. Patrick's day on Wednesday and the feast of St. Joseph, on Friday.

Since Warden Walter Anderson made known the past week that he does not desire renomination or re-election as warden, a number of citizens have been mentioned for the place, but there is no outstanding candidate as yet.

Mention of transportation developments in this section of eastern Connecticut has recalled that the old Norwich and Worcester road, now a part of the New Haven system, was built through Danielson 1838—87 years ago. Few now living here recall the event.

The Cloud Digger can be forgiven for his bad guess pertaining to certain periods of the winter now drawing a close, but it looks now as though a line with which he brought his last September semi-annual forecast to a close is going to be realized. He said: "Spring will be late again, but when it gets here will be ready for all hands who till the soil to go ahead and do business."

It is estimated that the income tax revenue in the town of Killingly this year will be $7,000. On this basis 3500 residents of this town are liable to pay this particular kind of tax.

"Danielson—The Hub of Eastern Connecticut" is a motto the Chamber of Commerce is using on some publicity matter that is to have widespread circulation during the year. The slogan is based on the motor bus routes through this territory on very important trunk lines.

Constipation

Undermines Children's Health

Your doctor will tell you that constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through their little bodies and lower their resistance to disease. A little Nujol every night will keep them regular as clockwork.

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake, they use Nujol—the remedy that medical authorities prescribe because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Reminiscent stories of the big blizzard of '88, include the following: The manufacturing company in Glasgo at that time had a hurry order for the Canfield Rubber company of Bridgeport. It had snowed for three days, roads were obliterated, and the six miles between this village and Glasgo, were considered impassable. Mr. Briggs came out in front of the mill and offered $30 to any one who would get the case of goods to Jewett City, whence it could be shipped to its destination. A man named Quirk and his son, stepped forth and agreed to tackle the job. Quirk was a teamster and knew his business. A team wagon and three span of heavy horses were secured, the case was loaded and the journey was begun.

In a couple of hours short of two full days and by dint of ceaseless shovelling by some of the men, the six miles were finally accomplished. S. E. Phinney was agent here then; he billed the case and it was put in the old store house, where it reposed just one week, waiting for freight traffic to be resumed. Quirk received the $30 declaring as he pocketed the roll, that he guessed he had earned his money.

Thus far March has established a local record. Not once during the 15 nights that have passed, has the mercury failed to drop lower than 25, with several readings at from 16 to 20. St. Patrick's day will find in this section heavier ice on all the local ponds and reservoirs, than at any March 17 since the ice winter of 12 years ago. On the fields at Dorrville where 21,000 tons of ice were harvested a few weeks ago, the ice again is over a foot thick.

Many Jewett City people believed and perhaps with some warrant, that the trolley service would again be resumed over the local steam iron. Such fond dreams can hardly be realized. The new rails recently laid through this section have not been bonded with copper, and again, a gang of men is at work taking down the high tension and feed lines, and removing the span wires from the poles. The trolleys came into service here in the fall of 1908, lived a useful and happy life of 17 years, beloved by everybody hereabouts, dying a painless and natural death in the fall of 1925.

Several local anglers were looking over their tackle Sunday. With the trout close season off in fifteen days, some took walks afield to look over their favorite brooks. Not a little of the finest trut water in this section is filled with ice, brooks are running bank-full.

One famous meadow, crossed by a trout brook is situated in the south of the town. Here, when the water is right the finest trout ever landed in Griswold, have risen to the fly. "Today," a returning angler said, one might a swell try for trout in the Atlantic. The whoel meadow is a skating pond of considerable area.

VETERAN SHOWMAN VIEWS SLOW DEATH OF CIRCUS

NEW YORK, March 15(AP)There is one man, at least, to whom the old time wagon train circus carried a greater thrill than the five ring show of today.

He is Fred Runnells, who played under the tent in many countries before being a participant in the first circus venture of P. T. Barnum.

Back in 1833, "Tom Thumb," a giant elephant that killed nine persons while with the Barnum show and later who placed in the Bronx Zoo, only to be electrocuted because of his continued ferociousness, attacked and seriously injured Runnells.

His circus life ended, the veteran turned to the stage and vaudeville, where work was less strenuous. Today, he is a cripple and is in retirement.

"In the old days, the young served apprenticeships in the proper school and worked up to 'good places,' he said. "They were the days of the circus family when one generation after another followed the profession. Now things are different; people just drift in.

"Every year, I see the circus deteriorating. The same thing is true of minstrelsy. No longer have we any pantomime. The circuses are dropping away gradually."

Runnells started in the circus game when he was five years old, appearing in pantomime sketches with Madame McCarts' show in Scotland. He was the third member of a troupe composed of his father and brother. Later, he broke into riding and appeared with Howes and Cushings show in London, performing before the royal family.

Then he traveled successively with several shows in England, Ireland, Wales, Spain, and Portugal, where the king witnessed the performance. He toured Russia and Prussia and then went to Paris.

The old L. B. Lent circus, which was located on 14th street in New York, had his services three years. He was at Niblo's in 1870 and 1871, playing in The Black Crook. He played with Barnum, off and on, fourteen years. In 1876, he went to South America, where he had many exciting experiences crossing the Andes with Carlo Brothers' show.

The old Cooper and Bailey circus was his next connection—and so on down the line until he was injured by "Tom Thumb."

"Barnum was a quiet and reserved man," Runnells said. "We never saw much of him because he didn't mix with the performers. He would attend the show and then leave. Essentially, he was a business man—and a good one.

"Bailey was a great showman. He was a good mixer and at the same time was very strict. He liked people who loved their work. Once he had confidence in a man he would do anything for him."

AGED GOTHIC TAPESTRIES OF GREAT VALUE FOUND IN ATTIC

VENICE, March 15 (AP)—Ten early Gothic tapestries, estimated to be worth $2,000,000, have been found in the upper attic of St. Marks cathedral by Dr. Phyllis Ackerman and Professor Candield Rubber company of Bridgeport. It had snowed for three days, roads were obliterated, and the six miles between this village and Glasgo, were considered impassable. Mr. Briggs came out in front of the mill and offered $30 to any one who would get the case of goods to Jewett City, whence it could be shipped to its destination. DESCANT NEW REMEDY IF HYMN SINGING IS DRAGGY

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—When hymn singing becomes monotonous hereafter application may be made for a remedy—Descant.

Descant, a style of choral singing, is said by one practitioner to be a cure for that "petering out" which may be observed in churches where singing has become perfunctory through sheer familiarity.

Congregations do their own singing under this prescription rather than leaving most of it to choirs. Walter Henry Hall, professor of church and choral music at Columbia university, has announced that his institution would develop Descant in America.

It is an innovation in this country and has lately been revived in England after centuries of disuse. Descant comes from the earliest developments in music which added harmony to simple melody. In its old use in hymn singing the second melody was called "Discant" or "Descant." As the term now is used it is merely the addition of a soprano part to a hymn tune.

In England, as explained by Prof. Hall, this part is carried by a picked group of soprano voices or by a boys choir, the congregation led by another choir, singing the air. The organist then is free to add any embellishment that will harmonize with the two, thus enrichening the effect.

"Descant is adaptable to any church or group where a few good sopranos are available," he said. "No, style in choral music, yields such striking results for so little trouble. It should not be overdone by using it for every verse of a hymn but reserved for those that stand out or deserve embellishment.

"Descant lends new life to singing in churches, which in too many cases has become perfunctory and dead. It comes like a gust of fresh air, to awaken interest. Congregational rehearsals should be adopted in America, as they are in England. There the congregation is asked to remain for a few minutes after the service, given simple instructions and then is led in a few hymns, using Descant.

"As Descant is practiced the picked voices sing along normally with the choir until they come to special verses. Then they sail into the Descant with an ardor that lifts one to the skies. The exaltation arising from the practice of Descant is 'perhaps nothing more than a divine form of exaltation in which even the humblest of us may share.'"

Professor Hall said there is too much of vicarious offering of praise through choirs, and believes people should sing as well as pray for themselves.

BUTLER UNIVERSITY TO MOVE FROM HOME OF HALF CENTURY

INDIANAPOLIS, March 15 (AP)—The task of moving a university of 1,500 students from its home of half a century to a new site 12 miles away, will be undertaken on June 1 by Butler university here.

Ground will be broken on that date for the first unit of an academic plant designed to accomodate 5,000 students and to meet Indianapolis' needs for a municipal university for 50 years more. Opening classes will be held on the new campus in the fall of 1927.

Butler university, a sectarian school founded by the Disciples of Christ, faced a financial crises in 1920. Instead of making emergency plans, the trustees lauched a campaign for a new plant which ultimately will cost $15,000,000 for building and endowment.

FOR THE ISOLATED

Not so long ago there were numerous appeals being made for the provision of radio equipment for sanatoria and hospitals, that entertainment might be provided for the convalescents. Such appeals were recognized as particularly worthy and were responded to with the result that the delights of radio are being enjoyed by a great number who could not expect such entertainment otherwise.

But quite as worthy seems to be an appeal which has been made by Secretary Hoover in behalf of the 700 lighthouse keepers and their families. There are keepers who are not really isolated, but there are those who are. There are those in light houses and those in light ships who must pass a most lonesome life, an existence which few would tolerate. They may not be alone but they are limited as to what they can do, where they can go and those to whom they can talk. For such people to be placed in touch with the outside world by such an agency as the radio means a decided treat and whatever efforts are put forth for the purpose of obtaining such an instrument deserve to succeed.

Without a doubt some have already supplied themselves. The needs of others have been met but there are still a large number who are unable to tune in on the music, lectures and talks that are constantly being broadcasted.

Few people know what a life in a lighthouse or aboard a lightship must be. It ought not to be difficult to imagine, however, that it is not all a bed of roses when the supply boat makes only an occasional trip to these points, when they may be miles from land or a settlement, when they go for long periods without seeing anyone else except possibly on some passing vessel and when they have decidedly restricted quarters to move about in.

Under such circumstances most anything in the way of entertainment is bound to be appreciated. It means a variation for a humdrum life and the variety that is offered by the radio should fill a long felt want.

MISSISSIPPI AROUSED

Stirred to action by the large number of lynchings within its state, the Mississippi Bar association has not only gone on record as opposed to such lawlessness, but it has undertaken to arouse public opinion for the prevention of lynchings in the future.

Mississippi has fallen heir to the disgrace of being the leading state in the country where mob murders occur. Not so long ago it was Georgia, but it is gratifying to note that that state has undergone a change for the better, and it is not surprising that the bar association of Mississippi should feel the sting of the situation sufficiently to lead a movement for a similar improvement.

The association has gone about its task in an impressive manner. It has printed a statement concerning mob murders, including the picture of a man being burned at the stake. It has obtained the declarations of leading officials, lawyers, clergymen educators, business men and editors against mob action. It points out that the mob spirit can be conquered by rigid enforcement of the law against lynching, and by education that will outlaw mob action in the public mind and set public opinion vigorously against it.

This book the association is putting into the hands of all editors of state papers, all clergymen, who are requested to preach against lynching, leaders of women's organizations, the heads of all colleges and influential citizens, both black and white. The purpose is to get public opinion aroused. To get the general public to recognize the wrong in such lawlessness education is needed and this it is hoped to stimulate.

It has taken Mississippi long enough to awaken to the situation that exists within its borders and to realize that it is time something was done to correct the condition. But it is well sponsored and for the good of the cause it is to be hoped that there will be the necessary response to get the desired results.

BRITISH COAL SITUATION

Since the opening of this year British coal has been brought to this country for the purpose of relieving the situation caused by the coal strike. Is it going to be necessary to send American coal across the Atlantic in order to meet the fuel requirements in the British Isles?

There isn't a coal strike underway in Great Britain but there's no telling how soon there may be. Efforts are being made to prevent it, but there is no certainty that it can be done.

The royal coal commission has been struggling with the coal problem in Great Britain. It hasn't found a solution but it makes recommendations, and it depends to a large extent what is done with the recommendations as to what happens.

Nationalization of the mines is one of the things that has been urged, but the commission is emphatic in its declaration against it. It brands it as unworkable. There has been in existence a coal subsidy but the commission declares it is a mistake, never should have been adopted and condemns it as unfair to other industry. The subsidy was the means adopted last year for preventing a strike. The commission insists that it should be stopped when the time is up.

The commission has very little to offer in the way of constructive advice. It declares that the owners, the miners and the public should be willing to take the knocks as they develop in the business, but that doesn't make a very strong appeal to those who believe the knocks should be eliminated, or at least eliminated so far as it concerns their particular group.

It remains to be seen what the British government is going to do in face of the report. A coal war is threatened unless the miners are satisfied. Whether the government is ready to continue the subsidy it offered last year will be known soon, and whether that is ended or continued may determine whether there is to be war or peace in the British coal fields.

THE CHAPMAN CASE

Though resort to every possible means of upsetting the verdict of the Connecticut court which tried him and found him guilty of slaying Policeman Skelly of New Britain, Gerald Chapman has left no stone unturned in an effort to save his life. But in each of the successive steps he has been unsuccessful. Through the state courts and through the federal courts to the highest court in the land he has tried to find some loophole whereby he could escape the sentence of death. But his efforts have been in vain.

In the federal court his contention has been that he was sent to Connecticut illegally and that he could not be sentenced to death by a Connecticut court while he was serving time under a federal sentence. Likewise that he could not be forced to accept the president's pardon which cleared the way for the carrying out of the Connecticut sentence. The federal courts had decided against him and the refusal of the United States supreme court to review his case means that the decision of the lower court is sustained.

Chapman's notoriety as a criminal has been nationwide. He has been involved in big robberies, penitentiary breaks and murders. He has managed to continue his defiance of the law for a long time, and it has been felt that too much opportunity was being allowed him through the extension of the time for his execution, but there is the satisfaction of knowing that his claims were unsupported in the highest courts and that the law in his case is being properly enforced. His appeals to various courts have served only to lengthen his life several months and he must now pay the penalty for his crime.

THE BROOKHART DECISION

With the senate committee on elections and privileges reporting that in the last electoin Daniel F. Steck was victorious over Smith W. Brookhart for United States senator from Iowa the expected has happened. The committee has gone exhaustively into the contest and carefully scrutinized the ballots and the committee finds that the democratic candidate is the winner.

The Steck-Brookhart fight is an old one. Brookhart came into the senate to fill out an unexpired term. He is one of the radicals who has gloried in the fact that he has been a follower of LaFollette, and he even boasted of that when he was sailing under republican colors. He caused such resentment through the attitude he took that the republicans of Iowa turned against him. When he got the republican nomination and then virtually declared against the Coolidge administration he set Iowa republicans to working for his opponent. Iowa is one of the rockribbed republican states and yet so many republicans turned against Brookhart that the contest was exceedingly close and only through recounting of the ballots was it determined taht Steck had finally won.

Brookhart has been doing his best to get a report in his behalf, but he had nothing in his record upon which to curry favor. He threatens to be a candidate against Senator Cummings at the next election but Iowa probably knows him better now than ever before and will be prepared to see that he is probably trounced if he undertakes to run again.

The report of the senate committee awaits action but there should be no doubt of the outcome. Brookhart has been read out of the republican party and he is now due to be read out of the senate.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15—One of the measures of especial interest to Connecticut is commercial aviation, as presented to senate and house by two of its most distinguished and influential legislators in congress. That Connecticut stands foremost in aviation, among the states, is acknowledged in Washington and both Senator Bingham who introduced the bill in the senate and Congressman Merritt who last week introduced one in the house stand together in urging adoption by congress of decisive legislative steps to advance civilian aviation, although differing somewhat in detail as to how it shall best be accomplished by federal legislation.

The result of the dual introduction of bills for the same purpose, in senate and house by the two Connecticut men will result in the passage of each bill in its respective body and then going to conference where the difference of detail is expected to be harmoniously ironed out.

Mr. Merritt spent Sunday in Connecticut so could not be interviewed on the probable adjustment of the two bills but Senator Bingham expressed no doubt as to a get-together of the senate and house and quick passage of a bill that would satisfy both framers. Commenting on the introduction of the Merritt bill Mr. Bingham said he felt proud that another Connecticut man had introduced the measure both because he held Mr. Merritt in such warm regard personally and as an influential member of the house, and also because Connecticut stands at the head of the list of states promoting civilian aviation.

After paying a high tribute to Mr. Merrill, Senator Bingham added, "It is eminently proper that Connecticut takes the lead in this matter, for it was Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut who first called attention to the need of aviation; it was Connecticut in state aviation legislation, Connecticut has the only governor who flies to and from his home and the state house and who has a private aviation field of his own." Mr. Bingham added that as all bills of importance must submit to change and amendments he is much gratified that the bill as it will go out from congress will be the Bingham-Merritt bill thus linking the names of two representatives from that state, instead of being passed under a combination of states.

Another matter that is being brought to the attention of Connecticut congressmen is the one prohibiting the post office department to issue envelopes with the "return to sender" instructions printed thereon. This proposed prohibition has brought out a storm of protest from Connecticut business men and chambers of commerce and the deegation is taking up the matter with the proper committee. Congressman Glynn this week stated he had received a great number of protests against the bill among them that of the chamber of commerce of Waterbury.

The long and heated debate on the Gooding so called long and short haul bill has brought out New England in a strenuous protest against it. Until today there has been but little hope expressed that the bill could be defeated in the senate, but a secret poll of that body today indicates that many of its more lukewarm supporters are weakening and that there is a strong possibility that the bill will be defeated and the protection of New England's industrial interests be thus conserved.

The commissioner general of immigration said this week that while immigrant smuggling seemed to be decreasing it is still a matter where the increased power and of border control is much needed. Commissioner Hull spoke of the great difficulty in sorting out those who had the right to remain and those who should be returned, where the leak occurred in alien seamen and others who had the right to come ashore but not to remain. The question of deportation is also a difficult one for the government to handle, largely on account of shortage of funds. "If the man entering or rather striving to enter can be stopped at the border much time and expense would be saved the government, and that is what the immigration commissioner and the committees on immigration are trying to bring about.

The national woman's party is formulating a campaign to put more women in congress. The three women already in congress have each announced her intentions of running for re-election. So the campaign for women legislators is likely to get a big start in the coming election. As two of the three women now serving in the national house of representatives are widows of deceased members and the other the wife of a man not prominent in politics it is not unlikely they may meet some opposition from certain militant suffrage leaders that compose the National Womans Party.

A military guard will soon be placed at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery. Although the tomb is visited by thousands who pay reverence to the hero who lies there, although distinguished visitors from other countries salute the tomb and stand at respectful attention, while a representative places a wreath on its flat surface, yet merry parties of Americans pay such scant respect, that the president may order a special guard to enforce it. Stories come from visitors that gay parties chat merrily as they sit or "rest awhile" on the flat surface of the tomb; that luncheons are eaten there, with the tomb serving as a table; that crumbs, paper bags, and scraps of food are left behind when the picnickers leave. All this may seem impossible at first, but the stories have been confirmed, and unless such desecration is quickly discontinued, President Coolidge will assign a military guard to the tomb during such hours of the day as Arlington is open to the public.

Stories That Recall Others

An Ad Reader

Robert age five accompanied his mother to witness the picture where many prehistoric animals were shown.

When the first of the monsters made its appearance on the screen Robert exclaimed: "Oh, look, mother, there's a halitosis."

Eight Too Many

"Why do I have to go to bed," whined Robert age nine, as he lingered down stairs in spite of the efforts of his efforts of his family to persuade him to retire.

"Wash my hands tonight and then again in the morning," he complained when his mother had finally managed to get him up stairs.

"I don't see why sister won't let me stay in the dining room, I won't read what she's writing. I guess nobody wants me." This last remark elicited no comment from mother.

As Robert crawled beneath the bedcovers, he summed up his idea of the whole business of living with a parting shot: "They say a cat has nine lives. Well one like mine is enough for me." And then after a pause, "Good night, mother."

Activities of a band of automobile thieves which has operated throughout the east were believed to be at an end as city and county authorities at Rochester, N. Y., disclosed they have arrested three men, recovered 50 stolen cars and located more than 100 others.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

"Does your head hurt anywhere—or anything?" anxiously asked the permanent-wave artist who had just turned on the heat in the machine that was steaming the victim's hair. "Just let me know if it gets too hot. Say, do you know you're funny—"

"Don't I know it!" feelingly responded the lady with the alarming forest of tubes sticking up in all directions from her cranium. "There isnt a sight on earth funnier than a silly woman having a permanent wave baked in—"

"No, no," protested the hovering artist in dismay. "I meant you were awfunny because you haven't asked what on earth you'd do if the building caught fire. All the others do.

"I just laugh at 'em. If there was an earthquake or anything sudden all they'd have to do would be to rush out into the street carrying the machine to top of their head after we'd unhooked it from the ceiling."

"Well," said the lady who was being waved, "I don't know what a fireman would do if suddenly confronted by a wild woman whose head looked like one of the witch doctors in cannibal stories."

"That reminds me," giggled the permanent-wave artist, dabbing interestedly at the victom's head. "There was a Mrs. Collins up here the other day, an elderly fat woman, and we had just got her whole head of hair all wrapped around the curlers ready to put into the machine. They were hanging down around her face every way, and just then Nettie called me out.

"There's a man here to see Mrs Collins,' she said. 'He's scared to come in.' 'Well' said I, 'he can't come out, that's a cinch,' so I went in and told her. She gave a shriek, 'A man!' she cried. 'Who on earth—I don't know any man—I mean no man knows I'm up here and if he did why should he come up to see me? Oh, my gracious, it's Mr. Collins and something dreadful has happened. Send him in.

"So I ran out again and when I took a look at the man I thought dear me, here's one of those queer matrimonial cases or something, because he couldn't have been a day over 21. 'Right in here,' I said sweetly, but when I saw how sort of nervous he was I turned firm and stern and sort of propelled him down the corridor and into the little room where Mrs. Collins was getting curled.

"When he glimpsed her funny head with one eye sort of peeking out through the forest at him he hopped right backward. Mrs. Collins jumped, too, and shrieked, oh, no he didn't belong to her and take him away—and he said frantically, oh no, that never was what he was looking for, and he bolted right out down the outside hall kind of wabbly and hurried "Is your head getting hot?

"The saddest case we ever had was a beautiful girl—that is, she had been beautiful quite a long time and was wise to the fact that it couldn't last much longeer and that she'd better quit fooling around, pick out a good one and settle down. So she took considerable interest in the fact that her brother's partner's brother was coming on to Chicago and she hurried up to get a permanent wave so that she would always look spick and span while he was here.

"She had something planned for every single day during the week he was to be here, and no telling what would have come of it because she was a fast worker—and do you know after he got here she found he had a mania for sleek, smooth heads of hair. She said she'd pay us all over again if we'd take out the curl but we said madam, our curl is guaranteed for six months and nothing on earth will take it out— don't you think she was unreasonable to get mad at us about it?

"Here's a glass of nice cold water. Some men act awful when their wives go home with a permanent wave but they just have to get over it. Is your husband that kind or did he know you going to do it? There was one woman—well there goes the ten-minute alarm, and it's all over. I suppose it seemed a long time, didn't it?"

"Mercy, no!" breathed the lady who had been waved, as they rapidly unpeeled her curls. "I hardly knew it had begun. Go on and finish telling me about the last woman you were talking about!"—Exchange.

From Small Beginnings

Phil May, the Great Comic Artist

A tramp lay asleep on a park bench. He had no money; he had no place in which to sleep except the park; he had no education; he had no trade nor occupation. He was simply "down and out." A few years later and every one in England knew his name and did him honor. Crowds of fashionable people flocked to great galleries to look at the pictures he had made. People eagerly bought his books. Every one loved him and respected him. That tramp, whose name is still a household word, was Phil May, the great comic artist, whose great drawings amused all England; Phil May, the artist whose work increased the circulation of Punch, the English comic weekly.

As a mere child, May had been thrown on the world, without money education or friends. He had simply to shift for himself and thrive or starve. For a long time he starved. He did everything that a boy could do worked at anything and gained little or no money. When he went to London he was so poor that he was a mere tramp a frequenter of park benches.

In one of his many jobs he had played a small part as a child actor. Now he turned to the theater and found a position suggesting costumes for characters in plays. He had a quick pencil and could dash off a suggestion in a few brilliant strokes. Little by little he came into his own as an artist—though an artist of the rougher sort.

From drawing of advertising pictures he turned to the drawing of illustrations. He knew the poor intimately and he drew pictures that were at once laughable and tender. People saw in Phil May's pictures not only the comic side, but also the deep heart of humanity. For that reason he found his way into popularity and became one of the staff of Punch. His work has never been surpassed. Out of the very misery that had surrounded him he had built an imperishable fame.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Cardinal Dubois, who is to lead a delegation of distinguished prelates and laymen from France to the Eucharistic congress to be held in Chicago next June, has been Archbishop of Paris since 1920. Previously he had been Bishop of Verdun and Archbishop of Rouen. The World war found him in a province too far removed from the battlefront to permit him to take his place among the heroic figures of war; but he was one of the most active partisans of national unity. He was made a Cardinal in 1916, and after the signing of the peace treaty, when the fate of the French religious establishments in the east was in suspense, he was sent on an official mission to Constantinople, Athens, Syria and Palestine. As archbishop of Paris, Cardinal Dubois presides over one of the largest and most important Catholic dioceses in the world.

CHILD TRAINING

WHEN IS THE CHILD OLD ENOUGH TO OBEY

Maude Freeman-Osborne

A child is "old enough to obey" when he begins to show intelligence.

When John Henry was eight months old, he began pulling the table cloth as babies have done, I presume, since that article was invented.

I recalled the days when his cousin Lloyd used to visit at our house and stand spreads and table cloths had to be folded back and movable articles put up high and very high—for Lloyd could climb! I remembered that when Lloyd was older, he used to throw himself on the floor and bump his head in a storm of rage. At 14, Lloyd refused to attend school; at 16, he was staying out till 11 every night.

I decided that John Henry must be kept from forming bad habits and must learn obedience.

So when he again reached for the table cloth, I said, "No, no!" very firmly and when he persisted, I placed him in his high chair. He cried but I took no apparent notice of his wails. But as soon as the anger faded from his voice I turned his attention to something interesting and placed him on the floor again. One day I had to repeat this treatment three or four times in succession. On hearing the words, "No, no," he would lay his head down and give a pathetic little wail. Then he would look up and smile and reach for the table cloth again.

But it did not take long for him to learn to respect the meaning of "No, no," nor to learn that he could be happy even if he couldn't always do as he wished. Although he was very active, it was never necessary to move things out of his reach, and he was a very happy, loveable child.

His cousin had a baby-walker in which he could "skate" all over the house almost as fast as a man could run, and his poor, overworked "mama" would "skate" right around after him putting the spreads back on the tables, picking up the pieces of china, remaking the beds, and so forth. By the time he had awakened from his nap, she would have the house in order ready for him to start all over again.

"But what can I do?" she would ask helplessly. "He is not old enough to be made to mind."

I had sent her John Henry's outgrown baby-carriage and he slammed that around the house, and smashed it up. Later both she and I had to have new carriages for our second babies.

When Lyle was two John Henry and visited at his home again. At breakfast, Lyle picked up his plate and gave it a Babe Ruth slam right over his shoulder. It landed in the warming oven—alas for the plate. Everybody laughed; he was "not old enough to be made to mind!" The next morning he threw a pail which landed upside down like a cap on his cousin John Henry's head. No thought of restraining him ever seemed to occur to either his father or mother. John Henry was unhurt, it was "a cute trick," and the child was "so active!"

When Lyle was five, he still was "not old enough to be made to mind." During our visit that year he threw a plowpoint at his cousin cutting a gash in his forehead the scar of which he bears to this day. The wound soon healed, but everybody said of Lyle, who was really bright and loveable, "What a horrid child!" He had never yet been "old enough to be made to mind!"

Upholding the stand taken by the Rev. J. H Geelkerken at Amsterdam against subscribing to a literal interpretation of that part of the chapter of Genesis relating to eve and the serpent, his church by a large majority has declined to remove him from his pastorate.

—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy had been thinking of Lightfoot the Deer. In fact, ever since he had known that Puma the Panther was in the Green Forest, he had worried about Lightfoot and Mrs. Lightfoot and the nearly grown twins were living in a yard in the Green Forest. He knew that they could not leave that yard because of the deep snow, and he knew that this meant that Puma the Panther would have a better chance to catch one of them than if they could run freely.

"I must get over to that Deer yard and see how Lightfoot is getting on," said Farmer Brown's Boy.

"I think it would be a good idea," replied Br. Brown. "When you go, take your gun with you. I think perhaps this afternoon I can spare you for a little while. That Deer yard isn't so very far from here, is it?"

"No," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, "it is only a little distance from here. That is one reason I am worried because Puma the Panther has been around here so much that I am almost sure he must have visited the yard of Lightfoot the Deer."

Farmer Brown's Boy stepped out so that Lightfoot could see him

So late that afternoon Farmer Brown's Boy took his gun and on his snowshoes he tramped over to the yard of Lightfoot the Deer. At first, he could not find Lightfoot nor any of Lightfoot's family. He found where they had been eating, but there was no other sign of them. Of course, those paths went criscross, this way that way and every way, and so were difficult to follow. Slowly Farmer Brown's Boy tramped around, stopping often to look and listen and by and by he spied Lightfoot and Mrs. Lightfoot and the twins. The latter were you know nearly grown. In fact, they felt themselves to be quite grown. All four were crowded together in a little open space where the snow had been trampled down. In their eyes was fear. Farmer Brown's Boy could see it even at a distance. When he snapped a little twig accidentally they all jumped. Then they stood trembling, shaking with fear. Farmer Brown's Boy knew at once what that meant. He knew that they had been frightened by Puma the Panther, and he wondered if Puma was near at that moment. Farmer Brown's Boy stepped out so that Lightfoot could see him for he knew that Lightfoot was not afraid of him.

Almost at once Lightfoot came towards him and the others crowded after Lightfoot; and as they came they kept turning their heads to look back. Nearer they came, and nearer. Farmer Brown's Boy was their friend and they knew it. Just a few feet from him they stopped and looked back again, then stood there with their great soft eyes wide with fear. He could see little shivers run all over them. Those little shivers were shivers of fear.

Farmer Brown's Boy moved swiftly in the direction in which Lightfoot and his family were looking. He held his gun ready. There was a thick mass of low-growing hemlocks over there—a wonderful place for hiding. With his eyes fixed on that, Farmer Brown's Boy moved forward. He had almost reached it, when he caught a glimpse or a great catlike form. It was only a glimpse, but it was enough. Like a fleeting shadow, it disappeared.

"That was Puma himself!" muttered Farmer Brown's Boy under his breath. "I guess I got here just in time. He was after those Deer, and he had them cornered there. He had them where they couldn't get out without going into deep snow. My, I'm glad I came over here when I did!" And then, what do you think Farmer Brown's Boy did? He pointed that gun in the air and shot. Bang! roared the gun. Why did he do it? He did it to scare Puma. He knew that Puma would not come back right away after hearing that gun.

DECLARES FRAUD SHOWN IN LISBON FARM SALE

In a decision handed down here Monday, Judge Allyn L. Brown, of the superior court denies the foreclosure sought by John Nazaruk and Fred Alaska of Lisbon of a $2,700 mortgage on the 45 acre farm of John Katherine Krwosnik of Lisbon, gives his opinion that there was actionable fraud practiced when the farm was sold for $4,800 to Krwosnik, gives judgment for the defendants on their cross-complaint to recover $671.22 and costs.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Brown says:

It is undisputed that unless the defendants have sustained the burden of establishing their cross complaint the plaintiffs are entitled to a decree of foreclosure in the amount fixed by the stipulation of the parties in file. Thus the vital and controlling question for determination is whether the plaintiffs by their fraud as alleged in the cross-complaint, induced the defendants to purchase this farm in part payment for which the note and mortgage the plaintiffs are asking to have foreclosed was given.

The plaintiffs statement that the farm and personalty sold therewith were worth $4,300, alleged knowingly falsely made to induce the defendants to buy, and accomplishing this result is the gist of the fraud claim. In such a case where the representation complained of relates simply to the value of the property sold it may often be difficult to draw the line between legitimate "puffing" and actionable fraud upon the sellers part. Upon all of the evidence however, it is my conclusion that this case is one within the latter category.

The evidence is abundantly satisfying that on May 7, 1924, when the sale was made: $2,800 was the actual value of the property sold and not $4,300 the sale price, or $5,000 what the plaintiffs declared it was really worth. It is equally clear that the plaintiffs and their sophisticated co-conspirators, Lobell, Ratkowsky and Jacciello, some or all of whom assiduously and effectively played the part of go-betweens or agents to bring together the defendants, as the green and hopeful prospects from Jersey City, while the more seasoned plaintiffs now disillusioned by their life on the Lisbon farm, well knew the true value of the property. Their statements as to the value in pursuance of their concerted intent to deceive, the defendant's belief thereof and reliance theron, with the consequent purchase, are also clear on the evidence. Such facts discloses fraud upon the part of the plaintiffs which is actionable.

Two remedies were open to the defendants upon their discovery of this fraud, to disaffirm the transaction and return or offer to return the property secured thereby and then recover what they paid, or to recover what they paid, or to affirm the transaction and recover the damages suffered by the fraud. Reasonable action is essential to rescission. Both the delay of the defendants in taking any action indicating an election to rescind and the impossibility of their returning much of the personalty involved in the sale, preclude the defendants from relief by this course.

The claims for relief in their cross complaint as originally filed by the defendants, Oct. 20, 1925, obviously contemplated relief by the other course. I find that at the time of the sale the property which the defendants received was actually worth $2,800. The defendant's damage resulting from the plaintiffs' fraud therefore was $1,500. While the "amendment to ad damnum" filed on the day of trial reduced the amount claimed as damages from $3,500 to $500, this cannot be permitted to prevent a judgment by the court which will do justice and equity in accord with its conclusions upon the evidence. The defendants may therefore further amend their amended ad damnum by substituting for the claim for damages therein the following: The defendant's claim $2,500 damages and demand a judgment of $3,500 or so much thereof as they may be entitled to, over and above the plaintiffs claim."

By the stipulation on file the defendants owed on the mortgage at the date of trial $628.78. Judgment may therefore be entered on the cross complaint, when amended as above suggested for the defendants to recover of the plaintiffs $671.22 and their costs. The plaintiffs' petition for a decree of foreclosure is denied.

He was informed and directed as to a proper place to park, but instead of parking on the right hand side of the street he backed his car close to the tracks and at the approach to the depot crossing. The officer called Sample's attention to the violation and the danger he created by parking where he did. According to Officer Sheehan Sample became abusive and when he did so he was taken into custody.

SHRINKAGE IN VALUE OF THE BELGIAN FRANC

BRUSSELS, March 15.—(AP)—The sensational fall of the Belgian franc against foreign exchange, causing two special cabinet meetings today, was due to Washington and London developments, political and financial quarters believed tonight.

Failure of the United States senate to ratify the Washington-Belgian debt agreement and the insistence of British bankers on obtaining close control of the Belgian national railways brought unrest in financial circles, heavy sales of Belgian securities, entailing depreciation of the franc.

A rumor which gained popular credence that the American bankers concerned in the proposed loan to Belgium had demanded supervision of the Belgian Congo colony, was also responsible in part, it was asserted in well-informed financial circles.

Depreciation in the past two days has caused a loss of 14 1-2 per cent in Belgium's national wealth.

M. Janssen, the finance minister, is reported to have admitted at a cabinet council today 'mediocre success of the London negotiations' without mentioning the United States.

POPE EXTENDS POWERS OF CARDINAL GASPARRI

ROME, March 15.—(AP)—The Pope today conferred an important extension of powers on Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, by granting to the congregation for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, over which Cardinal Gasparri presides, the duty of naming bishops in all countries where it is necessary for the Vatican to consult the authorities in regard to possible political objections to the appointments.

It is estimated that 90 per cent of all Catholic bishops come within this category. One of the results of this arrangement, it is stated, will be that it will be necessary for all these bishops to conform strictly to the policies of the papal secretary of state.

SUSIE DROPS SPORTS TO DISCUSS THE LOCAL POLITICAL SITUATION

Susie has received several letters nominating various Norwich people for the office of mayor and other city offices and in the following letter tells of some of the nominations that have been made.

Dear Ed:

I guess I musta started somethin' when I puts that piece in my last letter about wantin' nominations for mayor. Gosh I gotta flock o' letters which nominates about everybody in town. I'm gonna send you some of 'em so's you can look 'em over. Now I hope nobody don't get sore 'cause they get nominated 'cause it shows just how poplar they is. This letter ain't to be took as corn but in the spirits of good nature in which it is writ.

I been lookin' over the situation in Norwich regarding the timber for the mayor's job but them fellers what is said to be the political bosses ain't sayin' nothin' but is sawin' wood The republicans is dumb and the democrats is dumber when you asks who is they goin' to nominate for the chief city job. But they is rummers floatin' round and if you keep the wax outta your hearin' organs you don't need no loud speaker to tell you which way the breeze is blowin'.

Now as near as I can find out the race in the republican rahks is nartowin' down to the drug business. I heard the other day that a couple drug store fellers was goin' to be in the runnin' when the barrier was sprung at the corkuses. Now I ain't mentionin' no names but all I can say is both has held political office. One bein' mayor of Norwich oncet and the other held a nother office. If you can guess who they is you is a good one. They has been other names wispered 'roun but they ain't so strong a scent as they two drug fellers. One was a insurafice man, another was a clother and the third was a prominence bustness man.

The democrats seem to be satisfied with the present incumbrance an' are goin' to put him up again. You can't get no kick outa a peaceful party when they ain't no fightin' goin' on Course politics ain't strictly sports but believe me, Ed, they is a lotta sports in politics.

Well now comes them nominations what I got. Here's one of the first what I received. It reads like this:

Most Hon. Susee:

Me, Foo Yong, ain't can read the newspaper but a velly good fiend tellee me you askee for fellee for mayor. Me say pick Yip Yee who lee landjy on bath street. He velly nice fellee. He say "scuse I" when he makee mistook He velly plite likee mayor am All the far east and rest of China boys say Yip is good man. Respectfeevely.

FOO YONG

Gosh, I guess that China feller must be goin' to run on the laundry ticket.

Here's a nother one:

My Girl Susie:

To know thata fella whatta they calla Tony, the bannan man? He make good bossa for the cit. How I know? My bossa in the gang say to me Joe you writa de let to Susie and saya Tony is the fella for de job, so I writa you if my bossa say Tony is a good fella then I know he is, casa my bossa knows a lot. Tony pusha de banana cart so if he don't wanta de mayor job he getta de job with the streets comissioner. Goo-bye.

JOE

Guess I don't what ticket to run this feller on but I'll enter his name with the rest.

Here's one that I blush to send you seein's how modest an' retirin' I is.

My dear Susan:

I answer to your request for a nomination for mayor. I beg leave to place your own name in nomination for this most important office. Since woman has been glorified by the franchise and Flo Ziegfeld no woman has ever been accorded the honor of being nominated, for the exalted position of chief executive of our beautiful city. I believe that woman should have her say in the political life of the community as well as in the home so it is with great pleasure that I nominate you my dear girl for this office. We women will be with you in this.

Yours for women in active politics.

MRS. JOHN ——

Say Ed, do you think this dame's kiddin' me or has she been hittin' the hop? Say can you imagine me in politics why I can't even manage the low friend say nothin' about a whole city with a common council. I tell that jane right now she ain't goin' to make no fool outa me. I ain't goin' to have no mud slung at me and I ain't goin' to be dragged through no political mire. And that's that. The nomination is declined with pleasure.

Here's a nother one but the feller don't say whose name he's puttin' up so you'll have to guess:

My Darling Susie:

Pardon my seeming familiarity but I know you rather well although you may have forgotten me. I saw your request for nominations for mayor and I have in mind a man that has been in the public's eye (like a cinder) off and on for a number of years. His talking is done through the press to a great extent and he is much in evidence when any occasion permits him an opportunity to be heard in public. If you know who I mean enter his name for the office. Do you? Yours with love.

M. E. G.

Well, whadda you know about that? Ain't that a hot way to nominate a guy for mayor? Guess that feller thinks this is a guessing contest 'stead of a nominating party. No, brother, I ain't no mind reader and don't he so chummy 'cause I gotta steady feller and you ain't got no chance.

I guess that'll be about all for this time. Oh, yes, there's one more but the feller what wrote it is ahead of his turn. He nominated a feller for city treasurer but that feller ain't living here no more. He signed his name J. A. H., do you know him Ed?

Now I hope folks will send in some more nominations this week an' then when we get enough we'll have a votin' contest and see whose elected. The nominations close next week so any folks what wanta send in names should grab the old pen and dash off a coupla lines to yours truly.

POSSIBILITY THAT DELANEY WILL FIGHT IN THIS STATE

Local boxing fans who are following the meteoric career of ack Delaney of Bridgeport were pleased at his showing against Mike McTigue last night. These same fans may yet have a chance to see the Bridgeport boy in action right here in his home state if plans that are in the works materialize. There is a strong rumor that a Connecticut promoter is negotiating for Delaney to box in this state some time in April.

Who the promoter is or where the bout is to be held is not definitely known although many have strong suspicions. Should this bout take place in Connecticut, Delaney meeting some well known man of his class it would be one of the best drawing cards yet promoted.

Fans who see them close their season tonight will find the full strength of the Danielson aggregation out to wrest victory from South Manchester, which has also made a good showing against teams in this part of the state during the winter season.

DELANEY GIVES McTIGUE TERRIFIC BEATING AND BOUT IS STOPPED IN 4TH

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, two fisted light heavyweight of Bridgeport, Conn., scored a technical knockout over Mike McTigue, former world's light heavyweight champion, in the fourth round of a 12-round match at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Referee Patsy Haley stopped the fight after two minutes, 59 seconds of the fourth round when it was apparent that McTigue was unable to defend himself.

With two minutes of the fourth round gone, Delaney rushed McTigue to the center of the ring, hooked a left to the head and then crossed with his crushing right hand, sending McTigue to the canvas with a blow right over the heart.

McTigue rose to one knee, took a count of eight and gained his feet. Delaney rushed him to the ropes and, with both fists flying, punched him almost into unconsciousness. McTigue was unable to lift his hands to protect himself. Referee Haley jumped in to stop Deanley's next rush and stopped the fight.

This is the first time in more than 15 years of fighting McTigue has been knocked out. In only three decision fights has the verdict gone against him. Many times, however, in no-decision contests, he has lost the newspaper verdict.

The end came with dramatic suddenness, the first three rounds were comparatively tame, Delaney forcing a slow issue and McTigue fighting with his usual cautiousness. Then McTigue dropped his right hand, Delaney hopked with his left and followed with his crushing right, catching McTigue flush over the heart and toppling him to the canvas.

McTigue calmly rose to one knee and waited until the eighth count had been registered before he regained his feet. Scenting a quick finish, Delaney rushed McTigue to the ropes and with fists flying with trip-hammer force pumped punishment at his foe. McTigue went down again for nine and then rose unsteadily.

Hanging to the ropes to balance himself and reeling to ward off what blows he could, McTigue faced the most damaging attack in his long career. He started to sink when his knees gave way but Referee Haley jumped in, stopped Delaney's rush, and declared the fight over with Delaney winner by a technical knockout.

Coincidentally the fight terminated in the fourth round, the same frame in which Delaney scored his knockout over Paul Berlenbach when the present title-holder was knocking all opposition aside in 1924. In his climb to recognition and the same round in which Delaney floored Berlenbach in the opening fight in the New Garden last December. Delaney will be 27 years old Friday.

McTigue won the world's light heavyweight championship by outpointing the late Battling Siki in a 20-round exhibition in Dublin, Ireland, March 17, 1922. He held the title until outpointed by Paul Berlenbach in a 15-round match at the Yankee stadium, May 30, 1925. He was born in Clarke county, Ireland, November 26, 1892, and at present holds the middleweight titles of Ireland and Canada.

Delaney had four pounds on his adversary tonight, coming in at 170 1-4 while McTigue weighed 166 1-4. A crowd of 17,757 paid $79,595 to see the fight.

DeMave Beats Grosso

Jack DeMave of Hoboken, N. J., won a judges's verdict over Johnny Grosso of Mount Vernon, N. Y., in a ten-round semi-final. DeMave weighed 167, Gross, 156.

The fight was one of the most dramatic heavyweight battle since the Dempsey-Firpo affair of three years ago. In the fifth round both principals went to the canvas twice in a series of knock-downs which kept the 13,000 spectators on their feet.

Just as the final bell rang DeMave went down for the third time but he had piled up such a lead during the earlier rounds that he obtained the decision.

Bill Outpoints Bresslin

Black Bill, Cuban flyweight, outpointed Johnny Bresslin of New York in a ten round preliminary to the Jack Delaney-Mike McTigue bout here tonight. Bill weighed 115, Bresslin 110.

DELANEY MATCHED WITH BERLENBACH FOR JUNE 10TH

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., who tonight scored a technical knockout over Mike McTigue, has signed a contract to fight Paul Berlenbach, world's titleholder, in a 15-round match June 10, according to Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden.

The state athletic commission had previously announced that the winner of tonight's fight would be recognized as the outstanding challenger for the light heavyweight title.

McMahon intimated that either the Yanke Stadium, for which Tex Rickard is now dickering, or Bovle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City would be the site for the contest.

BABE RUTH GETS HIS SECOND HIT OF SEASON

TAMPA, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—A bright sun beat steadily down through chilly winds that whistled over training grounds of big league baseball in Florida today and lent enough enthusiasm for "Babe" Ruth to garner his second hit of the season at the Yankee's St. Petersburg camp, and for Myers to crack out a triple at the Washington Senators grounds here. The Yankees, however, lost 6 to 3 to the Boston Braves, while the Senators turned back an invasion from Ybor City's Latin ball-tossers, trouncing the Cuban All-Stars, 8 to 4.

Ogden, Smith and Morrell took turns on the mound for the Senators, but the Cubans got six hits, of which P. Grandino, fielder, garnered three, a triple, a double and a single.

Connie Mack's youngsters could not complete the circuits after finding the curves of Auer and Bennett for fifteen hits at Palmetto and the Buffalo Internationals won a slow game 7 to 5.

While Mack's seniors lost to the Buffalo club, his juniors stayed at Fort Myers and provided local entertainment there by crushing the Baltimore Internationals 7 to 1. The junior pitchers Willis and K. May, allowed only four hits while the juniors batted Earnshaw, Myers and Dixon for ten safeties.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS CLASH TONIGHT WITH BALTIC IN SECOND SERIES GAME

This evening at Parish hall, Taftville, the fast traveling Taftville Crescents will clash with the Baltic five in the second game of the series between these two basketball teams. Baltic won the first encounter last Friday evening after a hard tussle with the Taftville aggregation and now the Taftville boys are stepping out to seek revenge. Bitter rivalry has always marked the athletic encounters between Baltic and Taftville and tonight's game will be one of the same calibre.

Without doubt the game tonight will be a scorcher from whistle to whistle and is expected to prove the best game of the present season at Parish hall Taftville will put the following into the fray: Jimmy Murphy, Rabbit Gauthier, in the forward line, Eddie Murphy at center, Tom Coleman and Eccleston, at guards, with Yerrington held in reserve.

The Baltic team wil be out to win as a victory tonight means eliminating the Taftville team for any basketball honors in the eastern part of the state. Basketball manager of Baltic is pinning his hopes on the same team that took the measure of Taftville last week, namely: Griffin and Robitaille, forwards, Red Charron, center, Coady and W. Robitaille, guards.

It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will flock to Parish hall tonight to see the game as always these two teams give the fans plenty of action for their money. A fast preliminary is also scheduled.

Watch Your Breakfast

Energetic Mornings Depend on Breakfast —Start Always with Quaker Oats

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals — lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 68% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

Gums Like Coral

Teeth with that dazzling whiteness you see

This new way brings them quickly. Send the coupon

DENTAL science has found a new way to lighten cloudy teeth. A way that often changes a person's whole appearance. Your teeth, it's learned, are not naturally off color—simply coated with a film that absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc.

You can feel that film now with your tongue; a slippery sort of coating. It is there largely because your present dentifrice is failing in its duty. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight film successfully and brushing won't do it.

Now a new-type dentifrice has been discovered. A film-removing paste called Pepsodent. Famous $100,000 movie stars use it before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles are so gleaming white.

Leading dentists urge it because it protects the teeth and firms the gums. Film breeds bacteria that invite tooth troubles and pyorrhea. It is there now imperiling your teeth, your gums; making your smile unattractive.

Clear it off. See the amazing difference made. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send the coupon for test tube free.

FIRST ANTHRACITE BARGE ARRIVES SINCE STRIKE

The first barge of fresh-mined Lehigh anthracite coal arrived in Norwich Saturday for John A. Morgan & Son. This is the first barge since the strike.

This barge the "A. McNeil, Jr.," contains 900 tons of anthracite coal consisting of stove, chestnut and pea sizes.

The trouble with lots of patience is that it hasn't any monument to roost on.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

There was no noticeable increase in the building activities in Norwich during the past week although two permits were filed at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. These permits were filed by Contractor P. F. Sweeney who has the contract for remodelling the store formerly occupied by F. A. Wells Co. and owned by Schwartz Bros. The other permit is also for two additions to a frame building on Boswell avenue, owned by Abraham Schanker.

The work on the remodeling of the Schwartz Bros., building has been started by the contractor and the front has been torn out and the steel reinforcing girders are being set in place. Contractor Sweeney is also making good progress on the building at the corner of Franklin and Willow streets.

The weather conditions still remain unfavorable to building in the city and the majority of contractors are marking time until the warm weather sets in.

The building permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week were as follows:

To P. F. Sweeney to make two additions to the front of the present frame building at 102 Boswell avenue for Abraham Schanker. Each addition will be 14 x 22 feet and one story high. The foundations will be of stone with wood frame and plaster walls. The fronts will be of plate glass. They will be used as stores.

To P. F. Sweeney to make alterations to the present building at 82 Main street for Schwartz Bros. The alterations will include tearing out the old store front and installing a prism-glass front. The building will be reinforced with new steel girders. On the interior a new partition will be erected dividing the present large store into two smaller stores. Sheet-rock will be used on the walls instead of plaster. Work is already started on the building and the old front has been torn out and the contractors are setting the steel girders in place.

The sales of real estate in New London during the past week numbered 44 in sales, more than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $74,059 and [illegible].

State Building Situation

Building activity in this state continues at a slower rate than was the case a year ago. A total of 115 building permits were issued in the cities and towns covered by The Commercial Record for construction work estimated to cost $1,565,565. These figures compare with 200 permits and a total cost of $1,81,4,179 for the like week in 1925. The most noticeable decrease in building operations is noted in the large cities of the state. The cost of building work permitted for in Hartford during the past week was $61,925 as against $181,894 a year ago. Other sharp declines are noted in New Haven, Bridgeport and New Britain. Waterbury, however, had a larger number of permits this last week than in the same week of last year. The total estimated cost of construction work permitted for in that city during the week was $250,750, compared with $19,750 for the like week in 1925.

New London

The revised plans for the proposed alterations to the building at the corner of Bank and Truman streets will be ready to be figured about March 15. Approximately one week will be allowed for figuring and the bids will be received by the architect until about March 22. The changes to the building consisting of alterations making a three-story building with three stores on the first floor, offices on the second and a hall or auditorium on the third floor, have been outlined before in these columns.

The announcement by Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., 159 State street and William Clark of Hartford of plans for the erection of several houses at Outside Heights off Pequot avenue, and Lower Boulevard marks the beginning of what is expected to be an extensive residential building boom in the Pequot section of this city. Messrs. Wetmore and Clark have plans under preparation for five houses of colonial type to contain seven rooms, with all improvements, including steam or hot water heat and tile baths, work on which will be started as soon as weather permits.

John B. Leary, 222 Coleman street, has been awarded the contract for a house on Marshall place for Philip Grove. The house will be of the duplex type, 26x34 feet, of frame construction containing two tenements of four rooms each. There will be hot air heat, fireplaces and other conveniences. Ground has been broken for the cellar.

The permit has been issued under which the Oliver Woodworth Co., 26 Pearl street, are to make extensive changes to the Water street property of the Connecticut Power co. There will be two additions, 33x78 feet and 58x143 feet, respectively. The construction will be of brick, steel and concrete, and will cost approximately $20,000.

The contract has been awarded to Carl E. Burgess, 39 Henry street, for an addition to the present two- family house on Howard street, owned by Garney Crowley. The addition will be of frame and will provide three additional tenements. New plumbing, heating and electric wiring will be required.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Norwich people with people in eastern Connecticut had plenty to interest them in 1851, with a $40,000 robbery and attempt at jail breaking by a convict who escaped from Sing Sing, coming within two days of each other.

The items for the week are of unusual interest and are taken in part from the Norwich Courier of that year as follows.

Tuesday, March 11, 1851—Mayor Buckingham presided over the meeting of the court of common council, held last evening when the bill of the Acqueduct company, for filling cisterns, was referred to the committee on fire department. The committee was instructed to inquire into the most convenient mode of filling said cisterns and keeping them in repair. The petition of H. Allen, for permission to boil varnish in the limits of the city, not to exceed 30 days in the next 12 months, was continued to the next meeting. The petition of Falls people, for a hearse at the Falls, was referred to the committee in public grounds. The street commission was voted $50 to improve Court street.

Among the passengers on the steamer North America, which reached New York Friday, was the Rev. J. P. Gulliver, pastor of Main street church, this city. The steamer North America, built and owned by the Norwich and New York Steamboat company has made a most successful trip to and from Chagres. Her passengers were delighted with the ship and they advertised her all the way across the Isthmus. As a result, she brought to New York almost as many passengers as two other ships which left at about the same time. The passengers, before going ashore, passed a resolution recommending her as eminently worthy of the public patronage.

The Cleopatra, for many years doing hard service between Norwich and New York, was sold recently for $11,600 and is to do towboat duty on the Hudson river.

Thursday, March 13, 1851—A $40,000 robbery took place last night at the Norwich & Worcester depot, when Mr. Witter, bookkeeper for the Thames bank was slugged by a robber and his carpet bag, containing that sum of money was stolen. No trace of the bandit was found although a search was made and word has been sent all along the line. Mr. Witter, with a companion, went to the station with the money, which was to be used to redeem bank bills at the Suffolk bank, Boston, a system which prevails in New England, and while at the station a man approached and asked the time. Mr. Witter told him the hour and turned away. He was alone at the time and suddenly he was struck on the head by some kind of "billy" and his carpet bag was stolen. He staggered across the waiting room and shouted to men sitting there and they immediately spread the alarm. The trains were watched and no one was allowed to board the train at Norwich or at Allyn's Point. A $5,000 reward has been offered for the recovery of the money and arrest of the thief. It is believed that the man who made the bold robbery is of the gang in Boston with which the two men arrested last week are connected, and that the money will go to new York [illegible] unless the thief is caught.

The money contained in the carpet bag was in total as follows, endorsed notes from the following banks: Norwich bank, $8,521 46; Quinebaug bank $700.00; Merchants bank, $17,570 94; Thames bank, $15,650 00; Jewett City bank $1,300; Windham bank, $2,000; Windham County bank, $2,560. It has been figured now that there was just $31,400 in the bag, not $40,000 as was first announced.

Jenny Lind has been compelled to abandon her trip to many southern cities as there is not sufficient time to sing in every city that wants her before she must return to New York to fill an engagement. Where ever she has been Jenny Lind has made herself beloved and her charming voice has won for her thousands of admirers.

Saturday, March 15, 1851—While the robbery was occupying the attention of the public, another operation was going on at the county prison on Jail hill. Marshall, alias, John Williams, had dug out the wall in one side of his cell, then found his way blocked by when the adjoining cell was locked. He then tried to dig out the wall near the bars in his own cell and had nearly accomplished his work, when Mr. Kee visited the cell of his ward. Jailor Lee noticed dust on the floor and immediately searched and found the openings. The work had taken the prisoner five nights and had been done with a steel clasp of a wallet. The openings had been cleverly hidden and only the keen eyes of Mr. Lee prevented the criminal from making his escape.

Marshall afterwards admitted that he had escaped from Sing Sing in 1848 after serving two years of a ten year term, unlocking doors of cells in that prison to allow other convicts to escape. A steel spring and numerous other things which would aid him in getting out were found skillfully tucked away in a vest lining. Marshall is the companion of Edgerton the criminal who robbed Currier & company last week, and both are well known and dangerous criminals.

No trace of the robber who got the bank money has been found, but Mr. Witter is now able to tell the story more clearly. He says that he was sitting near a window, the carpet bag with the money being between his back and the back of the bench. Someone reached in through the window and struck him over the head, pushed him, and evidently grabbed the money as he slid to the floor nearly unconscious.

A barn owned by F. W. Treadway, located opposite the Otis Library, was badly damaged by fire last evening. It is believed that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

TRAVELERS AND AUXILIARY HAVE OFFICERS INSTALLED

Members of Branch 309, United Commercial Travelers of America, and its women's auxiliary, held a dinner followed by separate installation exercises at Odd Fellows' hall New London, Saturday night. An appetizing menu was served and community singing added enjoyment to the affair. Richard Fay of New Haven installed the officers.

The following women were installed: President, Mrs. William P. Ward, Norwich; first vice-president, Mrs. James Campbell, Norwich; second vice-president, Mrs. F. R. Smith, New London; secretary, Mrs. Everett N. Lyons, Golden Spur; treasurer, Mrs. John L. Rice, New London; auditor, Mrs. James J. Doran, New London.

The following men were installed: Past Senior Councilor, James Campbell, Norwich; senior councilor, Alfred Rogers, Norwich; junior councilor, Ernest Bean, Norwich; conductor, George Mitchell, New London; page, Tyler Stanton, Norwich; sentinel, F. R. Smith, New London.

Following exercises bridge was played informally and an impromptu musical program was enjoyed.

Some men's nautical experience is confined to hard-ships.

New Discovery Banishes Sleeplessness, Quiets Nerves and Stops Headache

The most wearing-out process which could afflict a person is that which is caused by lack of sleep. Fitful, insufficient slumber tears the nervous system to pieces and causes much of the weakness, irritability and susceptibility to disease which is often blamed on other causes.

Lack of sleep ages one, destroys beauty and certainly shortens your life. And yet it is so easy to have the deep refreshing slumber of childhood.

A sleep that will make you feel like a new person and add five years to your life—a slumber that will banish the "blues" and give you the strong, healthy nerves which mean a sunshiny, cheerful outlook on life. And you can get all these benefits from a new, harmless, easy-to-take preparation called Neura.

Neura contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs. The results from the use of Neura have been so remarkable, however, that it is now dispensed by Lee & Osgood and druggists everywhere with a guarantee to return the small cost if you are not amazed and delighted with the results from the use of the very first package. Get a good night's sleep tonight by taking Neura today.

EASY TO GET BOOZE IN NEW LONDON, AS MONDAY'S COURT CASES PROVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 15—The fact that there were five drunks in the police court this morning when the court assembled is evidence that there is little difficulty in getting booze, if one has the wherewith to pay for it. The men accused are of the laboring class and they are persons who do not have a permanent abiding place generally. One of the men went to the police station Sunday night and asked to be locked up, that he might go to his work this morning. Another was a young fellow who resides on upper Main street, but who was found early Sunday morning with a load he could not navigate with. Not one of the accused had any excuse to offer except the obvious one that he had drank too much.

CAPT. CHARLES H. NILES HAS REACHED FINAL HARBOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 15—The funeral of Capt. Charles H. Niles was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, among whom was a delegation of members of the Jibboom club and a delegation of Jared Avery camp, Sons of Veterans. Members of the latter organization acted as bearers. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Rowland Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Walter F. Swan of West Mystic, former American Railway Express company messenger who was taken into custody last Wednesday by express company inspectors and state police, charged with theft, was in the Groton town court on continuance this forenoon. The case did not come to trial, being continued until next Wednesday, when it is believed, the case will be disposed of Swan furnished a surety on his bond of $500 for his appearance at that time. Swan's arrest was the result of an investigation by the officers of clues that led them to believe that Swan had been guilty of stealing radio sets of which he had charge while in transit between New London and Providence. It is understood that some of the alleged loot was found at Swan's home when he was taken into custody.

Harold M. Smith, a minor, was "fired" from the coast guard service at Uncle Sam last December because he was the sort of fellow not wanted in that branch of the government because of a lack of moral standing. He was concerned in a disreputable occurrence in a Howard street house after which a woman was sent to a reformatory that she might be taken away from ways of vice. Smith was about New London after that having a precarious existence. He finally was found in a room at a public house at 53 Golden street where his companions were other sailors. Smith watched his opportunity and stole a couple of suits of clothes and an overcoat and got away with them. The police were acquainted of his crime and they sought him without finding. Finally he came back to New London and was taken into custody. Smith pleaded guilty when accused in the police court this morning in a formal complaint. He told what seemed to be a funny story about having gone from New York to Boston where he shipped on a steamer that went to Charleston, taking the clothing he stole with him. There he claimed he lost the overcoat, but said he disposed of two suits because he was broke. The Charleston story was not accepted as truth so the hearing was continued a week that what he says may be checked up to get at the truth. A bond of $500 was required to secure freedom for Smith but he could not furnish it and went to jail.

The police court will attempt to-morrow to unravel the case against Frank Tudisco, Max Goldstein and Peter Athanois, charged with stealing from and robbing Patterson Inc. Tudisco and Athanois were former employees of the corporation and they are accused of having robbed their employers to the extent of several thousand dollars. The method employed by the men referred to was to take chickens, butter, eggs, etc., from the store and then to dispose of it for money and for favors. Goldstein is associated with the Monuegan Dairy company and [illegible] delivered sweet cream to the store for manufacture into ice cream and for soda, etc. It is reported that he claimed to have received two thousand more quarts of cream than he actually left there and collected for cream that [illegible] The claim is that more cream was paid to him to which [illegible] and for which he gave in equivalent. The state's case was with the connivance of Tudisco and Athanois. It finally was revealed that Tudisco took goods from the store in his automobile and that he distributed what he stole, or some of it, among friends. Manager Kellas of the store is said to have come upon the Tudisco car with his goods in it and to have called the attention of the police to what was in the car. The men were arrested here, with the exception of Athanois, who was at Perth Amboy and who, when detained, declared that he was innocent and would demand that extradition papers should be presented before he went back to Connecticut. He changed his mind as to that, however, and came back here and presented himself at the police station. He is now held in a bond of $100. Goldstein is said to have a defense, in that he delivered the cream that did not go to the store to the home of Tudisco and that he delivered it in good faith. Prosecutor Hollandersky stated a few days ago that Tudisco had turned state's evidence and had assisted in the unraveling of the case. How Mrs. Patterson withstood the losses claimed is a mystery.

Louis I. Allen, 18 Algert street, lodged a complaint with the police this afternoon because of the acts of a malicious person. James H. Deakyne, a submarine base petty officer could not have had more good fortune if he had bought it than he had Saturday evening when his car was in collision with an automobile at Willetta and Montauk avenues. The spot is where the highway crosses and is dangerous for all who do not keep a watch on what traffic is moving along there. Evidently Deakyne did not use the vigilance he should have exercised and his car and another crashed. Both cars were overturned and damaged, but their occupants escaped practically unhurt. The chief's little son was in the car and he too, got away uninjured. Deakyne explained to the court that he had bought the car a few days ago and then was told to present himself for examination as to his qualifications to drive a car this morning. He attempted to drive from the submarine base to his home on the avenue when the smash happened. He said there was no particular damage except to his car. In police court this morning judgment was suspended in his case but he was told to get a license, before he attempted to operate a car again.

BANK STREET WIDENING VOTED BY CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 15—The city council this evening took the first steps toward the widening of Bank street by cutting back the sidewalks, also voted to endeavor to secure the removal of all wires of telephone and telegraph companies and poles, which means the placing of the wire underground. The property on both sides of the street is to be assessed for benefits and allowed any damages that it may be decided such property should receive. The street railway company is to be assessed for one-half the cost of double tracking the street in that such work requires filling and excavating. The whole scheme is the biggest undertaking the city has yet engaged in. Two members vigorously opposed the plan, and Councilor Streeter called it ridiculous. Councilor May was also opposed to the scheme. The alterations are to be made as public improvements and the cost of the same is to be assessed against the abutting property owners who are benefitted, which means all of them. Councilor Murray was absent. Those voting in favor of the plan were Messrs Fox, Woodruff, Scott and Whitton. The last named is a member of the planning board and the scheme comes from that body. The matter has yet to go to the compensation board and there will be hearings on the scheme. It is supposed that double tracks will be laid in the street and that parking will be permitted, with restrictions, on both sides of the highway. Mr. Streeter claimed that the congestion would be greater under the new arrangement than it has ever been. He said that to relieve the congestion was the purpose and that such would not be accomplished.

WAH JONG WAS NOT DEAD BUT HAD SLIPPED FROM TOWN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 15—The police early this evening were informed that Wah Jong, proprietor of a Chinese laundry, 294 Main street, was missing from the laundry and that the place having been closed two days, it was feared that Jong might be dead in the establishment. Patrolman Augustus Ray was sent to the laundry to conduct an investigation and in order to gain admission to the place the officer was compelled to smash a window and then work his body through the opening. Once inside the laundry Officer Ray learned that Jong had evidently decided to vacate the city, for the laundry equipment had been almost entirely removed from the place, everything easily movable having been taken away. Even electric light wires entering the place had been snipped, for what reason it was not revealed. Whether Jong is in debt is not known, but it is believed that he is under obligation to some of his Chinese acquaintances and for that reason decided to secretly depart from the city. Jong had been in business but a comparatively short time.

At a dinner party given Saturday night by Mr and Mrs. William H. Hull, of Farrington avenue, guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Worth, of Norwich, and Mrs. and Mrs Noah Lucas, of New Britain.

D. Arnold Kohn,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: Please be informed that your photodrama entitled, Tell Me Why, has been shown to a great number of people in this city; more people than I expected. It will no doubt be of great interest to you to know that I have received comments on this feature from educators, clergymen, city officials and club women. It has attracted to my theater the best people of the city.

F. N. Buck, mayor; L. U. Gaston, chief of police and Mrs. Maude Kirkpatrick who constitute the local censor board showed their appreciation of this picture by issuing a statement through the local newspapers endorsing and recommending it.

I cannot speak too highly of this feature.

Wishing you continued success, I am,

(Signed) J. F. Binkley, Mgr
Oklah Theater.

Tell Me Why, deals with one of the most important and problematical questions of the present time, that is, Birth Control, and answers many questions that are foremost in the public's mind today.

The success or failure in modern marriage depends upon the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the great sex laws.

Tell Me Why, is a drama taken from real life, a tremendous human story of motherlove, telling all and showing all, you see a vision of life before birth.

Because of the delicate nature of the subject matter special shows for women only and men only are offered. Children under 16 admitted only with parent.

During the afternoons at 2:15 and 7:15 evenings women only will be admitted, while at night the shows will start at 8:30 for men only.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Rat Killing Demonstration This Week

Wednesday and Thursday of this week people in Norwich and vicinity will have an opportunity to see a new method for rat killing. A product known as Cyanokas Dust will be used. This dust is pumped into the rat burrows and forms a gas, this poisoning the rats. However the rats do not die in the burrows. They seek the outside air and immediately die.

The demonstrations are to be conducted by William Ellis, a representative of the American Cyanamid Sales Co., in conjunction with the New London County Farm Bureau. Mr Ellis has had wide experience in rat extermination campaigns. The demonstrations are to be conducted as follows: Wednesday, 10 a. m., Fellows Bros. farm Plain Hill; Wednesday, 2 p. m., Avery farms, Franklin; Thursday, 2 p. m., Branford farms, Groton.

People who are troubled by the damage done by rats will be interested in these demonstrations. In the United States toll collected by rats amounts to $200,000,000 a year, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Everyone who has rats on his premises pays a portion of this loss.

Lyceum Theater

The attraction at the Lyceum, New London Tuesday and Wednesday March 16-17, with a matinee Wednesday night will be The Poor Nut, the highly amusing comedy which comes here direct from its ten months run in New York and ten weeks engagement in Boston. This comedy is the work of J. C. Nugent and Elliott Nugent, co-authors of Kempy which also had a year's run on Broadway.

The Poor Nut is the most successful college comedy since The College Widow of George Ade swept the country a decade ago.

The story concerns itself with one John Miller who wants to be a professor but whose romantic tendencies have entangled him with a dominating young woman of a rival university who proceeds to analyze him, preparatory to marrying him. Cornered, he is forced to break the ties that are binding him by entering the track team and infuriated into madness, winning the big relay race and the girl of his choice.

The Poor Nut does not attempt to solve any problems. It is frankly designed for entertainment and as such hits the bull's eye. The original New York cast is intact, including Elliot Nugent, the featured player, Norma Lee, Ruth Hammond Percy Helton Grant Mills, Cornelius Keefe, Wrigh' Kramer, and one hundred others. Patterson McNutt, the producer, has mounted the piece handsomly, and has the most realistic stadium scene ever seen on any stage.

Broadway Theater

If life was made for laughter, whoever attends the Broadway theater while The Cohens and Kellys, the Universal-Jewel, is the feature, will live a complete life during the run of the picture.

The Cohens and Kellys, is life jammed with wholesome human touches of pathos and comedy.

The Irish policeman who opens his heart to the Jewish family is played by Charlie Murray whose most recent roles have been as a character comedian. He is exceptionally good in this part.

Teamed with him in furnishing much of the comedy is Kate Price Price, a real Irish lady from Ireland, while on the other end of the balance are Vera Gordon, the famous hit of Humoresque and George Sidney, a stage actor of 32 years experience. These two Jewish players contribute their quota of laughs.

Playing a rather wistful part devoid of comedy, Olive Hasbrouck, as a romantic lead, gives a performance of dramatic depth that immediately brands her as one of the new school of girls that contributes the stars of tomorrow. Jason Robards does well with his role and Nat Carr is a new find for a villain. Not more than a year ago he was the comedian with a large musical show.

Two boys, Bobby Gordon and Mickey Bennett, give clever performances. The story is from Aaron Hoffman's famous stage play, Two Blocks Away.

Other short features include a comedy and news.

MARKET CLOSED STRONG

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP)—Stock prices bounded upward in the last few minutes of trading today after an early period of irregularity which was featured by the weakness of the southern railroad shares. Trading, which was rather dull early in the session, quickened on the rebound, total sales aggregating 1,471,200 shares.

Oil and motor shares led the recovery, General Petroleum was in the vanguard of the petroleum group, climbing over four points to a new high record at 65 on reports that it would be absorbed by the Standard Oil company of New York through an exchange of stock on a two for one basis. Substantial gains also were reported by California Petroleum, General Asphalt, and Pan-American B.

Motor Trucks, selling ex-dividend, moved from 120 1-4 to 124 1-2 for a net gain of 3 points on the day. General Motors, Hudson, Fisher Body and Stewart-Warner closed 1 to nearly 3 points higher.

Weakness of several of the southern rail shares was attributed to the widespread circulation of rumors that the Florida land boom had reached its peak, that some of the real estate developments had met with a reversal of fortune and that the winter season had been shorter than usual. Atlantic Coast Line broke 18 1-4 points to 208, but snapped back to 215. Seaboard Air Line common fell 5 1-4 to 33 3-4 and then rallied to 36 and the preferred dropped 3 1-4 to 87 3-4, closing at the bottom. The minimum prices of all three were new low records for the year.

Southern Railway sold off over 2 points to 111 3-4 but closed a point above the low. Other rails were mixed. Delaware and Hudson was run up 2 3-4 points to 171, closing near the top, and Canadian Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Pere Marquette and Texas and Pacific showed net gains of about 1 to 2 points. On the other hand, the St. Paul issues, Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago and Alton preferred Pittsburgh and West Virginia, St. Louis Southwestern and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred showed net declines of one to 3 points.

The announcement that the "Kat" deferred dividend had been raised from 6½ to 8½ annually was made after the market closed. The stock closed at 91 up 3-4 on the day.

The late rally was accompanied by predictions of easier money rates, now that the first federal income tax payments are out of the way. General Electric rallied over 7 points to 325 1-2 United States Cast Iron Pipe jumped 4 points to 178 and Air Reduction, United Chemical, American Can, Fox Film, Loews, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Union Carbide showed net gains of two points or more.

There were several soft spots among the specialties. Ward Baking B coinsured 7 1-2 points to 52, a new low for the year, and then rallied to 53 3-4. Mid Continent Petroleum company dropped from its early high of 107 1-2 to 99 1-2, also a new low, and then snapped back to 103 1-2, off 2 5-8 on the day.

The principal commodity markets were lower. Wheat sagged 1 1-2 to 2 cents a bushel in sympathy with lower foreign prices, but made partial recovery toward the close. The cotton market was dull and irregular, final quotations being 40 points lower to six points higher. Raw sugar was unchanged, but futures were slightly easier in reflection of more liberal offerings in the spot market. Coffee prices dropped 15 to twenty points.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper were unchanged.

At extreme break of nearly 50 points Belgian francs, part of which was later recovered, featured the reaction in foreign exchange market. Selling of Belgian bills presumably was inspired by reports that the proposed refunding plan would involve the stabilization of the currency around the present level. The other native European currencies showed moderate recessions although they may have been influenced by developments at home. Demand sterling ruled 1-16 of a cent lower at 4.85 11-16 and French francs were again quoted below five cents, a new record low of about three 34 1-3. Most of the South American issues yielded fractionally.

Fluctuations in the public utility group were again rather narrow. American Gas and Electric dropped two points to 76, and American Super-Power B. Electric Investors and United Light and Power declined a point or more.

Land company of Florida fell back 1 3-4 points with some of the selling undoubtedly influenced by unfavorable rumors regarding the Florida land boom. Gillette Safety Razor, Allen Coal, Goodyear Tire, Purity Baking B and Sears Roebuck (new) also fell back a point or more. Sparks-Withington dropped 3 3-4 points to a new low record at 16 1-2 and St. Regis Paper fell 4 1-2 points on a few sales. The feature of the bond trading was a drop of 2 3-4 points to 112 3-4 in Northern States Power convertible 6 1-2s.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 15—(AP)—Notwithstanding late rallies today in the wheat market here, prices ruled lower, chiefly as a result of unexpected tension in the league of nations council. Chicago closing prices for wheat were unsettled at 3-8c to 1c net declines. May new $1.65 1-4 to $1.65 1-2 and July $1.42 3-8 to $1.42 5-8, corn 3-8 to 5-8c off. Oats a shade to 1-8 and 1-4c down, and provisions unchanged to 12c lower.

Rallying power which showed itself in the wheat market, especially near the end of the day, was associated with gossip that the Canadian growers pool had sold 2,000,000 bushels of wheat for export.

Extreme smallness of contract stocks of wheat in Chicago tended also to help the market here to recover from the shock of the unlooked for break at Liverpool, which carried British prices down to 7 cents discount as compared with Chicago May delivery.

Corn and oats lost ground, affected mainly by the depression of wheat and by a further enlargement of the corn visible supply total.

Provisions had a downward slant, in line with hog values and with grain.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP)—Erratic fluctuations in stock prices today were accompanied by marked unsettlement in the bond market, which failed to maintain the strong tone developed on last week's recovery. Selling pressure was directed mainly against railroad liens, which proved vulnerable because of the weakness of the carrier shares.

Uneasiness over the Belgian financial situation, occasioned by a precipitate drop of almost half a cent in the franc and reports that loan negotiations in London had struck a snag, caused scattered selling of Belgian bonds, but the declines were limited to a point or less. The present uncertainty is not expected to interfere seriously with arrangements for a new international loan although it may delay the discussions.

Railroad obligations followed the downward trend of these stocks without developing acute weakness, although the same motives apparently accounted for the selling in both markets. Seaboard Air Line issues were the hardest hit, four of them falling one to two points on disturbing rumors regarding Florida real estate speculation.

Norfolk & Western convertible 6s dropped four points and the consolidated 4s a point, but Atlantic Coast Line and Southern Railway liens held firm in the face of breaks in these stocks. Pennsylvania 4s of 1952, Union Pacific refunding 4s and Southern Pacific collateral 4s also yielded to selling pressure but some of the St. Paul, New York, Chicago and Northwestern issues displayed independent strength. Florida East Coast 4 1-2s were aided by the prompt oversubscription of the road's new $15,000,000 bond issue.

Soft spots in the public utility and industrial groups included the local traction issues, the Wilson and Co. 7 1-2s, and Botany Mills 6 1-2s, which receded one to three points. Liberty bonds were firm.

GREENEVILLE

The community workers held their March meeting with the president, Mrs. Charles F. Sears of Prospect street on Thursday afternoon. A large number of the members were present and one new member was added to the society. Encouraging reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and work supervisor and paten work was distributed for the quilt which the women are now making. Plans were discussed for their annual May basket distribution and other matters of business disposed of and the remainder of the afternoon was given over to a social time. First came the initiation of the new members and then there was an enjoyable orchestra selection by some of the talented members, after which the ladies were invited to the dining room for lunch. The table was handsomely decorated with green crepe paper, green candles and green favors in honor of the March patron and a delectable luncheon to which the women all did justice was served by the hostess. Mrs. Sears was assisted in serving by Mrs. John MacDougall and Mrs. George Howard poured. The next meeting is to be held with Mrs. John McNeely of Boswell avenue and the members will make May baskets.

The Missionary Circle of the Third Baptist church met with Mrs. Irving Larkin of Ripley Hill for their March meeting. Nine members were present and the meeting was in charge of the president Mrs. Herbert H. Peckham who after leading the devotional exercises, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Henry Sebastian whose subject was World Wide Guild work. The women sewed on paten work for a quilt to be donated to Mather school, Beaufort, N. C., later in the year. The report was given of the proceeds from the missionary play, "For Want of Funds" which was given March 5th by the Missionary circle and World Wide guild of the church and the guild also reported mailing over the $100 during the year, that they had set out for which is sent to headquarters and used for missionary purposes. Last year $600 was sent by the combined societies of the Third Baptist church to the missionary board and efforts are being made again to raise their quota. The April meeting of the circle is to be held in the chapel with a supper for the members and friends.

The Minstrel troupe of the Baptist church is now having rehearsals for a production. The money raised is to be used toward the organ fund and indications are that it will be bigger and better than last year's minstrel, which was a very good success.

Friends of Mrs. E. D. Trick of Bridgeport formerly of Greeneville, will be glad to know that she is on the gain, after having broken her leg by a fall in front of her home, about four weeks ago. Her husband was a former pastor of the Baptist church.

SAYS INDIAN BATTLE MEMORIAL SHOULD BE AT EAST GREAT PLAIN

Much interest was aroused in the West End Community association meeting Monday night at the Elizabeth street school house by the suggestion made by the speaker of the evening, Arthur L. Peale, that a memorial ought to be elected at the Great Plain to mark the great Indian tribal battle that took place there between the Mohegans and the Narragansetts.

Mr. Peale spoke upon the "Indians of New England," a subject upon which he has put considerable study that has made him authority upon Indian lore, especially relating to this part of the state.

Gave Illustrated Talk

Mr. Peale's talk was illustrated by 60 lantern slides showing pictures relating to the early discoveries of Columbus, the Cabots, Verazzant, Cartier, Gosnold, Champlain, Hudson, Capt. John Smith and Adrian Block. These explorers all met the American Indian and from their records and maps much has been learned of the habits, customs and mode of living of the aborigines. This was followed by a short history of the Nipmucks, Wangunks, Podunks, Pequots and Mohegans. Mr. Peale in his description of the "Battle of the Great Plains" and the causes leading up to this great encounter quoted DeForest, the leading historian on Connecticut Indian history, as follows:

"Sequassen now began to play his part against the Mohegans and their sachem. Some of his warriors assassinated a leading Mohegan, and others waylaid Uncas himself, and shot arrows at him as he was sailing in a canoe down the Connecticut. Uncas complained of the provocations to the magistrates at Hartford, and Governor Haynes, having summoned the two sachems, attempted to effect a reconciliation between them. Uncas said that the Mohegan who had been murdered was a man of consequence, and that he must have six of Sequassen's warriors to put to death in revenge. Haynes labored hard to reduce this extravagant demand, so contrary to English ideas of justice, and with difficulty persuaded Uncas to accept of one individual who was acknowledged to be the murderer. But the murderer was likewise a man of consequence, and he was moreover a relation and a great favorite of Miantinomo. Sequassen therefore would not surrender him; said that he would defend him by force of arms; and expressed this reliance upon the Narragansett sachem for assistance. The magistrates, finding an agreement impracticable, dismissed the two sachems, and gave Uncas liberty to avenge his own wrongs. He did so; he invaded Sequassen's country; defeated him, killing seven or eight of his warriors, and wounding 13; burned his wigwams, and carried away a quantity of plunder.

"This was soon known in the country of the Narragansetts, and Miantinomo began to think of war and revenge. He sent a message to Governor Haynes, complaining that Uncas had injured his relation, Sequassen, and his allies, the Indians of Connecticut river. Haynes replied that the English had no hand in the affair, and did not mean to uphold or encourage Uncas in such conduct as he described. The Narraganset chief also gave notice of what the Mohegans had done, to Winthrop, governor of Massachusetts; and asked, in particular, with much earnestness, whether the people of the Bay would be offended with him if he should make war upon Uncas. The reply of Winthrop was still more satisfactory than that of Haynes; for he informed Miantinomo that, if Uncas had done him or his friends any wrong, and refused to grant satisfaction, the English would leave him to choose his own course. Doubtless the representations which Miantinomo made to both Haynes and Winthrop, were considerably exaggerated; but these gentlement, it seems, did not consider the matter worthy of investigation, and the Narraganset sachem had now fulfilled the treaty of 1636, by submitting his complaints to the English before he appealed to arms. He immediately, therefore, set about avenging his own and his kinsman's quarrel, with more promptness and energy, indeed, than good fortune. Collecting a large band of Narragansett warriors, he advanced rapidly and unexpectedly into the country of his rival.

"On a sudden, the Mohegan watchers on the hills of Norwich beheld the Narragansetts emerge from the woods, and cross the river Shetucket, at a fording place a little above its junction with the Quinnibaug. The runners immediately dashed off, some to carry the startling intelligence to their sachem, some to alarm and collect their scattered warriors. Uncas had a fort on the banks of the Thames, about five miles below the site of the city of Norwich; and here, probably, the messengers of danger found him. The Mohegans came pouring in on all sides from their villages and scattered wigwams, and he was soon able to advance towards the enemy with nearly the whole force of his tribe. The chroniclers of those times say that he had four or five hundred warriors, and that the invaders amounted to nine hundred or a thousand. These estimates, depending as they must have done entirely on the reports of the Indians, are undoubtedly exaggerated; and, if we rate the Mohegans at three hundred, and their adversaries at twice that number, we shall go as high, I suspect, as probability will warrant.

"Uncas moved forward three or four miles, until he came to a spot situated in the present township of Norwich, and now known as the Great Plain. Here he halted his men on a small rising ground, and explained to them a stratagem by which he hoped to make up for his inferiority in numbers. The Narragansetts, in the meantime, had crossed the fords of the Yantic, and soon appeared descending in loose array the declivity opposite to the Mohegans. Uncas now sent forward a messenger to ask an interview with Miantinomo. It was granted, and the two sachems shortly met each other in a narrow space between the armies. On both sides, the warriors, standing within bow-shot of each other, remained spectators. The Narragansetts were waiting unsuspiciously the result of the conference. The Mohegans were watching anxiously for the preconcerted signal from their sachem. Uncas addressed Miantinomo on the folly of mutually wasting the lives of their brave warriors in a contest which could as well be decided by themselves alone. "Let us fight it out," he concluded; "if you kill me, my men shall be yours; if I kill you, your men shall be mine."

"Miantinomo was a tall and strong man, nor is it likely that he was so deficient in personal courage as to reject Uncas' proposition through fear. But he was confident in the superior numbers of his followers, and was resolved not to throw away what seemed to be a certainty, for what was clearly an uncertainty. "My men came to fight," said he, "and they shall fight."

"Uncas had expected this answer, and now the time had come for his stratagem. He threw himself suddenly upon the ground; his men recognized the signal; and, drawing their ready-bent bows, the poured a shower of arrows among the astonished Narragansetts. Uncas sprang up, and his warriors, pealing forth the yell of battle, and brandishing their tomahawks, rushed forward with him upon the staggering enemy. The Narragansetts, panic struck at this sudden assault, made hardly an attempt at resistance, and speedily took to flight. The Mohegans pursued them with impetuous fury, drove them through the shallows of the river, and continued the chase into the forests beyond. All over that rude and hilly country the pursuers and pursued might be seen, leaping over rocks and dashing through thickets, like wolves in chase of timid deer. Miantinomo fled with his followers, but his flight was impeded by an English corselet which he had put on to protect him in battle. Two of the Mohegan captains followed him closely, and still further prevented his escape by springing against him and jostling him as he ran. They might have taken or killed him with their own hands, but this honor they were willing to reserve to their sachem. The first of these men who reached the flying chieftain was a sagamore, named Tantaquigeon, whose descendants were long held noble among the Mohegans, and have scarcely yet ceased to boast of this exploit of their ancestor. Uncas, a robust and powerful man, finally came up and seized Miantinomo by the shoulder. The ill-fated sachem, as soon as he felt the hand of his enemy upon him, ceased his flight and sat down upon the ground. His heart must indeed have been swelled with grief and shame; but from those closed lips came no word to indicate its misery. Thirty of the Narragansetts had been slain, and, undoubtedly, many more wounded; the rest, without an effort to wipe out their disgrace, or to rescue their captive sachem, retreated to their own country.

"Miantinomo still continued silent, although some of his warriors were brought up and tomahawked before his eyes. Uncas was disappointed at not being able to extract from him a single confession of weakness or fear. "Why do you not speak?" said he. "If you had taken me I should have besought you for my life." But the captive made no answer."

Mohegan Trial and Shantok

The speaker referred to the past work of the Norwich chamber of commerce and other similar organizations in the establishment of the "Mohegan Trail", and the successful efforts of the present chamber of commerce in the preservation of Fort Shantok. Also to the recent meeting held at Worcester where a discussion was held as to the upbuilding of New England. The United Commercial Travellers are now very active in reviving the interest in the Mohegan Trail and having the same lighted the entire route and trees planted along this famous highway. These efforts are highly commendable and should be supported by our citizens in general. In my opinion eastern Connecticut has a wonderful historical background.

At New London we have the old mill of Winthrop, the Nathan Hale school and the Huguenot house, Groton has Fort Griswold captured by Benedict Arnold in 1781, Ledyard the fort of Decatur of the war of 1812, Montville, Fort Shantok, the site of the home of Samson Occom and Cochegun rock, Norwich the "Royal Burying Ground of the Mohegans", Uncas monument, Miantonomo monument, the home and tomb of Samuel Huntington, the plot where the French soldiers are buried, Lebanon the war office and home of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull and the burial places of Trumbull and Williams who signed the Declaration of Independence. Columbia, the site of the Indian school and the home of Wheelock its founder, Coventry the home and monument to Nathan Hale, Abington, the Wulf Den, Brooklyn the monument to Gen. Israel Putnam, Canterbury was the home of Cleveland who founded that great city in Ohio bearing his name, Putnam is near to Lake Chargogg—the happy hunting ground of the Nipmucks, Killingly Lake Mashapaug with its legend, Mystic the Capt. John Mason monument, and I have not named them all, probably a score or more interesting places could be named of great historical interest.

Memorial At East Great Plain

President Rogers and Secretary Chandler of the Connecticut state chamber of commerce strongly urged that the eastern part of the state get together and make our interest felt. Now my friends, on the "Great Plains", which is a part of your own town of Norwich, was fought the battle which I have previously described between the Mohegans and Narragansetts, and which has been called the greatest battle between Indians recorded in the annals of New England. Should we not have a memorial on the "Great Plains"? Also from Norwich Town Green was the Indian trail which later became the "First Turnpike in New England" and the "Second in America". This historic highway crosses the "Great Plains" and is destined in the near future to become an important thoroughfare. Should this not too be marked with appropriate milestones or other distinguishing marks? I fully believe that these memorials would add to the attractiveness of your locality.

Business Meeting Held

President C. Edward Carpenter who had introduced the speaker, conducted the business meeting that followed the address.

Announcement was made of the St. Patrick's bridge and whist that is to be held and there was a discussion along playground lines in which the desirability of the city securing land for playground uses was advocated. The president was empowered to appoint a committee of five to have charge of the association's playground. Other phases of activity for the association during the coming months were mentioned and the meeting came to a close with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Overheated Pipe Started Fire.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon the fire department was called out by telephone for a small fire at No. 149 Broadway, in the apartment occupied by Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg. The fire was caused by an overheated heater pipe which set fire to the flooring. Three gallons of chemical were used in extinguishing the blaze.

JEWS OF AMERICA AROUSED TO AID EUROPE

Reports from several parts of the country about the $15,000,000 United Jewish campaign were received at Norwich Jewish Relief headquarters which indicate that the Jews of America are thoroughly aroused to the need for prompt action in order to help the suffering Jews of Eastern Europe, the suffering masses in Poland, Gillich, Bessarabia and Russia. Missouri which has accepted a quota of $700,000 organized at a record-breaking conference of the state's leading Jews, held at the Columbia club, St. Louis, on Sunday, February 28th. David A. Brown was the principal speaker and Julius Glaser presided. Delegates from every part of the state had practically the same message for the conference from their communities: "We know the story, we know our duty, and we are ready to start at once." $46,000, or nearly one-half of its quota was reported by Tampa, Fla., on Monday, March 1st, with a determined effort to raise the full $100,000 assigned to it by the end of the wek. The Jews of Springfield, Ill., celebrated Purim by completing and passing their quota of $50,000 in the United Jewish campaign. This is three times larger than any sum ever raised in Springfield for philanthropic purposes, and the Jewish community is justly proud of its achievement. Bets that had been made in town that the total would not reach $30,000, and then $35,000 enriched the fund, the winners paying their winnings into the treasury. The last dramatic act of the campaign occurred at the city's Purim festival where the assembled children insisted on the privilege of completing the fund. "We are tired, but happy" reads a wire from the campaign chairman Maurice J. Kellner "We are happy to send you $50,000 as a Purim Gift to our unfortunate brethren in Europe. May other communities do likewise—and better."

Real sacrifice is reflected in the returns that are coming into headquarters from isolated Jewish communities in the Far West. Chairman David Naftalin, of South Dakota telegraphs from Fargo that twelve Jews in Devil's Lake pledged over $3,000. "These are men of moderate means, but with big Jewish souls, says Mr. Naftalin in his message to national chairman Brown. "You may be absolutely sure that the quota from Devil's Lake will be oversubscribed. Similarly in Douglas, Ariz., fourteen persons on Sunday pledged $3,043, of which one-third was immediately paid in. "More to come" wires the United Jewish campaign's representative in that section. $1,500 was subscribed by Levy Brothers, the leading merchants there and of the others three are women and one a child." Tennessee has fired the first gun of its local United Jewish campaign with a contribution of $6,500 at its opening function, the quota of Chattanooga is $20,000, which will be raised in a short intensive canvass.

A contribution of $5,000 from a non-Jew was announced from national headquarters of the United Jewish campaign. The gift was an unsolicited subscription from S. Sterling, owner and publisher of the Houston Post Dispatch and was sent to N. D. Naman, chairman of the campaign which is now on in Houston. A telegraphic report from David A. Brown, national chairman, now in the west on a tour in behalf of the fund, announces the raising of $96,000 in three Texas cities. Houston heads the list with $60,000, Dallas following with $30,000 and El Paso has $6,000. Two $5,000 gifts in addition to the subscription by Mr. Sterling were made in Houston, the chairman, Mr. Naman donated $5,000 and M. Sakowitz also contributing a similar amount.

Justice Alexander W. Chanbliss of the supreme court of Tennessee has sent a check for $100 to the Jewish citizens of Chattanooga, and a letter in which he says that he claims the right, though a non-Jew, to make a contribution to the campaign. Justice Chambliss, is former mayor of Nashville, and in his letter to Mr. Wise he asks that contributions be not limited to Jews," both because your people have given generously many times without regard to racial lines, and for the larger reason that this campaign is properly upon no such limitations." North Dakota Jewry will raise $50,000, their share for the $15,000,000 overseas chest. A quota of $50,000 was accepted by the leaders and immediately following an address by Mr. Brown on the plight of the Jews abroad, the leaders present pledged $25,000 thus securing half of the state quota. Alexander Stern and Sons of Fargo agreed to subscribe 10 per cent of all funs raised in the state. Mr. Stern was chosen state treasurer of the fund. The quota for the state of Texas is $350,000 and campaigns are now on in many cities in that state to reach that figure. The three cities named are not complete with their work and larger totals will be reported. It for several years, Joseph Schanfield of Minneapolis, defying his physicians orders, accepted the state chairmanship for Minnesota of the United Jewish campaign which will raise $300,000 in al "drive" scheduled to begin early in April. This action was taken at a conference held at the Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis, on Sunday, February 21st, which was addressed by national leaders from every part of the state.

REV. J. B. ALDRICH DECIDES TO RETIRE FROM PASTORATE

Having served in the ministry for many years, Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich Town, for nearly five years, taking up that charge in May 1921, is to retire, at the closing of the New England Southern conference this spring.

Since locating in Norwich Town, Rev. Mr. Aldrich has had the hearty cooperation of his faithful wife and other members of his family in community interests, as well as those of the church. The family came here from Jewett City.

FORMER WATERFORD MAN DIED AT TOTTENVILLE

Edwin Osborne Chapman, 53, a native of Waterford and long prominent in the schools of New Jersey of which he was state superintendent for 12 years, died of pneumonia Saturday morning at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Howard Chapman, 7-372 Amboy road, Tottenville, Staten Island.

Mr. Chapman was born in Waterford April 1, 1842, the son of James and Amelia Chapman. Upon completion of his elementary education in the public schools of Waterford, he entered the Bulkeley school in New London, from which he graduated at the age of 15.

Upon graduating from Bulkeley Mr. Chapman entered the State Normal school in New Britain, graduating in 1859. He returned to New London and the Civil war. He enlisted with the taught school until the beginning of Third Regiment Infantry, Connecticut Volunteers, of which Gen. George Haven was then captain. After the war, Mr. Chapman made a survey of Indian reservations of the country for the United States government.

Mr. Chapman made his home in the Bronx for a time, and was one of the organizers of the Walnut club of that borough. Removing to New Jersey, he became principal of the Hudson City high school. After Jersey City and Hudson City townships merged he was elected superintendent of schools, but was legislated out of office by the new charter in 1871.

He served as president of the board of education of Jersey City from 1874 to 1878. Three years later he became a candidate for the assembly from Hudson county, being defeated by seven votes. He was elected to the assembly in 1883.

Mr. Chapman was many years a book critic for the American News Co., and also was editor of the Book Seller, Stationery and News Dealer magazine, published by the company. At the time of his death he was engaged in writing a history of the American News Co., which work was not completed.

He had made his home on Staten Island five years.

He is survived by three daughters, five grand-daughters, two grandsons and five great-grandchildren. He also leaves a niece, Mrs. Warren Chapman, of Monument street, Groton.

Rain, Snow, Fog, Ice

Rain began falling late Monday afternoon, turning to snow, so that by early evening an inch or two of whiteness covered the walks.

By 10 o'clock there was a heavy fog over parts of the city and the streets were very slippery as the temperature was at the freezing point coating the highways with a thin layer of ice.

THERE'S REAL INSPIRATION IN A NEW AND MODISH HAT

New millinary is appearing at every smart social affair now.

Winter hats grow heavy—in addition to showing a frazzled and faded look, suggesting seasonable replacement.

It seems as though one could play a bette hand at bridge, feel conscious of being at one's best at luncheon or tea, knowing that one's hat is beyond criticism.

In anticipation of the various social demands of the spring, a wide line of handsome headwear was being offered Monday.

Especially noticeable was a small poke in the fashionable love-bird green, with gigolet (dented) crown effective garniture of fine flowers.

A light brown crepe de chine model was smart in its adornment of roses in soft pink shading.

Commanding instant attention was a large hat in the modish wild honey tine, its trimming orange velvet.

Some of the designs on view were in Marie Antoinette—which is a pale rose—in crystal gray and oak bluff, wood shades of green, and most enticing thts of Copen and Delft. The light-weight horsehair braid is a great advantage.

See these and other dainty hat models today. Where to find them is told by The Bulletin's advertisers.

JUDGE WALLER DESERVES DECISION IN SUIT

After hearing trial of the suit of the Lester & Wasley Co., of this city against the Turner-Stanton Co., also of this city, which was tried here before him Monday in the common pleas court, Judge C. B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision.

The Lester & Wasley Co. brings suit for $580 damages on the claim that on or about May 18, 1925, the Turner-Stanton Co., verbally engaged the plaintiff to manufacture two winding machines and agreed to pay the plaintiff reasonably therefor. The machines were delivered on or about Aug. 31, 1925, and the plaintiff alleges that $697.50 in labor and materials was expended and the plaintiff has not been paid for the same.

The defendant in answer sets up that the Lester & Wasley Co. left without the defendant's knowledge, consent or authorization, two winding machines which were cumbersome, awkward and wholly unfit for the defendant's use.

Percival W. Chapman, secretary, treasurer and manager of the Lester & Wasley Co., who was the first witness called by Attorney Charles L. Stewart, counsel for the plaintiff, told of visiting the Turner-Stanton mill on Broad street, where cordage, braid and wire goods are manufactured. The witness said he saw Robert H. Beebe, the superintendent, who told him to see Clarence E. Carpenter, after stating that the firm could use a winding machine of a certain type. After meeting and talking with Mr. Carpenter at the Thames National bank, the witness said that George W. Armstrong, superintendent and mechanical engineer for the Lester & Wasley Co., visited the Turner-Stanton mill to see if the two machines could be made. An order was entered for two machines, Mr. Chapman said, and soon afterwards the work on them was begun. Thirty-seven dollars and forty-four cents worth of materials were used, and 489 hours of labor at $1.35 was spent on the making of the machines. The machines each weighed about 80 pounds and the witness said every part was of special make.

On cross examination by Attorney Arthur F. Libby, counsel for the Turner-Stanton Co., it was brought out that when the winding machines were nearly completed, Mr. Carpenter saw them and he later told Chapman that the machines would not do the work.

Testimony that the 489 hours spent on the machines and the money spent for materials were reasonable was given by Miner Welmore of 87 McKinley avenue, chief engineer at the American Thermos Bottle Co., and formerly with the General Electric company, and in business for himself as a draftsman, designer, etc.

Other witnesses testifying were: Clarence Barber, George Armstrong, Oscar Jouret, Robert H. Beebe, Jesse E. Rogers and Clarence E. Carpenter.

TO PRESERVE THE LACARNO PEACE PACT REGARDLESS OF OUTCOME AT GENEVA

Unless Brazil Abandons by 10 O'Clock This Morning Its Opposition to Germany's Election to Seat in the Council of the L. of N. the Matter Will Be Dropped Until the Next Session of the Council in September—Signatories to the Locarno Treaty Have Decided That the Outcome at Geneva Will Not Be Permitted to Disrupt the Work Accomplished at Locarno.

GENEVA, March 16—(AP)—The allied and German statesmen are awaiting word from Rio Janeiro, and on this decision of the Brazilian government depends the question of whether Germany will enter the league of nations at this time.

The agreement between the allied delegates and the Germans is that if by ten o'clock Wednesday morning, when the assembly will convene, a message has not arrived authorizing Araullo Mello Franco, the Brazilian delegate, to vote for Germany, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, will immediately move adjournment until the next assembly of the question of Germany's election.

Brazil had not abandoned her attitude of opposition to Germany, so far as known today, and so convinced was the council of the league that no answer will come in the next three days that it voted with great reluctance to postpone all action on Germany's application for league membership and for a permanent seat in the council as exacted by the Locarno accords.

The belief is held among the delegates that unless a miracle happens, Germany will remain outside the league at least until next September, which is the month in which the league assembly next convenes.

New difficulties have darkened the horizon; the little entente has pressed the allies for a non-permanent seat next September as compensation for the projected resignation of Czechoslavakia, whose eminent statesman, Dr. Eduard Benes, has so brilliantly represented their ideas and interests in the league council.

Moreover, Spain, the seriousness of whose demand for a permanent seat has been rather ignored by the allies leaders came forward at tonight's tense secret session of the council and renewed her insistence for recognition. Furthermore, is is asserted that not every government of Europe has made diplomatic representations to Rio Janeiro, urging Brazil to recede from her intransigeant attitude.

When a member of the council was asked tonight by The Associated Press correspondent if he still expected a reply from Rio Janeiro, he answered: "It cannot possibly come for three days. It may not come at all. Moreover, there are fresh difficulties, including the Spanish difficulty, which make it practically certain that we cannot proceed tomorrow with the election of Germany."

TO RETAIN INTACT THE PEACE PACT OF LOCARNO

GENEVA, March 16—(AP)—The signatories of the Locarno agreements issued an official communique tonight stating that if obstacles render impossible the admission of Germany to the league of nations at this time, the Locarno signatories "are happy to recognise" that the work of peace realized at Locarno remains intact.

The communique expresses fear that the difficulties in the council crisis will persist, but says the signatories are convinced that these will be surmounted on the occasion of the next league assembly meeting and that an agreement concerning the conditions of Germany's entrance will be realized.

The text of the communique reads: "The representatives of Germany, Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy have met to examine the situation resulting from difficulties which have arisen and which hinder the accomplishment of their common wishes. They take note of the fact that they have reached an agreement and have overcome obstacles which had at one time risen between them.

"If, as there seems reason to feel, the above difficulties persist, the representatives of the seven powers who signed the protocol of Locarno would regret not to be able at this moment to reach the goal which they had in view; but they are happy to recognize that the work of peace which they realized at Locarno and which exists in all its value and all its force, remains intact.

"They remain attached to it today, as yesterday, and are firmly resolved to work together to maintain and develop it. They are convinced that on the occasion of the next session of the assembly, the difficulties which exist at this moment will be surmounted and that the agreement reached with regard to the conditions for the entry of Germany into the league of nations will be realized."

GOVERNMENT CIRCLES IN BERLIN NOT SURPRISED

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP)—Government circles express no surprise that the special session of the league assembly is aparently about to end without result and that Germany will have to wait until the fall for admission to the league of nations. It is understood that the German delegation will leave Geneva tomorrow unless Brazil has a change of mind at the last moment, and this is regarded as extremely unlikely.

There is general satisfaction at the communique issued by the Locarno signatories at Geneva, which is accepted as proving that Germany was in no way to blame for the failure of the conference. Her standpoint has been well known from the outset and has been preserved throughout all phases of the conference.

The determination set forth in the communique that notwithstanding the present setback, the nations which signed the Locarno agreements have resolved to carry out with their utmost energy the ideals laid down in these treaties is especially welcomed.

YALE GRADUATE MUST PAY $200 FOR ASSAULT

BRIDGEPORT, March 16.—(AP) — A decision handed down in superior court today by Judge Isaac Wolfe provides that William Card Moore, wealthy New York broker and Yale graduate, now residing at the Yale club, New York, must pay Mrs. Adele McMurtrie, of Greenwich, damages of $200 for an assault which he is alleged to have committed upon her during a brawl which occurred at the McMurtrie home September 24, 1925. She asked damages of $3,000.

Mrs. McMurtrie who is the wife of Douglas C. McMurtrie, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and head of McMurtrie, Inc., New York printers, alleged in her complaint that Moore came to her home on the night of September 24, 1925 in search of his wife and two children. Failing to gain entrance at either the front or side doors, the broker was said to have lowered a porch window, torn down a shade and scratched Mrs. McMurtrie's face and wrenched her thumb when she attempted to raise the window.

WOULD HAVE STATE BUY NEW GATE PRISON PROPERTY

HARTFORD, March 16—(AP)—"Because of its historical importance and the natural beauty of its surroundings, I feel that the state of Connecticut should acquire for park purposes the old New Gate prison property at least Granby," declared Lucius F. Robinson, chairman of the state park and forestry commission; following announcement this afternoon that the property is for sale.

"The state park and forestry commission," Mr. Robinson said, "has long regarded as desirable the acquisition of the tract. Unfortunately, the commission is without funds available to make the purchase. In view of this, I do hope that in some way enough interest will be stirred up to prompt some patriotic resident of Connecticut to buy the old prison site and either turn it over to the state or hold it until such time as the legislature may be enabled to ask for the necessary funds."

FORD AGENT DICKERING FOR OLD SCHOOLHOUSE

PITTSFIELD, N. H., March 16.—(AP)—Henry Ford's hunt for old school buildings for his colonial village near the Wayside inn has extended to this village, where a school house built in 1777 has caught his fancy. Ford's agen here has been trying to buy the quaint structure, but the township people are loath to lose it.

Except for one year the school house—called the Mountain school—has been in use since its creation. The pupils used to bake potatoes for their lunch in the fire place and once a group of mischief makers pushed the little house to the very brink of a 20-foot ravine near which it stands.

CLAIM THAT HEMORRHAGE CAUSED DEPUTY'S DEATH

CHIETI, Italy, March 16.—(AP)—Testifying in the court of Assizes today as to the alleged murder of the Socialist Deputy Giacomo Matteotti in 1924, Amerigo Dumini, one of a group of five fascist charged with the crime, declared that Matteotti was kidnapped June 10, 1924 unpremeditated impulse and died a short time later from a pulmonary hemorrhage brought on by excitement.

Matteotti's body was found two months after his death in a shallow grave, and a medical examination at the time seemed to indicate that he had died from injuries.

The other four accused men admitted their presence in Rome on the day of Matteotti's disappearance, but denied without qualification that they had any part in it.

SUSPECT RUM RING IN THE HILLMAN MURDER

CRANSTON, R. I., March 16.—(AP)—Authorities investigating the brutal murder Saturday night of Harold E. Hillman, 28 year old chain store manager, concentrated their activities today on investigation of a local rum running and hi-jacking gang whose operations have been curtailed by the coast guard blockade and the activities of the United States attorney's office in rounding up a big state liquor ring.

Police have been trying to connect this gang with the hold-up a week ago in Warwick of another chain store manager by two young men as yet unidentified. It is thought that the glove found near Hillman's body may belong to one of them and may link the two robberies.

Arrests For Fraud In The Florida Boom

Five Men Are Charged With Using the Mails to Defraud.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP) — The first arrests here for fraud in connection with the Florida boom were made today when government authorities took into custody, five men of the Griffin Development and Construction corporation. They were charged with using the mails to defraud.

Charles Greenhaus, secretary of the corporation, and whose activities as a stockholder have previously been under investigation, was one of the men arrested. Harry Griffin, president of the corporation, also was held. Bail for these two was fixed at $5,000 each after arraignment before United States Commissioner Cotter. William C. Price, Ivan Franklin, Israel and W. Kyle, salesmen, were held in $2,500 bail each.

Government officials charged that the Florida land boom was capitalized in such a manner that many patrons suffered losses through the purchase of lots represented as being owned by the corporation. Greenhaus and seven others recently were temporarily enjoined from further transactions in Florida land sales.

United States District Attorney Buckner, it was learned, began his investigation more than a month ago. According to a statement from the federal building postal cards signed by salesmen were sent to thousands of stockholders in defunct corporations, inviting them to call at the Griffin company's offices. When such persons called, government officials said, they were offered a chance to "recoup" their previous losses by purchasing lots in Putnam county, Florida, on the instalment plan.

CLAIM MONOPOLY OF BREAD BUSINESS IS IMPOSSIBLE

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—The Continental Baking company today, through George G. Barber, chairman of the board of directors, admitted limiting the activity of officers, directors and stockholders of firms it acquired, but claimed that its holdings in 83 firms could not exert a monopoly, as they produced only 4.2 per cent. of the bread consumed in tais country.

Mr. Barber, in testifying before John W. Addison, examiner for the federal trade commission, said that the members or companies acquired were forbidden by contract to re-enter the bakery business within five years or within 50 miles of their original business. He presented statistics which he said were based on the largest surveys ever made of the baking industry.

He asserted that 57,000,000 persons were served in the territory where the Continental company operates. The Continental's daily business, based on a five day week, averaged 2,300,000 pounds of bread and rolls, or eight per cent. of the baked bread consumed. He said that probably 40 per cent. of the housewives still baked their own bread.

He testified that in the territory where the Continental company operates it owns 827 ovens out of a total of 38,520.

A statement issued today by the company showed that in the 83 cities where the Continental company operates, only ten cities have shown decreases in small bakers' business and these were attributed to causes other than competition of the combine.

Monopoly of the bread business is impossible because of the ability of housewives to do their own baking shoud quality be lowered or prices become prohibitive, the statement said. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

COURT ORDERS RETURN OF 75,764 GALLONS OF ALCOHOL

CLEVELAND, O., March 16.—(AP)—Return to the Superior Industrial Alcohol company of 75,764 gallons of alcohol seized by the government during its investigation of an alleged bootleg conspiracy was ordered by Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver late today.

Judge Westenhaver also ordered labels lifted from the Superior plant and the property of the Prospect Refining and Chemical company, a subsidiary.

The orders will not affect the case, which resulted in the indictment by a federal grand jury yesterday of 112 men in 13 cities on conspiracy charges. United States Attorney A. E. Bernsteen said. It paves the way for a new action to obtain control of the alcohol and the plants, and to bring charges for evading tax payments, he added.

Several million dollars are due the government for taxes on alcohol withdrawn ostensibly for industrial purposes, but which was diverted to bootleg channels. It is alleged that thousands of gallons were withdrawn on government permits, exempt from the $2.20 a gallon revenue tax.

Earl S. Hanseon, proprietor of the Pool Car and Truck Service Corporation, St. Paul, Minn., and John Stauber, Cleveland railroad conductor, today pleaded guilty to charges contained in the indictment while dispatches from Minneapolis announced the surrender there of Grant D. Mason, a railroad employe. Bond was set at $5,000 each for Hansen and Stauber pending sentence.

Favorable Action on Prohibition Bureau

Measure Has Been Approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The administration's bill to created a bureau of prohibition in the treasury department, bearing the approval of the Anti-Saloon league and prohibition leaders generally, was approved today by the house ways and means committee.

The measure is the first proposed major change in the prohibition law to be reported out of committee since passage of the Volstead act. It will receive the legislative right of way and be taken up in the house in the near future.

While it is designed to strengthen the prohibition enforcement machinery, its consideration will at least open the flood gates of general prohibition debate, and may serve as the vehicle by which wet members can get before the house in the form of amendments their many and varied proposals for liberalization of the general prohibition law. Heretofore these proposals have been smothered in committee.

The bill was introduced by Chairman Green of the ways and means committee in addition to creating a prohibition bureau, it would set up in the treasury department a bureau of customs, and the two units would be administered by commissioners appointed by the secretary of the treasury at salaries of $8,000 a year. The personnel of both bureaus, excepting the higher officials, would be subject to the civil service regulations.

During hearings by the committee, Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, endorsed the bill as providing a much needed realignment of enforcement machinery.

Prohibition was the subject of one speech in the house today, but in the senate the recent most daily debate on that subject was omitted.

Representative Griffin, democrat, New York, speaking in the house, declared the 18th amendment, with one full swoop, had taken away half a billion dollars in property, and for the first time had written police regulations into the constitution.

GUILTY OF BEATING TO DEATH HIS FOSTER SON

BALTIMORE, Md., March 16.—(AP)—Ralph T. Coursey, 32 year- old trolley car conductor, today was found guilty of second degree murder in Baltimore county circuit court at Towson for beating to death his five-year-old foster son, Eldridge. He was sentenced immediately to 18 years in Maryland penitentiary, the maximum penalty under the Maryland law.

The verdict was returned and sentence pronounced by a bench of three judges, who took the case without argument late this afternoon and deliberated but briefly.

Coursey had spent the afternoon in the witness box vehemently denying his wife's accusation that he had flogged her child to death on Feb. 6. Mrs. Edna May Wright Coursey, herself convicted last week of manslaughter and now awaiting sentence in connection with the boy's death, took the stand against her husband yesterday and sobbed out the murder accusation for the second time. She has moved for a new trial.

When he stood to receive sentence, Coursey had only one remark to make: "I would like to say, if my wife is given a new trial, I would like to testify against her."

MAY BRING ACTION AGAINST FERTILIZER MANUFACTURERS

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—The department of justice is preparing to bring court action against certain fertilizer manufacturers on the charge of price fixing in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The department has just completed an exhaustive inquiry throughout the south in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Harris democrat, Georgia, and passed by the senate more than a year ago.

The Georgia senator charged in the resolution that the price of fertilizer sold by several manufacturers in the south was uniform and too high. He alleged the manufacturers had entered into a combine to keep up the price inviolation of the law.

Field agents of the department sent to Georgia and other southern states to investigate the situation have submitted their reports, and the department has decided that court action against the manufacturers is warranted.

RUM MONEY TEMPTATION IS CORRUPTING COAST GUARD

Six Members and Former Members of the Guard of New London Were Placed Under Arrest Yesterday in Connection With the Block Island Rum Ring—Four of the Men Had Been Dishonorably Discharged From the Coast Guard 24 Hours Prior to Their Arrest.

NEW LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—The search for alleged members of a Rhode Island-Block Island rum ring, recently investigated by a federal grand jury in Providence, led to this city today when six members and former members of the United States coast guard were placed under arrest.

Charged with conspiring to violate the customs and prohibition laws by smuggling liquor into the country, four of the men gave bonds of $500 each for appearance in Providence for trial. Two of the men were unable to find bondsmen and were committed to jail. They will be taken to Providence tomorrow to await trial.

Those arrested today were Elden Barth, Clarence M. Geisler, Peter K Peterson, Francis W. Emerson, Leslie Barker and Dewey M. Parker. Barker, Parker, Emerson and Barth were released under bonds while Peterson and Geisler were sent to jail.

The men will face trial on charges of landing liquor at New Shoreham, Block Island, and with assisting in the loading of liquor at Warwick, R. I. It is also charged that all or several of the men participated in the capture of the yacht Hornet, an alleged rum runner and then released her with the large cargo of liquor she was carrying.

With the arrests today, coast guard officials here expressed the opinion tonight that practically all of the guardsmen sought in connection with the activities of the rum ring had been placed under arrest.

The federal grand jury at Providence, recently returned a large number of indictments and several additional arrests are still anticipated. The arrival here tonight of special agents of the treasury department, who have been investigating the alleged rum ring, gave rise to the report that more arrests may be made tomorrow.

The United States marshals who placed the men under arrest today were also armed with warrants for two other guardsmen, Frank Goodall Forest W. Aldous, but they were unable to locate the two men. It was learned tonight that Aldous had deserted, and his present whereabouts are unknown. Goodall, however, was declared by coast guard officials to be under guard at the coast guard hospital in Brooklyn and will be arrested as soon as he is able to leave that institution.

It was also learned tonight that all the men arrested, with the exception of Parker and Emerson, were dishonorably discharged from the coast guard yesterday 24 hours prior to their arrest. They were read out of the service at muster and held in the brig at the coast guard base last night pending the arrival of the arresting officers.

The men were former members of the crews of the patrol boats 240 and 231. The 129 was formerly commanded by Boatswain Charles Stuart, who is now under bonds in New York, awaiting trial for alleged complicity in the activities of the so-called Dwyer rum running syndicate. He may also been mentioned in connection with the activities of the Rhode Island ring.

The 231 was formerly commanded by Parker, arrested today, who holds the rating of chief boatswain's mate. During most of last summer the two vessels under Stuart and Parker operated off Block Island and Narragansett bay and neighboring waters.

COLONEL COOLIDGE WAS A LITTLE WEAKER YESTERDAY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 16.—(AP)—Colonel John C. Coolidge was a little weaker today. News from the sick room where the president's 80-year-old father is fighting a grim battle for life, indicating that he was sinking gradually after a brief rally had raised the hopes of relatives and neighbors on Monday.

Coupled with the admission that Colonel Coolidge had lost strength slightly since yesterday, the bulletin issued by his physician, Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, said there were no new developments to cause the alarm. The physician's statement, made public after he had spent an hour with his patient, said:

"Col. Coolidge remains about the same as yesterday, greeting several of his neighbors this morning, but he appears slightly weaker and is more quiet than yesterday morning. His heart condition remains fairly good. He is very comfortable and there are no new developments to cause alarm."

Despite the fact that yesterday's improvement was described by the doctor as "mental rather than materfal," it had buoyed the hopes of many who have been following the progress of "The Squire's" illness day by day. Early today by a cheering report from the Coolidge home renewed the feeling of optimism among the neighbors. After the visit of Dr. Cram the shadow which had hung over Plymouth since Colonel Coolidge had a sinking spell last Thursday gathered anew.

TO RETURN STOCK OF NICKEL PLATE MERGER

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Without revealing their intention to revise or abandon the Nickel Plate merger plan, recently barred by the interstate commerce commission, the Van Sweringen interests today offered to all stockholders who have pledged their securities in support of the proposal an opportunity to withdraw their deposits.

Through the Nickel Plate deposit committee, the sponsors of the billion dollar merger, indicated that pending any further proceeding under the plan it was deemed "for the best interests of the depositors" to return any stocks desired upon the surrender of certificates on or before May 1.

Banking interests closely identified with the Van Sweringens interpreted the action as a move to restore to stockholders of the participating roads complete control over their securities on the ground that it was unfair to tie up stocks under a plan which could only be made operative by material changes in terms.

TO CONTEST UNSEATING OF SENATOR BROOKHART

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Faced with the prospect of a report from the senate elections committee, recommending that he be unseated, supporters of Senator Brookhart in the Iowa election contest bent their efforts today toward bolstering up a committee minority preparatory to a fight on the senate floor.

After a two hour discussion behind closed doors today of the report of a sub-committee, which found that Daniel F. Steck, democrat, received a plurality over the republican incumbent in the last election the full committee adjourned until Monday, when preparation of a report to the senate will be begun. Chairman Ernst declared after the meeting there was no question that a majority of the committee would endorse the sub-committee's report.

Senator Stephens, of Mississippi, a democratic member of the committee, has taken up the leadership of the minority and plans to prepare a report recommending that Senator Brookhart be retained in his seat. Several other committee members are known to be ready to endorse his views.

CHAMBERLAND DEATH FROM ALCOHOLIC POISONING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 16—Investigations Tuesday disclosed that Hormisdas Chamberland had died suddenly at 36 Ives street late Sunday afternoon, due to accidental alcoholic poisoning. Previous information had it that the man had died at his home 36 Ives street, no mention being made of the cause of his demise. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason was summoned on the case and he gave the cause of death as stated. The information procurable had it that Mr. Chamberland had been intoxicated since last Wednesday and as his regular supply of alcohol had been consumed it is believed that he resorted to either perfumery or barber's tonic, the quality of the alcohol in this proving deadly. The medical examiner was informed that Chamberland had gone to the home of a neighbor at 36 Ives street and there complained that he was hungry. The neighbor cooked a steak and Chamberland had taken but a few morsels of it when he got up and went to the sink, apparently to get a drink of water. With the glass in his hand he dropped to the floor dead. Permission was given for the removal of the body.

The funeral was held from his home, with a requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Papillon sang the mass. Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau at the organ directed the choir. The bearers were Ernest Ricard, Eugene Leclerc, Cyrille Roudette, George Dube, Joseph Brochu and Henri Pageot. The body was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Father Papillon read the committal prayers.

ROTARY CLUB ELECTS JAMES P. BATH PRESIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 16—James P. Bath was elected president of Willimantic Rotary club for the ensuing year at a meeting of the newly elected board of directors, held upon adjournment of the regular weekly meeting of the club Tuesday noon, at the Y. M. C. A. The directors are: James P. Bath, Richard E. Dodge, Roland B. Jordan, Louis A. Kingsbury, and Raymond A. Parker. Treasurer Herbert W. Huber, Secretary Gerard E. Loiselle and Sergeant-at-Arms Aime J. Martineau were re-elected, and become ex-officio members of the directorate. The new officers will take office at the meeting April 6, when the president's gavel will be turned over to President Bath by the retiring president, John F. Ahern. The program for the day was in charge of Chairman James P. Mustard of the boys' work committee. The opening number was a competitive song by the members of the Haymakers and Coal-Heavers attendance contest teams, headed respectively by Captains Charles Pomeroy and Raymond A. Parker. Dr. R. Bullock Jones was song leader for the day with John T. Quinlan at the piano. A feature of the meeting was the specialty songs by Nelson S. Erhart of the Eureka Fire Hose Manufacturing company, New York, who was the guest of Alderman William E. Jackson. Mr. Erhart pleased with a song and responded to two encores, the last being a clever imitation of Harry Lauder, Scotch post-singer. Mr. Erhart played his own accompaniment. Del Perry, of the New Britain Rotary club, was a guest of the club. The roll call and minutes were read by Secretary Loiselle, Chairman Dodge of the On-to-Bridgeport committee for the 1926 spring Rotary conference, April 15 and 16, asked for a large attendance on the part of local members. The meeting was then placed in charge of Chairman Mustard. Mayor John C. Tracy was the first speaker, his subject being Civic Interest in Boys. Mayor Tracy gave an excellent outline of the work being done in other cities to provide for supervised play for the younger generation and in pointing out the necessity for this work made constructive suggestions of what could be accomplished in Willimantic.

Justice George E. Hinman spoke on Guarding the Morals of Our Boys. He gave an interesting review of the morality of the boys as seen from the court bench and stated that, in his opinion, the proportion of young offenders was not on the increase. The two primary causes of crime among the youth he said were lust for money or lure of easy money, which he said was an aftermath of the World war and the corruption brought on by wrong associates and lowly environment. He made a comparison of the deficiencies of the present with former generations and showed that immoral conditions and temptations in Willimantic existed on a much larger and bolder scale thirty years ago than they do today. He told of the modern court methods of placing the responsibility for youthful crimes where it belonged, namely on environment, lack of upbringing by parents, mental or physical deficiencies, etc.

The meeting for next week will be in charge of Harry W. Standish, chairman of the Rotary education committee. Adjournment was taken at 1:45 o'clock with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

LATE T. F. SOMERS GRATEFUL FOR TEACHER'S INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 16—An interesting incident is told in connection with the life of the late Thomas F. Somers of the Birdsey-Somers Corset company of New York and Bridgeport, formerly of this city. The family of his father, the late Michael Somers, came to Willimantic from Hampton and Thomas Somers attended the Natchaug High school. One of his teachers was Julia M. Peck of North Windham, whose faithful, thorough and inspiring influence is gratefully recalled by many former pupils. During the winter of 1914-15, Mr. Somers was traveling in southern Europe and while in Rome, having heard of the approaching "Old School" reunion in Willimantic in 1915, he thought of his favorite teacher of the early days and wondered how she was faring in her later years. He wrote from Rome to an old schoolmate in Willimantic, inquiring about Miss Peck and as to whether he could do anything to add to the pleasure or comfort of her old age. It was necessary to inform him that Miss Peck had been dead several years. Thereupon he sent his check for $100 to establish at the Natchaug school, the Julia M. Peck fund, in her memory. Later he increased the fund to $300, and the income of the latter sum is awarded each June to pupils of the eighth grade who show excellence in scholarship. The information relative to this incident was furnished by request to The Bulletin by Allen B. Lincoln.

Don't Poison Baby

Through Your Constipation

Nursing mothers must avoid constipation. Slow bowel movements allow poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood. This means tainted milk for baby.

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they use and give their babies Nujol—the remedy medical authorities prescribe because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Neighbors soon arrived but only a few things from the lower rooms could be saved. There was a small insurance.

The house now owned by Walter S. Haven formerly owned by the late Henry A. Brewster is being thoroughly overhauled and enlarged. The large chimney and oven in the ell has been taken out. The north side will be extended out to the full width of the main part of the house allowing space to rearrange and enlarge the rooms. When completed it will be fitted for two apartments and will have modern conveniences. The house was built in 1819 and was owned by Dr. George A. Calhoun, pastor of the church from 1813 to 1867.

LEITER'S GRANDSON LEARNS COLONIES AS "HIRED" HAND

SYDNEY, March 16 (AP)—Levi Zeigler Leiter's grandson, the 20-year-old Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire, is now a farm worker and sawmill hand on a small estate near Port Macquarie, New South Wales. He is just an ordinary hand without special privileges, although he is owner of 10,000 acres in England and one of the heirs to the fortune his grandfather made in the dry goods business in Chicago.

The Earl recently sailed round the world as an apprentice on a clipper. He liked Australia so well that he decided to return there and work a while to round out his knowledge of life in the British colonies.

POETRY

St. Patrick's Day in the Morning

On the good Saint's day—Saint Patrick's day—
Saint Patrick's day in the morning—
The sun shines down as sweet as May,
All Nature's heart adorning;
And Irish hearts are pleased to stay,
Come fog or sun, and fast and pray
On the Saint's good day in the morning.

On that day of days, for sacred lays,
In honor of her Patron Saint,
Let sons of Erin rise and praise
The faith so strong, and free from taint,
That banished from her landed ways,
From grassy down and pleasant braes,
Those days that wrought such sore complaint
To Erin's heart in mourning.

And gather all true hearts of worth—
Wherever Erin's sons are seen,—
In honor of New Freedom's birth;
Hold firm the orange, white and green;
To Erin's cause give larger girth;
More luster to her flag's bright sheen;
Make holy its adorning;
On the Saint's good day,
All true hearts pray,
On Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
—Ira Daniels Lounsbury.

Top o' the Mornin' Old Ireland

Top o' the mornin' to you, dear old Ireland!
How I long to be with you my heart only knows,
How I'd love to go the place of my childhood,
To that dear little isle where the sweet shamrock grows.

Oh! the Lakes of Killarney
And fair Castle Blarney
With the blue skies of Heaven that tower above,
And the sweet Shannon river
Where the fairies e'er gather
Is the land so enchanting, the land that I love.

Erin, I bid you the "top o' the mornin."
And though your shores I ne'er more may see,
May the flag that you cherish proudly float on before you;
Ireland, I love you, acushla machree

In comparing potato prices, Richard Carr, of Livonia, N. Y., says he remembers carting potatoes when they were sold for 12 cents a bushel. And in the fall of 1895 a man took 1,000 bushels of potatoes to Piffard to sell the lot for $50—a nickel a bushel. But the deal did not go through, and rather than take the tubers back home and store them the grower sold the entire lot for $10—1 cent a bushel.

A Salem photographer had a camera brought into his studio to be refilled. While doing this the photographer found a film in the camera, which he later developed and which produced a remarkable picture. The strange thing about it is that the picture was taken 23 years ago and the owner of the camera had forgotten all about it. The picture is most interesting, for it shows the changes in the styles of clothes that have taken place in the last quarter of century.—Boston Globe.

"PROGRESSIVE DINNER" FAD HAS FOUND WAY TO PARIS

PARIS, March 16 (AP)—The "Progressive dinner" fad has struck Paris much to the disgust of those who like to enjoy the national cuisine in peace.

Among the younger set, it is now the stunt to eat one's oysters at the apartment of a friend, say, way out in the Passy region; to come into the Arch of triumph quarter for the lobster at another friend's home; to pick up the chicken at a studio in Montparnasse and so on down the line.

The guests-hosts draw lots to see which courses they shall serve in their homes. The last lot to be drawn is the costliest, for that means the champagne and the digestive jaunt to an all-night restaurant of Montmartre.

DANIELSON

HORSES BREAK THROUGH ICE, RESCUED WITH DIFFICULTY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 16.—A pair of horses attached to a team-wagon driven by James Danielson, the owner, broke through the ice on a cove of the Quinnebaugh river, west of Maple street Tuesday afternoon and the animals were submerged almost to their backs. A number of men working with planks and tackle eventually succeeded in rolling the horses out on to the ice and freeing them from the wagon. They were heavily blanketed and steamed out and it was said during the evening that they appeared none the worse for their experience. The wagon was left where it went down, to be taken out today. Mr. Danielson had been hauling wood out of the section where the incident occurred. His only memento of the experience was one wet foot.

A. D. Sayles, Charles B. Rutchins and Charles Young of this town and Frank Rainville of Brooklyn are planning to be at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs Thursday to attend a meeting of fire wardens representing Windham and Tolland counties. They are to hear talks and participate in discussions having to do with the protection of the countryside from forest fires during the spring season now so near at hand. Fire patrols likely will be maintained with more or less regularity the coming season. For this reason it behooves all of those who indulge themselves in setting fires to burn up brush to be careful not to do so without first obtaining a permit. There is a heavy penalty for the violation of the particular statute referred to, and one who disobeys it may find the experience expensive.

Warnings to young people to keep off ice on rivers running through Danielson are timely for parents just now. The ice is getting thinner every day, is being rotted by the rays of the sun and is dangerous to those who would attempt to play upon it, as has been possible since December. Ice in the Assawaga river was beginning to break up Tuesday. This should serve as a warning to all who would venture onto what remains of the frozen surface.

St. Patrick's day marks for many in Danielson a mid-Lenten respite from a more or less rigorous observance of the period and, this evening, opportunity for relaxation in attending whists or dances that have been planned as Mi-Careme events. The appearance here of two champion fiddlers—Uncle Joe Shippe of Plainfield and Henry Pray of Ballouville—is of interest to many as a special feature of the evening. Both have won fiddling contests during the winter.

New steel girders and uprights have been installed in the state armory as part of extensive repair work that has been underway for some time. The structural steel installed is for roof supports. Other work that remains to be done includes the transfer of lockers from the first floor of the building to the basement and the changing of the sewer outlet from the nearby river into the city sewer system. This work likely will be done during the spring season.

Hi-Y teams representing Danielson, Putnam and Woodstock likely will play basketball Thursday evening in an elimination contest leading up to the opportunity to play for the county championship and, later, for the inter-county and state championships. Last year these games were played in Putnam. The Danielson Hi-Y team is practically the same in personnel as the Killingly high school team which recently completed its season.

A man who had been indulging overmuch in moonshine was assured in the positive term Tuesday morning that things were not so bad as they seemed to him. He actually was looking at a two-headed calf and was a bit distressed by his impression that maybe he was not seeing what he was seeing at all and that "there aint no such animal". But there is. It will be placed on exhibition here within a few days. The calf lived three weeks. From what may be termed a single forehead two heads developed. There are two mouths and four eyes.

A goose-neck connection from a water main through Main street forming a connection with a service feed for a nearby building became loosened at what is known as a wiped joint and caused the mysterious leak that has set water gurgle up through and around the edges of the street pavement near the railroad crossing. The difficulty was uncovered by the Crystal Water company employes and promptly repaired.

As it had been assumed here, Arthur P. Tillinghast, honor student at Boston university, and whose home is in Danielson was subjected to a campaign of spoofing by Boston newspapers when they declared last week that he was the only unkissed senior at the university. It appears a senior is selected each spring for subjection to some similar stunt, and Mr. Tillinghast happened to be the victim this spring. He has taken it all with great good nature.

Providence papers relate that Mrs. E. Perreault of this place was injured Saturday night near Arnold's four corners in the town of Scituate, about 15 miles east of here and later received treatment by Dr. Charlotte Arnold of that place. Mrs. Perreault was riding in the car of Lewis Savoy of this place when it was in collision with a machine operated by Lewis Wood of Holden street, Providence. She was cut by flying glass and suffered a bad concussion. State police who investigated the accident did not hold either driver. The machines that figured in the accident were considerably damaged.

A steam shovel is to be put to work at an early date to do excavating for the additions to Killingly high school. On Tuesday a representative of the Pawtucket company that has the construction contract was in town making a survey of the premises where the work is to be done and early arrangements for getting a steam shovel on the job. It is anticipated that the work will be underway before the first of the coming month.

Registration of motor vehicles in Connecticut and adjacent states is so heavy to date that an increase in motor traffic by as much as 20 per cent is anticipated for the trunk lines running through Danielson, this within the present year. Increase in the number of machines will account for some of the greater volume of traffic, but more of it will arise from the fact that the trunk lines through Danielson, especially the Hartford-Providence route, are rated the best for many travelers on long distance trips.

Fishermen who are getting ready for the opening of the season, two weeks from Thursday are, among other details, getting out anglers' license. In connection with the issuing of these a large button is being given out this year, and the law requires that these buttons be worn conspicuously on the left breast of the outer garment of the fisherman while he is engaged in angling. It is a regulation that will be enforced so the fishermen will do well to carefully preserve the buttons.

While it has not broken down the state highway between Brooklyn and Hampton has many of the features of a roller coaster, these late winter days. It has buckled in dozens of places, and riding over it is much like bumping the bumps. This is a comparatively new highway, but it responds to the ill effects of winter weather as do other older highways. Warmer weather and settling is expected to restore the road surface to something approximating its better condition of the past fall.

The management of the Orpheum theater is entitled to honorable mention for voluntarily censoring a film that has been shown here this week. No one suggested that the film be deleted of some racy features, but they were cut out and the film exhibited with greater conservativeness.

Limited shipments of hard coal continue to arrive in Danielson and to be distributed about as fast as it comes in—the retail lots being more or less restricted.

During the coming month, it is understood, the new bridge over the Assawaga river in Main street will receive its surfacing and otherwise be completed. Cold weather interrupted the work late last fall.

PUTNAM

BOTH PARTIES IN FAULT, IN MOTOR COLLISION CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 16—In superior court this morning, Judge Edwin C. Dickenson announced that both parties were at fault, in the suit of William R. Chandler against Charles Lavalley, an action for damages growing out of an automobile collision, and that neither one was entitled to recover anything.

The case was tried last Wednesday. Mr. Chandler filed a petition against Lavalley asking for $2,500 damages. He filed an answer and cross petition asking for the same amount of damages from Mr. Chandler. The case has attracted a great deal of attention and the decision was awaited with interest.

The two cars came together at 8 o'clock in the morning on November 20, 1924 at the intersection of roads leading from Putnam to Ballouville and from Attawaugan to Putnam Heights. Chandler was driving a Cadillac coupe, approximately a new machine; Lavalley's was a Hupmobile touring car. The force of the impact can be judged from the fact that parts of Lavalley's machine may still be found in the vicinity of the accident and the bill for repairs to the Cadillac amounted to $1,024.24. Chandler was alone in his car; with the defendant were three other men and one woman, Mrs. Eastman. She was bruised to some extent; Lavalley and one other man were thrown out of the machine but neither seriously hurt, although the former was dazed and incoherent in his talk for a short time. His home is in Plainfield. Chandler lives in North Grosvenordale.

UNUSUAL FLORAL FREAK ATTRACTING ATTENTION

JEWETT CITY, March 16.—Passersby on Main street all look in at Mrs. E. H. Hiscox's windows to see the unusual happening of an Iris Germanic in bloom in winter time. Among a gorgeous display of white, lemon mauve and rose hyacinths, Darwin tulips and daffodils, this richly colored Monsignor Iris stands out in vivid contrast. It is a pale violet, while the throat and beard are an orange tint. The falls are striped with brown at the base, and are fully two inches across. A peculiarity of this plant is that this bloom and other buds are on the side of a leaf, while a two-foot stalk has two buds just ready to blossom. This freakish condition may have been caused by the plant being forced in the house.

After the supper a short entertainment was given including a violin solo. Bernard Church accompanied by Miss Marion Bentley at the piano. Miss Mildred Perry played a piano selection: Prof. John Collins gave selections on the harmonica: Miss Marion Bentley, and Mildred Perry played a piano duet. Mr. Collins closed the entertainment with popular airs on harmonica and bones and had to respond to repeated encores. Mr. Collins is an expert in his line and his selections were finely played.

Miss Mabel A. Lanphear teacher at Manchester Green was home over the week end.

BARRED ROCKS LEADING IN STORRS EGG LAYING

The hens at Storrs just about held steady in the nineteenth lap of the race. As a matter of fact they fell under the previous week's production by the very small total of five eggs, but they beat out the score for the corresponding week a year ago by 888 eggs. The total lay for the entire 140 pens, meaning in all 1,400 birds, was 4,752 eggs of a yield of over 48 per cent.

There was only one change among the leading pens in the several classes. Two New Jersey pens of Leghorns entered by Henry Rapp, Jr., Farmingingdale, and Marquis Poultry Farm from Toms River, have been tied for three weeks in a row. Marquis Poultry Farm, however, finally got away and is now four eggs ahead of the Farmingdale pen.

Last week Barred Rocks as a class outlaid all other breeds, their batting average was 571. Rhode Island Reds as a group hit only 532, but their performance was a little more spectacular. They made fewer hits but longer ones, and so with one exception Rhode Island Reds are the only breed to get on the honor roll.

D. Hart Horton's pen of Red's from Farmingdale, Long Island, captured first with a score of 56 eggs. R. D. Sargeant's pen of the same breed from East Ryegate, Vt., and a pen of Barred Rocks entered by the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph, Ontario, tied for second place with 54 eggs each. John Z. LaBelle's pen of Reds from Ballouville, Conn., who are the champion layers in the contest up to this time made third place with a tally of 52 eggs. Hayes Hennery from Dover, N. H., who likewise breeds Reds has the fourth best pen for the week with a record of 50 eggs.

Although there was only one unimportant change among the leading pens last week, the management contends that some shifts are inevitable within the next few weeks. For example there are three Leghorn pens bunched, all within five eggs of each other, which means that if anybody's birds crack for just about one day they lose their place. The leading pen of Rocks is only two eggs ahead of the leading pen of Wyandottes That champion pen of Reds has been showing a big burst of speed for the last two or three weeks, but the Leghorns are going to have their inning before the game is over.

MINNESOTA LEGION MEN PAY FOR TREATMENT TO DISABLED

ST. PAUL, March 16 (AP)—By paying 25 cents each, 27,000 Minnesota American Legion men last year obtained medical and surgical treatment for 75 service men from nearly every state in the union, reports Eddie Lindell, state Legion adjutant. Two-thirds of these men were non-legionnaires.

The men were treated at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, where, to make this arrangement possible, the Mayo brothers, both legionnaires, made generous concessions.

Since the movement was initiated three years ago 221 cases have been handled. Only one death has occurred

The work is carried on through the Legion hospital association. Minnesota legion men pay their hospital dues as part of their regular membership fee. To perpetuate this care the legion has signed a 60-year contract with the Mayos which guarantees that after these surgeons have died, the system which they established will be continued.

MOVIE ACTORS "OFF" SEASON FORM OF LAMENT

CULVER CITY, Cal., March 16 (AP)—Picture actors and actresses protest the studio habit of shooting winter pictures in summer and summer pictures in winter.

Harry Myers, screen comedian, climbed out of the chill Pacific ocean pursuant to a line in a comedy scenario the other day and gave vent to this:

"When winter comes, I draw nothing but South Sea Island pictures and in a Palm Beach suit flirt with pneumonia and chilblains.

"All summer long, but especially in the hottest weather, I work with fur coats and mittens on. I must chase husky dogs over snowdrifts. I may look in the picture like I'm beating my chest to get warm; in reality I'm fanning the grease paint to keep it from bursting into flame!"

NORWICH IS BACKWARD

Concerning trees Theodore Roosevelt said, "A people without children would face a hopeless future, a country without trees is almost as helpless. When you help to preserve our forests, or plant new ones you are acting the part of good citizens.

When it comes to actual participation in the work of reforestation it is probable that the number who can really get into the work is limited, but there is much that can be done in the way of increasing and preserving the trees that are standing in a community today. And it is time and desirable that there should be an awakening of interest in this respect.

When such work is neglected, when it goes along in a hit or miss manner for a period of years, it is easy to discern the effects. Appearances are decidedly changed because trees which had come to be landmarks are gone, because the ravages of beetles has been such as to make the cutting down of others necessary and because there has been no real effort made to replace those trees which have been removed, either at points near where thy stood or elsewhere. The effects of such a policy, such a disregard for street appearances and property values, not only create adverse comment but they indicate a laxness in regard to civic pride.

We must take our hats off to those cities, or smaller communities, which have established the practice of taking care of their trees, protecting them from diseases and pests and giving them the benefit of regular and skillful treatment from tree surgeons. Likewise we must acknowledge the excellence of the practice of setting out a certain number of new trees every spring both to replace those which have had to be removed and to increase the number within the community.

While we may look with commendation upon the practices of other cities regarding trees we are obliged to admit that Norwich has not as yet but should follow a good example.

THE GASOLINE TAX

In connection with the proposal to tax gasoline within the state of New York there arises as might be expected the question of revenue. To make certain that there will be no deficit the suggestion has been advanced that New York do like other states and impose a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline.

New York is a large state with a large number of gasoline users. Such a tax should net a sizable amount for that commonwealth quite the same as it does in other states. One objection raised to such a tax is that it would be a nuisance tax, but experience doesn't show that to be the case elsewhere.

If New York decides upon such a levy it is not to be supposed that the proceeds would go for general taxation. They should go for the building or maintenance of the highways of the state. That means that the users of motor vehicles would be providing a considerable part of that which they demand, and the provision of that sizable expense from such a source would be just that much relief from the state expenditures.

During 1925 the state of Connecticut received a total of $1,902,808 from the gasoline tax. New York has about seven times as many automobiles so that a good sized sum could be anticipated from taxation of that character, which is easily collected and which requires those who use the roads to maintain them, which they are only too glad to do for the sake of insuring good roads. They pay no tax unless they use the roads.

New York is one of the few states which has no gasoline tax, the levy ranging from one to four cents a gallon, according to 1924 figures, with the two cent rate predominating. There was much opposition to such a tax when first levied in this state but that has disappeared as the operation of it has come to be understood and the manner in which other states have resorted to this method, and even increased such a tax, indicates widespread approval.

RADIO LEGISLATION

Radio has developed so rapidly and there are so many stations and sets in the country that the need of regulation has long since been recognized. At the present time the situation is only partially covered and the need prevails for authority to deal with whatever situations may arise.

Only recently the right of the secretary of commerce to prevent the transfer of the wavelength from one station to another has been questioned, and similar situations can be expected to arise with no little annoyance unless there is authority created by law for handling such matters.

This is taken into consideration by the White radio bill now before congress and which was favorably voted upon this week by the house. Under this proposed law full authority to limit broadcasting stations, to seize them in case of war to regulate the emissions, the apparatus that may be used, the areas to be served by the stations and to inspect the stations and to make regulations to prevent interference between stations is given to the department of commerce. The secretary is authorized to classify stations and operators, to issue licenses for broadcasting and to prescribe the nature of the service the stations may render. He is to assign the wavelengths and determine the location of stations.

Such a law has been made necessary by the conditions which exist. None will welcome such regulation more than those actually engaged in broadcasting while the listener in will know that through such regulation his entertainment is going to be much more free from interference.

The bill was the outcome of conditions arising from a lack of full regulation. It may not be what might be called perfect, but in such a situation the need is to make a start and get some of the worst conditions relieved. As time goes on it will be subject to amendments. The house has acted wisely in giving its approval and it is to be expected that the senate will follow it up with similar action. It is too important to be neglected.

MAY SPEED DECISION

For many months the idea of developing the St. Lawrence so that it could be used by ocean going vessels destined for lake ports has been under consideration. It is a project that contemplates joint action by this country and Canada, but in spite of the advocacy of the plan little has been accomplished beyond finding out that a group of middle west states are enthusiastic for it while Canada is presenting a feeling of indifference if not real opposition. Canada doesn't see why it should sanction something that will interfere with the port activities of Montreal, something which does not concern the dominion and participate in a large outlay from which it can see little benefit.

Not much progress was being made upon that plan when the development of the Erie canal as a canal for ocean going vessels was brought forth. This would involve a much greater outlay, an outlay which would have to be borne entirely by this country, a large expense for maintenance but would be through American territory. The many bridges over the canal, something like 80 are pointed to as a serious handicap to ship operation.

The objections to the New York proposition seem to be substantial, but it nevertheless seems possible that the pointing out of the possibility of constructing such a canal across New York state will be the means of focusing greater attention upon the St Lawrence project and possibly hasten a decision. That isn't the purpose of the New York proposition but the fear that the St Lawrence plan may be rejected may serve to spur Canada on to the display of greater interest.

MUNICIPAL TROLLEYS

Much has been said in recent years concerning trolley fares. There has been a big falling off in patronage and there has been a large increase in expenses. This has meant that either different methods must be employed, a larger fare charged or else business must cease. Not a few lines have given up the ghost, others have introduced rigid economies and raised rates. Even the increase of a cent in the fare was the cause for a terrible howl but the adjustment had to be made and while it eventually meant more than a cent increase in the fare which was formerly a nickel it provided no more than conditions justified.

But on Staten Island there was an experiment undertaken with municipal operation. Trackless trolleys were introduced and the five cent fare maintained. As in the case of the municipal street railway system in Seattle, the nickel fare at Staten Island has proved to be a money loser. The municipal venture at the latter point now shows that the trackless trolleys have been carrying passengers for five cents each, or at a loss of seven cents a head, while those transported for the same fare on the regular trolleys have been carried at a loss of two cents.

This of course means, as it invariably means elsewhere, that the city taxes have been used for the purpose of making up for the deficit experienced by the failure to collect an adequate fare. The persistence in operating at a five cent fare may have fooled many people for a long time and caused them to think that others were charging an unjust rate but the municipal operation experience on Staten Island shows in an interesting way how the nickel fare can be maintained when the community is ready to or has to stand back of it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

March 17. St. Patrick's day once more.

Only two months now to the opening of the strawhat season.

Regardless of other people the weatherman never seems to get discouraged.

Thoughts of fishing are not the most remote in the angler's mind as March dwindles away.

Spring may be just around the corner, but it is hard and slow work getting around that corner.

The man on the corner says: For a real stunt, try to convince a man that adversity is his friend.

With March half gone the danger of any more blizzards this winter seems to be pretty safely discounted.

Cutting a million a day from the nation's public debt during February cannot fail to win the hearty applause of the taxpayers. That steady decline in the federal indebtedness is always good news.

A despatch says Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been asked to be a candidate for the senate. It wasn't necessary to urge him very hard to do something for which he has been laying plans for months.

With more than three quarters of the three billion dollars worth of automobiles sold last year bought on credit is it the case of no sooner getting one machine paid for than it is time to start installments on another?

CANNING DAY TRAGEDY

"No," said the girl who likes to talk, "I can't go out into the back yard to look at the dahlia until I do my hair over, powder my nose and manicure my nails. If I risked it, clad as I am in a house apron and a shiny nose, I'd be absolutely certain to meet President Coolidge or the prince of Wales!

"Some subtle kink in the fate hanging over a woman makes it a dead sure loss for her to risk appearing in the most secluded public place except when attired for every eye to see. Any woman will tell you that, while she may dress in her prettiest for home dinner every night for a month and do her hair up special, the important callers invariably blow in the night of the day she has spent canning tomatoes. Then she looks like a wreck.

"Just listen to what happened to my sister-in-law and myself the week I spent with her out in the suburbs! For three days we gave parties or went to them, looking like something straight from Paris and just about as delicate and gracefully useless as possible. Chiffon was our middle name, marcel our code word.

"On the hottest day of the fall a bushel of peaches arrived from the country and simultaneously her cook, taking a look, went. By the end of the day we were staring-eyed, hollow-cheeked wrecks, the kitchen looked like a scene of carnage, we were sticky disheveled and disreputable.

"Granger took pity on us after our pick-up meal from cans and icebox and said we'd better go for a nice ride and cool off. Simultaneous shrieks on our part he scoffed at. It was growing dusk and who'd see us, anyhow?

"Too limp from the heat and our toil to use our wits, we submitted to being bundled into the car and after a while in the cooling breeze we were lulled into grateful forgetfulness. We began to revive and become human beings once more and take an interest.

"The first blow was when we passed the Hoodwinks' car and instinctively shrunk down low because the Hoodwinks are the Hoodwinks you know. What did that car do but turn around and chase us, honking madly, and the tall, handsome, immaculate brother of Mrs. Hoodwink came to our door to tell Granger he was on for a golf match the next day?

"When he turned his attention to us there we sat in the full rays of the street lamp Granger had gayly parked under when he stopped. He seemed intensely interested in me, too, much more so than when he had met me at his sister's two days before at dinner. I don't think it is possible that he ever will forget me as I looked on this second meeting.

"Then Granger had the inspiration of stopping in at the country club for some lemonade. Pooh, he said to our chattering objections, it was dark and nobody'd be around that time of night and we'd just sit on the brick terrace, and anyhow here we were and, for heaven's sake, be sports and forget it! Who'd we think would be around to look at us? Place half dark anyhow, go on right in through the living room and out that way—oh, go on, sillies.

"Stepping warily, Lillian and I essayed the darkened porch. Through the open screened door we saw one dim light at the office desk, the living room in a welcome dusk. 'We'll just dart right through,' Lillian hissed at me as we hung together in our disreputableness and I think our right feet hit the little stone step directly in front of the door together.

"It is a semicircular step about two inches high and no doubt it is necessary to balance something but I shall always consider it perfectly useless. We didn't fall, we just plunged headlong at the door and Granger, being directly back of us followed on. Three large persons hurled at a screen door are likely to do damage.

"The clerk came running and eight card players in another room came running and then the kitchen help, hearing the racket, tore in and somebody turned on all the lights so they could have a nice, clear view of what was causing all the trouble.

"I tell you Lillian and I by this time looked like nothing whatever that ought to be visible, and if Granger isn't asked to reckon as being too queer in the head and for owning woemenfolks all peach-stained and unshorn I'll miss my guess—so I'm not running any risks about just stepping out as I am to see the pretty flowers—I'm going to put on my best georgette, thank you!"

"I guess I'll fix up too," said the patient Granger, who had been drinking in the tale open-eyed.—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Hokusai, Who Painted Pictures With a Broom

Slap! Slop! Slosh! The broom dripped india ink from the big pail into which the wandering artist had dipped it and then hit the great screen with a liquid noise that made all the crowd laugh. More and more people came to see what was going on. The artist had put up a screen or "canvas" that was better than any circus post P. T Barnum ever put up, for it was 54 feet long and 33 feet wide. Then the artist had an arrangement of ladders like huge stepladders. He had been preparing whole buckets of india ink. He had two or three brooms for brushes, and he was slopping and sloshing at a tremendous picture or a saint.

The crowd grew and grew. "Who is this man?" everyone asked. "What's he doing it for?" Those were just the questions that Hokusai, the artist, wished the crowd to ask. He had no money, and he found himself without friends who could help him. "I'll help myself," he said. "What I need is advertising."

So for the sake of advertising himself he made the huge screen and painted the big picture. He had been born poor and humble, the son of a man who made designed metals. He had learned metal work and also engraving, and then had tried to learn how to paint. Finally he tried to make his originality count, and so he made his big picture. It did count. People laughed and laughed—but they talked about him. Now he won opportunities from those who wanted people to be original, and in a short time he was illustrating famous books. He was a tremendous worker, making thousands of drawings. One of his books is the famous One Hundred Sketches of Fujisan, the great mountain. He went through life increasing, if anything, in originality. He taught others to be original, and he became a most inspiring leader of art. Perhaps the most original thing that he did was to remain poor. He lived for his art, and forgot all about making money.

He died in 1849 at the age of 89. Today you have only to ask any cultured Japanese about Hokusai and he will tell you that he was a prince of artists. But he was something of a P. T. Barnum, too!

Stories That Recall Others

Maybe It Was?

Bobby, age three, is a radio fan as well as a lover of Mother Goose rhymes. Recently while his father was tuning in on Jacksonville, Fla., Bobby exclaimed: "Oh, daddy, is that Jack and Jill, Florida?

A Night on the Street

Returning home late at night without one's doorkey to find that the rest of the family has gone visiting after carefully locking all the doors and windows, may cause some of the neighbors to become suspecious especially if one whiles away the time by pacing up and down the street waiting for the other members of the family to return. And if one paces up and down the street too long, it may result in a police investigation.

This was the observation made by a resident recently. For nearly an hour he paced up and down the street, hoping each minute the next street car would bring some member of the family. Neighbors watched him from behind drawn blinds. At last a man called a policeman. Mr. Blank carefully explained his difficulty to the officer, who smiled and said, "It happens in the best regulated families," and added, "anyhow, hope you don't have to wait long."

And the neighbors feeling that no burglaries were imminent, relaxed and returned to bed.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Pierre Butler, who reaches the age of 60 years today, is the youngest of the associate justices of the supreme court of the United States, with the single exception of Justice Stone who is six years his junior. Justice Butler is a Minnesotan who was educated in the public schools of that state and began the practice of law in St Paul in 1888. In his early professional career, after some years of experience as a county attorney, he rose to prominence as legal adviser for large corporations, especially some of the Northwestern railroads. In 1920-21 he was retained by the Dominion of Canada in arbitration proceedings under the Grand Trunk Arbitration act, in which William H. Taft was an arbitrator. Previously he had served by appointment of Attorney General Wickersham as counsel for the government in the prosecution of the Chicago meat packers. Mr. Butler has been on the Federal supreme bench since 1922.

A Double Treatment for Colds

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks VapoRub. When it is rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts in two ways at once:

(1) Direct to the inflamed air passages with its medicated vapors, released by the body heat; and

(2) Direct through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the tightness, soreness and pain.

Head or chest colds may easily sap your vitality and undermine your health. Don't neglect them.

ST. MARY'S PLAYERS GIVE AMATEUR PRODUCTION OF HIGH CLASS

St. Mary's parish players set a high standard for amateur theatrical productions in the city by their presentation Tuesday evening at the Palace theatre of "Kempy," a three act comedy, produced by arrangement with Samuel French of New York. The St. Mary's players have done good work before, but without doubt they surpassed any of their previous efforts in the production Tuesday night before a house that left not a vacant seat in the theatre. The entire production was finished and smooth, made so by the excellent work of the individuals in the cast, each of whom gave a clear-cut characterization, handling the lines with well balanced emphasis and acting with entire naturalness.

The cast was as follows:

Ruth Brady	Mary M. Brennan
"Dad" Brady	Edward T. Connelly
"Ma" Brady	Loretta A. Gadle
Jane Ward	Elinore I. Donovan
Alice Brady	Lucile Bowen
Katherine Brady	Retta Sheehy
Ben Ward	Napoleon A. Kerouack
"Kempy" James	J. Warren Kane
"Duke" Murray	Joseph R. Portelance

The first act was given in the living room in "Dad" Brady's home in a small New Jersey town about sixty miles from New York city on a spring afternoon.

The second act was at 9 o'clock that evening and the third act at midnight. The leads were taken by Retta Sheehy and J. Warren Kane, the former as the cultured and strong willed daughter of the family anxious for a "career." In pursuance of her design she tricks "Kempy" (Mr. Kane) into a supposed marriage that raises a tremendous row in the family when she flouts her millionaire suitor "Duke" Murray (Mr. Portelance) for "Kempy" who comes to the house to do a plumbing job, although he is a penniless architect. But true love conquers in the end and everything ends happily when the millionaire wooer wins his bride while "Kempy" is not left unconsoled for his heart leads him to the younger sister, played by Mary M. Brennan in a sweet and engaging way.

Mr. Portelance played the difficult role of the young millionaire very accentably and Mr. Kane did especially good work in the varied requirements of his character. Mr. Kerouack as Ben Ward a son-in-law in the Brady family was well chosen for the part and Elinore I. Donovan as his wife, the oldest daughter, made a pleasing impression.

The principal comedy of the play was in the hands of Edward T. Connelly as "Dad" Brady, the blustering but warm hearted Irishman, a character into which he fitted to perfection and kept the house in an uproar at his witticisms. Loretta Gadle as "Ma" Brady gave a very pleasing interpretation of the role. Mr. Connelly was heard in two well rendered solos.

One of the pronounced features of the production was the appearance of little Lucille Bowen in a juvenile character as the child in the Brady family, playing the part with complete self-possession and naturalness and bringing a thunderous burst of applause for two dancing numbers that she gave. The first was the Charleston into which she threw herself with professional spirit and talent, executing a variety of difficult steps with the utmost precision, and following this with a reel and toe number that was done in finished style.

Enthusiastic applause was given as well all through the production for the clever work of the cast.

While the audience was assembling a fine programme of Irish airs was rendered by the theater orchestra under the direction of William Jeffs, leader.

A programme booklet of 48 pages was provided for the evening. This contained a "cut" of the new St. Mary's Memorial church, dedicated Dec. 10, 1923, for which the net proceeds of the play and program are to be given for a reduction of the mortgage. It conveyed an acknowledgement from Rev William A. Keefe, the pastor, to the merchants and friends who made the program booklet a possibility; announced the executive committee to be business managers, Rev. William A. Keefe, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, stage manager, Edward T. Connelly, director, James E. Murphy, prompter Miss Isabelle W. Leonard. The program committee was as follows: Rev. Frederick M. Cohdian, chairman, John J. Sheehy, secretary, Mrs. Lucian R. Bissonette, Mrs. James J. Brady, Mrs. Joseph D. Burke, Mrs. Louis A. Combies, Mrs. Francis P. Donnelly, Miss Margaret C. Counihan, Miss May C. Nolan, Miss Mae J. Riley, Miss Mary E. Spellman, James J. Brady and Joseph A. Donnelly. The committee in charge of the evening's play conveyed a card of thanks for the many courtesies received from the following: Edward L. McEvoy, manager, The Palace Theater, The Plaut-Camden Co., The Preston Bros. Co., Franklin S. Wilcox, Supt Norwich State hospital, James J Moore, Norwich State hospital, John F. Carroll Joseph T. Farrell, Cornelius L. Crowley, Norwich State hospital, The Connecticut Co., Madden's Cigar store, Quinn & Desmond's and Mara's Pharmacy.

The programme hops were: Cornelius F. Carry, John Barry, Daniel Driscoll, Edward Comerford, James Johnstone, Arthur Breen, David Musard, Albert Quinn, Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Jr., Raymond Leonard, James Leonard, William McClafferty Jr., Andrew McLaughlin, Raymond Downes, Armand Demers, Albert Easley, William Hartle, Jr., William Dunn, Robert Read.

The fine trolley service both to and from the theatre under Superintendent Samuel Anderson was deeply appreciated and the large crowd was handled in a very efficient manner the trolley officials holding the last trolleys for New London and Baltic until 11 o'clock.

WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF RAT EXTERMINATION

R. R. Keep, who has been about the state in a rat extermination campaign in the cities, came here Tuesday and interested the Norwich city health department in giving a demonstration of his methods. This he will carry out at the city hall and at the city dump. Mr. Keep's method is endorsed by the United States department of agriculture and he has letters of recommendation from officials in the different cities where he has worked.

In speaking Tuesday evening of the damage done by rats, Mr. Keep said that statistics show that rats often attack children and grown people while asleep. Many such cases are on record at the hospitals. Rats carry about every disease germ known, and are the cause of more untimely deaths than all wars combined. They breed from six to ten times a year, and have litters from six to 20, and start when only three or four months old. Rats could breed in three years without deaths. 359,709,482 individuals.

SALEM COUPLE OBSERVES 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Monday was a day long to be remembered by people in Salem, over 150 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers assembling at their residence on the Essex turnpike, Salem, to celebrate the golden wedding of this worthy couple. The house was tastefully decorated with appropriate colors. At three o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by a grand niece, Miss Dorothy Sisson of North Plains. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William Sisson, Sr., and Mrs. Fred Harris, niece of the groom, and Charles Tiffany, a brother of the bride. Rev J. C. Garvin of North Lyme offered prayer and a speech was made by T A. Peabody of Norwich, after which the doxology was sung. A poem was read by Miss Martha Moore which was composed by Harry Moore. Others to read poems were Mrs. C. F. Congdon, Miss Carrie Granger and Eliza Martin. Several violin selections were rendered by Harry Moore, accompanied at the piano by his daughter, Miss Martha Moore. Readings were by Miss Hewitt of Groton and Miss Mary Darling of Salem.

There were guests present from Wallingford, Hartford, Greenwich Mystic, Lyme, Springfield, Southington, Spencer Mass., and all of the surrounding towns. Gifts and letters of congratulations were received from a large number of relatives and friends who were unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers received many valuable presents including gold cut glass and flowers. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Harris and assistants. A generous portion of the large wedding cake was served each guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Rogers have had an unusually interesting career, both having been exceedingly active in town politics.

Just 50 years ago Susan Bailey Tiffany and Henry Archibald Rogers were united in marriage in Salem at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. George H. Lester, a Baptist clergyman. Since that time the couple have been living in Salem where Mr. Rogers was engaged in farming until a few years ago.

He has also held all town offices with the exception of town clerk and treasurer and was connected with the school board for nearly 50 years. He was elected judge of probate in 1916, 1918 and 1920. In 1922, Mrs. Rogers was elected judge of probate on the same ticket at the same elections in which her husband was elected to the house of representatives. She was re-elected in 1924 and served until she reached the age limit last July. In 1923 while Mr. Rogers was in the legislature, he introduced the bill that included the Norwich-Hadlyme road in the trunk line system. The completion of this highway from Norwich to Middletown has been a great factor in county progressiveness.

Mr. Rogers was born in New London on July 28, 1852, the son of Jonathan and Lucretia White Rogers. Mrs. Rogers was born in Salem July 27 1855, the daughter of Charles and Susan Bailey Tiffany.

Of the many guests attending their wedding 50 years ago the only ones who are now living are Rev George H. Lester of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs William Sisson, Sr., of North Plain Mr and Mrs. Alvah Morgan and Mrs Fannie Tillotson of Flanders, Charles R. Tiffany of Wallingford and Miss Fannie Potter.

DANIELSON TOWN TEAM CLOSES SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER SOUTH MANCHESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 16—In one of the fastest, cleanest and most interesting games of basketball play at the local town hall this year, the speedy Danielson town team defeated South Manchester 50 to 22, tonight, before a large crowd which was greatly enthused over the exhibition of basketball, which consisted of some wonderful passwork and basket shooting by members of both teams.

It was quite obvious at the start of the game that it would be impossible to pick the winning team, but by clever team-work and hard, intelligent playing, the Danielson boys came out as victors

It is well known throughout eastern Connecticut that South Manchester is considered one of the fastest teams in the state, having beaten practically all the best teams in the state. Therefore the Danielson fans were elated over the fact that the home team came out victorious.

The playing of Reeves of Danielson, with four baskets and two fouls to his credit and the wonderful passwork of Keach and Blakeley and also the brilliant shooting by Godreau and Armington contributed largely to Danielson's victory. L. P. Poirier played his usual strong game at guard and Meunier who relieved him in the last few minutes of play, also showed up well. Pentland starred for South Manchester, easing the majority of their baskets and the snappy passwork of his teammates was very noticible. This was the 1st game in the town hall this year and the fans will remember it for a long time to come

Brundage, sub-master at Killingly high schools, coach of the school teams refereed a wonderful game and there was no fault with any of his decisions. The summary:

PROMINENT HORSES ENTERED IN LOUISIANA DERBY

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 16.—(AP)—Ten or 12 prominent three year olds were down tonight as probable starters in the Louisiana Derby, feature race tomorrow at Jefferson park.

Ideal weather was in prospect for the mile and an eight race, which carries $10,000 in needed money.

The Idel Hour farm's Kentucky derby candidates, Boot To Boot and Bag and Baggage ruled tonight as the most probable favorites. Nurmi, the Greentree stable's winner of the $20,000 New Orleans handicap, was enroute here from Miami. If he arrives in time he with their other horses coupled in the entry Lancaster and Navigator, probably will heavily backed.

TAFTVILLE EVENS UP SERIES WITH BALTIC

Before one of the smallest crowds of the basketball season the Taftville Crescents downed the Baltic five, 27 to 22 in a game that was hard fought from start to finish, thereby evening up the series between these two clubs.

The game was one of the best seen in parish hall this season and it was not until the last few minutes of play that the Taftville team forged into a commanding lead. Yerrington played a brilliant game in one of the forward positions and to him is due much of the credit for the victory. The Murphy boys, Eddie and Jimmy, also starred during the game. The Baltic team played well with Coady and Higgins as stars. In the preliminary game the Celtics beat the Nordics, 26 to 23.

CHARLEY HOFF WINS ALL-AROUND TITLE IN RECORD BREAKING PERFORMANCE

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Shattering two world s records and winning five of the seven events, Charley Hoff, of Norway, captured the world's indoor all-around athletic championship tonight, defeating Emerson Norton, of Georgetown after Harold Osborn of the Illinois A. C., Olympic and American titleholder, was forced out by a strained ankle.

Hoff displaced the broad jump record with a leap of 23 feet, 7 3- inches after which he pole vaulted to a height of 13 feet, 7 inches, the ninth time he has surpassed the listed record.

Hoff finished the seven-event competition with a grand total of 5,885.2 points while Norton amassed 4,768.4 Osborn withdrew at the end of the third event with a total of 2,334.

Hoff registered his third victory in the fifth event of the all-around championship and practically clinched the title when he nosed out Norton in a thrilling race over the 60-yard high hurdles.

The event virtually eliminated Norton from the contest, however, because he knocked over two of the four hurdles and automatically was disqualified, gaining no points while Hoff rolled up 960 to take a big lead.

Hoff's sportsmanship was displayed when he offered to run the race over again but the referee of the meet refused to allow this.

The crowd booed the official decision against Norton, who had held the lead in the point race up to that event and would have continued in the van had he been allowed the 940 points which his time ordinarily would have entitled him to.

The race was close from [illegible] to finish, Hoff being timed in 8 seconds and Norton in 8 3-10.

Hoff continued his spectacular pace by shattering his own world's indoor pole vault record, clearing the bar at 13 feet, 7 inches, to beat his own previous mark of 13 feet, 6 3-4 inches, set at Chicago a fortnight ago.

Hoff's mark has marked the ninth time he has surpassed the listed world s mark of 13 feet since February 4. He was accorded a tremendous ovation tonight as he soared over the dizzy height on his second attempt after barely knocking off the cross bar in his first try.

This performance left Norton far behind, the Georgetown star failing to go higher than 12 feet.

The chances of Osborn in the all-around test faded in the second event, the running high jump, when he revived an old sprain in his left ankle and barely was able to clear a fraction more than six feet

Osborn not only is the Olympic and American all-around champion but the world's record holder in the high jump so that this failure in his pet event robbed him of what was expected to be a big boost in his point total.

After Osborn's unexpected mishap, America's other hope, Norton, came through to win the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 1 3-4 inches, garnering 944 points, which put him temporarily in the lead with a total of 1,794 points.

Osborn, although jumping only 6 feet 1-4 inches got enough points to put him in second place, so far as total points were concerned, while Hoff, as a result of clearing only 5 feet 9 1-2 inches, was third in the standing for two events.

The sensation caused by Osborn's withdrawal was quickly followed by another thrill when Hoff, in his first try at broad jumping, shattered the world's indoor record with a leap of 23 feet 7 3-8 inches. He displaced the previous indoor mark for a board track of 23 feet 1 1-8 inches, set by William Dowding of Georgetown in 1924.

Hoff has been breaking pole vault records with ease since he began his spectacular American invasion but this was his first record feat in any other branch of competition.

The leap not only gave him victory in the broad jump over Norton by a decisive margin but tightened the race for all-around honors.

Osborn's downfall was dramatic as well as tragic for the injury to his ankle was sustained in his favorite event, the high jump, for which he holds the world's record and in which he was expected to excell his rivals tonight by a decisive margin.

Osborn's ankle appeared weak at the start for he knocked off the bar at only 5 feet, 6 inches during the earlier trials. It apparently became steadily more painful although by an almost superhuman effort to managed to get over the bar at 6 feet 1-4 inches. In three tries, however, he failed to get over the bar at 6 feet 1-2 inches, a height which he usually clears with ease. He continued afterward in the shot-put but decided the strain was too great to go any further.

COLLEGE STARS MAKING GOOD SHOWING AT CAMPS

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Seldom do ball players make the big jump to the majors from college ranks with a year or less of professional experience but at least a half dozen young stars in this category are occupying the limelight now in southern training camps.

Perhaps the most conspicuous of these newcomers is Ernie Nevers, Leland Stanford's crack pitcher and all-American fullback, who donned a professional baseball uniform for the first time when he joined the St. Louis Browns this year. Under the tutelage of George Sisler the Brown's manager, who himself stepped to big league fame from the University of Michigan, Nevers is said to be developing fast.

The spotlight also will be on Owen Carroll, who joined the Detroit Tigers late last season after compiling a brilliant pitching record at Holy Cross. Carroll found himself in difficulties in his first few big league starts in 1925 but Manager Ty Cobb is confident he has the stuff to make good.

One of Carroll's team mates at Holy Cross, Walter Gautreau, also jumped from college to major league ranks last year He was a sensation at second base for the Boston Braves toward the close of the season and is looked upon as a fixture in starting his first full campaign.

John McGraw, veteran pilot of the Giants, is especially partial to developing schoolboy stars. Three of his most dependable infielders, Frank Frisch, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom, came to the club with little or no professional experience.

Now McGraw has two more budding stars from schoolboy ranks in Melvin Ott, sensational young catcher, and Eddie Farrell, former University of Pennsylvania captain and shortstop. Farrell joined the club last season and showed unusual promise. Ott, in high school a year ago, already is being hailed as a second Gordon Cochrane, the Boston college star who jumped to fame with the Athletics last season after only a year's minor league experience.

PAWCATUCK WAR MEMORIAL FAVORED BY BOARD OF TRADE

(special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 16—When the Pawcatuck board of trade held a regular meeting last evening in Vets' hall West Broad street, Pawcatuck, President Frank L. Furness in the chair, Secretary Reitzel reported that electric cars for school children by arrangement with Mr. Hobart of the Shore Line Co., would care for passengers on the Pawcatuck river bridge. In that way stopping at the head of Mechanic street would be eliminated, with the attendant danger to pupil passengers.

The American Railway Express company's delivery has been extended to include Wilcox Manor, South Broad street to the old Moss house, to Stillman avenue and the end of Palmer street; but not to Clarkville.

The secretary reported the receipt of a telephone call from New Haven, on Monday morning, to the effect that Mr. Smith and an engineer of the New Haven road would meet the Pawcatuck board of trade committee on the widening of the underpass of the West Broad street railroad bridge, on Wednesday afternoon, March 17th at 3 o'clock.

A communication from Harley P. Chase post, V. F. W., has been received, asking that a joint committee be named from the trade board, to cooperate with the post in securing a World war memorial and locating the same. Capt. Elwin R Byers, for Chase post, said that a location was favored at the junction of West and South Broad streets. The question raised was the financing. It was recommended that motion pictures be presented in Pawcatuck on Sundays for this purpose. President Furness stated that Pawcatuck selectman Babcock had told him that Sunday movies had been turned down two years ago, and that a special town meeting vote would be required. The board then decided to consider the West Broad street site. Mr. McKenna said that this site was preferable to the school lot on West Broad street and if the movement was backed by Pawcatuck people the success of the war memorial would be assured.

Joseph Grillo favored the West Broad street school site as impressive to school children at a cost of about $7,500 for construction of the memorial. S. M. Robinson thought that patriotism might not agree on the school site. Secretary Reitzel said that an improvement would be made in rounding the corner by buying the lot at the junction of the two streets, erecting a retaining wall and placing a driveway back of the memorial. L. C. Purtill wanted to know the law relative to the town appropriating money for a memorial and learned that this was a Pawcatuck community matter and that the town of Stonington would not be asked for any money.

President Furness stated that the Smith Granite company could erect a memorial at $2,000 and that $1,300, the cost of the lot, would be figured to cover the site. The necessary amount to be raised therefore would be about $3,500.

The following committee from the board was elected to cooperate with Chase post: Karl G. Stillman, chairman, H. M. Barber, Henry C. Crandall, Alfred H. Chapman and Lawrence C Purtill. Chase post committee is Capt. Elvin R. Byers, chairman, Charles W. Ople, Harry M. Bricker, Lawrence E. Rook and Al J Twomey.

A vote was passed that it was the sense of the meeting to cooperate with Chase post and to favor the calling of a Stonington town meeting for the purpose of voting on the question of running Sunday movies to raise money for the memorial. The motion was proposed by Mr. McKenna and seconded by Albert Sylvia. The committee is to report at the next regular Pawcatuck board of trade meeting of the third Monday in April.

A lengthy discussion resulted when Sec Reitzel announced that he had written the Connecticut tax commissioner, William Blodgett, about coming to Pawcatuck to speak on a revision of property valuation. L. C Purtill thought that the tax revision matter should come before a Stonington town meeting and Mr. McKenna and President Furniss agreed that the board should go slow in this matter.

Clean up week was announced as six weeks distant. L. L. Foster spoke of poor service in garbage collection which Secretary Marr of the garbage committee said was due to cold weather.

HOLMQUIST, SOUTH DAKOTA

Holmquist, South Dakota.—"I can not begin to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was sick for about four years. I could not sleep, and I was always worrying, so one day we saw your advertisement in a paper, and I made up my mind to try the Vegetable Compound. I bought one bottle and did not see any change so I got another bottle. At the second bottle I began to feel better and I have used the Vegetable Compound ever since, whenever I feel badly. I recommend it and I will answer any letters asking about it."—Mrs. Adolph Hansen, Holmquist, South Dakota.

Could Work Only Two Hours

Encanto, Calif.—"I bless the day I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so weak and tired all the time I could not work more than two hours each day, then had to go to bed for the rest of the day. I read so much about the Vegetable Compound and I was so weak that I decided to try it. I now do my own housework—washing, scrubbing, and ironing—and then help my husband with his garden. I do not have that worn-out feeling now. I advise every woman to give your wonderful medicine a trial, and I will answer any letters I receive from women asking about it."—Mrs. Stella Lay, 700 Jamacha Road, Encanto, Calif.

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

"THE STORE THAT SATISFIES"

Farmer Brown's Boy Gets His Chance

When patience and persistence make
You'll be the master of your fate.
—Old Mother Nature.

There wasn't a moment while he was collecting sap or while he was working in the sugar house, boiling the sap to make syrup and sugar, that Farmer Brown's Boy didn't have Puma the Panther in the mind. Never had he wanted to see one of the people of Green Forest as the wanted to see

"I thought I watched to kill you, Puma," said he under his breath

Puma. He remembered the thrill which had been his when he first saw Buster Bear. He know that it would be an even greater thrill if he should get a good look at Puma the Panther. So always he was on the watch.

Every day he visited the yard of Lightfoot the Deer, and on one or two moonlight nights he went there. Of course, he left the man scent. He knew that if Puma continually smelled the man scent he would be likely to keep away for a while. So it was that Farmer Brown's Boy was trying to protect Lightfoot the Deer and his family.

Usually Farmer Brown's Boy had his gun within reach. He had made up his mind that he would shoot Puma the first chance he got, and he honed he would soon get a chance. He tried to make himself believe that he wanted to shoot Puma, so as to protect Lightfoot and the other people of the Green Forest, but right down inside he knew that this wasn't wholly true. He wanted to shoot Puma because he thought that it would be a great thing in the eyes of those who knew him. He wanted to shoot Puma because he might have Puma's skin made into a rug. He wanted to shoot Puma so that later he might boast of how smart he had been.

"I'll shoot and I'll shoot to kill the very first chance I get," said Farmer Brown's Boy. But as the days went by it began to look as if he would not have a chance. Time and again he knew that he was being watched by Puma the Panther. How he knew he couldn't say. He just knew, that was all. But though he was ever so careful, and though he kept constant watch, he didn't get so much as a glimpse of Puma's shadowy form after the time he had seen him near the year of Lightfoot the Deer.

Then came a moonlight night. Already the snow had pretty well melted in the Green Forest, but there was still enough to cover the ground. Lightfoot the Deer and his family could leave their yard and move about freely, so Farmer Brown's Boy no longer worried about them. He was quite sure that Lightfoot was smart enough to keep his family safe. He was thinking of this as he stepped to the open door to look out. As he looked his heart gave a jump. Standing in the clearing, close to the edge, was a great Cat, staring over at the sugar house. Farmer Brown's Boy was in deep shadow himself and he knew it. He knew that Puma the Panther—for that is who it was—could not see him. Puma was within range of that terrible gun, and that terrible gun was within reach of Farmer Brown's Boy's hands.

Slowly, carefully, Farmer Brown's Boy reached for that gun. Slowly, carefully he lifted it to his shoulder and pointed it at Puma the Panther. With the greatest care he aimed for the point on Puma which would mean certain death. At last he had his chance and was ready for it. He had but to press the trigger of that terrible gun and the Green Forest would no more know Puma the Panther. He looked along the barrel. A gleam of satisfaction was in his eyes. And then slowly, carefully, he lowered that gun from his shoulder and on his face was a smile.

"I thought I wanted to kill you, Puma," said he under his breath, "but I didn't at all. You belong in the Green Forest. I'm glad you are here. I am not afraid of you and you have nothing to fear from me."

The communication further stated that the car was abandoned by thieves who immediately stole a Chrysler car and got away. Inquiry at the college tea room revealed that the car was owned by Miss Gage, one of the proprietors of the tea room whose home is at Painesville.

TUDISCO, THIEF AND COWARD, SQUEALS WHEN CORNERED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16—The police court spent all the forenoon endeavoring to get to the bottom or to the facts as to the alleged robbery and swindling of Patterson's Inc., in this city. The testimony disclosed that the corporation had been swindled out of some $7000, perhaps more, through the dishonesty of an employe and his collusion with a fellow on the outside. Tom Tudisco had been in the employ of Patterson many years as an ice cream maker and general utility man. He was favored in his position and was kept on the payroll when he was incapacitated. When he felt that he was secure he started in with the scheme to rob, according to his own confession, for he has turned from those with whom he was associated in the alleged swindling and now gives aid and assistance to the state in the trial that was begun today, but which will not be concluded till tomorrow. Tudisco without a blush, told of how he had stolen chickens, eggs, butter, sandy, sugar, etc., from his employer. Then he said he arranged with Max Goldstein, employed in a dairy to deliver cream and to charge for many more quarts than he delivered. With Tudisco approving the slips that were left by the dairyman, there was little if any trouble in working the swindle. The bills for the cream furnished to Patterson became of astonishing size with the product from the cream no larger than it was when about half the cream was used and Manager Kellas objected to the bill. He made a settlement however, and then was told by the former owner of the dairy that if he kept a watch on his purchases and on his sales he would be enlightened as to the size of his bills. Manager Kellas did that and found that Tudisco was robbing him. He accused Tudisco when the evidence was indisputable. Tudisco, when he realized that he was caught was willing to squeal, and did so. He implicated Max Goldstein, and Mr. Kellas got them both together and accused them. Kellas declared in court today that Goldstein was inclined to effect a settlement and proposed a meeting the next day, but he did not keep his appointment, so complaint was made to the prosecutor.

Goldstein denied many of the statements made by Tudisco and some of those that came from Kellas. He denied absolutely that he had padded the cream charges, but said that Tudisco had been supplied with two quarts of cream daily for months and that the bill for the milk, at the request of Tudisco was charged to the Patterson store. Israel Goldstein tipped Manager Kellas off so that he discovered the robbery going on. Israel sold the dairy business to his son and two others last January and he declares that he received no benefit from the overcharging of Patterson.

Whether Max Goldstein gave Tudisco a check for $50 as alleged by the latter, which check was presented at the bank for payment and declined as there were no funds there to meet it, is to be established tomorrow. Tudisco represents that he offered the check for payment, but could not cash it and Max then paid him in cash, the money being a portion of the "divvy" that came from the over-charge for cream.

The case is likely to be a battle between lawyers when the arguments are reached for there are four attorneys interested.

Joseph S. Wilson and Peter Peterson, a couple of coastguardsmen, were shooting last night and got into the Green Front cafeteria managed by colored people on Green street. The coastguardsmen were very brave. They announced that they proposed to clean out all the colored people. That was serving notice upon the management that it was time to summon police aid and Officers Hill and Clifford were called in. The result was that the pair of rambunctes were locked up. They were fined $10 each, when Judge Prince was asked in court to pass upon their conduct in a public place. As soon as the pair paid their fines Peterson was handed over to a deputy U. S. marshal for complicity, it is understood, in a conspiracy to defraud the government in handling liquor.

James Moriarty appeared in court charged with intoxication. He had not before been there in two years, so on his promise to make it four years before he appeared again he drew a suspended judgment.

The estate of Mary E. Dudley has sold a house and lot on West street to Edward J. and Elizabeth T. Murray.

Mrs. Floyd Riggs and infant daughter, of 18 Lewis street; Miss Harriet Gillette, Connecticut College for Women; Chester Funk, 314 Main street, and Frank Lepore, United States Coast Guard destroyer Downes, patients at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Julius E. Watrous, former employe of the W. R. Perry Ice company, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 62 Washington street, the services being conducted by Richard W. Mansfield, superintendent of the B. P. Learned mission. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Morris Jr., little son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Garvey, 15 Harrison street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were Daniel Daly, Robert Grady, George Spellman, John Connell, Albert Saunders and Donald Sullivan, playmates of the child. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Marie Syracusa gave notice last night that she will claim damages for injuries she sustained by a fall on an icy sidewalk on Montauk avenue, corner of Orchard street, by which her leg was fractured. She is 63. Mrs. Syracusa represented that no attempt was made to clear the walk of ice and she declares that no sand or ashes or other substance had been sprinkled on the walk to make passage over it reasonably safe. The claim was referred to the director of law for a report.

Residents of Waldo street asked for the improvement of the street and the laying of sidewalks there. This was referred to the city manager for investigation and report.

There was an evidence of increased volume of work in building, in applications presented to the city council Monday evening. Ernest E. Rogers asked for permission to make an addition to his residence at Chappell street and Pequot avenue. Frederick W. Mercer sought permission to build an addition 24 x 24 on Hillside road and Joseph Gentilella proposes to build an addition to 516 Bank street. The council voted to buy a Ford truck to displace one that is worn out at a cost of $461.29. A carload of cement was orderer purchased, at a cost of $663.25.

The city council announced its intention Monday evening to extend the sewer on Pequot avenue at an estimated cost of $26,770. The extension is to be south of Keeney lane. The property owners on both sides of the highway will be assessed, the entire cost of the work. A resolution adopted at a previous meeting was rescinded, as it was not just what it was intended to be an ddid not meet the requirements sought. The council put in the works the acceptance of Quinnipeag avenue and Shirley place when the grading and curbing of these highways has been perfected to the acceptance of the council.

ACCUSED OF BIGAMY, YET INN MANAGER IS FREED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16—Fred Barrett, manager of the Rotisserie Inn in Waterford, has had his troubles in the marital market. He was presented before Justice Fred N. Dimmock last evening for alleged bigamy, but the case was so involved that the complaint was nolled with costs attaching to Barrett. It is claimed that Barrett married a woman residing in Pawtucket, at Providence. On the 8th of August, 1925, Barrett married Mrs. Harriet Scheele, owner of the Rotisserie Inn. It is claimed that Barrett was never divorced for the Pawtucket woman. The Pawtucket woman was a widow, it is understood, at the time she married Barrett, but she could notp roduce evidence of the death of her husband when she married. Under the laws of Rhode Island, it is said, that the living together of a man and woman constitutes marriage. A suit for divorce was brought and a decree was granted Barrett, to become effective in six months, from the 11th of January last. The Pawtucket woman came here and the bigamy charge was brought on her complaint. In a case of a similar nature in State vs. Murphy, the court ruled that the nuptial bonds should not be severed. The Barrett case was to cost the state considerable money and on advice of State Attorney Brown it was decided that the suit be abandoned, and that course was taken by the nolle.

AN EXTRA DAY OFF DUTY GRANTED LOCAL POLICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16—The members of the police department have been granted a second day off duty each month as against a single day as heretofore. This will be in addition to the annual vacation of two weeks. The two days' absence from duty will be consecutive so that the officers will be able to leave the city on short trips if they so desire. Immediately after Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney was notified this afternoon of the request of the officers for a second day off each month having been granted, the drawings for the annual vacations of the officers was started and by tomorow all of the patrolmen, sergeants, lieutenant and captain will have drawn their recreative period. The vacations will start April 1, when the first of four officers will start on trips or enjoy the respite about the city. It is now understood that the members of the department will seek an increase in wages, for it is definitely known that such a plan is in the working. The officers have desired the additional day a month off duty and this having been granted, they feel that they are entitled to and will receive the wage increase they will seek, although the amount of added compensation they desire has not been settled upon. The patrolmen now receive $150 per month, with two days off each month, two weeks off annually and full wages paid in the event of illness.

DESPONDENT IN ILL HEALTH, MRS. J. F. O'CONNOR SUICIDES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16—Following apprehension that she was affected with cancer that ultimately would cause her death, Mrs. Mary A. O'Connor, about 55, wife of John F. O'Connor, 81 Ocean avenue, this afternoon, hanged herself from a stairway, where the body was discovered by her son and daughter, Mrs. O'Connor, besides her husband, is survived by two sons, Edmund F. and Frank O'Connor, both of Newark, N. J., and by two daughters, Misses Helen L. and Mary M. O'Connor of this city.

Mrs. O'Connor apparently planned her suicide for during the afternoon while Edmund O'Connor, who was visiting his mother and his sister were engaged about the house, Mrs. O'Connor went to the front stairway. Placing the belt of her dress around the railing of the stairs the woman made the other end secure about her neck and then gradually allowing her body to slide down the stairs, strangled to death. About 30 minutes after Mrs. O'Connor had disappeared from the living apartments the son started a search and going to the bathroom he failed to find his mother. He then went through the house and opening the door leading from the upper to the lower part of the house, observed his mother as though half reclining on the stairs. He summoned his sister and as both children attempted to arouse their mother they were horrified to see the belting about Mrs. O'Connor's neck. The belt was removed and an effort was made to revive the woman, but without success. The police were notified as was Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman. The latter pronounced death due to suicide. The members of Mrs. O'Connor's family had kept a watch of the woman, because of Mrs. O'Connor brooding over her ill health.

Mrs. Mary E. Whipple Rogers, 37, wife of William F. Rogers, Center Groton road, Groton, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, but two days after giving birth to a son. Mrs. Rogers was the daughter of Hiram and Annie S. Whipple and was born and always resided in Ledyard until she married Mr. Rogers. Since her marriage Mrs. Rogers had resided in Center Groton. Mr. Rogers is an employe of the state highway department and is a member of the force now doing construction work between Groton and Norwich.

Funeral services for Mrs. Stella Mumford Marshall, wife of Alexander Marshall, 107 Thames street, Groton were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, this city, Rev. Henry W. Hulbert, pastor of Groton Congregational church, officiating. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

The grist for the attention of the city court started in late this afternoon for five drunks were coraled within an hour. Mary Sandowski, Douglass St. complained to the police that three men were drunk and were annoying her. Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolmen John Courtney and Frank Linehan were sent to the Douglass street house and nabbed the gang. Sergeant William Babcock in going off duty shortly before 4 o'clock picked up another drunk on North Bank street and an hour later Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy and Officer Clarence Wells took Daniel Fraser, a farm laborer, and an old offender from the doorway of the building, 102 State street, where he had wandered and was almost hopeless.

As usual, Bank street shows more building alterations and new work than any street in the city. Peter Woviola has broken ground for a new brick building that is to go up on the lot that has long been vacant except that it was the location of a night lunch cart just south of the corner of Bank street and Lane A. The Messer property is being altered so that there will be an additional store in the building. Guiseppe Gentilella is to construct an addition to his property on Bank street and the Kane property, recently damaged by fire is to be rebuilt and altered so that it will be greatly improved. The building on the corner of Bank and Division street is being altered and in a few weeks will have a modern front.

The dressing of coal tar and gravel applied to the brick paving on the lower section of Bank street and a short distance on Town Hill is not wearing as it was expected it would and it is not likely that fu use will be continued. It was contemplated that if the covering proved of a durable nature that it would be applied to other streets, notably Truman and Blinman streets, but the service of the covering has not proven satisfactory.

Margaret W. Mahan has purchased a building lot on Rogers street from Minnie Johnson.

Herman Katz has sold to Stanley Leno two buildings and parcels of land, Crystal avenue and Lewis street. The price paid was $13,500.

TOAST TO HAWAIIAN NAVY OUTLIVES MARITIME ARM

HONOLULU, March 16 (AP)—Hawaii once had a navy—but that was long ago, in the days of King Kalakaua.

The "navy" consisted of the old schooner Explorer, which was refitted and renamed the Kaiilioa. Nearly everything in the maritime arm of the island's fighting force from uniforms up and down, was copied from the British navy by a man formerly in the service of Queen Victoria. It is told that when he came to the design of the sword hilt he said to the king:

"We can't use a lion's head on this your majesty."

"Well, use a shark's head then," replied the king, and so they did.

The "navy" made one long trip—to Samoa. The night before sailing a banquet was given at which a newspaper man offered this toast:

"Here's to Hawaii's navy; what she will do some, and what she won't do mostly."

The toast outlived the navy.

Palace Theater

No clergyman that has seen the motion picture, Tell Me Why, to be seen at the Palace theater today has failed to endorse this exposition of the pros and cons relative to birth control, one of the paramount issues of the day. The picture opposes artificial limitation of offspring.

The subject is not handled in a sensational way but reverently, yet realistically.

In the plot a man demands more of a girl he weds than he expects to give, as in everyday life. The picture depicts that this is wrong and unfair and creates a new double standard.

The moral side of Tell Me Why is paramount and press and pulpit everywhere the picture has been screened have joined in heartily endorsing this expose of a subject which prudery keeps even husbands and wives from discussing, in many cases. Mothers especially have given it their hearty approval.

The story is dramatic and carries a sermon which appeals especially to the married or those about to be married. The wife in the photodrama does not realize the "obligations" of marriage and is caught in the meshes of so-called unmoral thoughts. The situation is taken in hand by a physician who stakes everything for the one big impulse and through laying bare an instance of his own life brings the young wife to a full realization of her obligations to God and matrimony.

Tell Me Why is a photodrama that should be seen by every father, mother, son and daughter—it tells all and shows all.

Owing to the delicate nature of this ubject special shows will be given for women only and men only, children under 16 years of age, unless with parent, will not be admitted.

Mr. D. Arnold Cohn,
Dear Sir:

Your motion picture, "Tell Me Why," which is directed against birth control, which is showing in the Palace theatre, has been highly recommended to me by some of the most intelligent people of our city. I have been informed that it imparts much needed information and that all people that see it will benefit greatly by it. I approve of the way you are showing it to men only and women only with no one under sixteen admitted. Wishing you continued success, I am yours sincerely,

MILO R. WATERS
Mayor

Palace Theater

If you are a Monte Blue fan, you won't want to miss him in his latest photoplay, "The Limited Mail." This Warner Bros., picturization of Elmer Vance's thrilling melodrama of the West opened yesterday at the Palace theater, heralding Monte's return to the type role in which he first won popularity. He plays a husky young engineer in love with a pretty little waitress, enacted by Vera Reynolds. The picture was directed by George Hill.

Broadway Theater

There will be a new program for that last half of this week at the Broadway theater, one that promises to outdistance all previous efforts.

The feature entertainment is five acts of standard Keith-Albee vaudeville.

Clara Bow, starring in The Lawful Cheater, will be the main screen attraction at the Broadway theater starting Thursday. This is an underworld melodrame, replete with thrills and romance in which Miss Bow scores a hit as a young girl who comes to New York, finds her two brothers mixed up in crooked activities, and gets herself to reform them by audacious means, apparently turning crook and arranging a bank robbery. She is successful in her efforts, after undergoing a variety of astonishing adventures, and a love affair with a young son of a wealthy father ends happily for the girl and lover.

Raymond McKee, George Cooper Jack, Wipe Edward Hearn, Fred Kelsey, appear in support.

Breed Theater

In The Mystic a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now being shown at the Breed theater, Director Tod Browning has given to the screen the best of his many successful crook plays. It is the opinion of the writer that the direction has even exceeded his brilliant work of directing The Unholy Three, said by many critics to be the best underworld film ever made in this country.

The story by Browning is a delightful romance between an American crook and a fake gypsy mystic with whom he conspires to rob a rich American girl of a vast fortune in jewels and bonds. The story exposes the work of crooked mediums and shows how many of their tricks are performed. It is delightfully played by a huge cast, featuring Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle.

Other pictures on the bill include Ed Nelson in Going Great and the Fox news.

The woman who doesn't understand the art of making over last year's hat should never marry a man to reform him.

TELL ME WHY Against

BIRTH CONTROL

ONE OF MANY HUNDRED LETTERS RECEIVED

Mr. D. Arnold Cohn, care Editor Bulletin:—

May I, as a mother and lover of little children, give my impression of the picture, "Tell Me Why?" given at the Palace this week against birth control.

It is one of the strongest pictures I have ever seen on a most vital subject—perhaps the most important subject that confronts us today.

It is an American picture, upholding the principles of those Mayflower ancestors who came "in ye glorie of God for ye advancement and preservation of ye Christian faith."

One of the earliest truths that we have taught our children (one 12, the other eight) is, that their little souls were created by God in heaven, and sent to us by the angels of Love.

I have read the beautiful sermons on "Child Life" by Rev. Stafford Brooke, rector of St. James, London, in Queen Victoria's reign; I have read articles by noted theologians, doctors and psychologists. I have been asked by Edwin A. Shaw, of Harvard, professor of psychology, post-graduate school, to work for the Florence Crittendon Association, because of my knowledge derived by experience in the uplifting of discouraged girls and men.

Every scene in "Tell Me Why?" is but a repetition of those teachings that would make creation of the human race a holy condition that has its beginning with thought. We are created in the image of God or Love.

Let us ignore this truth and forget that we have a soul and our hospitals, inebriate and insane asylums will be so filled that none will be left to propagate the human species, as they are filling. Jesus Christ was the greatest naturalist or scientist ever born. Nothing taught in highest education can conflict with His word.

If we are to base the beginning of our existence on only carnal instincts, we will become lower than animals. The picture impresses one very strongly with the sin of repugnance when knowledge comes to the wife that a little soul is created in heaven for her.

But it strongly and forcibly teaches that the real sin is in the first look that passes between the sexes that is not born of a love that leads to marriage and the rearing of a little family of souls.

It graphically shows the importance of the son receiving knowledge at the age of puberty from his father, or doctor or minister or one of his sex. The daughter from the mother. The little child under 12 is unsexed.

There is but one truth to give the little child we do not purge the body with adult knowledge, why poison the mind with information it cannot understand, that leads to disaster?

And then, after the picture impresses one with the holiness of these conditions one may read Margaret Sangen's book. To wipe out the poison from one's memory there is a desire to see the picture "Tell Me Why?" again.

Margaret Sanger puts our human race on a level lower than rats. She calls creation, "breeding."

Here is not the way to overcome ignorance, poverty or oppression.

I can prove every word of her theories demoralizing. We want no poverty in America. We want nothing that will keep our nation from being the most powerful and the most Godly nation on earth.

FURTHER PLANS TO SAVE CHAPMAN FROM GALLOWS

HARTFORD, March 16.—(AP)—If in the law of the land or state there is something which may be used to delay the execution of Gerald Chapman, or save him from the gallows, counsel, it was stated today, hoped to find it. Now, having carried unsuccessfully his appeals through the state courts by questioning evidence which convicted him of murder of a New Britain policeman and to the supreme tribunal of the country on contention that Chapman should serve sentence as a mail robber before hanging as a murderer, counsel are searching for new legal ground. There will be a conference in a few days.

It is stated that there will be no appeal to the state board of pardons, the ultimate step taken in efforts to osave a person condemned to yeath. What counsel have in view as to a new move is unknown. They denied today any knowledge of basis for reports that they would question the acts of the jury on the ground that it was served liquor. Deputy Sheriff Harry F. Comstock, who had personal charge of the jury made denials that liquor of any kind reached the jury.

Chapman, in his cell at state prison, followed his usual routine today reading much of the time. This routine, it was stated by prison authorities, will be unchanged to the end. He has no visitors except counsel, and none is expected.

Truth crushed to earth will rise again—and the crushing and the rising constitute a continuous performance.

MARKET REACTIONARY

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—The stock market turned suddenly reactionary in the last half hour today after having shown fairly general strength. The late selling originated with professional traders, who apparently interpreted the announcement that the Van Sweringens had released the stock deposited under the Nickel Plate merger proposal as an indication of the proposed abandonment of their plan. Trading in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,404,600 shares.

The only other important news of the day was the decision of the leaders of the league of nations council to postpone the election of Germany into the league until September. This news did not reach the financial district until late in the afternoon. It had no immediate effect on the European exchanges which held steady in dull trading.

The early demand for stocks centered largely in the motors, oils, rails and specialties, scores of which were bid up 1 to 3 points by early afternoon. Many of these gains were wiped out or substantially reduced in the late wave of selling.

Rumors that a special meeting of the United States Steel directors had been called late today aroused considerable mystery until it developed that the chief business transacted was the approval of the annual report, soon to be issued. United States Steel common crossed 128, but quickly slid off to 126 1-2, where it recorded a slight fractional gain on the day. Crucible and Gulf States Steel showed moderate gains, but Bethlehem closed a point lower at 43.

Motors started upward on the optimistic statement on curren business made by President Sloan of the General Motors corporation, whose common stock touched 130 3-8, and then eased to 127 3-8, up 3-4 on the day. Mack Trucks dropped from 127 to 124 1-8, Hudson from 112 1-2 to 1-8 3-4 and Stewart-Warner from 86 1-2 to 83 1-2, all closing near the day's low.

In the oil group, General Petroleum touched another new high record at 65 3-8 and then sold down to 63 1-8, closing slightly above that figure, for a net loss of one point on the day, an early gain of 2 3-8 points in General Asphalt common, was nearly wiped out, but the preferred closed 5 5-8 points higher at 112 3-4, duplicating the year's high. Pan-American "B" and Houston each advanced about a point, but most of the other active Petroleum issues showed only fractionally net changes.

Chesapeake and Ohio was heavily sold on the Van Swerengen announcement, dropping from 134 59 129 1-2, but rebounding to 130 3-4 off 5-8 on the day. Pere Marquette showed a net loss of one point at 84 3-4. The Erie issues yielded fractionally. Trading in "Nickel Plate" common was rather light the stock closing 2 3-4 points higher at 151 other rails were mixed.

Atlantic Coast Line broke 7 points to 208 and Seaboard Air Line, Delaware and Hudson and Texas and Pacific yielded a point or so but New Haven, Chicago and Alton preferred, Lackawanna and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred registered moderate gains.

Selling pressure was in evidence throughout the session in the baking and merchandise issues. Ward Baking "B" was hammered down over five points to a new low at 49 1-2 and weakness developed in such issues as Fleischmann, Cushman, S. S. Kresge, Gimbel Brothers and Woolworth. High priced specialties also showed substantial recessions. American Can dropped from 312 to 303, a net loss of 5 1-2 points on the day, and General Electric tumbled from 327 to 319, off 6 points.

A drop of 3-4 to 2 1-4 cents a bushel in wheat prices on reports of a poor export business featured the commodity markets. The cotton market was quiet with closing quotations showing net advanced of 4 to 6 points. Sugar was virtually unchanged and coffee prices were slightly easier.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent., and remained at that rate all day time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Weakness of Argentine pesos which dropped to the lowest level in over a year on selling inspired by unfavorable foreign trade reports and crop prospects, featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Gold pesos dropped about 1 1-2 cents to 87 7-8, as compared with the year's high of 94, and paper pesos yielded fractionally to 39 11-16 or 2 3-4 cents below the 1926 maximum. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85 5-8 and French francs around 3.60 cents.

SETTLED GROTON TAX CLAIMS FOR $3,695.35

A compromise and agreement in settlement of the suit of the town of Groton vs The Groton Park Development Co. was filed Tuesday with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

The action was brought by the plaintiff for the purpose of collecting certain taxes levied by the plaintiff for the year 1923 on certain lots and parcels of land owned by the defendant in Groton which lots and parcels were purchased by the defendant on January 15, 1924, from the United States of America through the U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp. Several of said lots and parcels have since been conveyed to parties other than the defendant.

The total amount of tax upon the lots as of Oct. 1, 1925 was $4,644.49 which with interest and lien fees to date total $5,231.32 but owing to errors the total tax with interest and liens should have been $3,171.25.

The tax for the levy of 1924, with interest was $2,210.42.

The agreement states:

Whereas further litigation on the part of the parties of this action would involve expense to both parties, it is deemed advisable by said parties that they enter into the present compromise and agreement for the purpose of settling all claims and disputes as to the amount due the plaintiff by the defendant for taxes on the levy of the year 1925.

It is understood and agreed by and between the parties that the plaintiff in consideration of $3,695.35 being paid by the defendant to the plaintiff,— — — — — — — — the plaintiff will give a receipt in full for all taxes levied against the property which the defendant purchased from the United States of America on the 15th of January 1924, save the taxes levied upon any lots or parcels which have been conveyed by the defendant and in the conveyance of which the grantee or grantees have assumed and agreed to pay the taxes and further that the plaintiff will release and discharge all tax liens upon said lots and parcels for the levy of 1925, except any liens which may have been placed upon any lots or parcels which have been conveyed by the defendant and in which the grantee or grantees have assumed and agreed to pay the taxes. — — — — — It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the parties hereto that judgment may be entered in this action in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for the sum of $3,695.35 together with costs amounting to $47.72.

FEDERAL INSPECTION GIVEN AT NORWICH ARMORY

The inspecting officer was Captain Vesley, of New Hampshire who inspected Battery B, Monday evening. Assembly was blown about 8 o'clock and the Combat Train formed on the armory drill floor. The company was inspected as to appearance, etc., and put through infantry drill as a company, platoons and squads. Guards were posted and relieved. The company made an excellent showing and it is expected will be given a high rating by the inspecting officer. The company equipment was also inspected by Captain Vesley, who is a Yankee Division officer. Regimental and battalion officers of the 192nd were present during the inspection.

TO BUILD OVERHEAD BRIDGE AT BISHOP'S CROSSING IN PLAINFIELD

The elimination of two grade crossings and the construction of about 16 miles of new roadway and one new bridge are called for in proposals which the state highway department has prepared for submission to contractors. It is estimated that the work will cost more than $1,000,000.

Sealed bids for the work will be received at the department's headquarters No. 13 Washington street, Hartford, up to Tuesday, March 30th at 2 p. m., and it is expected that the work will be under way in about two weeks after the award of contracts.

These improvements will inaugurate the state's road building programme for 1926. Eight separate contracts are involved.

The grade crossing eliminations proposed are at Plainfield on the Norwich-Putnam road and at Old Saybrook on the Boston Post road. In both cases it is proposed to construct an overhead bridge. At Plainfield, Bishop's Crossing is the elimination planned and the contract calls for a concrete substructure for the bridge. At Old Saybrook the Saybrook Junction crossing will be removed by a relocation of the highway and a bridge over the tracks.

The largest improvement planned is on the Middletown-New Haven road at Durham where about five miles of reinforced concrete pavement will be laid. The road will be widened in many places to about 20 feet, a number of grades will be removed and in several places the road will be relocated in order to eliminate sharp curves. This improvement will cover 28,720 linear feet.

In towns of Vernon and Tolland an improvement covering about four miles and one-half is planned on South street and Vernon avenue and on the Hartford-Tolland turnpike, where a seven-inch waterbound macadam road will be built.

The other contracts called for as follows:

Chaplin—About 19,300 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Willimantic-Putnam road.

Windsor Locks—A 12 foot span concrete box culvert on the Windsor-Windsor Locks road.

East Windsor—About 1,650 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Broad Brook-Ellington road.

WINDOW DRESSING PRIZE AWARDS ARE ANNOUNCED

The names of the prize winners in the window dressing contest in connection with the three co-operative opening days by Norwich merchants last week were announced Tuesday by the Merchants association and chamber of commerce. The winners in the sixteen classifications were determined by the votes turned in.

The prizes were awarded as follows:

Class A—Department stores: Reid & Hughes.

Class B—Ladies' wear stores: Caron's Specialty Shop.

Class C—Furniture stores: N. S. Gilbert & Sons.

Class D—Men's wear: Savard Bros.

Class E—Shoe stores: Geo. W. Kies Co.

Class F—Confectionery stores: Perkins Confectionery Store.

Class G—Jewelers: Lee Clegg.

Class H—Florists: Smith The Florist.

Class I—Hardware: Preston Bros.

Class J—Electricians: O'Neil Electric Co.

Class K—Automobile accessories: Henschel Tire & Rubber.

Class L—Drug stores: Lee & Osgood.

Class N—Textiles: Kimball's.

Class O—Provisions: Mohican Market.

Class P—General: Cranston Co.

The window dressing contest brought out very general comment on the excellence of the goods put on display by the Norwich merchants and the art and skill shown by the window decorators. Because of the quality and variety of the merchandise shown in the Norwich stores it was shown that they could rival successfully anything that is shown anywhere even in cities of much larger size and this record makes Norwich a trading center for eastern Connecticut.

Prizes were also offered to those who should judge the greatest numbers of the winners. These went as follows:

Miss Mary Kampf, 33 Division street, first prize, $10.

Mrs. Albert Steffenson, R. F. D., No. 4, second prize, $7.

Miss Catherine C. Holton, North Franklin, third prize, $5.

Miss Mae I. Hansen, R. F. D. No. 3, fourth prize, $3.

Miss M E Reynolds, 12 Ann street, fifth prize, $2.

Miss Helen J. Leahy, 1 Winchester place, sixth prize, $2.

Mrs. Henry Forester, 48 Convent avenue, seventh prize, $1.

Mrs. H. M. Taft, 103 River avenue, eighth prize, $1.

Miss Grace C. Taft, 103 River avenue, ninth prize, $1.

Checks will be sent to the winners by Treasurer C. Edward Smith for the amounts mentioned above.

The winner of the first prize judged 14 of the 16 classifications correctly; the next five judged 13 of the 16 classifications correctly, but were awarded prizes in the order of the time the coupons were received in the office; and the next four judged 12 of the 16 correctly, and these, likewise were awarded prizes in the order of time they were received at the chamber of commerce office.

FIRE DAMAGE OF $1,800 AT THAMES ST. HOUSE

Fire resulting from an overheated kitchen range caused damages of about $1,800 at the tenement house at 51-63 Thames street Tuesday morning shortly before 10 o'clock. John McBurney discovered the fire and called Officer Joan O'Neil. They went into the building and found the house filled with smoke. One of the women in the house was found hysterical and was taken from the building by Officer O'Neil and Mr. McBurney. Officer O'Neil then ran to Thames square and pulled in box 14. Officer O'Neil then hurried back to the building and notified all occupants to get out.

When the firemen arrived they found a lively blaze in progress on the second floor. The flooring was on fire and the flames had eaten their way to the roof, which is of French type construction. Streams from two lines of hose and two chemical lines were used on the blaze and through the prompt response of the department and quick work the fire was kept from spreading. The recall was sounded 40 minutes after the box had been pulled.

The house is occupied by several Italian families and the property is owned by Herman Mueller of Taftville. The loss is estimated at about $1,800.

COUNTY SOCIAL WORKERS HEAR CONFERENCE PLANS

The Social Workers council of New London and Windham counties met at the Hotel Mohican, New London, on Tuesday. Luncheon was served in the Dutch room. Gov. John H. Trumbull was introduced to the group by Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell. The governor expressed his interest in the work of the council.

At the business session Miss Bessie Mitchell presided. Ralph Barrow, general secretary for the Connecticut Council of Social Workers, outlined the plans for the conference which will be held in Norwich April 25-28. The principal speaker of the day was Miss Esther Crutcher, of the Society of Mental Hygiene in Connecticut. Her subject was Foster Children That Show Behavior Problems. There was a large attendance at the meeting.

Employed Boys Brotherhood Met.

The Employed Boys Brotherhood met Monday evening at the local Y. M. C. A. for the usual supper hour. Team scores were read by E. H. Davis. President Lambert leading with 16 points, Frank Barber second. Mr. Davis read a booklet entitled "Wanted" to the members. Mr. Block closed the meeting with a speech.

JEWISH RELIEF WORKERS ORGANIZE FOR DRIVE

Captains and workers of Norwich Jewish Relief drive gathered at relief headquartres, Fay's block, Monday evening and were in continuous session from 8 until 11:30 o'clock. The whole work of the campaign was thoroughly gone into and carefully mapped out. There were more than 50 men and women present and the atmosphere was tense with enthusiasm. The object of the relief committee is to canvass every individual Jewish man and woman in town and persuade him and her to pledge on a larger scale than ever before in view of the very urgent cause in which this appeal is made. As the pledges can be paid in three years those who are not in position to give much may make their pledge come by increasing their donations on a three years payment plan.

In an article received, at the Norwich relief headquarters, written by B. Z. Goldberg, a noted Jewish writer, published in the Day, a Jewish publication of New York, Mr. Goldberg admonishes the Jewish people of America not to hide behind any form of idealism or mode of belief and ease their conscience by turning a deaf ear to the call for assistance coming from their unfortunate co-religionists in Europe. This time, he says, the Jewish people of America are not asked merely to give charity, but they are called upon to make a real and immediate sacrifice in order to save half of the Jewish nation in Europe from death by starvation.

The Norwich United Jewish relief committee has completed all arrangements for the mass meeting at the Community house on Sunday evening, March 21. The first note of the campaign will be sounded that evening by orators of national repute who are coming to Norwich to address the gathering. The relief committee have in view large donations coming from several Jewish people in town which will set a new example of sacrifice for a great charitable cause. In view of the urgency of the relief, the Norwich United Jewish relief committee has organized on a scale never equalled by any previous Jewish organization in town. They are conscious that it is a case of life and death with half of the Jewish nation in Europe and they are thrilled by this responsibility; not one of the committee dare shirk his duty. The principals laid down by the committee is: "Inasmuch as one makes a sacrifice in helping others in such hour of distress by just as much is he helping himself, by enobling his own character."

CONN CO. RUNS BUSSES ON 180 HIGHWAY MILES

In the transportation service performed by the Connecticut company, the bus, today, holds an important place according to the Connecticut committee on public service information, which states that the company began operating busses in July, 1921, and to date has established 25 bus routes throughout the state. Of these routes 17 are within cities and eight are suburban or interurban. The routes cover a total of 180 miles of highway. This service is supplementary to the company's rail service, operating over 749 single track miles. The company's rail cars operate an average of 31,000 miles per day and its busses an average of 9,000 miles per day, a total of 90,000 miles per day.

That the rail service is a vital necessity and will continue to form the backbone of the transportation facilities in Connecticut was clearly demonstrated during the severe storms in February, when it was physically impossible, except in a few instances, to operate over the highways and the only means of transportation for a few days was the trolley service.

The place of the bus in railroad transportation is described by Lucius S. Storrs, managing director of the American Electric Railway association and former head of the Connecticut Co., as follows: "The bus has proved a great tool in supplemental service. It has not demonstrated its ability to supplant the electric car, largely owing to its inability to handle crowds quickly, but it is useful in serving new territories where traffic does not warrant the laying of rail lines. No one who knows bus operating costs and appreciates the need of a large vehicle, such as the trolley, will contend that busses are going to supplant street cars."

Thirty days in jail was the sentence meted out to Mrs. Stecia Teczar of Sherman street by Judge Arthur F. CHAPMAN'S BODY WILL BE FORFEITED TO THE STATE

Unless Some Relative Should Claim It, Which is Deemed Improbable, the Body of the Gunman Will Go to the Yale Medical School—As Last Resort to Save Chapman From Execution Counsel May Seek a Writ in the U. S. District Court to Have the Entire Case Reviewed.

NEW HAVEN, March 17.—(AP)—Gerald Chapman, under sentence to die on April 6, a criminal in life will be a laboratory study after death. A petty thief in his younger days, later a mail robber and now a convicted murderer, Chapman's body will be forfeited to the state under the law when the state has exacted punishment for crime unless some relative should claim it. As Chapman has had no relative or friend call to see him at the state prison at Wethersfield, except his counsel, no one to make inquiries about him as either friend or relative, it is not anticipated by the prison authorities that a claim will be made for his body after it is cut down from the gallows.

Under the law the body will go to the Yale Medical school, and according to Dean M. C. Winternitz a study will be made of the contour of the man's head, his brain and other physical characteristics which have attracted attention among the medical fraternity. The dean said there would be a number of doctors to take part in the laboratory study.

PLANS UNDER CONSIDERATION BY CHAPMAN'S COUNSEL

HARTFORD, March 17.—(AP)—Defeated in the federal courts, even the highest in the land, in an effort to save Gerald Chapman, his counsel have under consideration, it is understood, a plan to secure from the United States district court a writ of habeas corpus that the entire case may be reviewed. Chapman, sentenced to be hanged for killing a New Britain policeman, made his entire battle in the federal courts on the contention that the state should not hang him while he had yet to finish a sentence for mail robbery; and that he was not obliged under the constitution to accept gift of commutation of sentence from President Coolidge On Monday the supreme court denied his petition to have his contention reviewed.

Counsel will meet here on Saturday to discuss the plan of asking the United States district court to grant a writ that the entire case may be reviewed. It is understood they hold the view that constitutional points are involved which were not passed upon in the previous actions, and that the points they raise have never been decided by the supreme court. There also will be a discussion on the possibility of filing a motion for a new trial, or some other action which might lead to a fourth reprieve.

Chapman at the state prison continues to read nearly all day in the quietude of his cell. He has no callers, he is constantly under the eye of a guard and takes some exercise with the guard. Under the law he cannot be given work to do. Chapman speaks only infrequently and then almost in short sentences. He asks no questions and makes no comment. He is in a part of the prison where little of the activity within the walls comes to his knowledge. His journey from the cell which has been his study and living quarters for months to the scaffold will be measured by feet and not yards.

Warden Henry K. W. Scott will shortly complete the list of the members of the party who will attend the execution Under the law the newspapers printed in Hartford county, in which the crime was committed may send a representative but otherwise the press is excluded.

INVESTIGATION IS EXTENDED TO CONTINENTAL BAKING CO.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—John W. Addison, examiner for the federal trade commission, tonight extended his investigation into the Continental Baking company, by making a personal inspection of one unit of the Schultz Bread company, one of the larger concerns taken over by the Continental company. He is seeking to determine whether the Continental's acquisition of 83 baking companies constitutes a restraint of competition.

George A. Krug, regional manager for the Schultz company, testifying today said that "some minor competition" had been eliminated among three companies by the Continental combine Mr. Krug said the Schultz company operated five routes into New Jersey and sent some bread into Connecticut. There there had been competition with the Consumers' Baking company of New Jersey and the Massachusetts Baking company in Connecticut.

Charles O. Swanson, head of the Massachusetts company, with headquarters in Boston, following Mr. Krug, testified that his company, which has acquired 16 years ago by the Continental, had a weekly business of $90,000 before the combine. He said the company operated thirteen bakeries in Massachusetts and Connecticut, but only a small percentage of the business was of an interstate nature.

He testified that whenever bread was sent out of the state of manufacture the company's own men made deliveries to dealers.

He also testified that supplies now were purchased from practically the same concerns as before the merger.

PONZI NOT GUILTY OF USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17.—Charles Ponzi who was acquitted of federal charge of using the mails to defraud in a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Carl Doble today, will not conduct any business affairs until after April 1, when he is to answer a state charge of violating the Florida real estate law of 1923. This statement was issued today by Fresnk Brennan, counsel for Ponzi in speaking for his client.

Mr. Brennan stated he probably would ask for an earlier hearing for Ponzi as they wished to complete work of answering the federal and state charges as soon as possible. The specific charge brought by the state against Ponzi is the alleged failure to file a copy of the deed of trust, under which he sold the lots of the Charpon Land syndicate, with the secretary of state.

PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS FIGURE IN LIQUOR LAW CHARGES

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Action by federal authorities to dam the flow into illegal channels of liquor obtained through false medical prescriptions today resulted in the issuance of warrants charging violations of the prohibition law against 27 physicians, six druggists and four distillery agents.

United States District Attorney Buckner said warrants would be issued later against other druggists.

He said his investigation showed that more than 275,000 gallons of whisky had been released illegally through false prescriptions during the past year.

The investigation revealed, he asserted, that dishonest physicians had sold their quarterly prescription books for $125 to $150.

TO HAVE STATE-WIDE RALLIES IN SUPPORT OF PROHIBITION

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, announced today that state-wide rallies in support of prohibition would be held throughout the United States similar to those recently held in Rhode Island, New Jersey and Virginia.

The largest state gathering of drys since adoption of the 18th amendment will be held in Detroit April 23 to 27, Mr McBride said, in addition to enlarging its educational work, the Anti-Saloon league is giving special attention to the formation of local organizations, many of which were abandoned when the prohibition fight centered principally in Washington during the campaign to obtain federal legislation. They are now being revived to aid local application of dry laws."

PROGRESS OF FROST ARSON CASE IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, March 17.—(AP)—Informer, self-confessed incendiarist and reputed gang leader, Abraham "Whitey" Friedman, New York, repeated before Judge John W. Banks in criminal superior court this afternoon the same story he told a jury last December and in which he charges that Charles Frost, Larchmont, N. Y., manufacturer and former government tax official, connived to fire his Bethel plant last April to collect insurance money.

Although nine months jail confinement have not noticeably afected him physically, the young man characterized as the successor of "Kid Dropper" Kaplan, notorious and dangerous gangster, who was slain in 1923, appeared today to lack something of the spirit and fervor of manner that marked his first recital of what he declares to have been a carefully planned arson plot.

Friedman seemed listless and some degrees less suavely glib and unhesitant than he was at the last trial, although there were no marked departures from the main outlines of the two stories he has told. He will be subjected to cross examination tomorrow by Attorney Homer S. Cummings, of counsel for Frost.

Frost, Friedman alleged, solicited of him that He make arrangements for the burning of his Bethel plant. Friedman said Frost complained of slow business activities and spoke with eagerness of the $75,000 insurance on his stock. Frost promised $5,000 for the arson job, Friedman swore, and suggested the advisability of stimulating "propaganda" about labor troubles to divert suspicion.

HELD FOR PROMOTION OF "30 DAY DIVORCE MILL"

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—(AP)—Arrested by federal authorities, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and using the mails to defraud, Gordon W. Disharoon, alleged promoter of a "30 day divorce mill" by which separations were obtained under the law of Yucatan, was held today in $1,500 bail. Disharoon will have a further hearing April 19.

United States District Attorney Cojes intimated that Disharoon's connection with Lucatan may have been only fictitious and that the divorces obtained for approximately 100 couples from Philadelphia and other places may have been manufactured in his home in Upper Darby, Pa., a suburb.

Postal authorities will pursue the investigation in Washington, where Disharoon's purported connections with Yucatan will be brought to light, it is thought, through the state department and the secret service.

ANOTHER ARREST IN THE BLOCK ISLAND RUM RING

NNEW LONDON, Mar. 17.—(AP)—Dismissed from the coast guard at New York yesterday, Boatswain John A. McGuire, son-in-law of Frederick Zepp, prominent local baker, was taken into custody at his home here tonight, charged with being implicated in the operations of the alleged Rhode Island-Block Island rum ring. His arrest is the seventh made to date in connection with indictments returned by a federal grand jury in Providence.

McGuire is specifically charged with conspiring with John Campbell and J. J. Connelly, both of Newport, R. I. and both under arrest to land liquor in Rhode Island territory. He is further charged with accepting a bribe of $10,000 on or about May 1, last, from Connelly to permit a schooner loaded with liquor to enter the Sakonet river, Narranganaett bay. Taken before U. S. Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran, McGuire was released in bond of $5,000, furnished by his father-in-law, for further examination on March 31.

COURT DECISION OF RIGHT ON THE HIGHWAY

WATERBURY, March 17.—(AP)—When a highway is free of other traffic an automobile driver is free to use the right or left side or the middle of a road, Judge dward M. Yeomans, of superior court ruled here today.

The New England Cab company was awarded $1,360 in its accident damage suit for $4,000 against Crowe and company. In his memorandum Judge Yeomans said: "There can be no doubt the cause of this accident was the failure of the defendant's truck to keep on the right hand side of the highway during the fog. The claim of the defendant that a driver has a right to use any part of the road he desires is entirely correct where the road si not needed for other traffic.

"In this case, however, the taxicab was proceeding on the right hand side of the road and the other witness for the defendant, the driver of the truck admits that he was driving in about the middle of the road and that when the cars were stopped, as a result of the accident, it was impossible to pass on the right of the taxicab except by going out on to the snow and ice at the side of the road."

DOES ASSAULT AND BATTERY CLASS AS "MORAL TURPITUDE"

BOSTON, March 17.—(AP)—The federal court Monday will decide whether assault and battery constitutes "moral turpitude" and is an offense punishable by deportation under the immigration laws.

The question was raised today by John Marancl, a tailor who was to have been sent back to Italy on the steamship Verdi. Marancl was convicted of assault and battery last March and served 13 months at Concord reformatory. On his release he was arrested by immigration officers under the law which provides that aliens convicted of crimes involving moral turpitude within five years after their entry to the United States may be deported.

Marancl's counsel applied for a writ of habeas corpus contending that assault and battery involves no "inherent quality of vileness" as implied by "moral turnitude." The court stayed the deportation pending a hearing on the petition.

DENOUNCED VOLSTEADISM AS CRIME OF THE AGES

CINCINNANTI, Mar. 17.—(AP)—Volsteadism is the crime of the ages, Senator Edwards, democrat, of New Jersey, declared here tonight in an address in which he denounced prohibition and the Anti-Saloon league.

Speaking before the Irish Fellowship club, the senator described the Volstead act, as "that dastardly piece of legislation that cross of calvary, that denial of Judas, that crime of crimes."

Assuring his audience that he was not engaging in hyperbole, he said he had in his office at Washington thousands of letters and telegrams "in which prohibition stories of crime, degeneration, sordid immorality, vice wickedness, licentiousness, murder, rape and a few other antisaloon league virtues are unfolded."

LUTHER AND STRESEMANN RETURNING TO BERLIN

GENEVA, March 17.—(AP)—The German chancellor, Dr. Luther, and his foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann, left for Berlin at 8 o'clock tonight amid "hochs" thrice repeated by the German newspapermen and other sympathizers remaining behind.

"Yes, I will see you here again in September," Dr. Stresemann said to the correspondent of the Associated Press.

Chancellor Luther was slightly less hopeful, saying: "Yes, I think so!"

Both appeared in the best of spirits and were not upset by the day's happenings.

Senate Was Solid Against McCamant

Rejected Without Record Vote or Debate His Nomination For Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—President Coolidge today lost his fight to keep on the federal bench Wallace McCamant of Oregon, who placed his name in nomination for the vice presidency at Chicago in 1920.

Without a record vote, or even discussion, the senate approved the report of its judiciary committee, which recommended against confirmation by a vote of ten to four.

The action of the senate automatically removes Judge McCamant from the bench of the ninth circut court, where he has served since last September under a recess appointment given him by Mr. Coolidge.

The adverse report of the committee was taken up out of order in executive session at the request of Chairman Cummins of the judiciary committee, who moved its adoption. No objection was offered either by administration leaders or the friends of Judge McCamant and the vote was taken.

Reports were that Judge McCamant had let it become known that he did not care to press the fight after the committee which gave him a personal hearing had voted so overwhelmingly against him.

Immediately after the senate voted, discussion arose as to a successor to Judge McCamant. The names of Federal District Judge James of California, and Former Federal Judge Frank Norcross of Nevada, were among those mentioned. Others are expected to enter the field.

The fight against the McCamant nomination was led by Senator Johnson republican, California.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY HAD BOMB SCARES IN LONDON

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—Bomb scares were created tonight at two St. Patrick's day dinners, one attended by the Prince of Wales and the other by Premier Baldwin.

While Wales was at the dinner of the Irish club a missile, the contents of which included moistened calcium carbide and a piece of tarred rope, was thrown into the entrance of the restaurant. No damage was done.

At the Hotel Cecil Mr. Baldwin had just risen to deliver his speech when a piece of firework was flung among the guests from the gallery by a man. There was a flare of flame and considerable smoke and the women of the party were thrown into consternation. Nobody was injured, but one woman fainted. The fire was quickly put out by the men who squirted seltzer and stamped upon it.

The man who threw the missile in the hotel was arrested. There has been no report that anyone was taken into custody for the affair at the dinner attended by the prince.

MATTEOTTI WAS MAULED AND FORCIBLY ABDUCTED

CHIETI, Italy, March 17.—(AP)—That the socialist deputy Matteotti, was mauled about the body and struck on the head and forcibly abducted by four men in an automobile driven by Amerigo Dumini, was testified to today by eight eye-witnesses of the kidnapping. These witnesses were played on the witness stand by the prosecution at the trial of the five alleged slayers of Matteotti, whose body was found in a shallow grave near Rome two months after his disappearance.

Dumini, who was born in St. Louis, yesterday testified that he, unaided, kidnapped the anti-fascist deputy and that Matteotti died in the automobile from a hemorrhage brought on by fright.

Testimony regarding the fateful events of the afternoon of June 10, 1924, the day on which the arch-enemy of Premier Mussolini was taken away from Rome by force, occupied the entire second day of the trial.

Review of Session Of L. of N. Council

Break Up of the Meetings Will Delay Operation of the Locarno Peace Treaty.

(By the Associated Press)

In addition to crystalizing the movement for changing the methods of choosing members of the league of nations council and perhaps of altering the structure of the league itself, the breakup of the league meetings in Geneva delays the coming into force of the Locarno security accord. Article X of that treaty, negotiated last October, provides that it shall not enter into force until Germany has become a member of the league.

It was at Locarno that final provisions were made for Germany's entry into the league and for her elevation immediately afterward to the permanent council seat to which it was agreed her size and importance entitled her.

The extraordinary sessions of the assembly and council just concluded were called for the express purpose of fulfilling the Locarno agreement with regard to Germany's election to league and council membership.

In the discussions preliminary to the Geneva meetings, however, a strong movement, backed vigorously by France, developed in favor of enlarging the council still further by granting Germany's neighbor, Poland, a seat in the council. The situation was then further complicated by demands from Spain, Brazil and China for permanent council places.

Germany objected to the move for enlargement, declaring it would be a breach of faith on the part of the allies to invite her to council membership and then counterbalance her vote by the addition of others. Action on her admission to plain league membership was held in abeyance while the allied statesmen attempted to swerve her from this position. She received staunch support from Sweden whose youthful foreign minister, Osten Unden, declared he would under the unanimity rule, veto the election of any nation to council membership other than Germany.

A deadlock developed, which appeared to be broken by an offer from Sweden and Czecho-Slovakia to sacrifice their non-permanent council seats, thus leaving the way clear for the election of Poland and one other power. Germany was agreeable to this suggestion, but the matter was again brought to a standstill by Brazil's declaration that she would veto Germany's elevation to permanent council membership unless she herself was elected at the same time.

The powers, with the European end of the squabble satisfactorily in hand, argued in vain with Afranio de Mello Franco, the Brazilian delegate, and finally a note of appeal was dispatched to the Rio Janeiro government to recede from its position in the interest of conciliation and harmony.

It became apparent, however, that the reply would be in the negative and the decision was taken to postpone Germany's election until September. Germany's delegates, her chancellor and foreign minister, agreed to this course.

Senor Mello Franco's declaration before the assembly today that his orders were final and irrevocable clinched the decision, and a motion for postponement introduced by Sir Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain, was adopted.

NATIONAL BETTER SIRES-BETTER STOCK CAMPAIGN

NEW HAVEN, March 17.—(AP)—Fifty boys in New Haven county's 4-H club have made a record in the National Better Sires-Better Stock campaign, which it is claimed leads the United States. The campaign has been conducted in nearly every county in the United States by the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture through county farm bureaus. The New Haven county contest ended today. The boys have secured pledges from farmers to use only pure bred sires in the future. The pledge covers cattle, horses, sheep, swine and poultry.

The New Haven county boys had to beat 440 pledges to get a national record and they secured 632 live stock owners pledges.

Paul P. Ives, county bureau leader, had final charge of the campaign.

PASSAIC TEXTILE STRIKE WAS AIRED IN WASHINGTON

Eight Strikers and Leader Weisbord Were Denied Permission to See President Coolidge—They Were Referred to the Labor Department—To Settlement Proposals the Strikers' Leaders Are to Present a Counter Plan Today.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Both sides in the New Jersey textile strike transferred their activities to Washington today, and while the mill owners were won over to a plan of settlement based on arbitration, the strikers' representatives balked and promised counter proposals tomorrow.

The plan agreed to by the owners was suggested by labor department conciliators. It provides for immediate return of the 16,000 strikers to work pending adjustment of their grievances by selected representatives of both sides. Their decision would be made retroactive to the date work is resumed.

If these negotiations failed, a committee of three made up of a representative of each side and one named by the department would attempt to settle the differences.

Robert M. Reinhold of the Forstmann and Huffmann mills at Passaic, and F. W. Halterman, of the Gera and New Jersey Worsted mills, the only two owners who had not previously approved the plan accepted it today, but at a two-hour conference later, the strikers' delegates declined to endorse it. They declared a counter proposition would be presented Secretary Davis tomorrow.

Both sides attempted to lay their respective ideas on the strike before the white house. Denied permission to see President Coolidge, eight strikers and their representatives, Albert Weisbord, head of the United Front committee, and Miss Katherine G. P. Wiley, secretary of the conservation league of New Jersey, were referred to the labor department by Secretary Sanders.

A representative of the owners called Mr. Sanders by telephone to present the operators' side. No effort was made, it was understood, to see the president.

WOMAN STRIKER WAS INJURED IN PASSAIC

PASSAIC, N. J., March 17.—(AP)—The attempt of 600 textile strikers to picket the Gera mills and Passaic Worsted Spinning company this afternoon resulted in the arrest of a woman striker and the injury of two men as a squad of 45 police dispersed the crowd.

The woman arrested as a disorderly person was Vicky Bratovsky of Passaic. Those reported injured in the melee were Elias Schoffi and Charles Firdau.

The strikers participating in the demonstration came direct from a mass meeting at Russian national hall at which Elizabeth Gurley Flinn was the speaker. Six hundred men and women led by Lena Chernenko marched to the Gera mill to join the picket lins. Police enforced their rule allowing only eight pickets and kept the strikers moving.

The workers circled the Passaic Worsted Spinning company and attempted to return past Gera mill. A halt occasioned by the women leaders insistence on their right to parade resulted in the police breaking up the crowd by the use of mounted officers and motor cycle men.

Pending the outcome of the negotiations for peace in the textile industry on a plan submitted by Secretary of Labor Davis to Albert Weisbord, strike organizer, in Washington, strike activities today were almost at a standstill before the Gera mill incident.

LIEUT. THOMPSON, U. S. A., WAS HANGED IN MANILA

MANILA, March 18—(Thursday)—(AP)—Second Lieutenant John S. Thompson of the United States Army was hanged early today for the murder of Miss Audry Burleigh at Manila April 5, 1925.

The execution occurred in a warehouse at Fort McKinley, only an officer and eight enlisted men ebing present.

Thompson spent yesterday with his spiritual adviser and his attorney in preparation for death.

He was the first American officer to be executed in peace time.

Lieutenant Thompson, signal corps, United States Army, a graduate of West Point Military Academy in the class of 1924, shot and killed Miss Burleigh, 17 year old step daughter of Captain Hamilton P. Caimes, medical corps, early in the morning of April 5, 1925. Thompson was engaged to marry Miss Burleigh. He asserted that his salary was not sufficient to support a wife, and that he had decided on the spur of the moment to kill the girl and end his own life, because he feared he would lose her if the wedding was delayed.

Thompson drove from Fort McKinley to the Army and Navy club, where Miss Burleigh had danced at an amateur entertainment. He invited her to accompany him for a short drive. As they neared old Fort San Antonio, Aiad, Miss Burleigh protested against driving in that direction, according to the Filipino chauffeur.

After a brief argument, Thompson drew a revolver and killed the girl with five shots He then compelled the chauffeur to drive to Fort McKinley, where he told the corporal of the guard that Miss Burleigh's body was in the automobile and requested that he be locked up.

WASHINGTON SEES GOOD OUTLOOK FOR DISARMAMENT

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—On the basis of information it has received, the Washington government is inclined to regard the situation in Europe as promising neither immediate nor material advancement in the direction of disarmament.

The prevailing belief of informed government officials tonight was that the much discussed meeting of the league of nations preliminary disarmament commission will be still further delayed. Such action by the league council is expected to follow the postponement until September of a decision on the admission of Germany to membership in the league.

As regards American participation in the disarmament meeting, it is virtually certain that it will remain assured so long as public opinion continues favorable. On the other hand, it is realized that the prevailing sentiment in favor of participation by the United States may be adversely affected if the disarmament discussions are projected still further into the future.

These and other possibilities became known today despite the flat refusal of Secretary Kellogg, Ambassador Houghton and Minister Gibson to comment on the armaments situation in any way. The two diplomats called home for consultation regarding the Geneva proposal for the preliminary meeting, were in conference most of the day with Mr. Kellogg.

WEARING APPAREL NOW TAXABLE IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, March 17.—(AP)—Wearing apparel of individuals is taxable if its total value is more than $25 and it is being taxed by the board of relief, for the first time in this city, as far as is known in the assessors' office.

The board today assessed the estate of Mrs. Gertrude S. Terry $160 for wearing apparel belonging to her. The clothing was valued at $185, less $25 exemption for taxable purposes. Clothing of the late Patrick McGee, was also assessed, Attorney Louis A. Kornblut, chairman of the board, announced. There is no record of any other individual wearing apparel assessments in the tax office, inquiry disclosed.

Probably every adult person in the city would be liable for taxation on his wearing apparel if the law were strictly enforced.

Sensible men and women are always deaf to unjust criticism.

ROBBED OF $1,800 AFTER MAKING $2,211.50 PROFIT

BRIDGEPORT, March 17.—(AP)—After completing a real estate deal Monday morning, which netted him a sum of $2,211.50, William Hart, 1137 Broad street, began to celebrate his good fortune which turned into ill fortune, late tonight at 7 o'clock, just two hours after his son reported him missing from home, he wandered into police headquarters and told Lieutenant James Ramsey that he had been robbed of about $1,800 by someone.

Hart journeyed with a friend to a Main street restaurant where they had several drinks and Hart met two women who became very friendly. He claimed that he remembers nothing more until he awoke this morning at an inn at Silver Sands, Milford. He was handed $400 by a man whom he claimed he did not know, and that another man drove him back to Bridgeport tonight. The two women companions had disappeared.

After the man had made his complaint, detectives visited the Main street restaurant where they obtained some information as to who the women were and later made a visit to the Milford inn to learn what transpired during the man's visit there.

AN AMERICAN KILLED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

MEXICO CITY, March 17.—(AP)—Rex Mallpone, an American, was killed and E. H. Heidenkamp, another American seriously wounded by bandits in the town of Ixtlan, near Monterrey, last Sunday. This information came to the American embassy here today in a depatch from William P. Blocker, the American consul at Masatlan.

The embassy immediately sent notes to the Mexican foreign office requesting the government to take steps for the apprehension and punishment of the bandits.

Consul Blocker also has officially notified the governor of the state at Nayarit of the attack upon the Americans and requested that troops be sent in pursuit of the attacking party.

The message of the consul to the embassy here was brief and garbled in transmission and the embassy is therefore ignorant of all the details of the affair. It has requested Consul Blocker to make a report by mail. Meanwhile the Mexican government is making an investigation.

Mallpone and Heidenkamp were employed by the Utah Construction company.

CONDITION OF COLONEL COOLIDGE UNCHANGED

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 17.—(AP)—The condition of Colonel John C. Coolidge, critically ill at his home here, changed but little during the day, his physicians, Dr. Albert M. Cram, of Bridgewater, said tonight.

"Col. Coolidge is very quiet tonight," the bulletin issued at 7.50 o'clock said. "He spent a comfortable afternoon, but has not taken any nourishment.

"His condition is about the same as this morning and it appears likely that he will have a restful night as he does not suffer from attacks of hiccoughing as much as before.

"There seems to be no immediate cause for alarm."

Dr. Cram telephoned the evening statement from Bridgewater after discussing his patient's case over the telephone with Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse. He said he would not visit Col. Coolidge again until tomorrow, unless new developments were reported.

THIEF TURNED ON GAS AFTER ROBBING HOUSE

BRIDGEPORT, March 17. — (AP) — After robbing a house this afternoon, a thief turned on the gas jets in the stove and when the owner returned he not only found all valuables missing, but the house so filled with gas fumes that entrance was barely possible.

Five gold rings and two watches were also among the loot that the burglar obtained, according to the owner, who made the complaint at headquarters.

WILLIMANTIC, March 17—Rudolph Ladr of Willington pleaded nolo contendre, through his attorney to a charge of driving an automobile past a standing trolley car while discharging passengers, when he was presented in the Mansfield town court last night. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $28.50, remitting fifteen dollars of the fine. The case was prosecuted by Grand Juror Carlton P. King. State Policeman Henry Heinold made the arrest. The offense was committed on the evening of Saturday, March 6, in front of the home of Justice of the Peace Andrews. It was alleged that Ladr did not slow down his car as he passed the trolley, from which passengers alighting. In stating that he was inclined to some leniency in the case, Justice Andrews recalled that several complaints of identical nature had been received and having issued a due warning, offenders for a similar offense will undoubtedly, not be dealth with so leniently.

A Healthy Bladder Acts During the Day

C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: 'Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder trouble." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as epsom salts do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." LIVES ON FARM IN OKLAHOMA

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer nervous and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. F. D. 9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

ACCELEROMETER TELLS FLYER THE BUMPS HE CAN ABSORB

DAYTON, O., March 17 (AP)—There are speedometers and pedometers and there is the accelerometer. But the accelerometer does not measure miles or steps. It records bounces and bumps.

It is an intricate little device placed under the pilot's seat in an airplane and it tells how the flyers' bodies stand the strain of being hurled around in their seat while the plane makes loops, spirals, nose dives and other forms of aerial gymnastics.

The device was perfected by Lieut. James H. Doolittle of McCook Field the engineering division of the army air service here. It contains a small strip of film on which is outlined the stress and strain of the body.

Lieut Doolittle has found that a pilot can withstand instantaneous and sharp movements of the plane at comparatively slower lips and dives, continued for several seconds, causes the pilot to temporarily lose his faculties.

He has discovered that a flyer even in the pink or condition, can withstand the intense pressure resulting when a plane is turned around a pylon at high speed, only for a limited time. Twelve seconds is the limit.

When such turns are made all the blood is forced down to the feet and as high speed airplanes are constantly being developed and bettered it was necessary to devise a means of finding out just how much a flyer could endure.

NORTHWEST'S LIBERATION TO BE HISTORICALLY CELEBRATED

INDIANAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—A sesqui-centennial celebration of the victory which made the northwest territory a part of the United States is planned for 1929 by the Indiana historical society.

Five States — Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota—all carved from the old Northwest territory, would participate in the celebration commemorating the capture by George Rogers Clark and his band of soldiers of Ft. Sackville, now Vincennes from the British on Feb. 24-25, 1779.

The victory was the deciding factor in the dwindling of British dominion by that ended the Revolution over the territory to which it was the gateway, and the region was made a part of the United States by the treaty.

May Rule Hungary

Count Apponyi, known as the "Demosthenes, of Hungary," and well known in America, is being picked as a royal viceroy, or governor, to succeed Admiral Horthy, in a movement launched here as the best solution of the critical political situation in Hungary. Since the discovery of the franc forgery plot there has been a showing of enmity to Admiral Horthy who it is said, has signified his intention of retiring at a favorable opportunity. Count Apponyi is 80 years old, a statesman, an orator in half a dozen languages, is physically more vigorous and keener mentally than even President von Hindenburg of Germany.

Next Tuesday brings the annual borough caucus for the nomination of candidates for warden, burgesses, tax collector, bailiff, assessors and other borough officials who hold elective places. The borough remains quite complaisant about this annual duty. Little is heard about candidates or candidacies. Likely there will be few changes in the present official family, though, as usual, there will be some.

Danielson has a special interest of the conference of manufacturers and executives of Connecticut who are to gather in New Haven next Monday to consider commercial air lines over this state at the invitation of the board of directors of the Colonial Airways, Inc. W. Irving Bullard of this town and Boston is officially connected with this organization and very active in its promotion. As the Boston-Hartford route of this line is directly over Danielson and as there has been consideration of completing an emergency landing field here, Danielson is interested in all that goes on pertaining to the corporation and its service.

DEATH OF FRANK E. HILL EARLY WEDNESDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 17—Frank E. Hill, 70, died at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning at his home on School street. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Hill was a native of Sterling, Conn., born May 26, 1856, a son of Jeremiah F. and Laura Young Hill. Excepting for a year spent in Plainfield, he had lived all of his life in Sterling and Killingly and had been resident here the past 19 years. Thirty-two years ago Mr. Hill was united in marriage with Miss Lillian Barber of Sterling. She survives him with one son, Ralph, of Westerly. He also leaves a brother, Edwin, of Oneco, and two sisters, Miss Anny Hill and Mrs. Mary Himes, both of Providence.

Interest expressed Wednesday in the Jewett City news over an Egyptian iris in bloom in that community is reflected in Danielson. On the day the item referred to appeared Mrs. William P. Perkins of Broad street had an Egyptian iris with seven blossoms.

Plants are quite common in Danielson, Mrs. David Witter of School street having given numbers of them away to friends. Last year Mrs. Witter had one plant showing ten blossoms at one time.

Under an official test being conducted at W. S. Brown's Shepard Hill farm, near Wauregan 20 cows of a herd of pure-bred Holsteins are giving over 1,000 pounds of milk daily and five of the group are yielding an average of 53 pounds each every day. The average age of the herd members is four years. A young bull from Mr. Brown's herd is to be shipped today to J. C. Clark and Sons of Lake Crystal, Minn., going by express and due to arrive there Saturday.

Dancers from far and near congregated at the state armory Wednesday evening for a St. Patrick's night dance the music for which was furnished by Uncle Joe Shippee of Plainfield, champion old-time fiddler of New England, and his orchestra, assisted by Henry Gray of Ballouville, county champion. This mid-Lenten affair appeared to have a special appeal for the many who came, and they were representative of a number of communities.

Announcement that Bishop's crossing in the town of Plainfield is to be eliminated by the state highway department was received with gratification in this town. Numbers of the Killingly people who frequently use the route to Norwich fear this crossing because of the fatal accidents that have occurred there. It is understood that traffic will be carried over the crossing on a bridge. Another crossing in the town of Plainfield that also is a fearsome spot is that one known as French's crossing, between Plainfield street and Central Village. Fatal accidents have occurred there and it is really as dangerous as Bishop's crossing the same trunk line highway on the route between Danielson and Norwich.

The Danielson town team closed a very successful season, Tuesday night, by defeating the South Manchester team, as told on the sport page Wednesday morning. It may be said that the patronage of the local team would have been even greater than it has been had the public generally learned of the high class game being played by Danielson.

Norwich grange No. 172 visited Killingly grange Monday night and entertained the local grange with a royal program, under the leadership of their Worthy Lecturer, Mrs. Althea Brown. Every number was the work of an artist. Miss Charlotte Fowler ave two pleasing vocal solos with encores. Herbert Spencer the colored artist with his guitar and plantation songs made a tremendous hit and was loudly and repeatedly encored. A comedy entitled "The Peak Sisters" was the crowning number of the evening, being an entire entertainment in itself furnishing barrels of fun and endless amusement. Ten stunningly and strikingly dressed sisters composed the cast and provided a great variety of droll situations. A new high record of attendance was made, with 152 people present. Nearly a dozen granges were represented. Norwich numbered 35 in its delegation. Notable among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Adams and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent who motored up from Groton especially for this meeting. Mrs. Ella Lathrop chairman of the refreshment committee served those present with salad, cake and coffee. Old fashioned dancing was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

A number of Killingly grange members attended Highland grange last Friday night and gave a short program. Those taking part in the program were, Joseph Heselton, Miss Alice Jordan, Miss Mabel Frink and Charles A. Downs.

Alfred L. Reed visited in Boston Wednesday with John Moody, ill with pneumonia. Mr. Moody is a graduate of Killingly high school.

Inquiries of citizens would indicate that there is greater interest than ever this year in having additional streets of the borough oiled. Abutting property owners pay part of the cost, which is moderate and of great advantage. It is noted that streets with oiled surfaces have stood up better through the winter than streets not so treated.

More ice went out of the Quinebaug and Assawaga rivers during Wednesday, but plenty of it remains in the upper reaches of these streams, especially in the coves. These rivers were free of ice as early as March 10, a year ago.

Constant work by state highway crews in putting gravel in holes in depressions along state highway routes in this territory are making traveling conditions better for motorists.

The watchful eye of a game protector will be upon trout streams here during the final days of March, against the practice of some who like to get out ahead of the opening of the season on April 1, and get a good string before the law-abiding citizen moves out to see what he can see.

At this particular time of year, when young people now busy with their studies are wondering about a career for future years, it is not amiss to say something about the opportunities offered for a practical education by the State Trade school at Putnam. There is a good prospect that this school will be enlarged this year and become of even greater educational advantage to the youth of Windham county.

Wednesday afternoon Edgar Reynolds, 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Reynolds of North street was kicked over the eye by a horse owned by Ernest Logee. A wound was opened and Dr. W. H. Judson was called to stitch, but the physician said that the wound was not a serious one and that the child was not seriously injured.

Next Sunday will be observed at St. James' church as Passion Sunday. The altar drapings and vestments will be the purple of the penitential season.

Members of Killingly grange assisting recently in giving a short program for the members of Highland grange at South Killingly were Joseph Heselton, Miss Alice Jordan, Miss Mabel Frink and Rev. Charles A. Downs.

Another "rabit" snow that had fallen during the night greeted early risers Wednesday morning, which was bleak and trying. It is recorded that there is a deficiency of 80 degrees from normal March temperatures up to the 17th of this month, and that to date it rates as the coldest March in 53 years.

At Goodyear church, Rev. Charles A. Downs preached Sunday morning from the text Mark 4:23, and took as a topic "The Attentive Ear." He said in a jazz age much of our hearing is apt to be to little or no effect. Selective listening is quite a necessity. Pondering over the things we hear that are worth while is essential in the development of a real religious life. An attentive ear to the warnings against a too loose modernism, embracing most anything short of murder, might well be heeded.

PUTNAM

SUIT TO RECOVER $5,000 ON DAYVILLE PROPERTY SALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 17—The suit of Mr. and Mrs. John Zubrick against Michael Pisarko, et ux, to recover $5,000 paid by them on a farm at Dayville, is being tried before Judge Edwin C. Dickenson in superior court.

All the parties to the action are Russians, the defendants being, or having been members of a real estate firm in New York, the plaintiffs having resided on Long Island at the time of the transaction.

It is claimed by the plaintiffs, who are represented by Maurice J. Giaumi and Frank W. Nicolosi, of New York, that there was fraud and misrepresentation in the sale, that the purchase price of $18,000 is double what the farm is worth, that the agreement given them was said to be a deed, that for $2,000 of the $5,000 which the plaintiffs allege was paid in cash, no receipt was given, and that they were told that the remainder of the purchase price could be paid at the rate of $400 a year instead of $200 a month as called for, by the contract.

Mrs. Zurick, who was on the stand for several hours, testified through an interpreter. The above allegations were made by her on the witness stand. The property is known as the Keech place at the Four Corners in Dayville, the plaintiffs moved on it in April, 1924. A few months later three of the defendants went there to live, sleeping in the barn. Michael Pisarko, one of the three, told Mrs. Zurick that she would have to pay the $200 a month or else move off. He tried to coerce her, so the witness stated, to sign a paper which would have meant a surrender of their equity in the property. On her refusal to sign it he threatened to kill her and because of that threat she signed the paper. In the fall they moved back to Long Island, and are now trying to recover the money they put into the farm.

In the summer of 1925, Michael Pisarko and one of his associates became involved in a quarrel at Baltic and one of them killed the other and then killed himself.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Aver, who lives at Dayville, and knew the plaintiffs, said that at the time the plaintiffs bought the property it was $8,750.

Henry H. Pettis, of Norwich, represents the defendants, who deny that there was any fraud or misrepresentation and the case is being contested at every point. One of the issues over which the attorneys are contending is whether Mrs. Zurick can understand English or not. The plaintiffs' attorney claims that she cannot, the defense insists that she does.

FIRST NATIONAL BK. CLAIM TO BE SQUARED FOR $25,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 17—The U. S. comptroller of the currency has given his approval to the agreement between the attorneys that the claim of the receiver of the First National bank against the directors be settled for $25,000.

The original claim as made by the late Charles E. Searls, who was attorney for Receiver George M. Coffin was about $100,000. He held that the directors were liable for loans for that amount made by the cashier, G. Harold Gilpatric to parties without sufficient security. A compromise at the figure stated $25,000, was arrived at by the attorneys for the receiver and the directors and it was then submitted to the comptroller, for final decision. This amount is independent of the assessments that the directors had to pay as stockholders in the bank.

At the meeting of the Women's club at North Grosvenordale held at the cooking rooms of the Tourtelotte memorial high school, Miss Sylvia Wheelock of Putnam Electric company, gave a demonstration of electric cooking devices. Nearly fifty tables were filled and thirty-six hands were played. At the conclusion of the evening it was found that there was a triple tie for high score, and on the cut, Mrs. Joseph Alvord was the winner and Mrs. William St. Onge was second. Among the men, E. A. Phaneuf made the highest score and Arsene Harper won second prize. The evening was in charge of Mrs. Armand Lizotte. The proceeds of these weekly whists are devoted to charity.

JEWETT CITY

FATHER MORRISSEY PAYS TRIBUTE TO ST. PATRICK

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 17—The St. Patrick's commemorative service held at St. Mary's church was attended by a record congregation, who appreciated the eloquent oration by Rev. R. P. Morrissey and the excellent music, specially prepared. One number played by the orchestra was much liked. It was a medley overture, in which the airs were Come Back to Erin, Last Rose of Summer, Wearin' of the Green, Kerry Dance, Kathleen Mavourneen, St. Patrick's Day and Moll Roone. Father Morrissey in his sermon said in substance:

St. Patrick stands out in the world's history as the greatest leader and conquerer of the minds of men. During fifteen hundred years of the onward sweep of the world's progress he still lives in the hearts and minds of people the wide world over. The same love and loyalty that greeted him on Irish shores have never failed to kindle greater warmth when, under the pressure of tyranny, his people were forced to foreign climes. Loyalty to the cause of right has ever been the strongest characteristic of the Irish people.

What is true of their spiritual life is also true of their political life's drama. Loyalty to God and country goes hand in hand. Loyalty was the watch word of Brian Boroihme of the 10th century and of G. Kenn Barry of the 20th century. It is now one hundred and twenty-five years since Robert Emmet sacrificed his life for his country's cause and in this sacrifice we see the ideal unselfishness of the Irish patriot. When my spirit shall be wafted to a more friendly port—when my shade shall have joined the hands of those martyred heroes who have shed their blood on the scaffold and on the field of battle in defense of their country and virtue, this is my hope—that my memory and name may animate those who survive me."

This is the spirit St. Patrick instilled into the Irish people, a spirit that defies time and must necessarily break down all barriers between them and the day when some friendly hand may write the long delayed epitaph of the immortal hero—Robert Emmet.

The funeral services for Mrs. Julia A. Bennett were held at the home of her son, Charles H. Butts, Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church conducted the service. The body was placed in vault at Evergreen cemetery, Central Village, where the committal service was held. BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE!

Norwich isn't the only city which has an interest in its trees. The fact is that others do so much more for them than we do that the contrast is decidedly marked. Not only do they provide an expert or experts to take care of them but they carry out a plan of replacement each year which means that not only are new trees set out for each one removed from the highways but in different sections of the city new trees are planted each year. What a fine thing that would be for the Rose of New England!

It is top late to wait until the trees are all gone. We have suffered the loss of many that would be a decided credit to the city and which in many instances might have been preserved had they gotten the right attention and treatment in time.

It isn't to be supposed that such a city benefit is going to be obtained without providing it. The situation is not so different from that in Philadelphia, concerning which the Philadelphia Public Ledger says: "If the park commission had more money to spend on the care of the city's trees there might be more hope of gaining ground against the ravages of the caterpillars. Last year these pests were particularly destructive, which justifies the expectation that there will be fewer of them this year. In 1925 the commission was able to spray about one fifth of the trees on the city streets, besides more than 25,000 in Fairmount park. Undoubtedly the owners could help this work if they would by scraping off the egg masses in house crevices and on trees before the new crop of caterpillars is hatched."

The pests that endanger our trees deserve more attention than they get. The spraying should be carefully and thoroughly done. A lick and a promise doesn't kill elm tree beetles, and they don't preserve trees which are suffering from disease. All the elm trees should be properly sprayed and adequate apparatus provided to do it and the time seems ripe for Norwich to give serious attention to this matter.

A GOOD BUSINESS MOVE

It isn't always possible for a government to find the money with which to effect all the economies that can be pointed out, and many economies are obtainable only through the use of much money. It is therefore possible to point to savings that might have been effected over a long period of years had a different course been pursued. But though that different course was not followed does not mean that it should be avoided forever.

Way back in the early days of this republic it was pointed out that we were paying large sums for the rental of property in foreign countries. It has been often referred to since, and yet not very much progress has been made in the way of relieving the situation. We haven't entirely disregarded the situation but there are many instances where we have paid long since in rentals far more than the residences and embassies abroad would have cost.

Evidence of a change in the attitude toward such a proposition is furnished by the vote of the house for the appropriation of a fund of $10,000,000 for the purchase or erection of buildings in foreign capitals during the next two years. This bill isn't going to be adopted without opposition. There are those who feel that the money should be spent in other ways, but in spite of other demands it cannot be shown where it would be inadvisable to make such investments. Rather does it appear to be a matter of good business.

We have been negligent in this matter for a long time. We stand out in marked contrast to other and smaller nations. The folly of being subject to the whims of landlords concerning possession and rents of the residences of our representatives abroad is clearly understood. It is time that Uncle Sam was his own landlord abroad as well as at home, and that is what he will become if the building bills concerning foreign as well as domestic buildings are enacted at this session of congress.

NEW YORK'S VOTING MACHINES

Reason for much satisfaction on the part of the people of New York should result from the announcement of Mayor Walker of that city that while he has not changed his opinion concerning voting machines he knows that they have been installed in the city legally and that they must be paid for. He therefore favors the settlement of the bill for those already here and those which are to come.

Voting machines in New York mean a revolution in voting conditions in the metropolis instead of that slow and uncertain method of voting by ballots, where the interpretation of the voter's intention is left to a group of counters, there is substituted a quick, accurate means of casting the vote and in addition there is the knowledge that it is to be counted as it was cast. Furthermore machine voting makes it possible for the results to be shown in a very short time after the polls are closed.

New York city has fought the voting machine tooth and nail. It fought them when legislation was sought requiring them and it fought them afterwards. It carried the matter to the courts only to find out that they were legally ordered and even then there was an evident determination on the part of the previous administration to either refuse to pay for them or to make as much trouble as possible for collecting the money.

The folly of such a course has apparently dawned upon the present city administration. It will be cheaper to settle the bill now and meet the expense gradually as it comes along, than to fight and ultimately have to pay the bill with interest and legal fees attached.

New York is due for awakening concerning the voting machines quite the same as other cities have experienced. Their benefits are best realized through actually testing them and on their merits have been demonstrated the wonder will grow as to why they had never been obtained before.

HOOVER ON THE FLEET

Speaking before the Export Managers club in New York this week, Secretary Hoover had the opportunity to set forth his views upon several important quqestions and he did so in a most convincing manner.

Secretary Hoover has been heard before in regard to our merchant marine but he showed that he had not been won away from the attitude he had previously taken when he laid stress on the importance of not only maintaining the shipping lines which have been established under the direction of this government but of getting them just as rapidly as possible into the hands of private capital.

There are routes which he believes can be operated at a profit by private capital, where the government is now losing money, while there are those which need to be brought more nearly to a paying basis before they are relinquished to private operation. He would not abandon such routes for they are necessary for our trade to foreign points.

The export managers must have strongly approved of his statement when he said, "We will never have a real or satisfactory merchant marine until it is owned and maintained by private enterprise. It cannot avoid the interminable difficulties and wastes of bureaucracy and, above all, the direct and indirect political pressures. We must get out of government operation as quickly as we can establish private operation."

Furthermore he made the significant declaration that "We will never attain even the best mediocrity of government operation until we reform the method of administering the fleet, until we make it responsible to the president instead of direct to congress and until we have more definite merchant marine policies."

THE RESULT AT GENEVA

The session of the league of nations has gone for nought insofar as accomplishing what was expected is concerned. For a time it looked as if Germany was going to return home and have nothing more to do with the matter of its membership in the league and the league council, but it apparently was convinced of the mistake in such a course, and through its declared willingness to let its membership remain open until September it has provided time for the adjustment of the complicated situation that has arisen, if adjustment is possible.

As the result of the Locarno agreements Germany was promised membership in the league and a permanent seat in the council. There isn't any question as to that. The league meeting was called for the purpose of accepting Germany's application for membership and voting it a seat in the council. That would have been a fulfilment of the promise given to Germany in connection with the giving and receiving of other promises at Locarno.

When, prior to the league meeting, there arose a demand from other nations that Poland, Spain, Brazil and China be given permanent seats in the council there was a justified protest on the part of Germany. It recognized an apparent effort to nullify its position in the council. Even though the others were not all persuaded to abandon their demands at this time Germany was persuaded to allow time to effect changes or present other plans. Only for that the league would be standing in a decidedly weak light. It hasn't emerged from the test that it is experiencing but it apparently hopes to. There is satisfaction to be noted in the fact that the Locarno agreements otherwise remain unimpaired, but the league must do some real scrambling to reinstate itself before the world by September. Its reaction to the test thus far is not inspiring.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Indications point strongly to some interesting sessions of the league of nations in the future.

Regardless of the situation at Geneva, some think that the nations are ready for real international peace.

The new dollar bills may stand the wear and tear longer but will they make a bigger roll in your pocket?

The league of nations will never be able to arouse the same amount of interest over here as the world's series.

No one has been heard to express regret because he is numbered among the 2,300,000 who are relieved from paying an income tax this year.

The man on the corner says: Does anyone suspect that the race for the north pole this summer will decrease the interest in the pennant races?

Because the average life of the new dollar bill has been increased from seven months to a year doesn't mean that it will actually be possible to hold on to it for that time.

The big oversubscription of the new government bonds shows an appreciation of the security. The billion dollars thrown into worthless securities each year shows the willingness of some people to buy anything.

ROUGHING IT

"The Rockies? Well, you had courage," the luncheon hostess turned to the elderly guest at her right. "I suppose nothing happened. Most of the world is at peace now. But I guess you're the only grandmother among us who ever asked her husband to take her camping. I'm awfully proud of you, my dear."

"Well, a few things happened, regardless of the world at peace." The silver curls of the prettily bobbed head shook saucily as their owner laughed. "In the first place, I deserve credit for persuading Byron to take me to the mountains without a guide. He was utterly opposed to it, but I told him that if we were ever going to do any back to nature stuff we had better be up and at it."

"You're marvelous," breather several.

"Thank you! On the very first day when we were to cook our supper outdoors, I found a brush pile that I told Byron seemed to have been specially laid for our campfire. I said that I had the instinct of a true woodsman and I insisted upon lighting it myself. That's the reason that I got most of the stings."

"Most of the stings?"

"You see, there happened to be a yellow jackets' nest under that brush pile. Fortunately there was a brook near, and Byron bathed my stings with soda and water, and it was only after the swelling left my face and arms that he said I didn't have quite enough of the woodsman's instinct. The cool air was so soothing to my fevered face that we drove far into the night before I was willing to make camp. At last we could not see our way in a heavy fog, and Byron said we must stop before we had an accident.

"'Luckily,' he announced, 'there appears to be a clearing right here near the road where we can throw down our blankets.'

"'All my life,' I said, 'I've dreamed of sleeping out in the wilderness with only the stars between me and heaven.'

"'Well, here's your chance,' answered Byron 'though you can't see the stars through the fog, but you know they're there.' So we lay down between blankets and how we did sleep! It was broad daylight when we awoke and found ourselves objects of curiosity, for a group of people were gazing at us disapprovingly. To our horror we discovered that we were on the front lawn of a summer hotel where some religious conference was being held. It was the morning bell that wakened us. We tried to explain how we were misled in the fog but we were obviously considered questionable characters, so we moved on, not daring to ask for breakfast there, though a real meal at a real table appealed to me strangely."

"You poor dear," sympathized the hostess. "Was everything all right after that?"

"It might have been if I hadn't once read Stevenson's Travels with a Donkey. You see, I had made Byron promise me that we could have a few days in the mountains, carrying our packs on burros. So we parked our car in a village garage and set forth, and it was fun. But the very first night I woke up hearing an animal prowling about. I could barely see its outline in the dark, and I knew it was a bear. I called Byron in a terrified whisper and begged him to shoot it. So he shot. My heart almost stood still.

"'Great Scott!' grumbled Byron, the next minute. 'It's a good thing I could not see the sights on this gun, or I would have killed that burro. He had slipped his halter. That would have been a nice mess. Why did you say it was a bear?'

"'You could see him as well as I could. Why did you shoot?'

"'You told me to, and I was too sleepy to see anything,' he replied, and we crossly crawled back into our blankets. The next day we went to a hotel."

"I suppose your husband made you; you had led him into such fearful adventures that he cried, 'Enough!'"

"Good gracious, no! He wants to do it all over again next year. He's making all sorts of wild plans which"—again the silver curls seemed to dance as their owner solemnly shook her head—"which have to be quashed. Once was enough for me, after all."—Exchange.

From Small Beginnings

Daniel Maclise, the Great Irish Paint

A 13-year-old Irish boy in a bookstore looked up and saw a famous man standing at one of the counters turning the pages of books. The boy took pencil and paper, studied the man's face and pose, and made a picture that showed the great man in one of his best moods.

That picture made hastily on the spur of the moment, was the foundation or all the successes of Daniel Maclise, the great Irish painter. The man whose picture he drew was Sir Walter Scott then at the height of his greatness. The picture, put on sale, so clearly showed the characteristics of Sir Walter Scott, the writer and lover of books that everyone asked what artist had been so successful in knowing the real man. At once the boy found himself famous and able to command large sums of money for his work.

From the time of his childhood, Daniel Maclise had wished to become an artist. His parents had been too poor to give him the artistic education that was necessary, and he had been obliged to teach himself as well as he could by copying pictures. At 14 he had been set to work as "handy boy" in a bank. He had worked faithfully, had saved a little money, and had continued to try to draw. At 16 he found the means to take a course of instruction in art. At 19, in the bookstore, his great opportunity came—and he took it instantly. One of the marks of most genius is the instant seizing of opportunity.

In his days of first success he continued to save money, was able to take further courses in art, to gain prizes, and to make successful pictures of many great people. Ultimately he became one of the most noted artists of his day and one of the leading members of the London academy of Art. His two greatest pictures are heroic groups. The Death of Nelson and The Meeting of Wellington and Blucher. These have such striking power and originality that they instantly attract attention. In them there is that dashing spirit that led the young Irish boy to take opportunity at the very moment when it offered itself.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Lee Slater Overman, who has announced his candidacy for reelection to the United States senate, has been one of the representatives of North Carolina in the upper house for nearly a quarter of a century. Senator Overman is a native of North Carolina, a lawyer by profession, and also a bank and railway president. He began his political career in 1883 when he went to the lower house of the state legislature, and at intervals was reelected up to 1900, in 1893 serving as speaker. In 1895 he began to aspire to federal office, a result accomplished in 1903, when he was sent to the United States senate. He has been reelected three times and is placed until March 4 next, when his present term will expire. Senator Overman's interest in education has been pronounced, and he has served as trustee of two of the leading colleges of the state.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mansfield and The State College.

Mr. Editor: In a recent issue of The Bulletin in an article headed "Assets and Liabilities of the Connecticut Agricultural College and the Town of Mansfield," the writer of this article queries as to whether or not the town of Mansfield was injured financially by the state's taking 1,506 acres of, as you may say, the best farm land in the town from our tax list, the land and buildings of the college being assessed for $56,357. At a tax rate of 25 mills, the tax on this property would yield to the town $1,408.92. Why he figures a 25 mill tax, I cannot understand as we have not had any such tax for three years. We had had a rate of 27 mills. For the past two years the assessment was 26 mills and this year we decreased that rate to 20 mills. If you are going to refer back, why not go back 40 years when we had all of this and and equipment on our list, as well as the property now owned by and used for the Mansfield State Training school and hospital are on the town on a 13 mill tax. For years a tax larger than 17 mills had never been known in this town. How do you account for this, I would ask.

The writer says the purchase price of this land was $122,472. What was done with the stock and equipment on these farms? To get down to hard facts you can multiply this amount by two and is somewhere near it or call the amount $240,000 at least. Every one of these farms carried stock and equipment of fully as much assessed value as the land and buildings. Another point is that the grand list of the town in about 1875, when all of this property was paying taxes was around $500,000 and usually under. Now with these 1,506 acres to which the writer refers and about as much more at the Mansfield State Training school and hospital with all stock and equipment you may as well say that one-third of the value of the town is taken away. Our list is $1,580,000 or four times as much as when these properties were assessable. To be fair about this you should have said that the town is the loser by $222,428 from the list, which is four times what it was, the same as the rest of us have been raised to say nothing about the stock and equipment which went with it.

Figure this at 20 mills, this year's figures, and we have $4,448 instead of $1,408 as you claimed. Add to the $4,448, the net per capita cost of schools, which is $39.54, plus $273.37½ interest on the town deposit fund and $28 local school fund, both strictly town matters and you have a net cost of $340.21 or $2,010.50 less, $1,820. The special grant is $190.50, added to $4,448 is $4,638.50, as you term liabilities.

Now for the assets. On those I will take your figures, which without doubt are correct with the exception of the personal tax which you claim is $400. The town gets only one-half of this, which is $200, instead of $400.

The total property valuation is $162,611. At 20 mills, same as the liabilities, the figure is $3,252.22, plus $200 personal tax which makes the total assets $3,452.22.

Taking from the liabilities of $4,638.50 the total assets (your own figures) $3,452.22, leaves $1,186.28. Thus you have a balance on the other side of $1,186.28 in liabilities, as you call them. As far as the ownership of the private houses are concerned, I do not consider that enters into this affair in any way as I know there were a great many of them there when the college was built.

I do not believe anyone in this town wants to injure the college in any way, but when you say the town has been more than repaid for what they took from the list, I cannot quite see it in that light and I think a great many others in town will bear me out in this. I am

Yours truly,
FRANK W. MILLARD.

Finds way to get rid of muscular aches and pains

HOW OUTDOOR MEN TREAT MUSCLE-STRAIN

Sprains, bruises, rheumatism also yield to this treatment

Outdoor men who do hard muscular work, who undergo exposure and risk of accident every day, know how necessary it is to give prompt attention to muscle-strain, bruises, sprains and other injuries.

A member of a survey party, sent out by the government of British Columbia to do sub-division work three hundred miles from civilization writes: "The chief of our party with rare foresight brought along as a part of our first aid supply a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. And through weeks of exposure and hardship we found it our best help for sprains, bruises, stiff muscles and rheumatism."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It helps your body to throw off the cause.

Just a little Sloan's patted on lightly—and a healing tide of fresh new blood is sent right to the place that hurts. The aching and stiffness are helped right away.

All-in Every Evening? Beware of Chronic Fatigue

Thousands of men and women who come home exhausted, nervous and irritable every evening are really victims of—chronic fatigue.

TOO TIRED to walk upstairs

Chronic fatigue is an unnatural tiredness—usually due to lack of sufficient organic iron in the blood. To conquer it you must restore this iron to your blood. For this purpose nothing equals organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and lentils. It will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach like old-fashioned mineral iron medicines.

Take Nuxated Iron for just 2 weeks and notice how much stronger and better you feel. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD AND BANISHES CHRONIC FATIGUE

FRANKLIN TOWN HALL BURNED WITH ESTIMATED LOSS OF $5,000

The Franklin town hall, a frame building standing alongside the Congregational church at the top of the Meeting House hill in the town of Franklin, was burned to the ground early Wednesday evening with an estimated loss of $5,000, which is partly covered by the $3,000 insurance carried on the building.

The fire about 5.40 started from a defective chimney, it was reported, breaking out on the roof and side of the building and spreading rapidly as little could be done to check the flames. The only water available was obtained from a well in pails by the Yantic fire engine company which responded to a call for help. The Yantic company made the three mile run to Franklin with the pumper and a crew of 21 men and did effective work in getting the furniture out of the building, saving the piano, chairs and other furniture in the hall. The Yantic crew worked valiantly and saved the church from catching fire, keeping that building wet down by forming a bucket line from the well to the church.

The town hall building, which was 30x60, was erected about 20 years ago. Last spring the selectmen made an addition to to accommodate the women voters. The building was used only for meetings, dances and entertainments and did not contain the office of the town clerk or other town officers so that none of the official records of the town were lost in the fire.

On the way to answer the call the Yantic company lost the nickle plated cover to one of their tanks. They would be glad to have it returned by anyone who picks it up on the road.

Wednesday morning the Yantic fire company responded to another Franklin fire call, going to the farm house of Henry Holden, opposite the Smith's Corners schoolhouse. The firemen used four cans of chemical on a bad chimney fire in the Holden house.

The Yantic company has answered 24 calls since the first of January.

RIDES FROM FLORIDA TO LAND IN LEBANON SNOW

In five days from sunny southland to five hours in snow-drifted Lebanon, with the car buried to the body and this on St. Patrick's day in 1926, was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Zezulawesz, of Long Island, N. Y., who drove to Connecticut to visit with Mr. Zezulawesz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zezulawesz of Lebanon, for a short time before returning to their home.

Mr. and Mrs Zezulawesz drove south last November in their Hudson sport car and the Florida climate was enjoyed throughout the winter. As the heat became worse than any northern summer heat could reach, the couple decided to return north. Everything was fine coming home and the trip was completed in five days; that is, all but the worst part.

Driving into Connecticut the couple reached Lebanon station and then started for their relatives home, which is located on the Lebanon station road. Some snow had been seen along the roadside but this seemed of little account to the travelers and when a stretch of about 400 feet of snow covered ground presented itself the driver continued on his way.

All went well until the car had plowed along the snow for about 50 feet, then, suddenly, the bottom seemed to come out from under the car and the next thing Mr. and Mrs. Zezulawesz knew they were snowbound, the car being sunk to the body level in a three foot drift.

All attempts to get out were in vain and word was sent to the homestead and neighbors also came to the rescue but it was five hours before oxen pulled the car back for 50 feet, and clear of the drift. After this delay the welcome home took place and nature's chilly reception was soon forgotten in the joy of being back at the old home.

Mr. Zezulawesz will remain in Lebanon for about a week before returning to Long Island, where he is engaged in commercial flying. While at Palm Beach he made several flights and carried passengers for sight-seeing tours.

Last fall Mr. Zezulawesz paid a visit to his parents in Lebanon, creating no little excitement when he landed with his plane at the Fred Hoxie place on the Norwich-Lebanon road, it being first believed that an aviator had been forced down because of trouble.

Mr. Zezulawesz brought home a large number of cocoanuts this time which he plans to distribute among his many friends.

SETTLEMENT FOR $800 IN COMPENSATION CLAIM

A voluntary agreement between H. Wales Lines Co. of Meriden as employer and Walter Thompson, employed as head foreman in this city in December, 1920, has been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue, who says in his finding and award:

"Because of the dispute and difference of opinion of the parties as to the amount of medical expenses and degree of disability, and whether same is attributable to injury, it has been agreed for the purpose of effecting a final settlement of the case that a certain sum shall be paid to the claimant by the respondents, in full and final settlement of all claims due to the injury described, the amount agreed upon being $800."

Thompson sustained a broken ankle, strained back and bruises Dec. 17, 1920, at Versailles. Compensation was paid for 17 weeks, but there were certain medical expenses not paid by the respondent insurer. It was found that Thompson had ten per cent permanent disability in his foot, but none in his back, although he made a claim on that account.

EAST LYME SLANDER SUIT IS ON TRIAL

The superior court in New London was busy all day Wednesday, with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding, hearing the slander suit of Mrs. Minnie Erskine, an East Lyme school teacher, against Mrs. Mary Lincoln of Niantic in which $5,000 damages are sought. The plaintiff alleges that Mrs Lincoln, who had children attending the school where Mrs. Erskine was teacher, wrote a letter to Superintendent of Schools Gove on Nov. 5, 1919, in which she branded the school teacher as an immoral character.

Witnesses Wednesday were the plaintiff, Myra B. Davis, George I. Holmes, Paul Senko, Mary Senko and Decker Case. When court adjourned for the day the defendant was on the stand.

Automobile Over Wall

There is a Buick sedan over a wall and in a field a short distance below Hallville on the Norwich-Westerly road, where the machine has been since two nights ago. Registration plates and other means of identification have been removed from the car, which is of an old model. The machine was traveling on a straight and level stretch of road towards this city, when it ran off the highway to the left, jumped off the bank wall into the lot, ran along a short distance, circled to the right again, crashed head-on into the wall, and toppled over on its side. The windshield was shattered, front springs and right front axle bent, and tire on right front wheel blown.

Miss Perkins had passed most of her life in the town where she was born and died. For many years she was a faithful member of Park Congregational church and her quiet, sympathetic way of going about doing good endeared her to all with whom she came in contact. She had a bright mind and a charming presence and her passing will be a sorrow to her many friends.

DUWELLS ENTERTAIN FOR CLUB ROOM OPENING

Tuesday night at the Duwell club rooms on East Main street, the members of this rapidly growing organization celebrated the opening of their recently aquired rooms by entertaining their wives, sweethearts and lady friends.

From the time William Shanley, chairman of the entertainment committee, welcomed the ladies at 8 o'clock until the last strains of music from the instruments of the Duwell Hot Tomales had settled after midnight the visitors were kept on the go and it was a tired but happy crowd that unanimously agreed that the Duwells can entertain as well socially as they can in athletics.

The evening's program opened with whist and pinochle, lasting until 9:30, the prizes going to the following: Pinochle—ladies first, Mrs. A. J. Wholey; second, Miss Mary Walz; gentlemen's first—Fred Moll; second, Dan Melton, Sr.; consolation, Bruno Pedau; whist, ladies' first—Mrs. A. Lamb; second, Mrs. George Taylor; consolation, Mrs. Fred Murray. Gentlemen's first, Charles Colenza; second, Howard Spaulding; consolation, William Crane. Following the cards, refreshments consisting of assorted cakes, ice cream and fruit punch were served, after which entertainment was furnished by the Misses Lucille Gross and Mary Gallagher novelty dancers. Peter Devita, the popular tenor and Fowler's Silvertone quartet. Each of these acts scored a hit, the clog dancing and interpretation of the Charleston by the two young ladies especially. The vocal selection by Mr. Devito and also the quartet drew their share of applause.

The remainder of the evening was spent at dancing to music rendered by the Duwell Hot Tamales who made their initial appearance following a month's hard practice. Although this was their first appearance they performed like veterans and it is expected that much will be heard of these boys in the future.

The decorating of the club rooms was another feature which drew much attention, A. E Fowler being in charge of the decorating.

The success of the whole affair was due to the efficient work of the committee consisting of William Shanley, Ralph Patrick, Leon Dix, Peter Barber, Robert Woodmansee and A. E Fowler.

She Could Never Have Done It With Piles!

Bless the American girl who has glorified all the sports! She makes a pretty picture in the water, and is a plucky swimmer, too. Piles are unthinkable for active women. If you have them, you ought to know this simple thing to do!

At any hour or moment that you have the least distress or discomfort from piles, use a simple Pyramid pile suppository—and go happily on your way! The worst hemorrhoids, even bleeding and painful protruding piles respond at once to the soothing suppository applied in perfect privacy. But near the name in mind; Pyramid is the one every druggist sells, usually the only one he will sell his patrons. Pyramid is marvelous. Why suffer another single half hour with pain or piles?

Sixty cents the box, the world around. But for proof, a free sample will be sent those who write. Pyramid Drug Co., 200 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

HOFF IS HAILED BY AMERICAN FANS AS WORLD'S SUPER ATHLETIC STAR

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Charley Hoff of Norway hailed as a super-athlete as a result of his record-shattering triumph in the world's indoor all-around championship, today laid plans for a country-wide tour of athletic conquest after receiving cabled permission from Norwegian authorities to extend his American invasion to the middle of July.

The 28-year-old viking's original permit covered only a three months' period of competition, ending May 4. The extension not only will permit him to make a trans-continental tour, competing in ten or a dozen meets in the middle and far west, but also will enable him to take part in the National A. A. U. championships at Philadelphia, July 5 and 6.

The national decathlon title test at Philadelphia will give Hoff an opportunity to try conclusions for outdoor all-around honors with Emerson Norton, Georgetown giant, who finished second to the Norwegian in last night's indoor battle, as well as with Harold Osborn of the Illinois Athletic club. Osborn, who holds the world's record in the decathlon as well as the American and Olympic championships, was forced to withdraw from the three-cornered struggle last night because of a sprained ankle.

Hoff is particularly anxious to have a conclusive test with Osborn. He expressed keen regret today over the mishap which put the Chicago star out of the running at Madison Square Garden.

Many athletic critics, however, put Hoff in a class by himself as an all-around star in spite of Norton's good showing and Osborn's consistently brilliant record. These observers pointed out that the Norwegian's performances last night in taking five out of the seven events on the programme and shattering world's records in two of them, the pole vault and broad jump, stand without parallel in the annals of indoor competition.

Hoff will wind up his indoor campaign here next Saturday night at the Post Office Clerks' games with an attempt to eclipse the pole vault record for the tenth time. Since opening his American invasion on February 4 he has never failed in his attempts to raise the standard. On only two or three occasions has he failed to clear record heights on his first vault. In nine trips he has raised the record from 13 feet to 13 feet, 7 inches.

Hoff also is slated to compete in the broad jump on Saturday. His opponents will be Dehart Hubbard, Negro athlete who holds the world's outdoor record and William Dowling of Georgetown, whose indoor mark was surpassed by Hoff last night. Norton will be the Norwegian's chief opponent in the pole vault.

Accompanied by his bride and brother-in-law, John G. Daan of New York, the Norwegian star expects to leave by automobile the latter part of the month for his cross-country trip, which will take him as far as Los Angeles. He will perform at several intermediate points, including the Drake relay carnival at Des Moines, Iowa, April 23 and 24.

INFIELD PLAYING WILL DETERMINE DODGERS' CHANCES

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Brooklyn's pennant chances this season in the National League depend entirely on the success of efforts to reconstruct the infield, in the opinion of President-Manager Wilbert Robinson.

"Last year at this time my chief worry was over my pitching staff; now it is my infield," Robinson declared today in outlining his prospects for The Associated Press. "It seems to me as though these two problems alternate every year.

"Johnny Butler, the shortstop for whom we gave so much to Minneapolis, has been a big disappointment. He has not been able to play at all. First he had the "flu," now he has stomach trouble. I do not know when he will be able to play.

"Stock is still a holdout and Maranville is not playing up to form as yet. The fact is, except for the old reliable, Jake Fournier, I have no infield at all.

"My pitching staff, however, is in better shape than for years past. Grimes is back in fine form, and you know what that means, with Dazzy Vance as his side partner. Jess Petty is showing good form. Then there is Jess Barnes, who appears to be as good as ever. In McWeeny, the former Pacific Coast pitcher, I have a most promising boy. I plan to use him as a regular. He has the stuff and the pitching sense to make a star. This gives me five fine pitchers to count on. At this time last year I had not one.

"I feel all right about my outfield, Felix, secured from Boston, is a great fielder and a smart player. Cox and Zach Wheat complete the outer defense.

"If Butler gets his health back and I can get one more infielder we will give them all a battle."

FAVORITES IN S. E. TENNIS ADVANCE TO SEMI-FINALS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17—(AP)—Favorites brushed aside all opposition today to advance to the semi-finals in the singles of the southeastern tennis tournament at the Florida Country club. Doubles play began today and in the lower bracket William Tilden, national champion and A. J. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., advanced to the semi-finals by eliminating half a dozen Jacksonville players by decisive scores in the first three rounds.

Vincent Richards, Olympic champion, meets T. Harada, Japanese Davis cup star, in the upper bracket tomorrow and Tilden meets S. Howard Voshell, Kew Gardens, New York, in the other singles match.

Richards volleyed his way to victory over his doubles partner, Francis T. Hunter, of New York in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, while Tilden was forced to extend himself to defeat Jerry Lang, New York, 6-3, 6-3. Harada put out F. C. Owens, Atlanta, in a hard fought match, 9-7, 6-3, and Voshell easily disposed of Jack McKay of Indianapolis 6-1, 6-2.

Unless an upset occurs, indications from the draw are that Richards and Hunter will face Tilden and Chapin in the finals of the doubles.

NEW LONDON WOMAN IS ELIMINATED IN FIRST ROUND

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 17—(AP)—Mrs. D. S. Reymond, Baton Rouge, Louisiana and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, had little difficulty in advancing to the second round of match play in the women's invitation golf tournament here today.

Mrs. Reymond defeated Mrs. J. R. Armstrong, New London, Conn., 4 and 3, while the match of Mrs. Hurd was harder fought. She won over Miss Sarah Jones, Augusta 2 and 1.

Mrs. Reymond tomorrow will meet Mrs. M. L. Spaulding, Buffalo, New York. Mrs. Hurd opposes Mrs. Hugh Halsell, Dallas, Texas.

Other winners of today will be paired as follows:

Miss Ethel Ecker, New York, with Mrs. Harold Richardson, Augusta.

Mrs. Reginald Maxwell, Augusta and Miss Margaret Eschweze, New York.

DRAWINGS MADE FOR DAVIS CUP COMPETITION

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Full diplomatic honors surrounded the drawings held here today under the auspices of the Davis Cup committee to determine the order in which 24 national teams will play out an elimination contest to pick a challenger for the international tennis trophy now held by America. The cup matches will be played in Philadelphia next September.

Argentina, newcomer to the cup series this year, was the first nation drawn. Secretary Kellogg drew the sealed envelope containing its name from a great silver bowl in the patio of the Pan-American Union building while, as a further coincidence, the Argentine diplomatic representative drew Hungary as the opponent for his fellow countrymen. The diplomats of the competing countries took their turn in drawing to the alphabetical order on the diplomatic list.

There were two drawings, 19 countries including Argentina being in the European zone and five countries, Japan, Mexico, Cuba, Canada and the Philippines, in the American zone. The Argentine team could have been placed in either group but elected to go into the European zone.

The Philippine team was first drawn in the American zone and will meet the winner of the first round Japan-Mexico match, while Cuba and Canada are matched for the other second round game.

To overcome the mathematical difficulty in the European zone, the committee scheduled three first round games. Rumania-Italy, Holland-Belgium and South Africa-Portugal-Austria to meet the winner of the South Africa-Portugal match in the second round.

The other pairings in the European zone are Spain and Ireland; Great Britain and Poland; Sweden and Switzerland; France and Denmark; India and Czechoslovakia.

EXHIBITION GAMES FEATURE AT THE TRAINING CAMPS

CHICAGO, March 17—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, aided by Dazzy Vance, turned 13 hits into a 10 to 5 defeat of the St. Louis Browns at Clearwater, Florida today. Sisler poled a homer, which was duplicated by Standart and Felix of the Dodgers. Dazzy worked for three frames, letting the western players down for one safety.

The Chicago Cubs celebrated St. Patrick's day on the Emerald Isle of Los Angeles by trimming the Spearmints, 3 to 0 for the sixth time.

From behind his besmoked glasses, Ty Cobb watched his Detroit team's first regulation game of the year go to a 9 to 8 result in an exclusive Tyger affair at Augusta, Georgia. The veteran manager piloted the outfit that won.

The St. Louis Cardinals gave up after three consecutive days of rain at the San Antonio quarters and went back to Houston where they hope to equal their recent victories over local talent.

Mindful of a decisive beating given them last week by the Shreveport club, the Chicago White Sox defeated that team today by 9 to 6. Bib Falk with two hits in two times up led his mates at bat.

All set for a game with the Giants tomorrow, Tris Speaker worked his Cleveland Indians through a long drill today at Lakeland, Florida.

The Cincinnati Reds grouped hits to win from the Winter Park, Florida team, 5 to 3.

WOMEN'S TENNIS PLAY REACHES THE SEMI-FINALS

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 17—(AP)—Play in the two women's national indoor tennis tournaments in progress on the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket club progressed without upset today to the semi-final round. Miss Elizabeth Ryan of Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., gained semi-final brackets in the 19th annual singles championship and will meet on Friday morning. Tomorrow Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, Wilmington, Del., defending champion, will play Miss Katherine Kardner of Cambridge and Miss Mary K. Browne of New York will meet Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, the winners to meet in the other semi-final.

Four doubles teams won second round victories that carried them into the semi-final round of that tournament. Mrs. Jessup and Mrs. George W. Wightman, a former championship pair, was one of these. Other semi-finalists are Miss Ryan and Miss Browne. Mrs. Corbiere, Mrs. William Endicott of Boston, Miss Martha Bayard and Miss Gardner.

In the singles play today Miss Ryan disposed of Mrs. Charles G. Hubbard, runner-up last year, 6-2 and 6-4. Miss Bayard advanced to the semi-final by a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Mrs. W. M. Shedden of Boston.

LOCAL BOXERS MAKE GOOD SHOWING AT COLCHESTER

Frankie Busch, local heavyweight, made a fine impression on the crowd of 300 at Colchester Wednesday evening when he boxed four rounds with Bob Shaw of Norwich in a St. Patrick's night entertainment put on by St. Andrew's parish. The bout was in connection with a general St. Patrick's observance and was one of the features of the evening. Both boys put plenty of action into their work and gave the fans a real treat.

Young McCarthy of Norwich boxed rounds with Young McCann of Glastonbury in another exhibition. This bout was in the lightweight class and was also a snappy go.

Vaudeville and dancing followed the bouts.

BAGENBAGGAGE WINS FROM STABLEMATE, BOOT TO BOOT

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 17.—(AP)—Western colts dominated the running of the fifth Louisiana derby at Jefferson Park here today when Bagenbaggage won from his Idle Hour Farm stablemate, Boot to Boot, in the record time of 1.51 1-5 for the mile and an eighth. The time clipped three-fifths of a second off the track record of 1.51 1-4. Navigator coupled with Lancaster and Nurmi as the Greentree stable entry, was third.

The race, with $10,000 added, was worth $9,800 to the winner. The Idle Hour paid $3.40, $2.20 and $2.40 for two dollar win, place or show tickets, and the Greentree stable entry paid $5 to show.

It was a race of favorites all of the way. Bagenbaggage, tacking 116 pounds, off to a bad start and forced to go wide around the first turn picked his trappings in the final quarter and won handily. Boot to Boot, with 113 pounds up, and Navigator, loaded with 122 pounds, got away in front. The Idle Hour colt chased the eastern-owned Navigator for three-quarters of the route before overtaking him.

As the three leaders swung into the stretch Jockey E. Blind turned loose and the fast-coming Bagenbaggage flagged Boot and Boot, and Navigator hung out the distress signals. The winner finished two lengths ahead of Boot and Boot, and the same distance separated the latter from the show horse Golden Maxyk pulled up in fourth place, followed in order by Lancaster, Smiling Gus, Cogwheel, Eric, Sky Rocket and Nurmi.

Nurmi, winner of the $30,000 New Orleans handicap, showed the effects of his long ride from Miami, which ended here last night, and was never a contender. He carried top weight of 126 pounds.

All of the entries except Sky Rocket are eligible for the Kentucky derby, to be run at Churchill Downs, Louisville on May 15.

JIM RICE, VETERAN ROWING COACH, IS CONSIDERING OFFERS FROM GERMANY

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Jim Rice, veteran rowing coach, is considering offers from two German rowing clubs to coach their fours and eights for the ninetieth annual regatta of the Hamburg Rowing club over the Elbe river course, July 10 and 11.

Hubert Houben, noted German runner who recently competed in a series of indoor meets in this country approached Rice with the proposition while training here and opened negotiations between the veteran coach and the German clubs.

If the negotiations are successful, Rice said today, he would start for Germany immediately and introduce the American stroke and the American system of training there.

"This is the first spring in 23 years" he said, "that I haven't been coaching a crew and I am anxious to jump back into the harness. I started coaching in 1898 with the Toronto Rowing club and have been actively engaged in the work since then."

He tutored Harvard's oarsmen from 1904 to 1906, spent the next seventeen years as head coach at Columbia and was at Pennsylvania in 1924 and '25, retiring last season after a disagreement with rowing authorities at the Philadelphia institution.

Rice intimated that he would take his son Jim Jr. to Germany with him in the event he accepts the offer. His son is 16 years of age, stands six feet, four inches and weighs 176 in rowing togs. He is a freshman at Columbia.

"It always has been my ambition to make a world's rowing champion out of the boy," he said. "I'm going to start at the bottom with him and bring him through slowly until he is ready to compete for the famous diamond sculls in the British championships."

Five American college crews, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell, Yale and Harvard, have received invitations to row in the Hamburg regatta. Pennsylvania already has accepted tentatively. The Hamburg meet opens eight days after the Henley regatta, in which it is believed the American college crews will compete if they accept the German invitation.

Westerly Wins Last Game.

The players have hopes of a larger playing hall becoming available next year.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Clarksburg of the Middle Atlantic league, has signed W. S. Brown, a big right-handed pitcher, who hails from Gauley Bridge, W. Va.

The Newark International League club has signed Harold (Chick) Gagnon, who failed to report to Kansas City last season, and played independent ball.

Captain Frank Frisch of the Giants, who had been kicked on his contract, signed up last week, but some of his friends doubt if he got the raise wanted.

The Chambersburg club of the Blue Ridge league, has announced the signing of Alvin Julian, a catcher, as manager. He is a former Cornell university man.

Bob Veach, veteran outfielder, whom Hank Gowdy thought he had lined up for Columbus, last week signed with Toledo. He was recently made a free agent by the Washington Senators.

The Jonesboro club of the Tri State league, has traded Pitcher Harry Baumgartner to the Jackson club of the Cotton States league for Infielder Donovan and Catcher Armstrong.

Herbert Christiansen, former University of Wisconsin pitcher, who has starred in semi-pro circles for two years, has signed a contract with the Syracuse club of the International league.

Pitcher Tom Glass has been obtained by Martinsburg of the Blue Ridge league, from the Portland Pacific Coast League club. He formerly was with Cambridge of the Eastern Shore league.

The Houston club of the Texas league has made arrangements to operate the Austin club in the Texas association. The Austin club will be utilized as a farm. Baseball has not paid in Austin and the old owners threw up the sponge at the close of last season.

Denver of the Western league, has signed Sparky Weatherington, a right-handed pitcher from Florida, for a tryout. He was recommended to Manager Joe Berger by Bucky Harris, it is said.

Dubuque of the Mississippi Valley league, has signed Estel Crabtree, 22-year-old outfielder, from Nelsonville, O. He has had wide experience in semi-pro fields and can play the infield if required to.

Having uncovered a pile of hickory timbers laid away 55 years ago in a barn near Pittsburg, Pa., Joe Harris, Washington slugger, is having four new bats made of the stuff. Joe says they sure will be real home run getters.

Fort Worth of the Texas league, has obtained Pitcher Walter (Huck) Betts from the Philadelphia National League club. He makes the seventh experienced member of Jake Atz' mound staff. Betts had been with the Phils for five seasons.

The St. Louis Browns have released Lloyd Finnin, young infielder, on loaned a short time ago from Tulsa of the Western League, to the Milwaukee club of the American association. He goes in the deal which brought Oscar Melillo to the St. Louis team.

The Columbus club of the American association, has traded Catcher Luke Urban to Toledo for Outfielder Paul Strand. Manager Hank Gowdy expects to do the major part of the catching for his team and figured Strand was just the man he wanted in his pasture.

Secretary J. Warren Wilson of the Spartanburg club announces the signing of Infielders Gilleyle and Rudinger, Pitcher Yates and Catcher Monahan, all of whom were recommended by Johnny Mengel. The new players have excellent records in semi-pro ball in and around New York.

Barney Dreyfuss observed his sixtieth birthday on February 23. The league of National league owners has been at the helm of the Bucco for 26 years or ever since he installed the club in Pittsburgh. Barney was born in Germany in 1866 and came to this country when a boy.

PREDICTS SPREAD OF INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 17—(AP)—Continued spread of the influenza epidemic which holds this state in its grip was predicted tonight by Dr. Charles V. Chapin, superintendent of health of Providence, but on the other hand, he believes that the decline of the disease will be as rapid as has been its rise. Dr. Chapin declared that he did not believe shops or theatres should be closed although this drastic action has been advocated by some health authorities in the state.

There are thousands of cases in the state many of them children, and although public gatherings are being discouraged to a great extent, authorities refuse to become alarmed. The disease is here in a mild form, resembling grippe. It carries, however, the threat of pneumonia, several cases of this ailment now being under treatment.

PROTEST BY AMERICAN RESIDENTS OF PEKING

PEKING, Mar. 17.—(AP)—American residents of Peking, representing chiefly missionary interests, today took action in protest against American participation in possible armed action by the neutral powers to compel raising of the blockade of Tientsin. The powers' ultimatum of yesterday demanded that the contending Chinese forces give satisfactory assurance regarding clearing the way to Tientsin by noon tomorrow.

A group of ten Americans called on John V. A. MacMurray, the American minister, and urged him to prevail on the Washington government to prevent American participation in the proposed action by foreign naval forces to compel reopening of navigation on the Pei River. They represented the Rockefeller foundation, which maintains the Peking Union Medical college, Yenching university, a joint missionary institution, and the Presbyterian and Methodist missionary bodies.

ROOSEVELT COMPLAINS OF EXCESS LEGISLATION

BOSTON, March 17—Paternalism of excess laws and the stamping of the importance of the individual citizen asked today, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt asserted tonight in an Evacuation day address here.

"If too much for legislation on subjects continued," Colonel Roosevelt said, "we will make of ourselves unpatriotic, who depend on the state for everything and on who the state cannot depend. We will destroy the individualism which brought about the war of the rebellion and which fought it through to a successful conclusion. Our aim should be to foster and protect the individual American."

Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad declared a special dividend of $4 a share on common stock and a regular dividend of $3 per share for the first quarter of 1926.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 17.—Funeral services for Edward Maxson Dodge were held from his home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and were attended by many relatives, friends and business associates. Rev. L. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Westerly, and Rev. William F. Williams, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, Stonington, a former rector of the Westerly church officiated at the short service. Burial was in the family plot in River Bend cemetery, the bearers being Thomas Mackenzie of the Episcopal church and Fayette F. Freeman, Earl E. Saunders and George W. Woodward, employes of the E. M. Dodge and Co. store, of which Mr. Dodge had been the head of for more than 50 years.

All the retail stores of Westerly were closed from 2 to 3 p. m., during the funeral services and and the banks closed for a half hour. The plant of the Atwood Machine company, of Stonington, of which Mr. Dodge's son, Frank F. Dodge, is president, was closed also.

Following ten years' employment in the store of Frank A. Wells in Norwich, Edward M. Dodge returned to Westerly, his home, in 1875 and was continuously connected with the E. M. Dodge Co. until the time of his death, making him the dean of Westerly retail merchants. Formal action taken by the retail trades committee of the Westerly Chamber of Commerce resulted in the general store closing during the funeral.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS AT BRADFORD WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 17—"Patsy," a two-act comedy, was presented before a large audience in Burton hall, Bradford, St. Patrick's night, by the recently organized Girls' Dramatic club of St. Vincent's church, Bradford. Instrumental and vocal numbers were well received. Following was the cast: Miss Lucretia Lane, Aunt Lu, Rose Donovan; Nita Farrell, her niece, Virginia Forrester; Ruth Feilding, Nita's friend, Gladys Sullivan; Beatrice Palma Crillis; Phyllis, Doris Newton; Hazel, Josephine Vuono; Hilda Williams, an insurance agent, Bertha Martin; Patricia Muldoon, the maid, Frances Sullivan.

Westerly Lion's club with President Willard H Bacon, toastmaster, held its noonday luncheon at a local food shop Wednesday, with 23 Lions present. The speaker was Supt. Thomas McKenzie of the Westerly Water Works, who chose for a subject the principles which should enter into business deals and transactions, ending his talk with a description of the Westerly Water and Sewage systems, which had nearly been completed in the drainage area. Extension of the water system to the beaches had required courage but the results had justified the venture. Recently driven wells now supply a million gallons reserve a day and are to be operated electrically. Now that the pipe-laying had nearly been completed, the speaker looked forward to improved streets and highways in Westerly.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following record: March 16. Frank W. Coy Real Estate Co. to Eben J. Crockett, Marguerite I. Crockett and Agnes C. Gavitt, all of Pawcatuck, Stonington, a certain parcel of land, No. 5 on the Coy and Watrous plat.

Each party to the question made known their ideas and Engineer Fifield said that he would take the matter up and report to his superior, Chief Engineer Edward Gasel, of New Haven.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Another Green Forest Stranger

It is of course no more than right to be to strangers most polite.
—Old Mother West Wind.

Of course, you know, politeness always pays. Anyway, that is what people say. I think it might be a little better to say often pays, instead of always pays. Anyway it is the right thing to do to be polite to strangers. You know, you never can tell how important strangers may prove to be.

Sammy Jay brought the news to Peter Rabbit that with the coming of spring another stranger had arrived in the Green Forest. At the time Peter was over in the dear Old Briar patch. You should have seen him prick up those long ears of his. Peter hadn't been over in the Green Forest much for some little time. He had not been over there much since Puma the Panther had arrived there. So Peter depended on Sammy Jay for most of the news of the Green Forest. Could little Mrs. Peter was inclined to think that the coming of Puma the Panther to the Green Forest was a very good thing. You see Peter spent more time at home in the dear Old Briar-patch now.

"Yes," said Sammy, "there is a stranger over in the Green Forest, and he's one you'll have to watch out for, Peter Rabbit, when you go over there."

"Who is he?" demanded Peter.

"I don't rightly know," replied Sammy, "but from his looks I would say that he is related to Reddy Fox."

"What's that?" exclaimed Peter.

"I said," replied Sammy, "that he looks to me like a member of the Fox family."

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "That can't be. Reddy Fox hasn't any relatives around these parts."

"All right, Mr. Smarty, if you know more about it than I do that's all I've got to say," replied Sammy, and away he flew in a huff.

"Who is he?" demanded Peter

Peter felt a little ashamed of himself, and, oh! how curious he was. He was so full of curiosity that he couldn't sit still a minute. He wanted to start right away for the Green Forest, yet was afraid to. There was Puma the Panther over there, and Peter had heard dreadful stories about Puma the Panther. And now here was another stranger who, if Sammy Jay were right, would be only too glad of a rabbit dinner. So, on second thought, Peter decided that the dear Old Briar patch was the best place for him until he should know more about this stranger. Peter felt quite safe in the Old Briar-patch, and, after all, there was nothing more important than being safe. If every one thought of safety first all the time this would be a lot better world to live in, because there would be so much less sadness.

But if Peter couldn't go into the Green Forest he could ask questions of those who had been there and that came his way. And Peter did. Tommy Tit the Chickadee happened over to the dear Old Briar-patch. Tommy didn't have time to say "Dee-dee-chickadee" before Peter demanded, "Have you been the new stranger in the Green Forest, Tommy Tit?"

"Yes, Peter," said he, "I went to pay my respects as soon as I heard he had arrived. I believe in being polite. A little politeness doesn't hurt any one, and it may do one a lot of good."

"Never mind about your politeness," interrupted Peter, which, of course, was quite impolite on his part. "Tell me about this stranger. Sammy Jay says that he looks like a member of the Fox family, but, of course, that cannot be. Who does the stranger say he is?"

GREAT CRY BUT VERY LITTLE WOOL IN NEW LONDON SWINDLE CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 17—In the police court this morning Judge Grimes failed to find probable cause for holding Max Goldstein, for trial in the superior court, for participation in a scheme to rob Patterson Inc., of a considerable sum of money. Goldstein who is in the dairy business was accused of having swindled Patterson by charging the delivery of hundreds of gallons of cream more than he actually left at the Patterson place. He had the association of one Tudisco, who was an ice cream maker at Patterson's, and who confessed the alleged robbery when arrested. In view of the fact that Goldstein was found not to be implicated to the extent that he should be held for trial in the county court, Prosecutor Hollandersky moved for a nolle of the complaints against Tudisco and Peter Athanious, the latter also claimed by Tudisco to have been concerned in the stealing. Mr. Hollandersky made a determined effort to have Goldstein held and argued to the court with that purpose in view. Attorney Cleveland for Athanious claimed there could not be anything proven against his client and Attorney Connor presented the case for Tudisco.

NINE IN HOUSEHOLD ILL, MRS. WM. SINCLAIR DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 17—Mrs. Susan O'Neil Sinclair, 36, wife of William Sinclair, died at her home on Fishers Island, last night from pneumonia. Her death being the second in the family within 72 hours. She was one of nine members of the Sinclair household who are ill with grip, influenza and pneumonia. Mrs Sinclair was born in Scotland but had resided at Fishers Island several years. She is survived by her husband by three daughters, Misses Margaret Jessie and Isaleen Sinclair and a son Ronald Sinclair all of Fishers Island; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Rucker and Miss Mary Ellen O'Neill of Australia, and a brother James O'Neill of Boston. Mrs. Sinclair's sister-in-law Mrs. James Sinclair, whose death occurred at Fishers Island Sunday, was buried in Fishers Island cemetery this afternoon following funeral services in Union Chapel, Fishers Island, conducted by Rev. Mr. Hastings.

John Arionchuk, formerly of this city who recently moved to Niantic, and Mrs. Mary Utash of East New London, were before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis in the Niantic court, late yesterday, charged with breach of the peace. Counsel for the accused was not prepared to go on with the case and a continuance was granted to next Saturday afternoon. A bond of $300 was ordered furnished for the appearance upon the latter date of the accused. Arionchuk obtained a surety on his bond, but Mrs Utash was not so successful and was taken to jail to await the convening of court. The trouble that occurred and that resulted in the arrest of the pair last Sunday afternoon is alleged to have resulted when Arionchuk, a former lodger at the Utash home moved to Niantic against the wishes of the woman, who followed Arionchuk to Niantic and proceeded to wreck his home.

The police court had five drunks on its docket this morning. In one bunch were three fellows who are laborers and who had a wild time at the home of Louis Schinsky, a roomer at the home of a relative, Mrs. Strausak. He invited Pat Hanley and Louis Pearson into the room, where they indulged in liquor so freely that they were arrested on complaint of Mrs. Schinsky. Pearson is the father of five children and the provider for the family, so he was allowed to return to work, that he might earn and not spend. Schinsky was sent to jail for ten days and Hanley was fined $10.

Paul McGovern, who indulged in a spree without any trills, and who said it was first resting up from labor at Fishers Island, was allowed his liberty on suspension of judgment, as was Dan Fraser, a Salem farmhand, who said he had been having a three days' spree in New London. Dan is a familiar figure in the police court, but he is harmless and when he desires to do so he is a sober worker.

Now that the members of the police department have been granted an extra day off duty each month with pay, it is disclosed that the officers of the fire department are seeking an increase in salary and it would not be surprising if their request was granted, for it is known that the increasing of the salaries of the fire-fighters has long been considered. The request of the firemen has already been put before City Manager William A. Holt Chief Charles H. Rose is handling the request of the officers and a reply to the matter will be forthcoming, it is believed, during the month. The request of the firemen calls for a salary annually as follows: Chief, $2,500, an increase of $500; deputy chief, $2,200 an increase of $400; day drivers, $1,800, an increase of $300; night drivers, $300, an increase of $300. The day drivers receive an annual vacation of two weeks while the night drivers are given a vacation of a week. The only other time off that the drivers are granted is the 365 days a year is when they absent themselves from duty and supply and pay a substitute driver. Twenty-two men are affected by the proposed increase in salary and if it is granted it will increase the city budget $6,900 each year. It is understood that the members of the city council are in favor of granting the several increases.

Henry G. Atha, a student at Brown university, returned to Providence this evening after several days at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. George R. Atha, in Groton.

During Mr. Moshire's later years he was employed as gardener at Oswegatchie.

A new recruiting station for the United States navy was opened in the main corridor of the municipal building today and is in charge of Colin F. McDonald, signalman, first class. No appropriation was available for the purpose of establishing an office here and as the post office building and custom house were taxed to their capacities, City Manager William A. Holt consented to the use of the municipal building.

The residence of James A. Davis, Thames View, Waterford, where a number of aged women, including Miss Alice Bush, former teacher at the Nathan Hale grammar school reside, was threatened with serious damage by fire this morning. A request was made for assistance from the New London fire department. The fire was discovered shortly after 7 o'clock when flames broke out in the partitions of the second floor. A telephone message to fire headquarters caused the Thomas Hose company to be dispatched to the blaze and with the arrival of the firemen the blaze was extinguished and before damage exceeding $250 had been occasioned. The aged occupants were shocked and nervous and it was several hours after the fire before the women became composed.

The fire department was called out late this afternoon and there was absolute no need for the services of the department, an alarm being pulled by an excited person. Shortly before 4 o'clock, boys caused dead grass on the grounds of the Nathan Hale grammar school to be ignited and fanned by a strong wind the fire burned briskly, but in no manner could it have reached the school which is of brick. An alarm was sent in from Box 237, corner of Williams and Waller streets, causing several fire aparatus to be sent there, but the fire had almost burned itself out.

LIEUT. McGUIRE ARRESTED CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 17.—Following the wholesale arrests of members of the United States Coast Guard, both officers and seamen, stationed at this port for the purpose of enforcing the violation of the prohibition laws at the water, Lieut. John A McGuire, 10 Norwood avenue, in charge of one of the patrol boats that have been supposed to picket the sound, in search of rum-runners, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith, on a federal warrant charging McGuire with conspiracy. After being held a prisoner at the police station several hours, Lieut. McGuire was taken in charge by A. M. Arnold, Providence, special agent for the government and brought before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran. A continuance of the case was granted until the 31st and Lieut. McGuire was held in bail of $5,000 until that date. Lieut. McGuire's father-in-law, Frederick Zepp, Main street merchant, qualified as surety on the officer's bond. The arrest of Lieut. McGuire came as a surprise to officers of the coast guard among whom the officer bears a high character and has an excellent reputation.

It is understood that Lieut. McGuire's arrest was brought about by statements made by the numerous other officers and sailors who have been taken into custody the past week as being implicated in the conspiracy against the government whereby liquor was allowed to be landed at various points along the New England coast.

It is also alleged that Lieut. McGuire, as commander of one of the patrol boats that has been on duty in the vicinity of Block island and Montaul point, where the fleet of rum-supply craft has been stationed for two years, accepted a bribe from a rum-runner at Newport, R. I., where a cargo of liquor of considerable value was landed and then transported overland to its point of destination.

The arrest of Lieut. McGuire, it is understood, will be followed by several other arrests of officers and sailors within a few days, provided that the evidence now in the hands of the federal investigators proves sufficient to warrant such action.

POSSIBLE ERUPTION OF MOUNT McKINLEY TO BE INVESTIGATED

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 17 (AP)—Alex Liska, Alaska guide and mountain climber, believes it possible that Mt. McKinley peak may be in active volcanic eruption. To find out he plans to ascend it, following the route taken by the late Archdeacon Hudson Stuck who in 1913 scaled the heights approaching from the northeast.

Stuck described the crest of the mountain as containing a crater-like snow basin about 25 to 60 feet in dimension. He made his trip in company with Harry P. Kartens, Robert G. Tatum, a missionary, a third veteran of the Klondike, and three Indian boys. On the summit, reached June 7, the instrument reading disclosed the peak to be 20,300 feet above sea level.

The Stuck expedition made its start March 17, nearly three months being required for the ascent. Proceeding by dog team from Nenana, a month later camp was established 4,000 feet up at Muldrow glacier. This was 20 miles from the top. The remainder of the trip was more difficult, the greatest obstacle being a steep ridge between the lower and upper glacial floors.

The spectacular eruptions of subterranean forces in the North in recent years, bringing into being the Valley of Ten Thousand smokes and other natural phenomena, lends interest to the undertaking.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Today the Palace offers a wonderful five act vaudeville bill with two headliners. Archer & Belford in a pantomime comedy, the piano mover, which has for years convulsed the big time audiences of the country. Renard & West, a man and a woman comedy team who have played every big time circuit and have been a sensation of the bill and entertain the audiences at the Palace. The wonderful Thelma Deonzo & Company offering a novelty act and she has the reputation of being the only woman bottle thrower in the world, and Nada Norraine, a singing comedian, and Tint & Williamson singing and dancing makes up the rest of the bill. The Scarlet Streak will be brought to a close today. The feature picture is "The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, which will begin an engagement on Thursday at the Palace theatre, was screened in the Colorado mountains.

Director George Hill, whom Cosmopolitan Products loaned to the Warners for this picture, selected the heart of the Royal Gorge for his background. This is the first time that this wonderful scenery has been used for a motion picture, and it has a wealth of natural beauty. Mr. Hill believed that the powerful and rugged background of the Royal Gorge would be a means of intensifying the drama of the story itself, and reviewers in other cities have acclaimed the production as a pictorial masterpiece. One says that the mountainous backgrounds have the appearance of having been created in a moment of intense wrath to remind man that there is still something beyond his ken.

"The Limited Mail" is a picturization of the old time melodrama of Elmer Vance, which Darryl Francis Zanuck adapted to the screen. Monte Blue heads the cast.

Broadway Theatre.

A new show opens at the Broadway theatre today which will leave a very fine impression with all who will see it.

There are five all star Keith-Albee vaudeville acts on the bill.

Rose Duo, in "Whirls of Class Miss Jerrie Dean, Mary Pickford's Double, in Impressions of the Star, Walt and Mary Austin, in a comedy, "Circus Lemonade," Fielder, Maun & Co., "Is That the Girl?" Betancourt & Co., in an unique sensational comedy novelty.

All life is melodrama. That being the case, "The Lawful Cheater," a B. P. Schulberg production, which opens at the Broadway theatre today, is a real slice of life. It is a melodrama but it is one of those peculiarly enjoyable pictures that a producer turns out occasionally, in which every element of life is depicted.

The Lawful Cheater" in which Clara Bow, the sensational young screen star plays the leading role, makes no boasts of being the most pretentious production ever made. It boasts of no gilded castles, nor an expenditure of a million dollars. But it has what is far more important to the public who will flock to see. It has real drama, it has heart interest, and it has a love story that is charming. In fact it has love in two phases. The love of a girl for her sweetheart, and the deep ingrained love of a sister for her wayward brothers.

Breed Theater

Charley's Aunt, with Syd Chaplin in the title role comes to the Breed for a return engagement Friday and Saturday.

This is the picturization of the great farce comedy by Brandon Thomas which as a play has been running for 33 years and has grossed three million dollars. It deals with the humorous and embarrassing situations which occur when one of the boys at Oxford impersonates another fellow's Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from.

A splendid cast is seen in support of Syd Chaplin. It includes James E. Page who played in the stage production for 13 years, Ethel Shannon Lucien Littlefield, Alec B. Francis, Phillips Smalley, Eulalie Jensen, David James, Jimmie Harrison, Mary Akin and Priscilla Bonner. Scott Sidney directed.

The seventh chapter of the Green Archer and the Pathe news make up the remainder of the bill for Friday and Saturday.

Today's bill consists of Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle in The Mystic the Fox news and an educational comedy.

Yonkers Ferry

The Yonkers, ferry, running from Yonkers, N. Y., to Alpine, N. J., will reopen on March 20th for the 1926 season. Service will commence each day at 6 a. m. and continue until midnight. There are two large boats in the service, running a frequent headway.

Motorists between New York and New Jersey can use this ferry with distinct advantage, for there is no congestion nor delay here.

In addition to the new concrete highway from Alpine to Closter, N. J., there is now also three and one-half miles of the Sylvan Avenue Boulevard in Alpine rebuilt of concrete which was opened to traffic late last fall. The New Jersey highway department is inviting bids for the reconstruction of a continuation of this highway from its present terminus to the New York state line, there to conect with new proposed highways leading toward Nyack, and which is expected to be finished this year.

The ferry service is particularly appealing for pleasure riding because it connects New Yorkers with Interstate park and that section of New Jersey which has excellent roads and beautiful country graced with fine estates.

When one gets off the boat at Alpine, by traveling south along the Hendrick Hudson drive, Englewood is reached, from which place good roads lead to Jersey City, Hackensack, Newark, Paterson and all Jersey shore points as well as to Trenton and Philadelphia. For the motorist who wishes to go direct to points around Easton, Allentown, Delaware Water Gap or Scranton, it is wise to use this ferry, and then via Cresskill to Dumont, etc. For the motorist, desiring to go to Nyack, Bear Mountain, Newburgh Suffern, Tuxedo, Middletown, Binghamton, at Alpine the road to Closter (two and one-half miles distant) should be taken and at Closter to turn north for the Hudson river points: turn west at Closter for Harrington park, through to Nanuet and then westerly to Suffern for all other New York state points as well as the Catskill mountains.

The landing of this ferry at Yonkers fronts on Alexander street between Babcock Place and Wells avenue, and can be reached from any part of the city via either of the streets. The latter runs under the tracks of the New York Central railroad and the former is bridged over the tracks, which eliminates a direct rail crossing. At Alpine, the landing is at the foot of the Palisades where there is a road direct to the Hendrick Hudson drive with a grade of about six per cent for one-half mile.

ELEPHANT'S PAL GOES AS PART OF FATHER'S GIFT

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., March 17 (AP)—"Hold your horses, Gentlemen, here comes the elephants!"

Boys of two generations have thrilled to that cry. But youths of Montecito, wealthy Santa Barbara suburb have put this ancient circus credo of the antipathy of horses for elephants in the same class as the legend of Santa Claus.

For Damon and Pythias were bitter enemies compared to the friendship between Culver, a female elephant and Bunny, a pony, both of which now reside on the Featherhill ranch in Montecito. Culver was purchased from a circus following the promise of an elephant to the small son of the owner of the ranch as a present. The pony had to be included in the sale and gift because of the attachment of the elephant for it.

Culver is only a child as elephants go, being 16 years old and weighing only a few tons. While the friendship of the two is mutual, the elephant is by far the more demonstrative. When the pony is out of sight, Culver trumpets and rages.

The zoo maintained on the ranch is a hobby. The aviary is especially complete. Its cages hold birds of all sizes and from every part of the world, while trees are filled with gaily colored parrots and macaws that greet visitors with raucous cries.

The remains of Margaret Corbin, the "Captain Molly Pitcher" of revolutionary fame, were removed from their resting place of more than a century on the Highland Falls estate of J. Pierpont Morgan and re-interred in the Post cemetery at West Point with appropriate services.

March Fool

Poor April Fool! For countless years
Unfailing target for our jest,
Yet March, I hold, of all the fools,
Reigns regally as foolishest!

Let's talk it over—April's joy
Abides in casing Winter's shocks,
While March, that foolish egotist,
Points proudly to its equinox.

Spring-hopeful robins are deceived
By balmy breezes turning cold;
Too-eager wives must then explain
Why overcoats too soon were sold.

March toys in luring sunbeams down
To give old earth a taunting thrill,
Then, like a demon, ogre-eyed,
Fools hyacinth and daffodil.

March tempts the merchant to display
Spring-wear to passers in the street,
Then orders old galoshes out
To battle snow and driving sleet.

Boys bring their marbles out to play,
March chuckles at their keen delight,
Then sends a blizzard sweeping in
To make "taws" vanish overnight.

Love, hopeful of an early Spring,
Has dreams of walks down verdant lanes;
Fool March lures love a mile from town
Then drenches it with chilling rains.

March has no qualities of soul
Adhering to the Golden Rule
And so I say—join me in this—
Let's christen March as Springtime's fool!

—William Herschell in Indianapolis News

Inheritance

We wondered why he always turned aside
When mirth and gladness filled the brimming days;
Who else so fit as he for pleasure's ways?
Man thought him frozen by a selfish pride;

But that his voice was music none denied
Or that his smile was like the sun's warm rays
One day upon the sands he spoke in praise
Of swimmers who were buffeting the tide:

"The swelling waves of life they dare to meet.
I may not plunge where others safely go,— Unbidden longings in my pulses beat."
O blind and thoughtless world! you little know

That ever round this hero's steadfast feet
Surges and turns the dreaded undertow.

—Mary Thacher Higginson.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Patty—"Don't believe everything you hear."

Catty—"Certainly not, I just repeat it."—Answers.

Fond Ma—Willie, don't put that spoon back in the preserves after you've used it.

Willie—It's all right, ma; I licked it off.—Allston Recorder.

Headline—Shoots at Wife; Misses; Gets Ten Years in Jail."

"Will now be missed for missing the Mrs.," comments L. D.—Boston Transcript.

Father—Do you know what time it is?

Suitor—Ten to.

Father—Ten to what?

Suitor—Your own business.—Tiger.

"I demand a year's imprisonment for the accused."

"Have you anything to add, accused?"

"No. I would rather subtract."—Stockholm Kasper.

Frank Mots of the Hays News overheard two women talking about their husbands. "I tell you," said one, "I've found after a good many years that it never pays to let him know what my right hand is thinking."—Kansas City Star.

Infuriated escort: "Where have you been all this time? You left the floor an hour ago."

Unruffled partner: "I know it, I wanted you to have it to dance on."—Williams Purple Cow.

A few days after a farmer had placed his two children in a school a book agent called on him and said, "Now that your children go to school you ought to buy them an encyclopedia."

"Buy them an encyclopedia? Hanged if I do," was his reply. "Let them walk like I did."—Farm Life.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Three engines are provided for in the new type of Fokker airplane that is being designed in Holland. Not all engines will run at the same time when the plane is flying horizontally, and when two of them are shut off the one remaining engine keeps the machine up without much loss of height.

For the third time in the history of Japanese horsemanship, a man has ridden up the long, steep stairway of the Atagoyama shrine and made the return journey without injury either to himself or his mount. The horseman was Toshite Iwaki. The historic shrine flight is ninety feet high and had an incline of about 60 degrees.

Joseph Knecht, leader of a New York broadcasting orchestra, received a telegram which read: "Please play wedding march tonight at 6, starting radio programme." It was signed "A Bride-to-be." Knecht obliged by playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" at 6 o'clock that evening. Nothing further was heard until another telegram came, which read: "Many thanks for wedding march and the musical start you gave us in life. May you have many successful years." The Bride."

"If I wave my hand," said an airplane pilot to William Bent of Washington, D. C., "it means that the machine is in danger and you must jump." They took off and soon after the pilot remembered he had forgotten to say goodby to his family. He descended to within a few hundred feet of his home and caused the machine to fly in a series or circles. Meanwhile, he waved his hand energetically. As he turned to see if his passenger was secure he was horrified to observe the latter with one leg thrown over the seat, about to jump with a parachute. He was barely able to keep him in the plane.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stock weak; mercantile and food issues at new lows.
Bonds irregular; French and Belgian bonds decline.
Foreign exchanges easy; Belgian francs near four cent level.
Cotton easier; spot houses selling.
Sugar barely steady; increased offerings of spot.
Coffee weak; European selling.

Chicago

Wheat steady; bullish cables.
Corn dull; liberal receipts.
Cattle lower; supplies liberal.
Hogs weak.

MARKET WAS BEARISH

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Stock prices continued reactionary today under the persistent hammering of bear traders although speculators for the advance made sporadic attempts to rally the general list by bidding up some of the principal industrials. Price fluctuations generally were meaningless, although closing quotations disclosed a large number of losses ranging from 1 to 6 1-4 points with a much smaller number of 1 to 4 points gains.

Professional traders continued to place a bearish interpretation on the decision of the Van Sweringens to release the stock deposited under the "Nickel Plate" merger plan, with the result that the rails were freely offered after an attempt had been made to rally those issues on rumors of a substantial dividend distribution on Chesapeake and Ohio common at today's meeting. Chesapeake and Ohio fell from an early high of 138 1-4 to 128 1-4, closing near the bottom for a net loss of 2 points on the day. "Nickel Plate" common broke 6 points to 155 and rallied to 156, on a few sales. Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Pere Marquette preferred and Pittsburgh and West Virginia lost 3 to nearly 4 points.

Renewed selling of the merchandising issues followed the omission of the common dividend on National Cloak and Suit which stock dropped 4 points to 29, the lowest price since 1922. Weakness also developed in such issues as Gimbel Brothers, R. H. Macy, S. S. Kresge, May Department Stores, Oppenheim and Collins, Century Ribbon Mills and Sears-Roebuck.

Ward Baking B was subjected to another severe selling attack, breaking nearly 9 points to a new low at 41 1-2 and then rebounding to 43 3-4. The stock sold as high as 85 3-8 earlier in the year. Encouraged by their success in depressing this issue, professional "shorts" went gunning for other weak spots, forcing sharp recessions in such issues a Central Leather common and preferred, Postum Cereal, National Biscuit, Simmons company and United Drug.

U. S. Steel common closed 1-2 points lower at 125 5-8 after fluctuating between 134 7-8 and 126 1-2. Independent steels were heavy, Sloss-Sheffield breaking 4 points to 115 and Republic and Gulf States each losing over a point. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a high rate of operations, the iron trade review stating that "a further speeding up of steel production, already on an unusually high plane, points to the presence of another cycle of expansion of consumption," adding that "from the way new capacity is being called into service, there is every indication that March will set a new high mark for the monthly steel output for all time."

Motors showed a tendency to snap back quietly on the cessation of selling pressure General Motors dropped from 129 1-2 to 127 1-2 but rallied to 129. Hudson rallied from a low of 108 3-8 to 109 3-8 and Mack Trucks from 121 1-2 to 122 3-4.

A reaction in the oil shares was checked by the development of a sudden demand for Standard Oil of New Jersey which crosed 44 after having sold down to 42 3-4 earlier in the session. General Petroleum, which had dropped from 64 to 59 3-4, rallied to 16 3-4 off 2 on the day.

American Safety Razor, Chicago Pneumatic Tool and Savage Arms were among the few independent strong spots.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the commodity markets. Active wheat options fluctuated within narrow and irregular limits. Cotton sagged 9 to 13 points. The sugar market was slightly easier and coffee fell 7 to 19 points to new low levels for the month in sympathy with lower prices for the product in Brazil.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular with trading apparently influenced by the decision to postpone Germany's entrance into the league of nations until September. Belgian francs broke below four cents to a new low level for the year, but rallied to 4.05 on reports that the stabilization plan had not been abandoned. Demand sterling was slightly firmer at 4.85 3-4, but French francs sagged about 2 points to around 3.57 1-2 cents. Norwegian krone broke 20 points to 21.43 cents. Argentine pesos made partial recovery from yesterday's weakness.

TAFTVILLE

The Ladies Benevolent society held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the Congregational church. At the business session the president, Mrs. Gertrude M. Young, presided. Plans were passed a supply of clothing to be sent to [illegible]. Mr. Whiting, at the close of the business session, introduced Mr. [illegible], a former Taftville resident, who has superintendent of the Sunday school for a number of years. A social hour during which refreshments were served was enjoyed by about [illegible] members and [illegible] guests.

[illegible] Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah E. Desmond, Hills street, the directors of the Taftville Building and Loan association met for the regular monthly meeting. It was announced that Superintendent Titcomb would be able to reopening the hatchery for propagation of flatfish and [illegible] but it not entirely in accord with the plan for hatching lobsters there.

Discussion of this section, especially by those hailing from Niantic, are outspoken in their assertions that lobsters were not as plentiful in these waters as when the Niantic hatchery was in operation, that this was especially true of the number of young lobsters noted in sound waters.

The proposal to re-open the hatchery will be discussed from every angle and it is probability some agreement will be reached which will be mutually satisfactory to the state board of fisheries and game and to members of the Connecticut Commercial Fishermen's association.

GIFTS AND PARTY ON HIS 27TH BIRTHDAY

A surprise evening a birthday party was tendered William Rivers at his home in North Stonington in honor of his 27th birthday. Mr. Rivers received a number of lovely gifts. At 6:30 o'clock those present enjoyed a supper of baked beans, potato salad, cold meats, relish and pickles, hot rolls, coffee and cakes.

In the center of the table was a large attractive birthday cake with pink and yellow candles. Several interesting features with radio selections were enjoyed, while a most pleasing program of old time songs was rendered by Mr. Rivers.

At the conclusion of a tasty lunch was served, the party breaking up at 1:30 o'clock, with all wishing Mr. Rivers many more such happy birthdays. Relatives and friends from Providence, Pawtucket, Taftville and Mystic remained over night and enjoyed a delicious roast chicken dinner, served by Mrs. William Rivers, assisted by Mrs. John Markham and Mrs. John De Jonde.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

WILL DISCUSS REOPENING OF HATCHERY AT NOANK

Whether the state hatchery at Noank will be re-opened for the propagation of shellfish, particularly lobsters, will be the subject of discussion at the special meeting of the Connecticut Commercial Fishermen's association which has been called for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Firemens hall, Noank. President James H. Chern of Niantic, head of the association, has called a meeting for that date when John W. Titcomb, superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game will meet the fishermen and discuss the problems involved.

Members of the association are almost unanimous in their desire to see the hatchery reopened and operated by the state, particularly those engaged in the lobster industry. It is understood that Superintendent Titcomb will be able to reopening the hatchery for propagation of flatfish and [illegible] but is not entirely in accord with the plan for hatching lobsters there.

Discussion of this section, especially by those hailing from Noank, are outspoken in their assertions that lobsters were not as plentiful in these waters as when the Noank hatchery was in operation, that this was especially true of the number of young lobsters noted in sound waters.

The proposal to re-open the hatchery will be discussed from every angle and it is probability some agreement will be reached which will be mutually satisfactory to the state board of fisheries and game and to members of the Connecticut Commercial Fishermen's association.

ROTARY CLUB PROGRAMME NOTES ST. PATRICK'S DAY

There was a decided flavor of St Patrick's day at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. The tables and room were artistically decorated in colors appropriate to the anniversary of the birth of Erin's patron saint. Through the courtesy of Lion T. H. Savard each Rotarian was given a spring of shamrock and an old fashioned T. D. clay pipe which were made use of by the Rotarians.

Ireland and Irish History

Besides the decorations there was plenty of food for thought in the brilliant address of Rev. William A. Keefe who traced the history of Ireland and Irish history down through the past few centuries, Father Keefe, who is an honorary member of the Norwich Rotary club, said in part:

The slogan and ideal of Rotary is "Service"—inspiring tens of thousands of America's leading citizens to the promotion of ten times ten thousand of great movements for the welfare and progress of our people. In our great work it is well for us to study the ideals and accomplishments of our forefathers and fellow citizens. What can we learn from others? What do they teach us? In this spirit today—St. Patrick's day—may we not very properly rehearse and study and take some inspiration from the ideals of St. Patrick and the achievements of his loyal sons and daughters in the service of mankind in general and U. S. A. in particular?

St. Patrick's ideals influenced all the heroism and all the heroes of Christian Irish History—led the King of Tara to adopt and follow the Prince of Peace—and made Brideet of Kildare and daughters of Erin models of purity and piety throughout the world.

Those ideals gave Columbille strength to bear the trials of exile for the evangelization of the Scots and Picts—sent St. Aiden to teach Christ's message in Essex and Northumbria and made Columbanus and Lavinus and St. Gall and hordes of Irish monks and nuns pioneer Christian missionaries in Burgundy and Brabant and Switzerland and northern Italy.

Fidelity to Patrick's ideals cost the sons and daughters of Ireland centuries of unparalleled trials and sufferings and bitter exile. When successors of Patrick—the priests of Ireland—were hunted and slaughtered like wild beasts the sons of the Emerald Isle stood shoulder to shoulder—gave the last drop of their blood and sacrificed their all in defense of their beloved "Sonnarth Aroon" as he offered the sacrifice of mass in mountain caves and humble cabins.

Serving the great cause of education, the monks and nuns of ancient Ireland erected and maintained the great schools and colleges of Clonfert and Clouard and Bangor and Glendalough which became seats of learning for the intellectual and moral development of scholars from every nation of the then known world.

When the Catholics of Ireland were finally denied the right of education the Irish hedge master in face of danger of death or exile, secretly gathered the boys and girls about him and in the shade of a prickly hedge kept alive the spark of Irish learning. These hedge schools and the classes held in thatched cabins with earth floors and stone seats developed generations of Irish scholars and gave to the world one of our most inspiring examples of national sacrifice and service for education.

Inspiring Traditions

What wonder that the exiled sons and daughters of Erin inspired by such traditions and strengthened by centuries of such sacrifices should become glorious exemplars of service for religion and education in this great American democracy, whose fundamental constitution guarantees equal rights to all before the law and absolute freedom to worship God Almighty according to the dictates of their conscience?

Because of their fidelity to St. Patrick's ideals the poor Irish immigrants found themselves exiled on the shores of our mighty country absolutely stripped of every privilege of education, wealth, social influence or political opportunity.

But they came from a nation strengthened by sufferings and martyrdom and inspired by the highest ideals ever known to man and they found American "the land of the free and the home of the brave." By the sweat of their brow, toiling and sacrificing, grasping and improving their opportunities of faithful service, they have played a tremendous part in the development of our country and earned success by honest effort, and fill with credit and ability the highest positions in every best department of American life.

Irish service to the great cause of liberty and patriotism at home and abroad has always been inspiring. Irish patriotism won the crown from Malachey "wearer of the collar of gold, strengthened the arm of Brian Boru as he held the crucifix aloft on the historic morning at Clontarf and led his heroes on to victory. It burned in the breasts of the O'Neals and O'Donnels and O'Briens—won martyrs crowns for Maxwell's heroes at the Bridge of Athlone and made "Sarsfield" the word and Sarsfield the man that roused the women of Limerick to fight and die with their sons and husbands in defense of their beloved city. Irish patriotism inspired the eloquence of Curran and Gratten and Meagher and made Daniel O'Connell emancipator of 7,000,000 people, one of the greatest leaders of this time. Who can ever measure the value of Irish contributions to American liberty and American prosperity.

Service for America

Irish blood baptized young America with Parker and Sullivan and Moylan and Anthony Wayne at Bunker Hill and Saratoga and Cowpens and Stony Creek—glorified our flag on the high seas with Capt. Jack Barry "first commodore of the American navy" and signed the Declaration of Independence with Charles Carroll of Carrollton. It defended American honor with Perry and McDonough on the Great Lakes and Old Hickory Jackson behind the cotton bales of New Orleans. Sons of the Emerald Isle fought and died for the preservation of the Union with Shields and Corcoran and others at Bull Run and Antietam and Gettysburg—they wore blossoms of blood on their sprigs of green with Meagher at Mary's Height raised the Star Spangled Banner up among the clouds at Lookout Mountain, rang the good old bugle with Sherman from Atlanta to the sea and dashed victoriously with Phil Sheridan up the Shenandoah valley.

When Wodorow Wilson called for heroes to make the world safe for democracy he found thousands of sons of St. Patrick with James Cardinal Gibbons and Father Duffey just as Washington had found Archbishop Carroll of Baltimore and William McKinley had found Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul second to none in their loyalty to American ideals—when Marshal Haig stood with his back against the wall with defeat almost staring him in the face. American regiments containing thousands of Irish heroes turned the tide of the battle of Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood sent the Germans on the run across the Rhine and never stopped until the Star Spangled Banner waived victoriously over Metz and Coblenz on Ehrenbreitstein.

Serving the nation in peace as well as in war Irish faith and Irish generosity have built and paid for thousands of America's finest churches and made them well springs of virtue and devotion throughout the land.

In order that their boys and girls may have a better chance than they ever had Irish fathers and mothers have gladly sacrificed their last hard earned dollars for the erection and maintainance of schools and colleges and universities. With a lavish charity they have also erected a marvelous chain of hospitals and institutions of mercy, where saintly representatives of the Divine Physician and the Good Samaritan serve the sick and unfortunate. Supplying active workers superior leaders for every department of industrial and political American life; Irish influence plays a prominent part in American progress today.

Is it not true that while the so-called reformers and upliffers of American society frequently tried to take the joy out of life Irish wit and Irish song have brightened and cheered us in a thousand ways.

My friends study and practice the loyalty of Irish patriots the self-sacrifice of Irish martyrs, the devotion of Irish maidens.

Father Keefe was given a hearty ovation for his very interesting address Norwich Water Project.

Another talk, which although not bordering on the St. Patrick's theme, was very interestingly given by Shepard E. Palmer, the five-minute speaker of the day, who spoke on the new water project of the city of Norwich. Mr. Palmer in his talk said:

It was not the intention of the board of water commissioners to do much in way of construction on the new supply until the spring. The pipe is all bought and part of it was delivered last fall. Delivery on the balance begins in April. Two sections of the pipe line will be advertised for bids this week. One begins at the Fitchville bridge and runs to the bridge just above Bozrahville, a distance of about 14,400 feet, and the other from the bridge to the dam about 15,200 feet. The pipe line crosses the Yantic river in five places. In all of these the pipe will be laid below the bed of the stream except at Fitchville, where it will cross a new bridge. The jointing material is new for this city. The board is planning to use leadite and lead hydrotite in place of the usual lead material. This is a black powdery substance delivered in 100-pound bags and is melted and poured the same as lead. It requires no calking as is necessary with lead. A 24-inch pipe requires about 49 pounds of lead and with leadite about 13 pounds. The price per pound is nearly the same. Comparatively little of the pipe line is in the highway. The contract for the dam will be let in April as soon as the ground settles. Wash borings have been made at the dam site. These show the sub soil to be hard gravel with pockets of sand. The dam is to consist of a concrete case wall with earth embankment on each side. The concrete will be carried down from 15 to 20 feet below the surface and steel sheet piling driven below that. The water slope will be paved and the spillway will be of concrete. The dam will be 44 feet wide on top so that it can be raised later on without disturbing any part put in now.

The land for the reservoir is nearly all bought and so far no litigation has occurred.

There are six factories from which water is diverted and no settlement has been made with any of them, although the matter has been discussed with some of them. The board plans to deal fairly with each one of these factories and the owners are such who will deal fairly with the city.

The members of the Rotary club will be interested during the coming season to make trips to the site of the dam.

Saving of $35,000.

At the conclusion of Mr. Palmer's talk the question regarding the purchase of pipe from French foundaries was brought up. Mr. Palmer explained that the contract for supplying pipe for the work was put up for bid but the prices received from all the American companies was so high that it was thought advisable to negotiate with foreign foundries. It was found that the same pipe could be bought in France at a saving of $35,000 to the city so the contract for the pipe was given to the French foundries. The only difference is that the French pipe comes in lengths of 13 feet instead of 12 feet which is the American standard. The pipe is equally as good as that of American manufacture and it is inspected by American engineers before it leaves the foundries. The breakage in transportation is no greater, if as great, as when it is shipped by rail from the American foundries. The water commission thought that in view of all these facts and the great saving in money it was advisable to buy the foreign made pipe.

At the business session President E. A. Harris presided at the meeting and Herbert M. Lerou acted as song leader. The songs selected by Song-Leader Lerou were very appropriate to the day. There were also selections by Frank R. Murdy, who sang Those Endearing Young Charms, and A Cottage Small. There were also selections by a double quartette.

Reports were made by Charles A. Saxton, chairman of the "On to Denver" committee and on "On to Bridgeport" committee.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

STARTING INDOOR TENNIS AT NORWICH ARMORY

The promotion of indoor tennis through the use of the state armory on McKinley avenue has been undertaken by the activity of L. H. Sampson, James Roantree and Russell A. Clapp, Jr., through the cooperation of Capt. W. H. Denison, commanding Battery B.

Permission has been gained to mark off a tennis court on the armory floor which has been done and play actually begun. It is not sponsored by any group nor is it formed as a permanent organization. It is merely an effort to arouse more people in tennis. Furthermore there is no charge connected with it other than for light consumed for night play.

The only requisites for actual participation is that those interested shall be of mature age and that they introduce themselves to either one of the above mentioned men who will if numbers permit, put them in touch with the captain of the battery who will in turn issue a pass enabling them to use the floor. It is of course limited to the numbers that can be accepted and the time in which the floor can be used which must not interfere with the regular drill nights.

It is hoped through this medium to interest more people in playing tennis outdoors during the summer months and partake of the facilities available in this section. The efforts of the Norwich Golf club last year are noteworthy in that several attractive tournaments were arranged and drew from a very large area in interest. The movement of indoor tennis has already gained considerable enthusiasts and those interested should act promptly in availing themselves of it.

ARSON CHARGE MADE AFTER OAKDALE FIRE

Charged with arson, John G. Russell, now of Jewett City, Fortunato Malimaro and his wife, of this city, were bound over to the next term of the superior court, when presented before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church in the Montville town court Tuesday afternoon. In default of $5,000 bonds all three were incarcerated at the New London county jail.

The three were arrested by State Policeman Henry Albright, following a three weeks' investigation into the cause of a fire which totally destroyed a house occupied by Russell at Oakdale and owned by Malimaro. The fire occurred last December.

It is alleged in the charges that Russell set fire to the house, following an agreement with the owner, who held the insurance on the place. The property was valued at about $5,000.

Probable cause was found when the three were bound over.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

One can imagine what a busy place the hospital may be when one learns that all departments, maternity, surgical, and medical, are unusually busy, as they have been since the beginning of the year, and then one learns that since March 8th the graduating class of nurses have been taking their final examinations and together with these carrying out their usual duties in the hospital, with accident cases being brought in at any time of day or night. The examinations which will be over March 16th are given by the doctors who lecture to the nurses and by the resident instructors of the hospital. In connection with these lectures, models are used which unfold before the eyes every organ and part of the body as layer after layer is unfolded, examined and replaced in its structural position. They are vivid, natural and life-like in color. Students find anatomy and physiology fascinating when they are demonstrated with such teaching material. During this month a manikin of the torso and a disarticulated skull with glass case have been received from Mrs. H. H. Osgood, which complete her valuable gift of class room and its equipment.

In this class room has been started an evening course of eight lectures for student, public health, school and industrial nurses conducted by the state department of health. The first two lectures which were well attended were on Personal Hygiene by Dr. Lanphere and on Public Health Nursing by Miss Margaret K. Stack, R. N. These lectures will prove very valuable to those who have been able to hear them.

Almost every month has some special holiday observed. On Washington's birthday fancy boxes of candy trimmed in patriotic colors, 77 in all, were used to brighten the trays by the holiday committee. Ice cream was provided by the German Lutheran and Mt. Calvary churches. Cut flowers decorated the tables in the nurses' dining room that day which were the gift of an interested friend.

The auxiliary received through the treasurer, Mrs. Brinkman, a check for $10 from the Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity church, which sum provided extras for the entertainment on St. Valentine's day.

A most thoughtful and appreciated donation of tickets from the Pequot theatre enabled 28 nurses to enjoy, in three groups, the programme at the theatre and the management has assured the nurses that tickets are available at any time. The recreation committee arranged for the nurses to have refreshments before returning home.

Six tickets were given the nurses by the United Congregational church for their play, entitled the Village School, held at the Community house. Seven nurses were guests at a dinner and theatre party, given by one of the staff doctors.

Flowers to brighten the ward, magazines, records for the victrola, and many donations of bottles and linen have been received. More old linen and old cotton pieces are badly needed right away as the demand for such things is constant. Quite small pieces, even two inches square, can be used. During the month donations of such and other useful articles have been received from Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Miss Aiken, Mrs. Maurice Buckley, Mrs. A. P. MacDougall, Mrs. Margaret Spellman, Mrs. Edward Driscoll and the donation committee, Mrs. Thomas Connor, Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, Jewett City, Mrs. Fred C. Crowell, Mrs. George Randall, Miss Mary Bellinger, Mrs. Otto F. Ernst, Mrs. John S. Blackmar, Mrs. John R. Bliven, Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson, Miss Alice Stephens, Mrs. J. J. Adams, Mrs. H. C. Collins, Mrs. David Pitt, Mrs. Albert Van Wagenen, Jr., and Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman.

Two plants were sent from Park church, apples and oranges by the ladies of the German Lutheran church, and 14 loaves of cake by the ladies of Taftville, collected by Mrs. Ricketson. Six gallons of ice cream were supplied one Sunday by the ladies of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. Three beautiful complete infant layettes were contributed by the Phi Alpha class of the First Baptist Bible school. These were especially welcome for many times women come in to the hospital without having made any preparations for the new baby—in such cases a complete outfit is needed in which to take the baby home.

The sum of $50 was also generously given by the Norwich Order of Elks to be used toward the establishment of a frigidaire refrigerator in the nurses' residence. Further donations of any amount toward this purpose will be heartily welcomed.

The production committee met regularly at the hospital Thursdays at 2.30 o'clock. From February 18 to March 11 inclusive, 1,107 dressings were made by the regular members and two substitutes. The Loyal circle of King's Daughters under Mrs George Zimmerman, leader, did sewing for the hospital. The production committee furnished the material and under Mrs. Herbert Kindt's direction the made 24 surgical towels and four hot water bag covers.

Patients continue to call upon the neuropsychiatric clinic for advice and encouragement. An effort is made there to find the underlying physical functional, and social causes of mental disease and if the patient has presented himself early enough to prevent it, to teach the importance of recognizing that the foundation for the majority cases of nervous and mental disability is laid during childhood and is not necessarily inherited; to illustrate the relationship between certain uncorrected, undesirable habits, tendencies and personalities during childhood and various forms of nervous and mental disorders in adult life.

Because of the illness of Dr. Bryan Dr. Wilcox is obliged to omit the Monday clinics for March 15, 22, 29, but they will be resumed in April as usual. Appointments may be made for the Thursday clinic if anyone prefers not to wait until April.

The development and importance of psychiatric dispensaries and clinics is slowly being recognized by general hospitals.

COL. JOHN C. COOLIDGE, PRESIDENT'S FATHER, DIED 10:41 LAST NIGHT

President and Mrs. Coolidge Were Speeding to His Bedside—The President's Father Had Been Sinking Gradually Since a Severe Heart Attack a Week Ago—Was Within Two Weeks of His 81st. Birthday—Aged Patient Failed Little by Little and Suffered No Pain.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 18—(AP)—Col John C. Coolidge father of the president, died at 10:41 o'clock tonight.

The president, speeding northward on a special train to the bedside of his dying father lost in a hopeless race with death. The presidential train is due to reach Woodstock 13 miles from here at 6 o'clock tomorrow.

Word of the death of Col. Coolidge was flashed immediately to the executive offices in Washington to be relayed to the president's train en route to Vermont.

The president's father, who was within two weeks of his 81st birthday had been sinking gradually since he suffered a severe heart attack a week ago. At that time his physician, Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater said his aged patient was at the point of death. His pulse rate reached 140.

His remarkable physique coupled with an iron will, carried the aged patient through to a new rally for life, but he grew weaker strength day by day. Another severe heart attack early today heralded his approaching end.

Throughout the day Dr. Cram hastily summoned from his home in Bridgewater early in the morning, remained at the sick room. After the heart action had been restored to a more nearly normal rate Col. Coolidge sank into a semi-comatose condition.

From time to time Dr. Cram or Deputy Sheriff MacAulay brought reports across the way to the general store where anxious neighbors and newspaper correspondents waited. Each bulletin told the same story of the ebbing strength.

At 10 o'clock tonight the physician and Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse who had been with Col. Coolidge throughout his illness, saw that the end was at hand. The aged patient failed little by little and at the last appeared to go to sleep. He suffered no pain.

DEATH BULLETIN PLACED ON TRAIN AT BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, March 18—(AP)—President Coolidge's special train slowly came to a stop here tonight and the Associated Press gave members of the president's party the bulletin announced the death of the president's father.

An Associated Press correspondent rushed the Coolidge party received the message announcing the death of Colonel Coolidge snatching it from the hands of a local reporter while the train was still in motion. The train did not come to a full stop here, but immediately put on speed again.

The bulletin announcing the death of the president's father was torn in half as the Associated Press man on the train snatched for it. He was informed verbally that the death occurred at 10.41. As the newspaper man on the train reached for the bit of paper, a railroad policeman standing on the platform also made an effort to grab it, declaring he had received orders that there must be no contact of any kind with the special train.

PLYMOUTH IN SADNESS FOR COLONEL COOLIDGE

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 18—(AP)—The life of Col. John C. Coolidge ebbed rapidly today. While the president of the United States hurried from Washington in an effort to reach his father's bedside before the end came, a brave old man fought here a last stout battle with death.

Men of Plymouth and nearby towns used through drifted snow banks preparing to receive the president. But for once Col. Coolidge, the directing spirit of the hamlet, took no part in these activities. He lay almost unconscious in the white farmhouse which was the boyhood home of Calvin Coolidge, his ears deaf to the din of tractors and the voices of workers outside. Hour by hour his strength crept less, as his indomitable will could no longer withstand the ravages of a great illness. His physician, Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, expressed doubt that the colonel could live until his son's arrival tomorrow.

As the road workers asked if their activity would disturb the sick man, Dr. Cram replied: "If a cannon were fired he would not hear it now."

Final Crisis Came Suddenly

The final crisis of a long illness came suddenly. There was a heart attack during the night, but Col. Coolidge rallied before the doctor could be summoned. Again at 6:30 o'clock this morning the heart symptoms returned, the patient's pulse running as high as 140. This time the physician came, and after an examination of the sick man, he let it be known that death was near.

All day long the neighbors waited in the general store across the road to hear the reports brought from the sick room by Dr. Cram, or Angus MacAulay, the colonel's bodyguard. Each hour the bulletins told of ebbing vitality. The white house received similar reports over the telephone from the Coolidge home, and their serious purport decided the president to leave for his Vermont birthplace. It was a race with death and the odds were admittedly were against Mr. Coolidge.

More than once indications at the white farm house led watching neighbors to believe that the colonel's long struggle had ended. Each time the doctor or Deputy Sheriff MacAulay appeared in the doorway, there was a hail of questions, but the answer always was: "Still alive, but very weak."

Known for 30 years to his townsmen as a determined man, the squire refused in the face of death to surrender without a fight.

Two Visitors Admitted

Two visitors were admitted to the sick room in the afternoon. One was Frank Agan, Ludlow mill owner, who has been active in efforts to keep the highway to Plymouth cleared of snow. The other was Samuel Pearson, of Ludlow, son-in-law of Attorney General Sargent. The sick man was unable to greet them because of his weakness. Dr. Cram came over from Bridgewater in the early morning driving with Louis Chamberlain in the latter's snowmobile, and remained all day.

With the certainty that the president was on his way here, Selectman Azro Johnson and other town officials set about making the little village fit to be the nation's midwinter capital. Gangs of shovellers were set to work in the drifted roadway in front of the white farm house and several teams carted away the snow on sleighs. Old timers said it was the first time in Plymouth's history that snow had been removed in this manner.

The front yard of the Coolidge place was shovelled clear, and the approach to the little Union meeting house over the way. The workers carried their efforts on until the path to the cross roads at the general store also was free of snow.

Airplane Caused Thrill

Plymouth excited even in its time of sadness over the coming of the president had one new thrill today.

For the first time in the town's history, an airplane landed on Plymouth territory. Three planes flying from New York in the interests of picture organizations, came down on Amherst Lake four miles from here. The place of this landing, like almost every part of Plymouth, has Coolidge associations. It is on the old military road that led from Charleston, N. H., to Fort Ticonderoga, on Lake Champlain. A mile from the lake, Captain John Coolidge returned from the Revolutionary war and built his frame farm house in Plymouth. He was the great-grandfather of the president.

The resources of the village, already stretched by the arrival of many outsiders, faced a new strain with the coming of the presidential party. Every square foot of living space has been reserved tonight. The farmhouse of Selectman Azro Johnson will be the home of the president's secret service men, the hall over Uncle John Wilder's house, next to the Coolidge home, is reserved for a unit of state national guardsmen. Miss Florence Cilley's general store now houses a score or more of newspaper correspondents and photographers. They sleep on cots in the public hall over the store and take their meals in relays in a sun-parlor below. Despite the hard travelling conditions on the roads, many incoming guests have made hotel reservations in Ludlow, Bridgewater and Woodstock.

BELIEVE FUNERAL WILL TAKE PLACE SUNDAY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 18—(AP)—Arrangements for the funeral of Col. John C. Coolidge, who died at his home here tonight, will not be completed until the arrival of the president tomorrow. This was announced by Dr. Albert M. Cram, physician in charge.

The date of the funeral services was not decided upon the doctor said.

Neighbors who professed to know something of the plans expressed belief that they would take place on Sunday.

While the front yard of the Coolidge home was being cleared of snow today the approach to the little Union meeting house across the road also was plowed bare of drifts. Those who have had opportunity to know the wishes of Colonel Coolidge said the services would be held in the old meeting house where he was a lifelong worshipper.

When the colonel arranged his affairs early last winter he requested Selectman Azro Johnson, who is also sexton of the church, to prepare his grave in the village cemetery where many members of the family lie. There Calvin, the president's son, was interred in 1924, and there is a place reserved for Calvin's grandfather.

Two years ago when Col. Coolidge ordered a monument for the family plot, he had his name cut in the stone.

PREPARING NEW NICKEL PLATE MERGER PLAN

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—The general rearrangement of the executive staffs of the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley railroads, announced in Cleveland today, was interpreted in banking circles here as another step in the policy of the Van Sweringen to remove all possible grounds of criticism preparatory to the formulation of a new Nickel Plate merger plan.

With O. P. Van Sweringen severing his connection with the Nickel Plate and M. J. Van Sweringen and J. J. Bernet withdrawing from the Chesapeake and Ohio board, it was asserted that the complaint against interlocking directorates for companies involved in the merger would be overcome. This method of control by the Nickel Plate interests over the Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley railroads was severely criticized by the interstate commerce commission in its decision barring the merger.

The retirement of two Van Sweringen representatoives fro mthe Chesapeake and Ohio directorate, it was said, would indicate not the elimination of this road from future merger negotiations but rather an attempt to meet the wishes of the interstate commerce commission in giving other stockholders a more important voice in the management.

Heretofore M. J. Van Sweringen has played a second role in the official direction of the Cleveland brothers vast railroad interests, but as chairman of the Nickel Plate he will become head of one of their most important properties, which was originally designed to be the nucleus of the billion dollar merger.

STUDYING PADLOCK PHASE OF THE VOLSTEAD ACT

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Department of justice officials are giving a careful study to a recent decision of the United States circuit court of appeals which may have an important bearing on future efforts to enforce prohibition through employment of the padlock provision of the Volstead law.

The case, which originated in New Orleans, involved the closing of a business building occupied on one floor by a restaurant. It was charged that liquor was served in the restaurant, but the owners of the property, Edward G. Schlieder and Urban Coen, denied knowledge of what was going on.

They finally won in the court of appeals, which held that the owners should have been allowed to keep open the building under bonds; that the law did not intend to provide that the padlocking of premises could be resorted to as a warning to others, and that such action would work unnecessary hardship to innocent owners.

Numerous other decisions affecting enforcement, many contradictory, also are before the department, and these will be brought together as a code only when the supreme court has had opportunity to straighten out the tangle.

CROCKERY RATTLED BY QUAKE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Crockery rattled and the trembling was plainly felt in several towns. On the east side of Manchester, a citizen said his house shook violently and that he heard a noise resembling an explosion. In Milford, Wilton, Amherst, Pittsfield and Mount Vernon people who thought at first that snow was sliding from their roofs became alarmed when the house swayed.

No damage was reported from any point and the tremor appeared to be confined to an area twenty miles square.

Madman Slays Five Women and One Man

Stockton, Cal., Real Estate Man Ran Amuck—His Wife One of the Victims.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 18.—(AP)—Five women and one man were slain todya by John M. Goins, Stockton real estate man, who ran amuck. Goins was still at liberty tonight.

After the shooting to death his wife, Florence Podesta Goins, his sister-in-law, Minnie Podesta, and Mary Carroll McNoble, wife of George F. McNoble, prominent Stockton attorney, Goins fled from Stockton.

On a farm near Galt, Calif., he killed Alexander Marengo, his wife, and their daughter, Mary.

The Marengos were related to Goins' wife, Stockton authorities said.

The slayer had quarreled with his wife and apparently set out to wipe out her family after shedding her blood.

McNoble had been consulted by Mrs. Goins concerning divorce proceedings against her husband. Enraged at the attorney, Goins killed Mrs. McNoble at her home after visiting McNoble's office and finding the lawyer absent from the city.

Officers expressed the belief that Goins was heading toward his former home in Placer county to go into hiding. It was feared that other victims might fall before the maniac's revolver.

All roads in the region were being guarded tonight. Goins was traveling in a gray sedan.

Goins began the series of murders in Stockton this morning, first shooting his wife and her sister. Then he shot down Mrs. McNoble in the sight of her two children as she opened the door of her home in response to his ring.

He reached the Marengo ranch about 3 o'clock this afternoon. He used only three shots to dispose of the three members of the Marengo family.

Two small children of the Marengo girl, who was Mrs. Mary Dutra, witnessed the slayings. The children were not attacked.

WAS EITHER KILLED OR CAPTURED BY POSSE

TWELVE STRIKERS WERE ARRESTED IN PASSAIC

PASSAIC, N. J., March 18—(AP)—Twelve striking mill workers were arrested today when 42 police mounted and afoot, dispersed a crowd of 1,000 men and women who attempted to pass the Gera mill. Eight of the marchers were allowed to pass the lines and picket the mill and the others were forcibly driven back by the mounted officers aided by the police on foot. Those arrested were held in all of $200 each for hearing tomorrow.

The demonstration followed addresses by Albert Weisbord, strike organizer at Belmont Park, Garfield and Russian National hall, Passaic. Weisbord, who returned today from Washington, where he and a committee of strikers asked for a congressional investigation of the textile industry speaking at Belmont Park, asserted that he did not believe any senator would dare to vote against a resolution for such an investigation.

Five newspaper cameramen and reporters and two newsreel cameramen were attacked and clubbed by the police. Their cameras were destroyed.

At police headquarters Chief Zober asserted that all of his men had been struck by stones, pieces or iron or blocks of wood during the melee. He said that five of the men required medical attention.

Tonight Weisbord dispatched telegrams to Senators Borah, Wheeler, La-Follette, Edge and Edwards again asking for an immediate investigation of the textile industry in New Jersey.

In his speech at Garfield, Weisbord said, "I want another picket line at Gera mill. You have the right to walk two by two in front of the gate. Chief Zober is out of bed. We'll put him back again."

When he asked the 1,500 assembled if they wished to follow the plan of Secretary of Labor Davis to return to the mills and then arrange a settlement, they answered as one "no."

Talking to the English Speaking Union of Chicago, the ambassador said one of the men was a German and the other a Finn, and that they gave their lives "that the Englishmen on the Antinoe might live."

He expressed the wish that the "now famous action of the rescuing crew of President Roosevelt will have done much to bind together all men of English speech, no matter what their race or what their blood—into one common bond of goodwill and understanding throughout the world."

Germany Has Won Favor With Allies

Berlin Statesmen Will Play Prominent Part in Reconstruction of Covenant.

GENEVA, March 18—(AP)—The great league of nations reorganization scheme was launched today. The statesmen noting that Geneva's institution of peace and international cooperation was endangered by the past week's extraordinary events, caused chiefly by the veto of Brazil against Germany's entry into the league, have determined that the moment has arrived to re-fashion the league's covenant.

Germany and her ministers, who returned to Berlin without being granted the legal rights to membership, will play a prominent part in the projected work of reconstruction. This is so, for the league leaders have decided virtually to consider the Reich as a partner in the Geneva peace organization because of the steps leading up to her invitation to come to Geneva and because of the assembly commission's unanimous verdict that she should be elected, and finally by reason of the impressive manifestation of the assembly itself yesterday in favor of Germany.

Various Latin-American countries will take part in the investigation, and the far east will be represented by both Japan and China, while Poland and Switzerland will, with the other states seated in the council, take care of the suggestions of Europe as to what should be done to make the league better and safer as an international machine.

A special commission has been appointed to see how the league covenant could be revised, in order to obviate a future deadlock such as has just been experienced, and probe the entire problem of the composition and methods of election of the council. This investigation may go far indeed in revamping the league's constitution, for the commission is practically without restrictions.

The commission will meet at Geneva May 10 to study the covenant as relates to the council, and it was set forth in the report of Viscount Ishii, representative of the assembly, that the "geographical principle," namely, that the different continents of the world should be represented, should not be disregarded.

SENATE RESERVATIONS PUZZLING TO GENEVA

GENEVA, March 18.—(AP)—This was a big day at Geneva for international problems in which the United States possesses a vital interest. Before the council of the league of nations adjourned its March session this evening it had taken definite action with regard to America's relations to the permanent court of international justice and disarmament.

On the recommendation of Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, the council, boldly attacking the difficulties raised by the senate's reservations to the adherence of the United States to the court, decided to convoke the delegates of all the governments now members of the court as well as representatives of the Washington government for a conference to be held September 1 at Geneva. This conference will attempt to frame a special agreement on the American reservations which is expected to amount to amendment of the court's statutes.

As for the disarmament studies to be undertaken by the league, the council quickly cleared the decks of all misunderstandings created by Russia's threat not to participate unless the meetings are held outside Switzerland. This was done by definitely deciding that the first meeting of the preparatory commission on the disarmament conference, in which the United States will be represented, will be held at Geneva, May 17. At the same time the council addressed a courteous but explicit communication to Moscow, declaring that Russia's delegates would be treated on a footing of perfect equality with the delegates of other lands and informing the soviet that the initial session of the commission would be held at Geneva.

In other words, even if the negotiations between Russia and Switzerland concerning the assassination of the soviet envoy at Lausanne are not satisfactorily concluded and if Russia refused to retreat from her position that she will not send delegates to Switzerland, the disarmament pourparlers will be inaugurated without the presence of Russia.

The impression is general in Geneva that the council's action in calling the conference on American reservations toward the world court would not have been taken unless Washington, having been sounded, had tacitly agreed to some form of initiative by the council. Sir Austen Chamberlain brought the matter up by reading to the council a letter received by Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, from Secretary of State Kellogg, notifying the league of nations of the senate's conditional approval of adherence to the court. Mr. Kellogg included the text of the reservations and explained that the signature of the United States would not be affixed to the court protocol until the other signatories had signified in writing their acceptance of the American reservations and conditions as a part to and condition to the adhesion of the United States to the court protocol and statute.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, March 18.—(AP)—Charles R. Forbes former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, got his first peep of prison life this afternoon when he entered the federal penitentiary here as a visitor only. He is awaiting commitment papers that will admit him to the institution for a term of two years, following conviction for conspiracy to defraud the government in the letting of contracts for veterans' hopitals.

For half an hour, Forbes, accompanied by a newspaperman conversed with Warden W. I. Biddle and was shown about his future temporary home.

"I shall do my best to obey every rule of the institution," he told the warden, "and I do not expect to be shown any favors over others prisoners. If I am assigned to shovel coal, I shall not make the slightest complaint. I am willing to do anything you may require."

Colonel Forbes returned to Kansas City late today to await arrival of commitment papers.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES CONFIDENCE IN BRIAND

Reorganized Cabinet Was Approved 361 to 164—Socialists and Communists Swung to the Government After Minister of the Interior Malvy Had Collapsed Under Accusations of Treason—Socialists and Communists Threaten the Conservatives With Reprisals.

PARIS, March 18—(AP)—The chamber of deputies expressed confidence in the new ministry of Aristide Briand tonight by a majority of nearly two hundred votes, but under such dramatic circumstances as to make it doubtful whether the house really meant to approve the ministerial declaration. The vote was 361 to 164.

Louis Malvy, minister of interior, was attacked by the conservatives, who recalled the accusations of treason made against him before the high court in 1918, fell in a dead faint at the ministerial bench. He was carried from the chamber, while the socialists and communists rose in rage, shaking their fists at the deputies of the right and menacing them with reprisals.

The ministerial declaration with which M. Briand introduced his cabinet admitted that a settlement of the perplexed financial difficulties of France was not in sight but asked parliament to "observe exceptional discipline" before Easter recess to vote the financial measures necessary to carry on the government.

The declaration, as a whole, lacked color, appealing neither to one side nor the other of the chamber. It was received with great indifference, and when the premier descended from the rostum, parliamentary experts began to question whether he would get a majority, as the socialists had decided to abstain from voting, while the center and right had decided to vote against the cabinet. The first interpellators, Mr. Arnegaray, from the Upper Pyrenees, however, made an inconsiderate rush at Minister of Interior Malvy, and changed the whole situation.

In a moment the debate became a political squabble, in which the groups of the left again united in defense of one of their militant leaders, in opposition to the right, solidified by antagonism toward M. Malvy. M. Briand insisted on taking the oor to defend M. Malvy against the charges. He recalled that the high court had acquitted M. Malvy of the charge of high treason and the subsidiary accusations, among them malfeasance in office.

The premier made an impassioned and dramatic plea, in the course of which he said that many senators who voted to convict M. Malvy before the high court, had declared the would have voted differently had they known some of the facts in the case at the time. He attacked the conservatives in no uncertain manner and provoked vigorous protest from all the benches of the right and center. For the first time in his parliamentary career he was hooted from moderate and conservative benches when he descended from the tribune.

In the opinion of followers of parliamentary procedure, the cabinet at that time was doomed to defeat.

Malvy then insisted on taking the platform in his own defense. Known to be affected with heart trouble, he showed signs of weakness on the speakers stand. He repeatedly put his hand to his heart. Some of the deputies thought it was a symbolic gesture intended to strengthen his declarations of innocence. The strain was too much, and he had just declared "If I am a menace to the cabinet and the restoration of my country I will resign!" when he collapsed. He was immediately borne away by his friends to the cloak room, where he is unconscious for 20 minutes.

M Malvy, however given a clean bill of health by Premier Briand and Col. Fabry, former aide-de-camp to Marshal Joffre, won personal sympathy from all parts of the house. Thereafter it was the minister of inferior who was under discussion, finances, Locarno, Morocco and Syria being lost to sight. The left consolidated again and the government's majority was certain.

TARIFF INVESTIGATION IS TO BE STARTED NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Investigation of the tariff commission and of whether President Coolidge has sought to influence its acts will be started next week, probably Tuesday, by a special senate committee.

This was decided today at the first meeting of the committee, which organized by electing as its chairman the democratic floor leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, author of the senate resolution directing the inquiry.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, the "progressive republican" named by Vice-President Dawes, cast the deciding vote. Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, was suggested for the chairman ship by the other republican member, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, supported Senator Robinson.

F. W. Taussig of Harvard, who was the first chairman of the tariff commission from 1917 to 1919, will be the first witness and probable will be followed by T. W. Page of Washington, who was the second chairman.

Senator Robinson was directed to recall William S. Culbertson, once American minister to Rumania, so he can be examined. Mr. Culbertson was a member of the commission at the time of the sugar tariff inquiry of 1924, and it has been charged that a number of senators and representatives of the sugar industry, meeting in the office of Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, sought in influence him on that question.

Sterbach sold his seat a few months ago for $150,000 and bought it back today at the same figure.

PLOT TO DELIVER AT LEAST THREE PRISONERS

BOSTON, Mass., March 18.—(AP)—A solitary four day watch of a mail box ended today with the interception of a letter disclosing a well-advanced plot to deliver at least three prisoners, and possibly more, from the Deer Island house of correction.

Special Officer P. D. V. Donovan, who had been keeping vigil on the mailbox since Sunday, intercepted the letter, and arrested James Downing, a fireman employed at the institution, as he was about to post it at Rowes wharf. Downing, a former Boston policeman, is alleged to have been offered $1,000 to get the letter through the Island censorship system. He is being held as a suspicious person, and a warrant charging aiding and abetting a jail delivery will be sworn out against him, Penal Commissioner Phidip A. Chapman said.

The names of the other men involve din the plot were not disclosed, but it was said that the letter was written by a prisoner at the Island to an man in Buffalo, asking for $300 to complete the arrangements for the delivery. The money was to be used for the purchase of a motor boat, arms and ammunition for use in the delivery. The $300, with other money already received from the Buffalo source was to be given to a prisoner whose sentence expired today at the request. This man was to complete the arrangements.

Mr. Chapman said the writer of the letter and another prisoner mentioned in it were wanted in other cities and were due to be arrested again as soon as their terms here expired. He believes it was to forestall this action that they planned to escape.

Officer Donovan's vigil of the mailbox, which is at the wharf to which boats sail from the Island, was started when Deer Island officials discovered that letters were getting in and out of the institution without undergoing official censorship.

WORLD'S CHAMPION PICKET HAS RESUMED HIS JOB

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 18.—(AP)—James Smith, "world's champion picket", who established a record of nearly four years of picketing after his mates went on strike in April 1921, is still on the job. Strenuous denial had come from an officer of Smith's union that he quit in the face of the winter's snowstorm.

"An electrotyper never quits on the job, whether he's picketing or working," Martin J. Casey, president of the Electrotypers' union No. 11, said today, in commenting on reports that Smith had been forced to cease his eight hour vigils. Smith stopped his eight-hour-a-day shift in front of the University Press, not because of the storms, but after he was made an organizer for the union, Mr. Casey said.

GANGSTERS WHO BEAT UP HARTFORD MAN ARE FINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 18—Brought before the police court Thursday morning on charges implicating them with attacking James Sullivan, 30, of Farmington avenue, Hartford, a World war veteran, six residents of lower village: Arthur Roberts 20, of 52 Ives street, Alfred Couture 18, of 100 Main street, Eugene Cote, 18, of 93 Ives street, Ferland Roberge, 20, of 112 Ives street, Leon St. Hillaire, 16, of 130 Main street and Alexander Vaillancourt, 20, of 116 Main street, were found guilty and given the maximum fines. Roberts and Couture, who appeared to be the gang leaders, were charged with assault and breach of the peace. Each was fined $25 on the first count and $10 and costs for breach of the peace, amounting to $43 15. The four others were fined for breach of the peace, each paying an assessment of $18.73. The total amount taken in as a result of the fracas was $141.14.

According to the testimony, Sullivan came here on his way to Norwich. He went to lower village to call on friends he had known there, but due to the wholesale evacuation of tenements owned by the American Thread company after the strike he could not locate the family. He went to the store conducted by Arthur Gaudreau where he attempted to secure information. He then started with a boy as a guide to direct him back to the railroad station. He was walking up lower Main street, about 11:15 o'clock o'clock when the six young men gathered around him and after exchanging a few words proceeded to knock him down and beat him up in general Marks on his face bore evidence to this fact. He identified Roberts and Couture as the two men who struck him.

Eugene Cote, 15, the youngest of the belligerents, testified that he saw Sullivan in the store and heard him ask to be taken to the station, believing that he meant the police station. When the gang clustered around Sullivan he said that he saw Couture strike the veteran and Roberts started to pick him up. Then the police officer appeared and the gang dispersed.

Roberts was the only one of the group to testify. He said that Sullivan was aggressive when he came into the Gaudreau store and that he was looking for a fight. He made a remark that was none too complimentary to the reputation of the Gaudreau store, which has previously been raided by officers, when he said that it was believed that Sullivan might be a "stool pigeon." Roberts refused to say anything about the assault. It was made known by the police that assaults and other infractions of the law of this nature have been common in lower village, which is now occupied to a great extent by people who came here to work last summer. Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher recommended that justice be meted out as an effective punishment, in an effort to subdue lawlessness in that section.

DAYLIGHT SAVING FAVORED EXCEPT BY FEW OBJECTORS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, March 18—Daylight saving time for Willimantic during the coming season has been under discussion here for the past two days. A check up of the opinion of the employes of the American Thread company shows that the majority of these favor the daylight project. What returns will be announced from other industrial plants remains contectural. Willimantic has been the "odd city" for the past two or three years. People overflowing with the idea of their own importance and boning to gain recognition by appearing anything and everything, have been successful in defeating the daylight saving idea here for the past three years. These butters claim that they lose one hour's sleep when daylight time first starts, forgetting that at the close of the season that lost one hour is automatically returned to them. The feeling in favor of the project is generally strong, however, and if all those who are so inclined will attend the meeting called for that purpose the "no" voices promise to be drowned.

An interesting meeting of Willimantic Exchange club was held Wednesday evening. John J. Nagle, of Hartford, a chief claims adjuster delivering an address on The Trials and Tribulations of a Claim Adjuster. President Egbert A. Case was in charge of the meeting. Several of the members stated that they would attend Exchange Club Night at Hartford, April 10, when clubs throughout Connecticut will be the guests of the Capitol City club. The program will be broadcasted. Edwin J. Donnelly, chairman of the entertainment committee introduced the speaker. He called attention to the six per cent bonds being offered by the Community Hotel corporation and pleaded that the public take kindly to the project as a matter of civic pride. The guests of the evening were, Dr. Herman C. Little, Louis H. Arnold and Charles L. Greer, brother of A. Wilson Greer.

A Studebaker car operated by Arthur E. Taylor and a Buick touring driven by John N. Jacobson of Star Route, this city, came together at the intersection of Valley and Church streets about seven o'clock Thursday morning, causing some damage. Jacobson had the right of way and when Taylor applied his brakes his machine skidded on slippery surface of the road. Police Officer Arthur Hurley was close at hand but made no arrests when the drivers agreed to settle the matter between themselves.

In going over the question of chimney fires Thursday, Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley stated that the department had responded to fifty-eight such calls since December 1 up to the present time. Last year from December 1 to April 1 the department had answered to only 38 chimney fires. Chief Kelley stated that most of the trouble came from lack of knowledge on how to keep chimneys clean and he was ready at all times to give advise to property owners on this subject.

The car displayed no signs of the loss of its feed-bag until the surplus gasoline in the vacuum tank had been used up. Loosing of the bolts caused the tank to drop to the street.

DISCUSSES USAGE OF PUBLIC SERVICE MOTORS

In a current bulletin upon the general subject of Connecticut public service motor vehicles, Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel discusses a number of points of general interest as to the operation of the class of motor vehicles.

The bulletin says:

Under the Connecticut law a public service motor vehicle is one which is used "for the transportation of passengers for hire." In the popular sense this definition covers jitneys, taxicabs and all those vehicles which carry passengers for hire for miscellaneous purposes.

The Intrastate Jitney

The intrastate jitney business is surrounded by careful regulation. Before any one can engage in it, it is necessary to secure a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the public utilities commission, the granting of which is based on a study and consideration of the transportation features in which the jitney line is going to participate. Registration is issued only on the filing of the certificate and proof of the existence of legal financial responsibility. The state has strict control over this class of vehicles and there does not appear, at this time, to be any need for additional regulation. Vehicles of this class carry the "J" number plate.

The Interstate Jitney

The case of the interstate jitney is very different. Under decisions of the U. S courts in interstate commerce cases it has, at first view, seemed to be possible for jitneys engaged in interstate business to "run wild" so far as any regulation by the different states is concerned, but careful consideration of the scope of these decisions has led to the conclusion that a state may in the exercise of its police power impose regulations which tend to safeguard its citizens. So, in the case of an interstate carrier, where the state of Connecticut is concerned, the department of motor vehicles has insisted upon registration under Connecticut markers which bear the symbol IN. The state has also exercised control by enforcement of police regulations to the same extent as it does over its own vehicles. As compared with intrastate jitneys the control by the state over the interstate jitney is incomplete. There is not, apparently, under existing law, any authorization to regulate routes, frequency of passage or any of the other details, which is a part of its regulation of intrastate vehicles.

This preliminary explanation of what the state is actually doing in connection with this method of transportation is introductory to certain details with which the state motor vehicle department is particularly concerned. The jitney business both intrastate and interstate has developed from its original phase of carrying passengers in all sorts and sizes of touring cars to conveying them in commodious and even luxurious busses which have gradually increased in size until the largest unit now upon the highway is about 23 feet long and eight feet wide. This vehicle, as now designed and built for operation upon the highways, for all intents and purposes is a truck of the largest size except that its potential speed is as great as that of a touring car. The effect which the authorization of lines of these big busses may have upon general traffic upon the highways requires study and consideration. The bus is a desirable traffic vehicle on such highways as are wide and straight enough to accommodate it without discommoding other users. It can keep up with traffic, its own control is good, and it is not extraordinarily dangerous except that it is a very big wide and fast vehicle which takes considerable road room and consequently narrows up the clear course of others. Also, its aspect when moving along at a comparatively fast rate of speed is more or less alarming to timid operators of other cars. In its present distribution throughout the state it is not occasioning any unusual number of accidents; the rest of the driving public has become used to it, and taken from the traffic standpoint, if its authorization in the future is conservative, there will be little extra danger from it. It seems, that in its authorization general traffic should be closely considered, and that careful traffic counts should demonstrate that its use will not unduly interfere with general traffic movement. Such a finding should be a determining factor in the question of authorization.

The Taxicab

There is no more common or convenient vehicle for general short distance transportation purposes than the modern taxicab. It can be called upon to do errands and all kinds of short mileage work. The taxicab does not generally run on highways, as distinguished from city streets. Though it is primarily a city vehicle, it must be equipped for country travel in its lighting system. Inasmuch as it generally operates on city streets which are well lighted the subject of taxicab headlights has become somewhat neglected. Wherever this condition exists it should be corrected. Its owner and operator should be held strictly to account if it is found anywhere without proper lighting equipment. It is also a fact that some taxicab companies, apparently for advertising purposes, have their cabs carry side and marker lights for which no permits have been issued. The law requires that no light other than white or amber tinted shall be displayed so as to be visible from the front. Yet there are taxicabs operating in some of the cities which display a red marker light. The department of motor vehicles would not register such a cab if it had knowledge of such accessory equipment.

The taxicab is licensed under what is known as the "O" marker. This marker entitles it to transport passengers for hire anywhere, except that it may not do a jitney business.

Each owner of a taxicab or other vehicle registered under the "O" marker is required by law to provide financial indemnity by insurance policy or bond against personal injury in an amount which shall be not less than $5,000, and may be not over $20,000, and against injury to property in the amount of $1,000. An "O" marker vehicle cannot be registered until this is supplied and evidence of it presented to the department. In fact the same coverage is required as for intrastate and interstate jitneys, the amount of the policy or bond being governed by the seating capacity in each case.

The Miscellaneous "O" Marker Vehicle

This classification includes taxicabs and all those vehicles, frequently called livery cars, which carry passengers for hire and which are not jitneys. They sometimes do a short run business in a city or town but more often take passengers for intermediate distances and carry those who are going rather too far for the city taxicab and not far enough for the jitney, the selection being optional with the person intending to travel.

There has been in the past considerable confusion in making distinction between the "O" marker business for intermediate distance and the jitney and there have been a good many law cases on this subject but since the vehicles for the jitney business have become so distinctive this confusion has disappeared, until now there does not seem to be any doubt about which is which.

Some of the applications of the definition which have always been troublesome and which will probably continue to be in a doubtful state for some time include the cases of those persons who desire to use a vehicle which is not a public service motor vehicle temporarily for a public service purpose. The law is often evaded, usually unwittingly and without intent by well meaning people. For instance, an owner who desires to give a picnic to his employes and wants to transport them in his own vehicle, sometimes a truck. It seems entirely reasonable that a man who owns a truck and who has employes and desires to give them a day off, should transport them back and forth in that truck so long as he does not make a charge his use is a private one. If he charges them for transportation, then he is clearly breaking the law. This particular use, of which an example has been given, extends into cooperative transportation of employes by manufacturing companies, tobacco growers and other organizations where they are brought from a distance.

A quasi-public service use which is sometimes made of a motor vehicle, the status of which appears to be somewhat in doubt, is commonly met with in the transportation of school children and teachers to and from school. The department has long since attempted to meet this situation by making a ruling that wherever there is a contract between a town or municipality and a carrier to do such work the vehicles employed in it do not require public service registration. This ruling was intended to meet what apparently is a necessity to apply the law along lines of reason so as not to do hurdship or to prevent the legitimate use of motor vehicles in transportation for municipal purposes. It has usually met every situation which has arisen but here and there it has been misunderstood.

There is one matter, too, in connection with this special use which has occasioned objection to it, and that is that whereas liability insurance is required in the case of all registered public service vehicles, it is not, under the present law, uniformly required for other classes of vehicles. Therefore, unless there is existing voluntary insurance coverage there may be cases of school transportation which are insufficiently protected in case of accident.

This transportation of school children and teachers is merely an additional use to which vehicles under ordinary commercial or pleasure registration may be put, and does not conflict with their use, when not so engaged, for legitimate commercial or pleasure purposes, as the case may be.

The Drive-Yourself Business

This business, so far as the Connecticut law is concerned is quasi-public service, but it is carried on under ordinary pleasure car registration. The way the business is transacted is that an owner, generally a corporation, offers to lease a motor vehicle to be driven by the lessee or under his direction, on a contract for a term or distance. The leasing may be for a "run around" proposition whereby the lessee may go anywhere for any length of time and pay by mileage, or for a definite trip. Of course, the operator, whether he be resident or non-resident must be a licensed Connecticut operator if the vehicle carries Connecticut registration.

There is no characteristic in this business which differs from a simple lease. The persons who conduct it ought to protect the public by financial qualification on all vehicles, against personal injury and property damage, and by required inspection and determination of the qualification of the person who is going to drive the car. It ought to be possible to hold the owner of the car liable for its operation by an unauthorized person.

The Public Service Operator

The operator of a public service motor vehicle is responsible for the lives and property of other persons. He professes to be competent to meet exigencies of traffic and to deliver his passengers at their destinations. To be entirely acceptable his qualifications must satisfy both his employer whose business would be jeopardised by improper conduct or inexperience, and the state which scrutinizes his personality from the standpoint of public safety. The very fact that he is operating a public service motor vehicle makes his mileage immensely greater than that of the average operator. Consequently he encounters many more traffic hazards. It is obvious that an operator, to be qualified to operate a public service motor vehicle safely must receive a most careful and strict examination into his ability. For the purpose of public service operation, the state will insist that experience in the traffic in which the vehicle is to be operated is essential. In these days of different sized vehicles this experience must be with the type of vehicle which the operator will use. If an operator is to drive a bus he should be examined in a bus, if a touring car, he should be examined in a touring car, etc.

The public service operator must habitually exhibit courtesy to other users of the highway, must permit free passage at all times, must guard the safety and convenience, not only of his own passengers but of all other people on the highway. It is gratifying to observe that statistics show good driving on the part of most present public service operators. There have been few accidents in which they have participated. They are generally able and of good character. The law of Connecticut has attempted to inject into their regulation a proper element of determination of character. The process in the past, has been that no intending public service operator could receive a license without a certificate of moral character from some police chief, but that law has been changed until now the phase mentioned is more limited. It is now provided that the commissioner of motor vehicles may not issue a public service license to any person who has a criminal record. This is impossible of ascertainment, unless the intending operator himself tells about it. There ought to be provided in its stead a careful check-up of the man and he should be obliged, in advance of qualification, to file information with a competent authority, possibly with the state police, with references.

To sum up the points in this bulletin; There is additional law needed for the management of the interstate jitney. There should be a close determination of the distinction between what constitutes "O" marker service and the lease. A method should be provided by which manufacturing organizations, schools, etc., may transport their employes and scholars at the least possible cost for greater service. A stricter examination is needed for the public service operator and a better regulated plan than now exists for the character determination of such operator.

LITERARY TASTES AMONG WESTERNERS CLASSIFIED

SAN FRANCICO, March 14 (AP)—If the trashy cowboy novel has any admirers in the mountain or prairie states, there is nothing to indicate it in the correspondence of Joseph Henry Jackson, literary editor of Sunset Magazine

Contrary to what is sometimes believed, "westerns" are popular in the west just as they are in the east, he finds, but it is better written western story that makes friends.

Mr. Jackson receives about 8,000 letters yearly concerning books and from them he forms his conclusions as to the literary preferences of western readers. There is a noteworthy absence of appeal for the colored sketch of "wild and wooly" western life.

"Of course," he concedes "it is only the reader of good books who is sufficiently interested to go to the trouble of writing a critic or an author."

Fiction leads in popularity with readers on the sunset side of the continent—from Alaska to Mexico. The mystery story holds its place year after year, as does the historical novel particularly that dealing with western history.

Jackson thinks the popularity of books in this section can be ranked as to classification about as follows: fiction, travel, biography, popular science, history, poetry and humor. Humor doubtless would be closer to the top except that there are comparatively so few humorous books published.

In the last year, besides those that he read for published criticism, Jackson read and reviewed 524 books by radio. He was among the first book reviewers to go on the air. Now there are 72 or more broadcast book chats maintained.

The life of the average book reviewer is one book after another. While he does not hope to peruse all the hundreds or volumes turned out yearly Jackson says the professional reader can familiarize himself with the contents of a vast number. Jackson reads from 15 to 18 a week, the year around.

"An hour is enough to devote to the lighter type of novel," he declares. "To accomplish this entire paragraphs almost a page at a time, must be consumed at a glance. This requires training and long practice but for the professional is not so superficial in result as one might think."

It is his opinion that the system of teaching pupils to read by "word recognition," a method which discards the alphabet completely, will open development to enable the coming generation to read with thoroughness almost as rapidly as the professional reader does now.

The radio reviewer, if he would be successful must figuratively "take the listener by the elbow, steer him out of the crowd to one side of the curb—just as he would halt a friend on the street to discuss the merits of a movie," Jackson believes. He warns the reviewer of "too much of a muchness" personal familiarity "for the kind of people who listen to radio book reviews are the kind who freeze up quickly and resent attempted familiarity if it is ever the tiniest bit off tone."

Irving Sass and Harry L. Gold pleaded guilty in federal court, New York to indictments charging use of the mails to defraud and conspiracy in the sale of $450,000 worth of stock in the Armor Plate and Non-Shatterable Glass corporation.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

That's why doctors urge it to start every day

TO feel right through the morning, you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food.

But at breakfast the great dietary mistake is most often made—a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 68% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

DANIELSON

SHOT AT BY MARIE SLATER, EDDIE JOHN ESCAPES TO JAIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 18—Eddie John is in again—in jail. At least he was Thursday afternoon, but he was confident of getting bail and his freedom before the week is out. Eddie came within inches of beating Gerald Chapman across the Great Divide. When State Officer Ross V. Urquhart started for Brooklyn with him, just before noon, the prisoner was wearing an overcoat that had a bullet hole just over his heart and a suit of clothes with a similar hole searching out his anatomy and the vital spot that would have sent him west. He did shudder a bit if one talked to him enough about an experience that landed him in the net of the law, but he was not greatly perturbed, and may have had thoughts of his own about his most recent glamorous experience.

Eddie John, who hails from Willimantic, has known Marie Slater, a married woman living in the Killingly Center section, for a long time. He might have considered her a friend until she took a shot at him with a 38 calibre revolver, early Wednesday evening and demonstrated to him beyond all possibility of doubt that she means what she says when she says it, and that she can shoot straight as any man, if it comes right down to shooting.

Eddie may be puzzling over this world and its vagaries this morning, as he faces a sentence of 180 days in jail, from which he has appealed, and matches his plight against the fact that he came about as close as anyone comes to getting bumped off as one comes and lives, while the person who shot at him is not even placed under arrest and even appears in court as a witness against him—and gets 70 cents therefor.

From what transpired in Judge W. Penner Woodward's court Thursday morning, Eddie was indiscreet, so much so, in fact, that he came into court facing a charge of assault with intent to kill. However, he was found guilty of simple assault and sentenced to serve six months in jail. Judge Woodward fixed the bond at $500, which John could not furnish, so went to jail, hopeful that his father would come to his aid and get him out, until such time as the superior court considers his case.

Eddie John is not unknown to the courts of Windham county—nor the police of the towns thereof. He came over into this territory from Willimantic Tuesday evening and went to the Slater home at Killingly Center. It is charged that he got in through a window, took possession of a revolver and otherwise misconducted himself before he was finally induced to go away. Wednesday evening he came back. He received no welcome. Having a club under his coat and indulging in breaking out glass in a door to effect an entrance, he had met the stage for the action of Mrs. Slater in getting out a 38 calibre revolver and firing at him the bullet that came near ending his life cutting through his coat. It is believed that the fact that Mrs. Slater fired through two windows, one a storm window, so reduced the impact of the bullet as to save John from death. A message to the state police brought about John's arrest and he spent Wednesday night in the police station.

John has been in various jams in Windham county in the past few years. Twice he has been before the county court for violation of the automobile laws—driving while under the influence of liquor. He got a beating a couple of summers ago from a Stonefield man who was driving a car down Reynolds street when John came along Broad street and crashed into the Massachusetts machine. John fled from the scene, but was later arrested at Dayville. At the time liquor was found in his car. He has been a patient at Brewster's Neck, and first and last has given officers of county towns a run for their money. Withal, he has been fortunate enough not to spend much time in jail for the affairs in which he has been engaged.

VOTE TO SPEND $125,000 IN JUST SIX MINUTES

All but 17 [illegible] of the many hundreds in Killingly who posses the legal status to have something to say, in town meeting, about what the town tax rate shall be, passed up the adjourned annual town meeting Wednesday evening, this gathering called to approve or disapprove the expenditure of something over $125,000, of the town's money during the current fiscal year. Some may find a cut here to complain there is no general interest in the town's affairs, and that will be promptly denied by others.

Killingly has been on a budget system for a number of years. Estimates of cost are compiled by the selectmen and the town school committee, these estimates are published in the newspapers, well ahead of the meeting that will pass upon them, and the public knows all about how much money is needed and what it is to be used for before the time for voting on the appropriations comes to hand. This has proved a wonderful help. It eliminates going into a meeting blind, so to speak, and arguing pro and con, for hours, about this and that, it stops a lot of argument, much of it founded on the shifting sands. A person who studies the published budget is well informed about what the town needs. He knows that the estimates have been carefully prepared. He may quibble about this or that item, but the whole budget he is not likely to question, out of his experience of the cost of town administration. Knowing what the town needs and that it must pay its bills and that the tax rate is to be 18 mills, for instance, his interest in the meeting that will go through the formula of legalizing the appropriations and fixing the tax rate is not great. In a word, he knows where he is at—and he lets George do it. This is no proof that the electorate is somnolent if something of real importance is up for action.

Wednesday evening's meeting lasted just six minutes. It fixed the tax rate at the recommended figure of 18 mills, which will raise the amount of money needed by the town this year. Attorney Harry E. Back was moderator and First Selectman John A. Gilbert presented the budget and explained it.

In spite of all that has been published in this column about the matter, there appears to be many misconceptions about the rights of the public in fishing Snake Meadow brook the coming trout season. Many believe that special licenses for the brook will be required, that only specified persons may fish it, and so forth and so on. It so happens that this is a leased brook of the state of Connecticut and the people, especially the interested fishermen, have not been quick to realize that the state has placed no great barriers against their enjoying the stream and its possibilities.

Therefore, once again, be it set forth that no special license will be required to fish this particular brook. Any licensed fishermen may fish it. It is open to the public. It is not to be fished until April 15, though other trout brooks hereabouts may be fished on April 1 and thereafter.

It was stated here Thursday that the state board of fisheries and game has been asked to issue a formal statement relative to Snake Meadow brook, that all doubts and uncertainties as to fishing it may be cleared up. This will be done.

Meanwhile the state is now engaged in carrying out its agreement to intensively stock this brook with trout. During the present week 2,000 trout from 6 to 7 1-2 inches in length have been released in the stream at various points all along its course through the towns of Killingly and Plainfield. Today 2,000 additional trout of the sizes mentioned will be placed in its waters and a fortnight later another allotment of 2,000 will be put in. Here is the promise for good fishing, for while many fishermen are not at all interested in getting trout of the lengths mentioned, it will be appreciated that Snake Meadow is naturally a wonderful trout stream, that it is already heavily stocked and that there are within its waters trout that weigh up to three pounds. Looks like a great season just ahead for the man who would rather fish for trout than eat the finest meal ever served.

Those who were up at 5.30 Thursday morning found a miniature blizzard raging. It was over in a short time, did not amount to much, but left another sheeting of snow—the third that has come at night during the week. Considering the weather—and so much of it—during the winter, there are those who will bet right now that a saxophone would sound like a musical instrument if some real spring like weather introduced itself.

Rev. Leonard R. Richards, rector of St. Alban's, was the Lenten preacher at St. Paul's church in Willimantic Wednesday evening.

Members of the engineering staff of the state highway department have been setting stakes along the trunk line route between Danielson and Thompson that indicate how curves are to be eliminated on that important route, as is being done on trunk lines throughout the state in the effort to make travel more safe. Bad curves are to be taken out at the top of Shippee hill, near the Killingly-Plainfield line, and at points nearer Danielson. There is an assumption that the work will be done during the coming season.

Mrs. George Colburn of Los Angeles and Mrs. George Carr of Providence are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald C. Street of Broad street.

Mrs. Joseph Cristina and five children, after three years spent in Italy, are en route to Danielson and are expected to arrive here in about a fortnight.

Richard D. Banigan was the speaker at Thursday evening's meeting of the Rotary club.

WEDDING
Darbie-Bushnell.

(Contributed)

In Mooers, N. Y., Wednesday evening at 6:30, Feb. 24th, at the home of the bride's brother, Rev. Edwin Trowbridge, who performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Stanley Lawrence, pastor of the Wesleyan M. E. church of Mooers. Mrs. Emily Trowbridge Bushnell, of Canterbury Plains, and Kent A. Darbie of Danielson, were united in marriage.

The house had been decorated and a number of relatives and friends of the family had assembled.

Mrs. Edith Stevenson played Mendelssohn's Wedding march as the bridal party descended the stairs to the living room. They were attended by the maid of honor, the bridesmaid and the groomsman. The wedding march continued softly during the ceremony.

After Mr. and Mrs. Darbie had held a brief reception, dinner was served to a score of intimate friends and relatives.

Mooers, N. Y., is not far from the Canada line and their wedding journey was a return trip through five states.

Mrs. Darbie has been closely identified with Canterbury Plains for many years, it having been the home of her parents and her home. She has been very actively identified with all its best interests and especially with the M. P. church and with Canterbury's W. C. T. U. of which she is vice-president.

Mr. Darbie is a well known and successful business man of Danielson, an active member of the Nazarene church and a trustee of Douglas, Mass., Camp Meeting association. He and his bride are spending their honeymoon in Mrs. Darbie's house at the Plains and plan to retain that as well as the Danielson home.

The bride has the hearty good wishes and Mr. Darbie has the congratulations of a host of friends in Canterbury, Danielson and in many other places.

There would be but few mysteries in this world if people looked into everything as closely as a woman looks into a mirror.

PUTNAM

FORMER BALTIC RESIDENTS SEPARATED BY THE COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 18—Mrs. Florence Brown Larow was granted a divorce from Frank W. Larrow, in the superior court here today, by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson, on the grounds of desertion. She was also given the custody of the three children.

Mr. Larrow did not contest the action but he was represented by counsel. He had not intended to testify until Judge Dickenson inquired if he were in the room and ordered him to take the witness stand.

They were married in 1904 and made their home in Baltic until the husband left his wife in 1917 and Mrs. Larrow moved with the children to Putnam where she has since lived. The defendant also lives here.

The plaintiff testified that they could not get along together, they kept drifting further and further apart. The separation was not preceded by any serious quarrel, but she was positive that there could be no reconciliation. Three persons, two of them neighbors, another, Arthur H. Warren of Sterling, who said that he had known the plaintiff all her life, verified her statements. Her husband has contributed nothing to her support since they separated; for three years after he first left he had paid $5 a week for the children, but in the past few years he has given nothing, except occasionally buying the meiothing.

When questioned by the court Mr. Larrow said that his wife's statements were correct in all particulars. Searls, Russell and Bradford were the plaintiff's attorneys.

COUNSEL TO SUBMIT BRIEFS IN DAYVILLE FARM ACTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 18—Testimony was concluded late this afternoon in the action in superior court of Mr. and Mrs. John Zubrick against Michael Pisarki, et ux to recover $5,000 cash payment on a farm at Dayville, for which they had agreed to pay $18,000.

The plaintiffs claimed fraud and misrepresentation in the sale, that the price, $18,000, was double the value of the property, and instead of the deed that they supposed they were getting—both are Russians, the wife speaking, as she claimed, English imperfectly, the husband none at all—they received a contract. This called for the payment of $200 a month on the remainder of the purchase price, whereas both the plaintiffs said that they were told they would have to pay but $400 a year.

They lived on the farm for six months in 1924, following the purchase; they could not meet the monthly installments and finally went back to their former home in Lone Island.

Charles E. Kempton, of Pomfret, owned the farm prior to 1924 and he testified that he considered $18,000 a fair valuation. Other witnesses placed a similar value on it; but Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, who lives at Dayville, said that he made a careful investigation to ascertain its worth, in addition to what he knew of it in a general way, and that at the time it was sought by the Zuricks $8,750 was a fair figure.

Henry H. Pettis of Norwich, was the attorney for the defendants. He was assisted by Vertune P. A. Quinn, also of Norwich, who had been the attorney of the defendants when the sale was made to the Zuricks. After the last witness was examined it was agreed by counsel to submit briefs, instead of making oral arguments. These briefs are to be filed by March 27.

BUMPED INTO WEBSTER BUS, PAYS FINE OF $25 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 18—Antonio J. Bonneville, 23, son of former Selectman Bonneville, of Putnam was before Justice Leroy P. Tourtellotte at North Grosvernordale yesterday, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and of operating an automobile without a license. After a lengthy hearing in which seven witnesses testified, Bonneville was found not guilty on the charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor; but on his plea of guilty to operating without a license was assessed a fine of $25and costs, amounting to $44.54.

Bonneville was the operator of an automobile that crashed into a Webster bound bus near the residence of Truman Robbins in North Grosvernordale recently. The bus was operated by Eugene Tetreault of Webster, who testified that he came almost to a stop when he saw the car, alleged to have been operated by Bonneville, and which was coming toward him with only one light, drive directly for the bus. The automobile struck the left front of the bus and after scraping along the entire body, caught on the rear bumper and was overturned.

None of the occupants of the automobile were injured except for some bruises.

MRS. JAMES N. LENNEN BURIED AT WOODSTOCK

The Belding-Heminway Silk Sox, formerly known as the H. K. H. Baseball club, plans an amateur boxing carnival in an attempt to revive the athletic spirit in Putnam, dormant for some time. The program will include a well balanced card which will furnish three hours of action in flying fists and fancy dives. The bouts will be as follows:

118 lb. class—Young Mazon, Central Village vs. Tony Blair, Putnam.

126 lb. class—"Rip" McKenna, Mechanicsville vs. Young Major, Danielson.

The jury for the March term of court was dismissed, after hearing for an hour to testimony in the suit of the Steamship Fuel corporation against Silby Sead, et al.

Attorney Danielson, of Moosup, represented the plaintiff and told the jury that he expected to prove that the Steamship Fuel Corp. on August 16, 1924 had shipped a car of coal to the defendant at Moosup and that the bill amounting to $316 had never been paid. For the defendant, Judge Harry E. Back declared that his client had never ordered or received any coal from the plaintiff and further that all coal bills contracted by the defendant had been paid.

After the testimony for the plaintiff had been given, Judge Back offered a motion that the case be non-suited because the allegations had not been proved; the motion was sustained by Judge Dickinson.

The jurors were: Alexander M. Bassett, Ashford; Stephen M. Coffey, Brooklyn; Fred Kinne, James E. Towne and Rollinson Dean, Canterbury; Adolph P. Landeck, Chaplin; Archa Green, Eastford; Henry P. Holmes, Pomfret; Arthur Price, Scotland; Carl E. Almquist, Thompson; Frank Foskett, Woodstock.

Mrs. N B. Burton's Sunday school class held a meeting and social at the home of Miss Marion Bowen on South Main street. There were nineteen members present and after the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments were served. The affair was in the form of a St. Patrick's day party, the decorations being in green.

Mary Laposta, 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Laposta, of North Grosvernordale, is at Day Kimball hospital with a broken leg. The girl was standing on a swing watching some older children at play when she lost her balance and fell to the ground, breaking her right leg.

Two names were omitted from the list of honor pupils at the Putnam high school recently published. The name of Anita Brodeur should be added to the second Roll of Juniors and that of Loeza de Rosseau to that of second seniors.

The Social circle of the Second Congregational church is to have a meeting at the church parlors next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which time Miss Sylvia Wheelock will give a cooking demonstration.

Sergeant Frank H. Lamondy did not take the examination for a commission in the state guard at Hartford Thursday, as he decided that he would not be able to accept this unlooked-for promotion for business reasons principally. Now You Can End Constipation In 10 Days or Less

We Mean The Chronic Kind — The Habitual Kind That Calls For Daily Purging—Guaranteed, Too

Now what do you think, good folks? Remember we told you the other day in this paper about McCoy's Rinolin and how in ten days it would conquer the most stubborn kind of constipation and after that the bowels would function normally and regularly.

Remember how we invited all who wanted to get rid of constipation and that vicious habit of taking salts and violent cathartics to go to Lee & Osgood Co. or any drug store and get a bottle of Rinolin with the distinct understanding that it would do just what we said it would do or money back.

A whole lot of people must read this paper, because hardly before the ink is dry on our notice of invitation druggists in this city and towns nearby commenced to have a brisk demand for this effective Emulsion.

And best of all—according to the druggists—everyone who bought seems satisfied and of course they are, for McCoy's Rinolin was tried on thousands of slaves of habitual constipation before it was offered direct through druggists to the people. And how do you think it established regular bowel movements? The answer is simple: it overcame the chronic condition by thoroughly cleaning the walls of the intestines of all accumulated deposits and toxins which prevented active and normal peristalsis—no other preparations have been able to do this.

Besides that—it lubricated and put tone into the entire intestinal track so that it will be many a day before these now happy people will think of purgatives again.

Without active peristalsis, the bowels cannot function properly—McCoy's Rinolin increases the peristalic action. Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

MYSTIC

Every seat was filled in St. Mark's Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon at the funeral services of Charles Elmer Cameron. Rev. Albert C. Jones, a former rector for many years, was present and pronounced the eulogy, taking as his text the first part of verse 24 of the 11th chapter of Acts, "He was a good man". Rev. Lucius W. Shey followed with another tribute. He spoke of the life and influence of Mr. Cameron in the village, he having spent his entire life here. He had served the church as vestryman, and senior warden and Rev. Fredrick R Sanford of Stonington assisted in the service. The hymns sung were Abide With Me and Lead Kindly Light. There were beautiful floral remembrances. The bearers were George D. Johnson, Carol Bliven, Henry Kellogg, Roscoe Burrows, John Goodman and John B. Grinnell. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, where the committal service was read. Out of respect to Mr. Cameron the stores closed for two hours.

The entertainment given in Columbus hall Wednesday evening in observance of St. Patrick's day was largely attended. The program consisting of a concert, lecture and comedy of Irish life, as follows: The Prisoner's Song, Miss Marguerite Duhaime; Macushla, Mrs. John Connors; That Tumbled Down Shack in Athlone, Miss Katherine Hickson; Mother Machree, Miss Marie Fritscher; lecture, St. Patrick as a Saint and Scholar, Rev. John Reilly of Norwich; comedy, That Rascal Pat. EDUCATION BY MAIL URGED UPON BOYS OF ALL NATIONS

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., March 18—Education by mail, direct from subject to student, is being put in practice for American boys by Dr. Sven V. Knudsen, professor at Antioch college here.

"My Friend Abroad" is the name given by Dr Knudsen to his system which consists of letter writing between boys in America and boys in America and boys abroad—from Lapland to the Argentine, from Jerusalem to Singapore, from Poland to Trinidad.

"Education through letters written from one boy to another can be made into a more personal thing than can text books written for quality consumption," Dr. Knudsen believes. "If we can only bring geography, sociology and such subjects, which deal with the surrounding world, closer to a boy's personal life he will like them ever so much more."

Strengthening of international good will among the young people of various nations will result from the scheme he thinks in letter writing, he urges American boys and boys of foreign countries to write about their personal lives, their everyday customs, their viewpoints, their families, schools, and their play.

CONGRESS OWES IT TO STATES

By the latest bulletin of the motor vehicle department attention is directed to the situation which exists as the result of the interstate business of motor busses. It is pointed out that not only do these busses have the potential speed of a touring car, but they have grown so that they measure in some instances today 8x24 and as the result take up much room on the highway and are more or less alarming to the timid operators of other cars.

The situation as to the big busses and trucks is much the same. For those engaged in entirely state business it is possible for some authority to exercise control and insist upon observance of regulations, but when it comes to the interstate busses and trucks the motor vehicle department admits that the state's control is incomplete as regards regulation of routes, frequency of trips and various other details which are a part of the regulation of the interstate vehicles.

The situation is one which calls for action by congress at this session in order to provide for the existing situation where interstate traffic of this character is answerable neither to the state or federal authorities.

Ordinarily interstate traffic for railroad transportation would come under the interstate commerce commission. The busses and the trucks do a similar business but the commission's duties were set forth before such motor vehicle traffic developed with the result that it runs as it pleases without much of any regulation. The state is obliged to tolerate it to a certain degree because it is interstate, while the authority for dealing with interstate transportation has never been directed to deal with such matters.

It is therefore time for congress to get busy and straighten out this situation. Something should be done, even though it is temporary, for the relief of the position in which states are placed. The unsatisfactory and do as-you-please situation ought not to be allowed to continue until another session of congress. There is a duty to the states that should be discharged at this time before conditions get any worse than they are. Congress alone can eliminate the helplessness of the situation.

DISARMAMENT FADES

Naturally the question now arises as to what is going to happen to the disarmament conference as the result of the failure at Geneva. This conference, already postponed once, is scheduled to be held in May. It is of course a preliminary conference at which a program for the subsequent one would be arranged, but there seems to be slight prospect that there could be any definite steps taken with the situation what it is as the result of the failure of the league of nations to accomplish the object of its recent meeting.

There have been evidences of the reappearance of national hatreds instead of a policy of peace actuating the league meeting there seemed to be a demonstration of selfishness and stubbornness. Under such conditions the nations of Europe cannot be expected to be in a mood for decreasing armaments. The situation at Geneva was such as to arouse suspicion and to send the nations scurrying for more protection instead of reducing what is possessed.

Geneva, in fact, developed just the opposite of what could be regarded as a helpful spirit for the disarmament conference. It was a belligerent, get-what-any-price spirit that was displayed by certain representatives. There was no evidence that there had been any lesson learned from the war and the setting is anything but auspicious for a conference among the nations on disarmament, either as to actual reduction of army and navy or the discussion of a programme to such end.

Could the Geneva session have gone off smoothly it would have lent much encouragement to the belief that the conference called for May had possibilities of getting somewhere. That belief, or even hope, has been shattered and so much so that it seems futile to attempt to carry out what now presents so many impossibilities. With jealousies and suspicions still rampant it is quite evident that there is slight chance for the entertainment of the dove of peace, and that is what is demanded at a disarmament conference.

DEALING WITH FIREARMS

Because a congressional committee makes a favorable report doesn't mean that its adoption will immediately follow. It means a good beginning and increases hopes for results.

Thus it is interesting to note that the postoffice committee of the house has recommended that firearms be excluded from the United States mails. This is in keeping with an agitation which has been underway for a considerable time and having as its purpose the reduction in the large amount of crime which can be traced to the fact that firearms can be obtained through the mails regardless of the restrictive laws governing their sales in the various states.

All crime is not committed with firearms, but much of it is. It is the weapon that figures most prominently in the activity of criminals and by state legislation restrictions are placed on the purchase of firearms and possession forbidden without a license. Just as long as it is possible for those living in such states to write to business houses elsewhere and order what they want in this line the state laws amount to little. The United States mail nullifies state laws. The law abiding citizen respects the law but the criminal hastens to avoid or break it. The situation resolves itself into providing an advantage for the criminal for respect for the law on the part of the public simply makes his business less dangerous.

The justification for the exclusion of firearms from the mails has already been recognized by certain mail order houses. They have taken the initiative and announced that they have abandoned the sale of such goods. Inasmuch as others haven't received an inspiration from this example there still exists the need of dealing with the situation in a national way and the exclusion of firearms from the mails would accomplish this purpose.

There are those who would have the manufacture of firearms stopped entirely but that is out of the question. There are legitimate users for which they are requqired. It is restriction rather than prohibition that is required.

MAKING A GOOD IMPRESSION

We read where certain communities which are preparing for the celebration of anniversaries or other unusual events, are painting and cleaning up in anticipation of the coming of many visitors. They want to look spick and span for the reception of their guests. They want to make a good impression. They want to display a live civic pride. They want to avoid the impression that might be gained if nothing were done.

But isn't that the spirit that should be shown in every community just about this time of year for the very same reasons? Whether or not there is to be a celebration of a centennial, a sesquicentennial or a tercentenary, or whether there are only the customary visitors of an ordinary spring and summer expected, it is highly desirable that civic pride should stand out in as many streets, on as many corners, on as many buildings and in as many hearts as at any other time.

Certainly it should not be exclusively reserved for special occasions. If it is it is likely to become fossilized between events. Let there be some pretension at an annual clean-up, a needed paint-up and a season-al doll-up for the good effect such attention is bound to have upon those who come for a visit of a day, a week, a month or a season and for the stimulation which it always has upon the community spirit.

Those communities which are bidding for large crowds understand what is needed in such directions. If it is worthwhile to make a good and lasting impression upon the special visitors isn't it a good policy to work for similar results on those who are drawn to a city by other than anniversary attractions.

THE McCAMANT DECISION

For some time indications have pointed strongly to the fact that the senate would not ratify the nomination of Wallace McCamant of Portland, Ore., to be judge of the ninth district court. The committee report was strongly against him and that report has been upheld.

Judge McCamant has been serving as the result of a recess appointment. Opposition to him has come from Senator Johnson of California for political reasons. It all dates back to the republican convention at Chicago when the California senator was a candidate for presidential nomination. Judge McCamant was a member of the Oregon delegation but he refused to support Johnson. That soured the applicant for the nomination and he has waited with glee for the opportunity when he could exercise his power in the senate to retaliate on McCamant.

It was an unfortunate trap into which Judge McCamant allowed himself to be led when he declared before the committee that he considered President Roosevelt not a good American because he favored recall of judicial decisions. That of course served as an aid to the opposition, even though he later declared that he meant it was not good American doctrine.

As far as his ability was considered Judge McCamant was unquestionably entitled to the judgeship and because of it the president was justified in sending his name to the senate and refusing to withdraw it. That the senator from California has used this case to repay a political soreness doesn't react any to his credit. It simply displays one of the weaknesses of the senate.

WHY LUCRETIA WAITED

"I'm surprised," began the plain-spoken aunt who had come to visit, "that you aren't engaged, Mariposa, and I am speechless at the discovery that you practically have no beaux whatever. There is no reason at all for there not being a procession of motors stopping at your door and the telephone lying down and dying from overwork. You've got your hair bobbed and waved and I see you are an artist with oils and paints and your brain seems all right—so I have decided that your case must be like that of a girl back home—Lucretia Kildare.

"All the women in town work on Lucretia's case, for it certainly is exasperating to see good material going to waste and all the eligible young men marrying useless young women. Lucretia was pretty enough and wore good clothes and kept up to date. If the skirts were narrow she cut hers down and when they turned full she promptly cleared out her wardrobe for the benefit of the poor and needy. She walked down Main street to the post-office at exactly the right time to meet all the young business men going out to lunch and she gave parties at the drop of the hat and served good food. But no beaux!

"Lucretia held her head high and kept smiling, but of course we knew that down in her heart she was raging and indignant and we couldn't blame her. Mrs. Higher had her nephew down on purpose and asked Lucretia over to dinner right away and she and the nephew talked back and forth as nice as anything, yet it was another girl he was crazy about all the time he was there. Mrs. Laflem was terribly anxious to make a match between her brother and Lucretia, because Lucretia was going to inherit money some day and the brother was a perfectly fine man, only he never seemed able to get ahead. He was willing, but Lucretia wouldn't go anywhere with him, even though he was good looking and could dance. She turned him down cold and it made everybody mad, because if you aren't popular you can't be choosy.

"Of course nobody said a word to Lucretia, because you can't very well go up to a girl and say you're sorry she's having such a slow time and isn't it too bad the boys don't seem to like her. But there never was a lunch or sewing bee or card party in town where the conversation didn't finally get around to the topic and a discussion about what we could do about it. We liked Lucretia and we wanted to help her out, so to say, and whenever any of us had an eligible man visiting us Lucretia always was the girl asked in to dinner. She would be lively and gay and real interesting and maybe the man would go to see her once or twice and then before we knew it he'd be sending flowers to some other girl and Lucretia would be backed off the map.

"We all had to admit that Lucretia seemed to be quite happy and busy with a lot of other things, but it didn't seem natural.

"I'd known her since she was a baby, so one day I couldn't hold in any more and I asked her right out and Lucretia just laughed. She said she never yet had met the man she'd stand seeing across the breakfast table 365 days in the year and, that being the case, why on earth should she bore herself with their usually dumb company when there were so many other interesting things she could be doing?

"What do you think of that? Perfectly simple and no mystery at all after all our years of stewing and fretting over the girl—and then she suddenly married a marvelous man, she met down east who owns most of the state and gives away limousines for bridge prizes besides having brains and a good disposition. So—"

"I can understand your Lucretia perfectly," admitted Mariposa, "because I feel just the way she did about it. Really."

"Well, well," the plain-spoken aunt said in relieved tones. "Then I guess you'd better go west and visit my old friend out in San Francisco. She knows everybody worth knowing and nobody knows what might happen. Just as it happened to Lucretia." She being a person impossible to distract began to write a letter right away from the main line of thought.—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Robert Mantell, the Scotch Boy, the Great Actor

The mad rage of King Lear, the conscience-stricken fury of Macbeth and the plotting ambition of Richard III are remembered by every one who has seen Robert Mantell, the Shakesperean actor, play these parts. The story of this artist is of constant effort and of constant achievement.

It is interesting to note that Robert Mantell was born in the same section of Scotland in which another famous "Robert", Robert Burns, was also born—Ayrshire. At first Robert Mantell had no thought of becoming an actor. It was, as it were, by accident that he adopted the profession. He was by nature a mimic, and able to "take off" people whom he knew. As a boy he had the ability to imitate voice and gesture and especially mannerisms. This led to his playing in productions put on for mere amusement—social plays in no sense professional. Gifted far more than his fellows, striking in physique and remarkably skilled in using his voice for the bringing out of effect, he made a deep impression on his hearers. He won so much praise that he resolved to become an actor. He had been apprenticed to a wine merchant. At 20 he left his work and went on his own to the United States. There he struggled to find a place in the theatrical world, but in vain. He was obliged to go back to England. Another might now have given up hope but persistence is always the tool of those who succeed. Robert Mantell joined a small company and at 22 appeared as an actor. All that he had asked was the opportunity that he had now found. He threw himself into his work and speedily built up a great success, until at last many years after his first appearance, he was recognized as one of the leading actors of the day. If one were to ask him how he made himself famous he might well reply: "By having one thing in life to do and by trying with all my energy to do that one thing well."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Frederic E. Ives, who has been awarded the gold medal of honor by the United States Typothetae of America, has probably done as much to bring the art of printing and illustrating to the present high standard as any man now living. For fifty years Mr. Ives has been engaged in perfecting new processes in printing, photo-engraving and color photography. While in charge of the photographic laboratory of Cornell university, in 1874-78 he realized the first practically successful of photochromatic photography, and invented the first practically successful process of photo-engraving. He is credited with having made the first three-color plates, also to have developed the half-tone plate. He is the inventor of a binocular microscope and holds the Rumford medal for scientific accomplishments. Mr. Ives is a native of Connecticut and was educated in the public schools of that state.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Correction

Mr. Editor: — Doubtless through typographical error the most important part of my letter in your paper of March 17th, was left out, and part wholly changed. It should be:

"The little child under 13 is sexless, and regarded in the medical profession as an "infant". We do not purge his body with adult doses of medicine; why then should we poison the delicate little mind with adult knowledge?"

Stories That Recall Others

Easily Kept Busy

They were reducing the number of employes in the factory when Mike was called and told there was not enough work to keep him any longer. After thinking a few minutes he blurted out:

"Sure, Mr. X, it doesn't take much to keep me busy."

Gonna Be One

"Send the police right away to the corner of X and X street," came a voice over the telephone.

"What's the matter, ain't there?" was the response.

"A fight," the voice said.

"Where is it, in the office?" was asked.

"No, there's a fellow waiting for me about a half block away," the voice said.

"Well, there isn't any fight, then is there?"

"No, not now, but there's gonna be one when I get down there."

IN THE DAYS NEWS

AMSTERDAM

Relief measures for the flood-stricken portions of Holland, which are being conducted from Amsterdam, attract attention to this commercial and military capital of one of Europe's smallest countries.

"Audacious though it may seem to compare Amsterdam to New York, when it is considered that the latter was once a namesake of the Dutch city, nearly every experience in the bustling, bustling Amsterdam of today is reminiscent to Americans of the metropolis of the New World," says a bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Heredity is here apparently backtracking, for the 'father' is every day becoming more like the son, and less like its picturesque Dutch neighbors.

"New York and Amsterdam have much in common. Each is the largest and most populous city in its respective country. Neither is the political capital of the country, but each is the undisputed commercial dictator and the key-point of military defense. Each is a seaport, although here the analogy does not follow as closely. Rotterdam's commerce exceeds that of Amsterdam. Amsterdam, however, has the headquarters of all the large shipping companies, just as has New York. Like New York Amsterdam is also an important industrial center with ship-building plants, refineries, machine shops many small factories, diamond polishing mills, etc.

"Geography prevents carrying the parallel much further. While New York towers above sea level on a foundation of solid rock, Amsterdam is a city perched on wooden piles. No permanent structures can be erected on the upper stratum of loam and loose sand; hence the necessity for driving supports 15 to 60 feet below the level of the ground, and hence, probably, the jest of Erasmus of Rotterdam, who said the natives of Amsterdam live on the tops of trees like rooks.

"Disastrous effects of heavy rains in nearby regions emphasize the constant battle that the city and the country must wage against the eternal enemy—water. Both to the sea and the sky Holland must ever present a strong arm. Amsterdam itself, shut off from tidal fluctuations by dikes and locks, but the water in its many canals is constantly changed by inflows from rivers and a canal connecting it direct with the North sea. The water in its huge harbor and street canals is kept at what is known as 'the Amsterdam level,' which may be considered a mean of high and low tide.

"The city of Amsterdam lies in the southwest corner of the great inland body of water known as the Zuyder Zee, at the influx of the Amstel and Y rivers. Like Venice it is built on a number of islands, but with much more regularity than the Queen of the Adriatic. Roughly, the city plan looks like the profile of a half wheel with numerous water spokes and inner rims regular succession. These rims or successive encircling canals indicate zones of expansion in the past, and, flanked with avenues of elms and tall narrow brick houses with the gables turned toward the street, give a handsome and picturesque effect to the residential sections.

"Americans who start their tour of Holland in Amsterdam are likely to be disillusioned. Not a windmill can be seen in the downtown section and the hurrying throngs who jostle one on the streets are dressed very much like other Europeans. Steam engines are replacing the characteristic waving arms of the Dutch windmill throughout the kingdom. Only in the remote rural sections, and as tourist attractions such as the Isle of Marken, can one find the bloomers, lace caps and wooden shoes of the old geography book pictures. Amsterdam's shops resemble America's finest, both in quality and in price, while in bank of the Netherlands is one of the leading financial establishments of Europe.

"Amsterdam might be said to be the first setting of nearly every diamond. Its diamond polishing and cutting mills have been famous since the 16th century, when the art was introduced by Portuguese Jews after the sack of Antwerp. At the present time there are nearly a hundred mills, employing several thousand persons. Most of the raw diamonds come from South Africa, although Brazil and the Far East are other sources of supply.

"The Dutch are great lovers of mottoes, signs and inscriptions. On some of the houses of Amsterdam can still be found printed legends, such as: 'This is my pleasure and my life,' 'The place for song,' etc. Public buildings are special targets throughout the country for the inscription painter. The Scriptures are so freely drawn upon, one writer claims, that were the Bible otherwise lost to man it could be replaced almost intact from the inscriptions on Dutch town-gates and municipal halls. A sign which draws the most attention from American tourists, however, and a rush for a baggage label, is that which swings the door of a modest little hostelry near the station. —'The Dam Hotel' 'Dam' in Dutch, however, means, 'city.'

"Near Amsterdam are the 'dead cities' of Holland. The term is misleading, for most of the cities still exist. Through the silting up of the Zuyder Zee in the last two centuries many former prosperous seaports have been abandoned, trade has withered and disappeared. They are not exactly dead, they have just ceased to live.

"Monnikendam, Hoorn, Edam, Staveren, Kampen and others are examples of once powerful and prosperous cities, with fleets of vessels which brought to their wharves the silks and spices of China and the Indies, which today are nothing more than quiet little rural centers. Prosaic cheeses have supplanted more exotic cargoes from the orient. Peaceful, pipe-smoking burgers today swing their feet from molding wharves, whose boards once resounded to the heavy tread of more adventurous ancestors; bold seafarers whose fleet vessels worried even the mighty armadas of Spain."

BRITISH TEA HOUR ONLY MOVIE CHANGE FOR GISH

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Five o'clock—the British 'hour for tea'—constitutes the chief difference between American and English methods of motion picture production.

So concludes Dorothy Gish, American film actress, who made Nell Gwynn for a British concern and soon will go back to make three more pictures, one of which will be Madame Pompadour.

"When it became known last year that I was going to England to make my first film there, every one told me I would find things rather slow," she said. "I soon found, however, that things were done in the studios there with the same rush that characterizes our production.

"For seven weeks we worked 12 hours a day, but no matter what was happening at five o'clock we always stopped for tea. Outside of this I found little difference."

J. D. Williams, former head of the Associated First National pictures here, now is general manager of British National Pictures, Ltd., which is making Miss Gish's photoplays. She believes he is largely responsible for the similarity in production methods.

The "screen personality" of the actress is much like her real personality. In appearance, however, Miss Gish is different, for the black wig she wears in most pictures is missing, revealing a mass of blonde hair.

"I have to wear the wig," she explained, "because if I didn't, I would look to much like my sister, Lillian, in pictures. Even in real life I meet people who think they are talking to Lillian. This happens so often I sometimes don't correct those mistaken."

Miss Gish has little time for athletics, but reads whenever she has the opportunity. She is the wife of James Rennie, who has the leading role in a Broadway success. Her hair is not bobbed and she does not smoke. The much-discussed "younger generation," however, she admires.

As for the Charleston, she has been taking lessons for three weeks. She said it is great exercise."

Many actresses seem to favor long engagements and short marriages.

"TAFTVILLE NIGHT" WAS FEATURE FOR ELKS

Taftville members of Norwich lodge of Elks fulfilled all the promises they had made when they took charge of the social hour after the business meeting Thursday night and gave a "Taftville Night."

During the supper hour the Army and Navy orchestra from Taftville rendered a lively programme. This was followed by a home talent programme, which was a popular part of the evening and included Martin on the harmonica, Chip Dugas in hard shoe dances, John Thoma in songs, Frischette with the fiddle, Dufore and Debeck in a talking act, Trembley wit hthe violin and Lurette in impersonations.

CONTINUANCE IS GRANTED IN CITY COURT CASE

Charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving, John Kilroy, 24, Norwich Town, was presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning. On request of his counsel, Earl Mathewson, the case was continued until March 24th. The accused is at liberty under bonds of $500.

Kilroy was arrested about 3.30 on Thursday morning near Thames Sq. by Officer Joseph Gendron. It is said that when Kilroy was arrested he thought he was in New London and that he informed the police officer that it was no way for the New London cops to treat him. It is also said that he told the officer he was taking some people home although there was no one in the machine. A bottle containing what is thought to be a ginger ale mixture was found in the machine.

Two men, who were presented in court were fined for intoxication.

Sailors Use Odd Words

Prof. George T. Flom of the University of Illinois says that the reason sailors use such strange and odd words is traceable to the mystery of the sea and the sailors' fear of the mysterious power of the sea. Uncommon words are employed to cope with the feeling that they are intruders in a realm ruled over by powers more mysterious and terrible than any on earth.

CITY LEADERS ENTHUSIASTIC FOR THAMES VALLEY DEVELOPMENT

A spirit of optimism regarding the future development of the Thames river valley prevailed at a joint meeting of the city and town officials of Norwich and New London and Norwich council, No. 309, United Commercial Travelers of America at the Wauregan hotel Thursday evening. The meeting, held under the auspices of Norwich council, No. 309, U. C. T. had an attendance of nearly 60, including the mayors and members of the courts of common council of Norwich and New London, town officials of Norwich and members of the U. C. T. With H. R. Branche, executive secretary of Norwich council, U. C. T., as toastmaster the following menu was served at 7 o'clock:

Grape Fruit Cocktail
Vegetable Soup
Choice of Roast Beef or Scallops
Green Peas Rolls
Apple Pie Cheese
Canada Dry Gingerale
Cigars Coffee Cigarettes

During the menu the U. C. T. orchestra furnished a splendid concert programme and there were solos by F. Ray Smith of New London. Elizabeth Kiley, nine, Alice McKenna, nine, Ruth Nash, three, all of New London, and chaperoned by Mrs. L. A. Nash of New London, entertained with cleverly executed dance numbers and there were selections by a quartette.

Toastmaster Introduces Subject

Herbert R. Branche, executive secretary of Norwich council, No. 39, U. C. T., was the toastmaster of the evening in his opening remarks Mr. Branche said:

The objects of this meeting are twofold: First, to create a greater spirit of community interest between these twin cities of Norwich and New London and second, to promote, publicize and develop eastern Connecticut along civic, industrial and commercial lines. The Thames River valley can be just as big or as little as we care to make it.

The type of men, who require all their time to get a living, are not worth considering in the development of a community. Men that are always too busy to devote a fair portion of their time and energy to the public good are leeches, selfish, mercenary, narrow. Organized effort can do anything and cooperation is the beginning of organized effort. Action is the first essential towards co-operation and through the action of the U. C. T. we have started something here tonight.

For over 250 years Norwich has had a recognized town government and has just passed the 30,000 mark in population. The first census taken in 1756 gave to the town of Norwich a population of 5,540, one hundred years later or in 1850—10,205 and in 1920—29,685 in other words an average of 142 per year increase for a period of 170 years. Whereas many cities in middle, southern and western states have exceeded 50,000 and upwards in 25 years. These are facts, gentlemen, and we must look them square in the face.

Only Holding Our Own

Norwich and New London with all their scenic charms, with all their natural advantages, acquired advantages, civic and fraternal organizations, advantageously located with relation to being the export center of The Atlantic coast and with the best land locked harbor in the world and yet, according to the figures disclosed by the census, we are doing little better than holding our own.

Sections of California and Florida spend hundreds of thousands in publicity, proclaiming the wonderful climate, the invigorating sea bathing opportunities, and the balmy breezes that waft across their boundaries during December, January and February. But how about June, July and August? Not so much said? Eastern Connecticut, the Thames valley, has all that Florida or California has to offer in climate, in seaside recreation and does them one better, for we New Englanders would not trade our wonderful hills for the Florida everglades and swamps nor the fog drenched California coast. Our streams are marvels of beauty and offer unlimited power for hydro-electrical development, the hope of the future for light, power and heat.

Publicity the Remedy.

In order to stay the mad rush of speculators, investors, tourists to the before mentioned tropical states, we must start a back fire. We must publicise the fact that we here in eastern Connecticut have something to sell and not the just-as-good kind, when it comes to healthful climate, invigorating salt sea air, and safe and sane money making opportunities.

This is the first of a series of meetings the United Commercial Travelers hope to hold with different organizations interested in civic development of eastern Connecticut, with the sole purpose of trying to determine wherein lies the remedy, that may overcome the slow growth of the Thames valley district.

Mayor Waters Speaks

Toastmaster Branch called on Hon. Milo R. Waters, mayor of the city of Norwich, as the first speaker. Mayor Waters addressed the meeting as follows:

Mr. Toastmaster:—I think that this is the first time that the officials of Norwich and our sister city of New London have sat together and broken bread together since before that historic occasion over a hundred years ago when it was alleged that citizens of New London stole a courthouse from Norwich, floated it down the river and set it up in New London. However, we bear no hard feelings. I believe this meeting is called in an attempt to create a greater spirit of community interest between the two cities. And this is as it should be. Surely we are so closely connected that anything that injures New London is an injury to Norwich and vice versa.

While the governors of the New England states are devising means to promote New England's prosperity it is wise that the citizens of the two largest cities in eastern Connecticut, located at either end of the beautiful valley of the Thames, with all its scenic beauty and with our great industries, should do all in our power to promote and develop this section of the state.

It seems to me that both cities are deeply indebted to Norwich Council Commercial Travelers, not only for bringing about this meeting, but as I remember it, it was the executive heads of this organization that a dozen years ago were responsible for the opening and naming of the Mohegan Trail, and for inducing the state to build the Military highway and very recently have been active in causing the grade crossings north of us to be safeguarded. They are the only fraternal organization that I know of that is willing to take the initiative in public affairs that concern not only themselves but every other citizen of eastern Connecticut.

I wish to extend a hearty welcome for Norwich to Mayor Fox and his colleagues from our sister city. I trust that this will be the first of many joint meetings and that great good will come from them.

New London Mayor Speaks

Following Mayor Water's address, the toastmaster introduced as the next speaker Mayor William A. Fox of New London. I was very much interested in the remarks of the mayor of Norwich, said Mayor Fox. We know, in a general way, that we are here for the purpose of forming the nucleus of an organization to be known as the Thames River Valley association. We have the flower of the intellect of New England in Norwich and New London. We have everything to work with. It seems to me we ought to take up the proposition of a southern New England industrial exposition. I am sure the people would be surprised to see some of the things made in New London and Norwich and in between. It has been suggested that such an exposition be held in the summer. New London has between 50,000 and 75,000 visitors in the summer and this would be an opportunity to acquaint these people from various parts of the country with the industries of Norwich and New London.

The speaker advocated that as many national conventions be brought to Norwich and New London as possible. Factories, he said, would help solve the problem of ocean steamship lines in and out of New London. He said it would be easy to secure steamship lines from the state pier if there were outgoing cargoes for the steamers.

One thing we need, said Mayor Fox, is to sell this community to the rest of the United States and I don't know of any organization better able to do this than the United Commercial Travelers. Mayor Fox said that congress ought to be more familiar with the Thames river valley than it is.

Landscape Plan for Roads

The principal speaker of the evening was Hans A. Bauer, state landscape artist, connected with the Connecticut state highway department. This was Mr. Bauer's first appearance in Norwich as a speaker and he made a decidedly favorable impression on his audience. Mr. Bauer was introduced to the gathering by Toastmaster Branche. In part Mr. Bauer said:

Gentlemen:

It is a great pleasure and honor to be with you tonight and tell you in a few words what Commissioner Macdonald proposes to do in the matter of beautifying our highways, such as the Mohegan Trail in which you are principally interested.

We are building a system of highways here in Connecticut that probably have no equal anywhere. The ever increasing burden of modern traffic demands wider roads, the elimination of curves, and unobscured sightlines. In providing relief, it is regretted by everyone, not barring the engineer, that many stately roadside trees have to be sacrificed to satisfy the public demand for better roads. Some of these trees are the remnants of former forests, others are plantings of earlier days when one did not dream what proportions highways would eventually assume. Connecticut scenery has a charm that is distinctively all of its own, and which lures many people here from other parts of the country either as tourists or as future residents.

Attractive roadsides make up a great part of the scenery which can be emphasized by intelligent roadside planting, and by the preservation of volunteer shrub or tree-growth that is growing by the wayside. Commissioner Macdonald is well aware of the loss of beauty evidenced along some of our highways, of the gaps left by the removed trees, of the open areas where roads cut across fields to do away with some dangerous curve. He long recognized the need for action, and finally found it possible through a legislative act reading as follows: that the commissioner shall be empowered to plant trees along the roadside wherever in his judgment such a procedure is warranted.

Accordingly, since the first of the year I have had the pleasure of working on the ideas of Mr. Macdonald in order to give them form. The task calls for the following measures:

1. Becoming familiar with conditions along some 1900 miles of Connecticut state highway.

2. Formulating a policy of procedure and

3. Translating plans into organized action.

The main trunk lines will receive consideration primarily, and only such portions of them, the widening or reconstruction of which have been completed. Hence, Route No 1, which is the Boston post road from New York to New Haven, heads the list. The other important highways will receive attention in due order. Among these the Mohegan Trail will be attended to as soon as it is possible. Unquestionably many miles of road do not call for any beautification by the way of plantings, yet there are stretches that can be and should be planted with shade trees, as for example parts of the Mohegan Trail between Jewett City and Plainfield and between Norwich and New London. In general, the plantings possible along the roadsides will resolve themselves into two kinds: shade trees and decorative shrubbery. The latter is much to be recommended on such parcels of land as have fallen to the state incidental to the acquisition of a right of way as on curve cut-offs, or on unsightly banks or ledges that may lend themselves easily to adornment with some bright vegetation growing upon them.

In either case we have a large choice of plant material to choose from. An innumerable variety of decorative shrubs are suitable for use whether native to this region, introduced, or hybridised. The shade trees that are really suitable for roadside planting are fewer and the number of deciduous or broadleaved varieties far exceed those of the coniferous kinds, or evergreens.

The evergreens of this region most suitable as shadetrees are the white pine and the hemlock. The white pine is a fast grower, and forms a handsome, dense and shady crown at an early stage. Unfortunately its susceptibility to the well known blister rust disease excludes it from certain regions, in order to minimize infection and to compensate the loss of any trees by the rust, it is desirable to alternate species with some other pine like the red pine. Either of the foregoing would certainly radiate an atmosphere appropriate to an Indian trail. The hemlock is also one of the handsomest conifers, though its slow growth bar it from more use as a shadetree. While its hardiness under very severe conditions of exposure and its success in the poorest situations makes it deserving of attention.

A consideration of our broadleaved shadetrees involves the comparative values of different varieties for diverse purposes or for different conditions. Some kinds grow fast, others slowly; some are susceptible to disease, insect ravages or weather conditions, others are hardy, some grow with a definite leader, others fork; some prefer water, others a rather dry site, etc. The following kinds of trees have made good in practice, and are to be recommended for roadside planting.

London plane, a bushy tree much similar in appearance to our sycamore, but less susceptible to fungal or insect attack.

Norway maple, a shade tree more hardy than our native sugar maple, and less susceptible to infection or insect attack. Its dense more or less oval shaped crown has occasionally the undesirable habit of growing low, a feature that its undesirable in roadside trees; and must be kept pruned to a suitable height above ground right from the start.

The sugar maple and the American elm are the two old standbys of New England, being very hardy under diverse conditions. Of late they have, however, fallen somewhat into disrepute owing to their susceptibility to insect injury, and frequent death therefrom.

The oaks, chief among which are the red oak and pin oak, never have enjoyed the popularity that is so deserving to them. They are practically all hardy trees, and make a most favorable showing when given half a chance. The pin oaks prefer water, and grow more slowly than the red oaks which favor drier sites.

Other trees quite suitable for roadside planting are the Crimean linden, the European linden, honey locust, hackberry, etc. Also on better sites the basswood, red maple, tulip tree, ash and others. Such varieties like the sweet gum, Kentucky coffee tree, Gingko and Allanthus which are not native here, likewise do well as shade trees.

Mr. Branch then turned the meeting over to City Manager William A. Holt of New London. He was greeted with cheers. Norwich and New London should be closer together than they are said Mr. Holt. Our interests are the same. We are both committed to the policy of the public be pleased. In order to carry out this policy we must have the experience of others. We must find out what the other fellow is doing. In order to do this we must visit back and forth. We have found out a lot that way. I know you have here an old friend of ours, Howard L. Stanton, chief of your fire department. You have in that man as head of the fire department, a man second to none. I can assure you that if there is any assistance we can give any of your department heads I shall be only too pleased to give them what we have.

New England is a favorite spot and we ought to appreciate it. It has been suggested that we can develop the Thames river. It can be done and I believe in Mr. Branche's policy of advertising.

Electric Power Development

Mr. Holt presented Robert W. Perkins, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. Mr. Perkins said the U. C. T. are constantly doing things and not simply passing resolutions and sitting down and praying for results. In planning for the future it is well to think of the past, he said.

The purpose of this meeting, as I understand it, is to give consideration to those conditions and things that will contribute most to the social and industrial development of eastern Connecticut, and as a study of the past is always helpful in planning for the future, let us, for a few minutes, consider what were the conditions that resulted in the early settlement and development of the territory in which we are particularly interested: namely, the valleys of the Thames and its subsidiaries, the Shetucket and the Quinnebaug.

Convenience in the matter of transportation resulted in the early settlers of New England following the water courses in their search for home locations, and as they early developed the need of power for small saw mills, grist mills, etc., practically all of the industrial settlements of New England, except those at tide water, were built up around the water powers of our streams. This is particularly true of eastern Connecticut, as many of you have, of course, noticed.

Take the map which we have before us, of the Thames river, and we find, coming up the river, the first stream of any consequence, Miller's brook, running into Smith cove, with what was at one time, I believe, Woodward's paper mill. Next, the Oxoboxo with Uncasville, Pequot village, Palmertown and Oakdale—seven or eight developments on this small stream. At Trading Cove brook, we have Joseph Hall & Sons company, which is a revival of an older development. Norwich derives a portion of its importance today from the developments on the Yantic and Shetucket rivers, and we all know that the Quinnebaug valley is dotted its entire length with settlements that owe their location to favorable water conditions.

Transportation in those early days was by water. Packets plied between Norwich, New London and New York, and with a favorable wind the trip might be made in two days, or it might require a week.

Later, came the development of highways, and one of the very first of the highways built in New England—I am under the impression that it was, perhaps, the first trunk line highway—was the road between New London and Norwich shown on this map, and following practically the same line as is used today, with the exception of a small variation in the town of Montville. At what is known as Trading Cove brook, the old road, for convenience in crossing the brook, passed to the left of the present causeway, and made its northern terminus at Norwich Town, later to be extended from Norwich Town on to what is now known as the Canterbury turnpike, and from Canterbury to Brooklyn, Pomfret, Woodstock and so on to Worcester.

These social and industrial centers were, then, induced by favorable physical conditions, what were then considered favorable transportation conditions and an abundance of cheap power. These same conditions have been the inducements that have resulted in the later developments in this territory. Take, for instance, the developments on the Thames, which have appeared within the last fifteen or twenty years.

The Standard Oil company, just north of the bridge at New London—the Thames Lumber company, a little further north—The Thames Tow Boat company, still further north—The Connecticut College for Women, on the elevation just west of the Thames—The Tidewater Oil company development at Smith cove—the submarine base, nearly opposite—the Eastern Connecticut Power company at Montville—The Robert Gair company, also at Montville—Allyn's Point, an older development—H. F. and A. J. Dawley, just above Poquetanuck cove, on the east side of the river—Norwich state hospital—and on the stream that empties into Poquetanuck cove, were three settlements—Joseph Hall & Sons company, on Trading cove brook—the sanitorium, Uncas-on-Thames, on the hill to the north—Uncas Paper Board company—the Thermos Bottle company and the American Woolen company.

None of these important developments are in their present location as the result of accident. Their location was probably influenced because of the conditions already mentioned, and these conditions continue to be just as dominant factors in the further growth of this territory.

LENTEN SERMON GIVEN ON THE WORD "FORWARD"

One word "Forward" was the text for the sermon by Rev. G. T. Linsley, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, at the united Lenten service Thursday evening at Christ Episcopal church. The text-word, he said, was the watchword of all life and especially of spiritual life, presenting a call to spiritual aspiration and the ardent hope of rising to the higher level of Christian living through a continual process of growth and progress. We have no quarrel with progress, or evolution, as you may call it, if we understand it as the explanation of a process and a method chosen by God toaccomplish His creation. But when we study the revelations of science, we come back to the old Bible and find fuller conviction that "the hand that made them is divine."

The preacher affirmed his disbelief in the theory that progress is automatic and that man is a poor creature at best, halfway between the ape and God, but traveling in the right direction, as one school of thought maintaines. Progress is nowhere automatic, he maintained. In the history of the world and the history of the individual you find progress but you are equally sure to find retrogression. There must be the exercise of moral choice, of will power in our daily lives and as long as this is so there will be progress and there will be retrogression. The parallel to life is found in the sea, with its flow and its ebb, its ebb and itsflow.

The gospel calls for effort, to fight the good right, to watch and pray and trust so that we may come into the glorious liberty of the children of God. The standard of measure is Christ's own life and conduct and caracter. The message to the church and the nation is to make our lives conform to His life and purpose till we come ultimately to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ.

The Middle Course

"It is impossible to do one's best every day," is perhaps true. But it is not impossible to see that one does not do one's worst. If perfection is unattainable, strike a happy medium.

YALE-HARVARD BOAT RACE WILL BE ROWED UP-STREAM ON FRIDAY, JUNE 25TH

NEW HAVEN, March 18—(AP)—Plans for the Yale-Harvard regatta on the Thames river on June 25 and the Yale-Columbia-Pennsylvania regatta on the Housatonic river at Derby, on May 8, were announced today following a meeting of the Yale and Harvard rowing and athletic officials and representatives of the New Haven and Central Vermont railroads.

The Yale-Harvard varsity race will be rowed up-stream over the historic four-mile course on the Thames, starting at 5.30 o'clock, eastern standard time. The junior varsity and the freshmen races will be rowed down-stream over the middle two mile course, the freshmen getting away at 9.45 o'clock in the morning and the junior varsity as soon after the freshmen race as possible.

Other arrangements for the regatta include the provision for longer observation trains than in other years to enable as many persons as possible to see the race and the announcement that the police will see to it that no airplanes are allowed to fly over the course or the heads of the persons witnessing the races.

Plans for the Yale-Columbia-Pennsylvania races were considered at a conference of Yale and New Haven railroad officials. The races for the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen will be over the two-mile course. The junior varsity race will be held at 4 p. m., eastern standard time, the freshman at 4.30 and the varsity at 5 o'clock. The New Haven railroad has agreed to add two cars to the observation train.

There will be no Yale baseball game in New Haven on May 8 and the usual rush of baseball and boat race followers to see the two events will be eliminated this year.

MRS. WIGHTMAN ENTERS FINALS FOR THE 28TH TIME

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 18—(AP)—Mrs. George W. Witchman of Boston entered the final round of a national tennis championship tournament today, for the 28th time, when she and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., won a semi-finals victory in the women's national indoor doubled tennis championship.

Mrs. Jessup, defending indoor singles champion, won her way in the semi-finals round of the singles tournament Miss Mary K. Browne, of New York likewise qualified for the round before the final. Other semi-finalists in the singles play are Miss Elizabeth Ryan of Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Bartha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J.

Tomorrow these four will be matched to decide who the finalists will be. Mrs. Jessup will meet Miss Browne and Miss Ryan will play Miss Bayard. In the play today Mrs. Jessup easily defeated Miss Katherine Gardner of Cambridge, 6-0, 6-0, and Miss Browne won from Mrs. J. D. Corbiere of Boston, 6-2, 6-0.

In winning their semi-final doubles match today Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Jessup disposed of Miss Bayard and Miss Gardner in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3. In the other semi-final of the doubles a pair of "native daughters" of California won decisively. Miss Ryan and Miss Browne, teamed together, defeated Mrs. William Endicott and Mrs. J. D. Corbiere of Boston, titleholders in 1925, 6-2, 6-2.

In connection with Mrs. Wightman's victory it was recalled that on 21 occasions since the former Hazel Hotchkiss of Berkeley, Cal., won her first national title in 1909, she has placed to her credit victories in final matches in five other finals, she went down to defeat. So in Saturday's title round by which she and Mrs. Jessup, Miss Ryan and Miss Browne, Mrs. Wightman will be striving for her 23rd national championship.

In the national mixed doubles the defending champions, Mrs. Jessup and Karl Pfaffman, former Harvard star, moved safely into the quarter final round by disposing of the Boston combination of Mrs. H. R. Hardwick and John Nicholl, 6-4, 6-2. Play in the mixed doubles moved at a rapid pace and the original entry of 24 teams has shrunk to six tonight.

BERLENBACH TO BOX RISKO AT GARDEN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach, world's light-heavyweight champion, will make a bid for heavyweight honors tomorrow night at the Madison Square Garden with Johnny Risko, rugged Cleveland heavyweight, as his opponent over the ten-round route.

The 176-pound champion, fast outgrowing his own division, was given permission by the state athletic commission to take on heavier opponents upon promising to meet the winner of the Jack Delaney-Mike McTigue bout in which Delaney scored a technical knockout over his Irish opponent.

Risko's first appearance in New York early this year resulted in losing a judges' decision to Delaney. His record includes a knockdown of Gene Tunney and a victory on points over Young Bob Fitzsimmons.

Berlenbach, under the rules of the commission, must fight at 175 pounds or under, which will give the Cleveland an advantage of more than 15 pounds.

Two ten-rounders will precede the feature match. Tony Vaccarelli and Joey Silvers, both of New York, meet in the first one and "Chick" Suzzo of New Bedford, Mass., faces Dominick Petrone, former amateur flyweight champion, in the other.

NEW DEPARTURE TEAM AT PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

The New Departure team of Bristol will be the attraction at the Plainfield Community house tonight. This team formerly the Holyoke Phantoms, is considered one of the best in the state and at the present time is engaged in a series with the champion A. A. U. team of New Haven for the state title. Mgr. Salisbury of Plainfield disputes the claim of the two teams for the right to play this championship series whereby two games were finally arranged one to be played in Plainfield tonight and the second to be played in Bristol Saturday. If Plainfield should win a challenge will be issued to the Atlas team for a championship series.

This Bristol team without a doubt will be one of the classiest aggregations to be seen on the home floor this season. Their team work for which they are noted is almost perfect. The team will be made up of the following: Crowley, Feldman, Domotte, Malcolm and Tracy.

The Plainfield team will be intact again tonight, several of the players last week were just recovering from an attack of the grippe which made it impossible for them to do their best.

In the preliminary game the Buddies will play the Baltic Bantams.

Boston Team Wants Games

The All-Scholastics of Boston composed of players who were picked on All-Scholastic teams by Boston papers and leading critics during the past three years will tour Connecticut this season and would like to book games with the leading semi-pro baseball teams in or around Norwich. Write Neal Linehan, 112 Webster avenue, Cambridge, Mass., for particulars.

VETERANS STRIVING TO MAKE COMEBACK AT CAMP

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Comeback hopes among the veterans as well as the ambitions of rookies are flaring up under southern skies as the major league clubs swing into the home stretch of their training.

Brooklyn has taken a leaf from Washington's successful experiences of the past two years by attempting to accomplish much of the Robin's reconstruction program with seasoned material.

Whitey Witt erstwhile Yankee outfielder is making a strong bid for the centerfield post against Elmer Cox a comparative youngster, while Rabbit Maranville, who has traveled pretty well around the National league circuit, is seeking an infield job. Jess Barnes, former New York and Boston twirler, also is showing signs of a comeback while Douglas McWeeny, of whom much is expected by Brooklyn, pitched his way back to the majors after being shunted to the Pacific Coast league by the White Sox.

Among Washington's veterans, Tobin, released by the Browns, shows signs of regaining old-time form and a regular job. Roger Peckinpaugh was the American league's "most valuable player" last year but his tragic world's series play has put him in the position of making an uphill fight again, with a strong rival for the shortstop job of Buddy Meyer.

Bill Wambsganss, who has seen service with Cleveland and Boston, may land the second base job with the Athletics, while Everett Scott, tagged as "through" by the Yankees and Senators, is giving younger rivals a battle for the shortstop berth with the White Sox.

Manager Tris Speaker of Cleveland has high hopes of a pitching comeback by George Uhle. The veteran right-hander dropped off in 1924 and 1925 after a great season in 1923, when he won 26 games, but has been showing much improved form in the south.

TILDEN S. RICHARDS IN FLORIDA TENNIS FINALS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—William T. Tilden, national champion, and Vincent Richards, America's third ranking player, will meet Saturday afternoon in the finals of the southeastern tennis tournament at the Florida Country club. Both Tilden and Richards met stiff opposition in the semi-finals this afternoon and were forced through to four set matches.

Tilden defeated Howard Voshell, of New York, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, 8-6, and Richards downed the Japanese champion, Takeichi Harada, 6-3, 10-8, 3-6, 6-1.

Harada suffered from a cramp in his playing wrist during the last set, but forced Richards to top speed during the first three.

Doubles play advanced to the semi finals this afternoon.

Richards and Francis T. Hunter, New York won easily from George O'Connell, of Chicago, and C. C. Craffee, Providence, R. I., in their quarter final match, 6-1, 6-1. They meet F. C. Baggs and Jerry Lang, of New York, in the semi-finals tomorrow. Land and Baggs defeated George Yenawine of Jacksonville, and Jack McKay, Indianapolis, 6-4, 6-3, in the quarter finals.

Tilden and Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass., will meet Voshell and Harada in the other semi finals match tomorrow. Voshell and Harada defeated Beals Wright of Boston, and F. C. Owens of Atlanta, former southern champion, 6-4.

MRS. HURD REACHES SEMI FINALS IN AUGUSTA GOLF

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Philadelphia, scored a decisive victory over Mrs. Hugh Halsell, Dallas, Texas, today to reach the semi-finals of the ladies' invitation golf tournament here. Mrs. Hurd won 7-5.

Mrs. Dalton Reymond, Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. Harold A. Richardson and Mrs. Reginald Maxwell, both of Augusta, were the others surviving the second day of the match play.

Mrs. Hurd will meet Mrs. Maxwell tomorrow, while Mrs. Reymond faces Mrs. Richardson.

Mrs. Reymond today defeated Mrs. L. Spaulding, Buffalo, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Maxwell won from Miss Margaret Echwege, New York, one up.

Mrs. Richardson defeated Miss Ethel Ecker, New York, 5 and 4.

HOPPE WILL PLAY SCHAEFER FOR 18.1 TITLE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, world's 18.1 balkline billiard champion, will defend his title against Jake Schaefer early next month, probably in Chicago.

Through his representative, Hoppe announced today his terms, calling for 60 per cent. of the gate and a match of 3,000 points in blocks of 400, have been tentatively accepted by Schaefer. They will meet Saturday to sign contracts.

New York and Boston also are seeking the match but the Chicago offer is the best and it is likely this will be accepted. In a recent 1,500 point exhibition played in Chicago, Schaefer defeated Hoppe, averaging 35 and breaking the world's record run in 18.1 competition with a string of 213. Hoppe averaged 23 and had a high run to 136 for the match.

Edouard Horemans, who challenged Hoppe for this title, will not be considered at this time, Hoppe said, owing to the fact that he believes Schaefer the logical challenger.

NO CHANGE IN LEADERS IN INTERNATIONAL CHESS

SEMMERING, Austria, March 18.—(AP)—The ninth round of the international chess tournament played here today failed to change the line-up of the leaders. Today's results follow:

Reti, Czech master, was defeated by the Hungarian Dr. Vidmar; Dr. Tartakower, Austria, beat Dr. Tarrash of Germany; Spielmann of Austria defeated his countryman Gruenfeld; Michell, England, lost to Nienzwotich, Denmark; Marquis Rosell of Italy was defeated by Yates, England; Dr. Treybal, Czechoslovakia, defeated Davidson of Holland and Kmoch, Austria, drew with Dr. Vadja, Hungary.

Alekhine, France, and Janowski, also representing France, and Gilg, Czechoslovakia and Rubinstein, Poland, adjourned their games.

DOES HARVARD FOOTBALL FACE SOCIAL OSTRACISM?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 18.—(AP)—The possible "social ostracism" of next year's Harvard football team because of the previous connection with professional football of its new head coach, Arnold Horween, is discussed editorially in tomorrow's issue of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin. Commenting on the appointment of Horween, who for several years was with the professional Chicago Cardinals team, the Bulletin says:

"We cannot refrain from an allusion to an amusing sidelight on Horween's appointment. It was not many months ago that the national organization of American football coaches, made up of men themselves professionals, solemnly voted not to admit to membership any coach who had been connected with a professional eleven; and at least one college subsequently declared that it would keep off its coaching staff everybody who has been smirched by professional football.

"Can it be that Horween and the Harvard football team must endure social ostracism next autumn? As for ourselves, we have never been convinced that professional football is in any way less respectable than professional baseball or that the famous 'Red' Grange sinned against the decalogue or the statutes when he decided to play on a paid eleven."

DANIELSON WINS HI-Y BASKETBALL TITLE FOR WINDHAM COUNTY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 18.—The Danielson Hi-Y basketball team won the Windham county Hi-Y basketball championship title here tonight when in a double header the local five defeated both Putnam and Woodstock Hi-Y teams by the respective scores of 18 to 13 and 27 to 19. The scores do not tell the true story of the games for the game with Putnam was nowhere as exciting as the game with the Woodstock team.

With Putnam the local boys had little difficulty although the score was low and the basket-casing very tame. Danielson slipped into the lead early in the game with her first string men and after gaining a comfortable lead the first string men were retired from the game and the substitutes took up the battle holding the Putnam team safely.

Knowing that they had a tough nut to crack in the Woodstock aggregation Danielson conserved her first string strength and when the Woodstock challengers took the floor the local team was as fresh as a daisy. This game was anybody's game up to the final minute and a half of play and in this brief period Danielson showed remarkable and superior basketball. With the score 19 to 18 against them and less than two minutes to play, Capt. Conklin called time and conferred with his team.

Realizing that it was time to open up and take long chances, Capt. Conklin called for long shots and he himself took the ball well past mid-floor and in a few seconds had dropped in two beautiful shots that put his team in the lead. A foul basket added another point to the score and then Danielson suddenly changed their tactics and Gallup stationed himself under the Woodstock basket and on two perfect passes to him counted twice just as the whistle ended the game, giving Danielson the right to play the New London county champions for the eastern Connecticut title. Danielson in the space of 90 seconds had scored nine points and a championship, a feat which reflects no little credit on the Danielson boys who are mostly varsity players on the Killingly high school five.

NO RADICAL CHANGES ARE EXPECTED IN FOOTBALL RULES

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Although no radical changes are forecast, college football rule-makers, representing all sections of the country, will consider at least three important issues in their annual two-day sessions here Friday and Saturday.

The proposals slated for discussion involve the forward pass, the point after touchdown and the addition of another field official to aid in detecting interference with forward pass receivers, but the feeling prevails among officials that none will get beyond the stage of discussion.

Tomorrow night's session will be confined to the annual election of officers, the appointment of committees and the informal discussion of the problems which confront the committee. The actual work of revising the code will occur Saturday.

PLAINFIELD LOSES SERIES TO SO. KINGTON TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

SOUTH KINGSTON, R. I., March 18.—The South Kingston team won the Cashman Cup, emblematical of the basketball title of Southern New England here tonight by beating the Plainfield, Conn., Town team 36 to 21 in one of the fastest games ever seen on the local floor. The game was the fourth in a five-game series for the title.

Plainfield started off strong in the first half and after a few minutes of play was leading 12 to 5. Their advantage was short-lived, however, when Bernot started his sensational scoring from mid-floor. At half time the score stood 17 to 14 in favor of the visitors. In the second half Bernot played brilliant basketball and completely stopped the opposition with his spectacular shooting. Plainfield played brilliant basketball but Bernot was the man thorn in the Plainfield team's side. Bernot leaves tonight for Washington where he will play with the Washington American basketball league team. The summary:

Scott Retains Title

LONDON, March 18—(AP)—Phil Scott retained his title as heavyweight champion of Great Britain by knocking out out Frank Goddard, a former British heavyweight champion, in the third round tonight. The match was at Albert hall.

One of Jack Dunn's worries was knocked out last week when Joe Boley star shortstop, signed his contract. The Baltimore club is supposed to have paid Boley something like $6,000 last season and he was a holdout this spring. Boley has major league aspirations and the White Sox would have taken him this year had not Dunn's terms been regarded as too steep.

WESTERLY

FOUR TONS WERE PINCHED FROM FIRST COAL SHIPMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 18—Shipments of anthracite coal have begun to be received by rail in Westerly now with a degree of regularity and at present the three local dealers have received shipments. The first shipment arrived in the Westerly freight yard the first of last week. It was a 45 ton battleship type of coal car and was unloaded in short time. The car was found to be four tons short, when unloaded. As a provision for such a contingency, the precaution was taken to have the car weighed when it arrived in the Westerly freight yard and the shortage became apparent at that time. It is thought that this shrinkage may have occurred when the car made an early stop as it left the Pennsylvania coal fields from which the shipments have been made and parties suffering from deficient calories "swarmed on". Up to Thursday noon all told six cars of the battleship type having been sent by way of Hell Gate bridge have arrived in Westerly and were run along the new cement drive near the freight house that unloading might be expedited. If a coal car is detained three days an inquiry is made as to the reason for delay, that the cars may be on their return to the coal fields. An armyone else left the house the man sprang of inspectors and checkers is kept busy up and jumping the wall disappeared. on coal cars alone to see that their The next morning an examination was movement is rapid. It was thought that coal had been appropriated from some of the cars at the Westerly freight yard and a watch was set to discover anyone who might have been disposed to take any black diamonds, but the watch proved unfruitful.

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF COLONEL JOHN C. COOLIDGE

When Calvin Coolidge succeeded to the presidency upon the death of President Harding in August, 1923, his father, John C. Coolidge, suddenly sprang from the obscurity of a quiet, little Vermont town to national prominence. Up to that time the father of the new president, although he had been actively interested in public affairs for many years, scarcely was known or heard of outside his native state.

Not many of the 29 men who were fathers of presidents lived to see their sons inducted into the highest public office, and among those who did Colonel Coolidge had the distinction of being the only one to administer the oath of the presidential office to his son. It was this more than the mere fact he had become father of the president that caused the attention of the nation to be directed to him.

It was only a few weeks before that the son, then vice president, with his family had returned to the paternal homestead for a vacation. In the midst of this family reunion and holiday came the death of President Harding. It was near midnight when the news reached the Coolidge home in the little mountain village of Plymouth remote from the railroad and immediately plans were made for swearing in the new president.

The ceremony was delayed only long enough to receive from Washington the official form of the president oath and when it arrived in the early morning hours the stage was all set for one of the most solemn and dramatic inductions of a president in the history of the country.

Colonel Coolidge was thrust into the picture much in the manner of an understudy suddenly called upon to play the leading role in a drama. he vice president had decied that his father, by virtue of his office of notary public of Plymouth, was qualified to administer the oath, which was done in the living room of the Coolidge home by the light of a small kerosene lamp of the type commonly used in farmhouse kitchens.

The ceremony, thus performed amid surroundings that were more like the early years of the country rather than of the twentieth century, was in conformity to the simple traditions that have marked the lives of the Coolidges of Vermont for many years.

Colonel Coolidge — he obtained his rank from service on the staff of Governor Stickney of Vermont—always lived in Plymouth, where he was born March 31, 1846. The fact that his son became president did not change his mode of living with the exception that he was obliged to spend considerable time greeting tourists who paused to get a glimpse of the place where Calvin Coolidge was born and spent his boyhood. These tourists came by thousands during the months when snow did not hinder motor traffic to the village. The colonel took a great pride in showing them the table where the president signed the oath of office, the pen, the kitchen lamp and the Bible used in the administration of the oath. He also prized highly his visitors' register, a series of notebooks containing the signatures of thousands of persons from all parts of the country.

After his son became the occupant of the white house Colonel Coolidge made occasional trips to Washington, but always appeared glad to get back to his farm and the life which he had long been accustomed.

Although naturally proud of the success of his son's career, the father never was heard to take any credit for it. "When Cal was in school," he once remarked, "I thought he would make a good doctor, but his mam thought as a youth was to get a good education, and I did all in my power to help him. As a boy he always went with me to the town meeting, school caucus and such things and always when we had a public examination fro school teachers. He was always interested in such things. The point of it is, whatever he had to do he attended to it and did it the best he knew how, whether he liked it or not, and I think that's what he has always done."

Colonel Coolidge, although primarily a merchant during most of the years of his active life, was a man of many interests. After his schooling at Black River Academy at Ludlow, which his son later attended, he worked for the village wheelwright cutting timber until he was 22 years of age. Then he rented the general store at Plymouth and conducted it until 1915 when he sold the business to devote his time to insurance interests and his duties as an officer of the Ludlow Savings Bank and Trust Company. He was one of the organizers of the latter and a charter member of the board of directors

At the age of 27 Colonel Coolidge was elected to the Vermont legislature and was the youngest representative in the session. He served six years as representative and one as state senator. In his home town he was tax collector for 38 years, a deputy sheriff for more than 40 years and school director for a long period. He also served as moderator for the town meeting and was assistant postmaster for 49 years. In the last named position it was said in the village that he was the only person there who was sufficiently familiar with the forms of the post office department to make out correctly the detailed reports required. His services also were in demand in the settlement of estates.

A visitor to Plymouth once remarked that the colonel appeared "to have been everything in this town except the undertaker." To this he replied that as a youth working in the wheelwright's shop he assisted in making coffins. "And we thought," he added, "that it was a cheat to use anything but hardwood for coffins in those days."

Colonel Coolidge in 1868 married Victoria Josephine Moor. They lived in a tenement in the rear of the store, where President Coolidge was born, until 1878, when upon the death of his father the colonel moved into the latter's home, the present Coolidge homestead. Mrs. Coolidge died when Calvin was 12 years old. The colonel's second wife was Carrie A. Brown, who died in 1920.

Speaking of the affection between his second wife and his son, Colonel Coolidge once said:

"Calvin was never so busy but that he wrote to his stepmother every week and sometimes oftener. And she could see more in him than I could. She took more stock in his some day becoming president than I did."

Although thousands of automobiles visited his home after his son became president, Colonel Coolidge never had a desire for this modern means of conveyance. Making the trips which his varied business interests demanded he stuck to his buggy and old horse which he remarked in 1924 was "about played out." He took kindly, however to the radio and in his later years abandoned his lifetime practice of retiring early in order to listen in, especially when an address by his son was being broadcast. He was greatly touched when President Coolidge at the close of an address near the end of the 1924 campaign said a public good night to his father.

The death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the president greatly affected the colonel and his friends said that he never fully recovered from the shock.

A scientist says that greenbacks breed disease. There is no question that the fever for them is contagious

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY LEAVES ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Just before leaving the executive mansion, he talked by telephone to the nurse on duty at the home of Colonel John C. Coolidge, and was advised there had been little change during the day in his father's condition. Arrangements were made to keep the president informed at way stops as to developments.

President and Mrs. Coolidge left the white house late in the afternoon as thousands of government employes were on their way home from work. Hundreds silently watched them enter their automobile, which had difficulty worming its way through congested traffic to Union station.

Considerable baggage was taken aboard the train in anticipation of near zero weather in Vermont.

The president's train is due at Woodstock, Vt., sixteen miles from Plymouth, at dawn. Automobiles will be in readiness to take the party on at least the first stage of ride over snow plied roads to the cross roads hamlet.

Late information was that the road between Woodstock and Plymouth had been cleared for automobile travel, although the last mile or two might have to be traveled in horse drawn sleds.

The journey the president started today is his second to his father's bedside. Last summer, just after he had arrived at Swampscott, he made a hurried trip to Plymouth to be with the aged man who had undergone a serious operation

In addition to the usual bodyguard of secret service men, fifteen newspapermen and several photographers are travelling with the president.

On his arrival here the president was handed the latest Associated Press dispatches from Plymouth.

ROOMS IN WOODSTOCK FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY

PLYMOUTH Vt., March 18—(AP)—At 5 40 o'clock Col. John C Coolidge father of the president, was weakening. He had failed perceptibly in the preceding two hours.

The physician said the report would be forwarded from Washington to the presidential train on its journey northward bearing the president and Mrs Coolidge to Plymouth.

Colonel Coolidge learned late today that the president was on the way to visit him

After a telephone conversation with the white house Dr. Albert M Cram of Bridgewater, the colonel's physician, told the patient of his son's coming.

"I think the colonel understood," the doctor said, "I was not sure, for he is very weak"

The presidential party has reserved rooms at the Woodstock Inn in Woodstock, where the train is expected to arrive about 6 o'clock in the morning At 6 30 the party will leave by automobile for Plymouth They will change at Bridgewater Corners to sleighs or snowmobiles if necessary, but state highway department officials tonight promised good automobile footing all the way.

A unit of 25 national guardsmen reported here tonight from Ludlow and Windsor They will be used to control traffic and act as guards during the visit of the president.

PRESIDENT RECEIVED DISCOURAGING BULLETINS

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—As his special train sped tonight toward Vermont, President Coolidge received discouraging bulletins regarding his father's condition.

At each stop the latest Associated Press dispatches from Plymouth were given to him, relaying reports from the patient's bedside.

While they indicated that his father, near death, was losing ground one might not like through the night, the president due in Plymouth early tomorrow, was hopeful of a favorable turn.

The most discouraging news reached the president at West Philadelphia. It came from Secretary Sanders who said a telephone message had been received at the white house from Plymouth that Col John C Coolidge was failing rapidly and that his pulse at the wrist was scarcely perceptible.

The president's train, running 15 minutes ahead of schedule, arrived at the Pennsylvania station here at 9 15 a. m., after a brief stop continued north.

JOHN COOLIDGE WILL JOIN PARENTS AT NORTHAMPTON

AMHERST Mass. March 18.—(AP)—John Coolidge, son of the president will join his father and mother aboard their special train as it passes through Northampton on the way to Woodstock, Vt the president's son planned to leave here about 1 o'clock tomorrow morning and will travel the eight mile stretch to Northampton by motor.

Hair Dry, Brittle from Constant Waving, Curling

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try Danderine to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

A detachment of national guardsmen will meet the presidential special and six automobiles have been chartered to carry the party to Plymouth.

UNCLE SAM'S POSSESSIONS SEEKING POLITICAL GRANTS

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Nearly all of Uncle Sam's territories and dependencies are knocking at the doors of congress demanding one form of political concession or another

From the Philippines, Porto Rico Hawaii, Alaska, and the Virgin Islands have come communications ranging from the petitions for a simple change in the present form of civil government to requests for absolute independence.

For the first time citizens of the Virgin islands came this year before a committee of congress to picture restlessness in the islands and ask for a reorganization of the island government.

The delegates to congress from Hawaii and Alaska have introduced bills to give their respective electorates the power to choose their own governor generals In addition Hawaii wants a readjustment of the immigration laws as applied to Hawaiians or oriental atraction.

The demands of the Philippines and Porto Rico have been the most insistent of all The Porto Ricas now seem to have put aside the idea of independence, so intense two years ago and are asking for the privilege of electing their own governor from 1932 on, with statehood as their goal. Many influential groups in the Philippines, on the other hand, are as ardent as ever for independence.

It is certain that very few of these petitions will be granted, at least at the present session of congress.

CHINESE PRISONERS NOW TO GET BATHS REGULARLY

PEKING, March 18 (AP)—One of the immediate results of the presence in Peking of the international commission charged with inquiry into China's preparedness for abolition of extra-territoriality, was a new instruction by the minister of justice that prisoners in Chinese jails be afforded regular baths. They also must have their hair trimmed and keep their clothing clean. This order followed one that the jails must be renovated

Under the new regulations the old system of putting heavy chains on the more desperate criminal was altered so that a single shackle was employed. Prisoners are given two meals a day.

CAMERAMAN HAS BECOME HIGH OFFICE IN PICTURE INDUSTRY

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 18 (AP)—From obscurity to places of prominence in the movie industry have come the men who grind away on cameras.

There was a time when George Schneiderman of Fox Films "shot" furniture painted on walls and participated in the pictures he was photographing In those days, there were no Klieg lights and open sets, dependent on weather conditions, were used Ingenuity consisted of making scratches on a length to film to depict rain

Down through the years, however the men behind the lenses have been pursuing a rigid technical education until today motion picture photography is considered a fine art by those of the industry

To the realm of the movies, fantasy and many other phases requiring "trick" and artistic photographing have been admitted. Now lighting effects, new inventions and new chemical developments also have been added to the camera man's dignity.

When Schneiderman starts on a production now he puts as much study and preparation on it as any other operating person. When the "shooting" begins he works ten and 12 hours a day. Completion of the photographing does not end his labor because his services are need until the film has been cut, assembled and ready for distribution.

Today the camera man sees his name in good display in introductory titles, receives an excellent salary and has the satisfaction of knowing that an expert in his profession always is in demand.

AVERAGE MEAT CONSUMPTION IN 1925 WAS 154.3 POUNDS

CHICAGO March 18 (AP)—The average consumption of meat in the United States was greater in 1925 than in any year since federal meat inspection was instituted in 1907, says the report of the National Livestock and Meat board.

The use of pork declined from past years, probably due to higher prices incident to the 20 per cent decrease in hog receipts at central markets, but veal, beef and mutton all increased.

The average person in the United States last year consumed 154 3 pounds greater than the average consumption for the last 18 years.

Occasionally we meet a man who asks for only half a chance, but the majority prefer their chances whole.

Peter Can Stand It No Longer

Where curiosity steps in,
You'll find that trouble will begin.
—Tommy Tit the Chickadee.

Tommy Tit the Chickadee answered the questions of Peter Rabbit until he grew tired of it; then he flew over to the Old Orchard. "My goodness!" exclaimed Tommy. "Was there ever any one else so full of curiosity as Peter Rabbit? Such questions as he can ask. I told him that I didn't know anything about that stranger in the Green Forest, yet he persisted in asking questions. I saw Reddy Fox heading that way just as I was leaving. I guess Peter won't bother Reddy much with questions."

But in this Tommy Tit was mistaken. You see, Peter felt quite safe where he was sitting in the dear Old briar-patch. It didn't bother him at all to have Reddy Fox outside, for he knew that Reddy couldn't get to him. Reddy stopped to peer between the branches. "You're looking fine, Peter," said Reddy. "I hope you feel as fine as you look."

"I'm feeling quite nicely," replied Peter. "Won't you come in and make me a visit." Peter grinned as he said this, for of course he knew that nothing would induce Reddy to try to get through those brambles. Of course, it was very saucy of Peter. But Reddy didn't seem to mind in the least. "No, thank you, Peter," said he; "I am on my way to the Green Forest."

"You're looking fine, Peter," said Reddy

Peter pricked up his ears at once. "By the way," said he, "who is that relative of yours I hear has come to the Green Forest?"

Reddy pretended to know nothing about it. "Relative?" said he. "Relative? What relative is that?"

"Well, if you don't know of course I can't tell you," replied Peter. "Sammy Jay and Tommy Tit both have told me that there is a new stranger in the Green Forest and that he looks as if he is a member of the Fox family a cousin of yours perhaps. Have you any cousins in this part of the country, Reddy Fox?"

"If I had I would chase them out," replied Reddy, which, of course, wasn't a nice thing to say.

"Well, it is time you got busy and do some chasing right away," declared a sharp voice. "Tut-tut-tut-tut, for shame on you, Reddy Fox, to talk so!" It was Jenny Wren. "Of course you have a member of your family in this part of the country, and you know it."

Instantly Peter was ready with a question. "Who is it, Jenny Wren?"

"Tut-tut-tut-tut, old Mr. Curiosity!" exclaimed Jenny, jerking her tail in that sassy way of hers. "If you want to know go over to the Green Forest. If you're smart enough you'll find him there."

"That is where I am bound for," said Reddy Fox. "Come with me, Peter, and we'll pay this fellow a call and see who he is."

"No, thank you," replied Peter. "I don't care for your company. I am afraid that before we got there you would forget where we were going and why."

Reddy grinned and trotted off across the Green Meadows toward the Green Forest. Peter watched him out of sight. "I'm going, too," he declared. "I just can't stand it any longer. I've got to find out who this stranger is. I'll go by way of the Old Orchard just as soon as the Black Shadows come creeping out from the Purple Hills. And that is just what Peter did.

HEALTH DEPT. STRESSES ERECT POSTURE VALUE

"Charles, your head will get there before your body does." Thus was the boy warned to stand up straight, and taking advantage of the suggestion, he became the tallest, straightest man in town. Men in charge of employment bureaus have stated that their first impression of a prospective employe is gained from the man's physique—does he stand well, does he walk forward with confidence. If he slouches in his standing or sitting position he is not a good prospect and the chances are that he is not physically fit, says the weekly bulletin of the state department of health.

So "stand tall" is the watchword for young and old—not only for those who wish to make the most of their five foot height, but for those as well who have advanced above the six foot mark. Making the most of one's height brings the head up, the chin in, squares the shoulders, and the body assumes a natural easy poise which suggests a springing motion in walking. In assuming the erect position man has lost the impetus which the hind legs of the four-footed animals give in walking, and the broad balance in standing. So it is with a conscious effort that good posture, standing, walking or sitting is maintained.

Posture as a factor in health is claiming an increasing amount of attention. Mothers and health workers now include this as part of their health training for the pre-school group and school authorities recognize the need for emphasizing posture in the health programme. In fact it is often in the school where postural defects develop. Sitting at the desk long hours is conducive to rounded backs and distorted figures unless straight back chairs are supplied, and children are taught to sit up straight at all times. Posture exercises even if given daily, are of small benefit unless they result in an "habitual" good posture during all the waking hours. The carrying of heavy books by school children should be discouraged as these often throw hips and shoulders out of alignment leading to spinal curvature which may take years to readjust.

Acquiring good posture during the "plastic age" is important since it is likely to become habitual in adult life. There are many, however, who have grown up without this training, and in mid-adult life they begin to feel the effects of years of poor posture. It has been stated by Goldthwaite that 80 per cent. of the freshmen in a leading university were far short of normal posture. One-half of these men would not be fit subjects for the football team, and more than half would be undesirable candidates for the crew. Groups taken at random from professional, industrial or private life would doubtless have an equally poor showing.

In good posture the chest is expanded, the diaphragm is raised to provide room for breathing and easy heart action, and the abdominal wall is firm and flat.

In contrast to this note the poor posture in which the body droops instead of being alert the shoulders drag forward forming a narrow chest in which the heart and lungs are crowded, the abdominal wall is relaxed giving no support to the abdominal organs which soon drop out of place and fail to function normally in such a congested space. This has been demonstrated many times by X-ray pictures. With such a drooping, relaxed figure the whole body is thrown out of alignment. The weight is improperly balanced, and the feet suffer accordingly. Every part of the body feels the strain, digestion is interfered with, there is lack of co-ordination among the important organs with resulting fatigue and mental depression.

It is plainly evident that many of the ills of adult life can be avoided if due consideration is given to posture. Especially is this true of sedentary workers who fall so easily into poor sitting positions, and give themselves so little opportunity for exercise.

DANIEL BOONE'S VISION FULFILLED IN DIX DAM

LOUISVILLE, March 18 (AP)—On a site selected nearly 150 years ago by Daniel Boone as among "many excellent mill sites" along Dix river, today stands the Dix river dam, the largest rock-filled dam in the world and the highest of any kind east of the Rocky mountains.

The hydro-electric plant at the dam is the latest unit in a nation-wide super-power transmission system.

Situated near the confluence of the Kentucky and Dix rivers, in the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, Dix river dam has just been completed after years of planning and 18 months of intensive construction. It impounds a lake 31 miles long, covering 3,000 acres and with an estimated capacity of 100 billion gallons of water.

The generators of the plant, three in number, utilizing 540,000 gallons of water a minute when running at capacity, develop 30,000 horsepower of electricity at 13,200 volts. At a transformer substation nearby the current is raised to 66,000 volts and transmitted to distributing stations in Kentucky, Indiana and Virginia.

Built at a cost exceeding $7,000,000, including accessory construction, Dix dam is 1,030 feet long, 750 feet thick at the base, 275 feet high from stream bed, and is capped with a paved roadway 24 feet wide. Constructed in a narrow gorge between two high cliffs, it is composed of 1,800,000 cubic yards of rock. Two great blasts, one of 84,000 pounds, blew thousands of tons of material off the cliff tops into the river bed. More stone was piled on the heap until the gorge was filled to the required height. On top of this was poured a "blanket" of concrete averaging two feet in thickness.

Construction on the dam and plant began in the fall of 1923 when a tunnel, 915 feet long and 24 feet in diameter, was bored through the east cliff to divert the river flow during construction. On March 17 1925, the engineers closed the tunnel and Harrison lake began to form. Seven and one-half months later the first current for commercial use was developed and put into the transmission lines.

Today the water in the lake is approaching the overflow channel and the plant is ready to be operated at capacity.

NO PARADE FOR KIDDIES IS CIRCUS SEASON NOTE

PERU, Ind., March 18 (AP)—The annual circus season this year will lack one of its greatest thrills for the children.

The circus parade, it has been decided by showmen here, is to be abandoned. The high priced performers especially the Europeans will not parade. The big circuses now visit only the large cities. It is explained and noon-day traffic problems and the growing distance of the circus lot from the railroad make the parade physically impossible.

Ten years ago, there were 20 circuses with a train of ten or more railroad cars. Now there are only a dozen, but these have expanded until the largest circus in the country travels with 1,500 persons, and the smaller ones carry about 600.

The three circuses which spend the winter here have finished their winter overhauling, which includes inspection, repair and a fresh coat of paint.

There are about 250 on the permanent staff of these three, and these, mostly the "canvasmen" of the traveling days are the nucleus around which is forming the bandmen, acrobatic teams and other specialities. The animal trainers, however, have been here all winter as usual, as the animals must be put through their stunts every day, else they quickly forget.

Virtually all of the circus people come from small cities, probably because in the early days of the circus the performances were given mostly in smaller communities and the small boy of those places caught the circus fever. Then, too, the small town had a barn in which he could practice on the trapeze. In the contract of the elite boy's father, there is no harrow to flop in.

Bloomington, Illinois is the home of most of the "flying nets" as showmen call the trapeze artists. Tonawanda, N. Y., can always be relied on for a trained seal act. Many of the acrobats come from Reading Pa. The showmen go to Bloomington, Indiana, for dog and pony acts. One of the best elephant men with one of the biggest circuses is from Pana, Illinois, and so on.

Early April is the opening time for most of the circuses, except those which open in metropolitan centers in permanent buildings.

The Ringling-Barnum and Bailey circus, wintered at Bridgeport, Conn., Sells-Floto at Peru; Al Ranch at Ponca City, Okla.; Hagenbeck-Wallace at Peru; John Robinson at Beaumont; Sparks Circus at Macon, Ga., and Al G. Barnes at Los Angeles.

Floyd Boardman, sentenced to one year in jail last September for the embezzlement of $31,000 from the Meriden National bank, where he was employed as note teller, has been given his freedom, is married and is now back at the jail as a regular employe.

From the bachelor's viewpoint marriage is a failure because he fails to marry.

THE SOFT SNAP EPIDEMIC.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

As I look back over 70 years and compare the world as it is, now, with the world which I was first pitch-forked into, the difference which impresses me most forcibly and most lastingly is that of its softness.—not to say squashiness.

Of course, it's the world of men and women I am talking about. I don't know that cobble-stones mash any easier than they ever did, or that knotty rock-apple firewood splits any more freely. But men are growing soft. Soft-hearted, which isn't all to the bad. And soft-headed, which isn't all to the good. And soft-handed, which doesn't augur well for the future accomplishment.

We have most of us discarded as old-fashioned and outworn all the other gospels to take as our guide the Book of the Easy Snap.

"I will take it easy;
Thou wilt take is easy;
He will take it easy;

We will take it easy;
You (or ye) will take it easy;
They will take it easy;

—Or at least as easy as they can."

That's the sort of grammar the world is studying and following. It's a flabby sort of teaching and it tends to turn out flabby graduates. But it seems to hit the popular taste and desire right in the bulls-eye.

Take soft-heartedness for instance. Considered in the abstract and theoretically, it seems an admirable trait. It is a distinct improvement when a modern court-martial orders a spy shot instead of impaled or flayed alive, as was Sennacherib's custom, 2,000 years ago. It's manifestly better to kill a convicted criminal swiftly by electrocution than to cudgel him as was the Roman habit 2,000 years ago. It is likewise more civilized to lead a heretic out of the temple by the ear and gently kick him off the front steps than to burn him with a slow fire at the stake. As was the manner of certain overzealous reformists, only three or four hundred years ago. In these and some other directions the soft-heartedness of the age is commendable.

But human nature was born to sin once. It can't carry a ball even on good water to the kitchen without messing up the pickup. Start it on a good road and it is just as certain to quit the road's fundamental one, plunging full-speed into the mud-hole where the improved pavement ends. It rides a free horse to death. It carries even its virtues to excess where they become as bad and as dangerous as vices.

The present [illegible] wave affords a good illustration. Nobody started out what seems to be [illegible] subjects which are evidently open to discussion. But there is no doubt that it is encouraged, soothed and sustained by the flabby and ultra-sentimental softheadedness of the country and of the society whose servants the courts are. The moment a criminal is arrested, the courts surround him with all imaginable devices for the protection of his rights, even to the last and most technical hair-splitting. There is about 10 times as much attention paid to the protection of his actual and possible rights as to the protection of the innocent public. Even when he is convicted as being guilty beyond all reasonable doubt and the legal punishment assessed against him public soft-heartedness again steps in with its parole boards and its pardons boards and its deductions for good behavior, etc. As things are, when a criminal is caught the chances are that he will be able to stave off final conviction by appeals and bailings till most of the witnesses against him have died of old age. Even if finally convicted and the conviction affirmed by a whole row of appellate courts acting in leisurely order, the soft-hearted public,—especially if it is a capital case, — keeps his cell banked with flowers and signs petitions for a commutation of his sentence.

It is good to show pity for the unfortunate. It is beneficent to forego rancor against the erring. It is humane not to take vengeance. But the man who was murdered deserves more pity than the one who murdered him, and the law-abiding majority deserve more protection than the crime-committing minority. Our legal and sentimental soft-heartedness towards criminals is actually cruelty toward their actual or possible victims. Admitting that it is grand to temper justice with mercy, we ought not to let our compassion lead us to a cap-headed mollycoddling of wild beasts.

The age is not only becoming soft-hearted but soft-handed. Manicured finger-nails are held in higher honor than calloused palms. The man who does things is less apt to be itemized as a "pillar of society" than the man who shirks his share of the work and buys or bamboozles others to do it for him. As a race we care much less to develop in ourselves "the wrestling thews that throw the world" than to keep our boots shiny, our trousers creased and our chins cleanshaven.

Farmers, too?

Yes, farmers too. Not so much the old scraggly and usually disillusioned veterans who still use a hoe to clean their boots and a broom to brush their hair, but more especially the younger brood.

We walk all around Robin Hood's barn wringing our hands and complaining because the boys and girls won't stay on the farms but flock to the city, though we all of us know deep in the bottoms of our hearts what the trouble is. They go to the city to keep their hands soft. They think they can get more money there for less work—get more time to play golf, have more shekels to buy playthings with. Whether they eventually find it so or not is not the question. They think so now and therein lies their motive for the hegira.

How much of their attitude is due to the "soft-snap" epidemic which has infected us all, and how much to our own misguided tenderness, can't be estimated in general terms. It depends on individual circumstances in particular cases. But there's vastly too much of sentimentality and too little sense shown in the bringing up of youth. One can't help but feel accordain sympathy with the parents who determine that their children shall not have to suffer the deprivations and hardships which marked their own youth. "They shan't have to go through what I did," is the current phrase.

It shows kindly feeling and good intention, we all must admit. But then, as Dr. Johnson sagely said, "Hell is paved with good intentions." Good intentions, without good sense behind them, are things to be regarded with some suspicion and a good deal of contempt. Very few of us would trust even the care of our hens to "the village idiot," of whom we are constantly saying, "Oh, he means well but he doesn't know." Yet we kick our common sense, — what we have of it,—out of the back door when it comes to our children, and put a set of namby-pamby sentimentalities in charge. We rap them up in the cotton-wool of our good intentions, molly-coddle them, give them what they should early be taught to earn, shield them from the bruises they must first feel before they ever will learn to protect themselves, and then, when they at last have to meet th world, face to face, wonder why their flabby muscles fail, and their untrained courage deserts them, and they slump into helplessness at the first tap on the nose.

"It is a doubtful kindness we do our young people when we soften their beds for them, relieve them of hardship, make them unfit to face the storms of life." So remarks Grove Patterson, and he is teetotally right. Yet that very sin against the children whom they really love is being committed every day in three out of four homes.

Even our education of them is being conducted on radically wrong lines. It consists rather in imparting more or less useful information than in reducing and training their native powers. It is a fattening, not a muscle-building diet. Those same youngsters, when they want to make good for a place on the class nine or the college crew or the varsity eleven, enthusiastically submit themselves to a rigor of training and a Spartan deprivation of luxuries, even of common comforts, such as they were never asked to endure at home, and such as dad and mother, if it had been suggested, would have protested with scorn and unconcealed abhorrence.

Now, the struggle of life is a much bitterer and more pitiless one than any of the ball fields. Only those can make the bases or reach the goals who have hardened muscles and tensed sinews and bellows-like lungs and sturdy hearts. It would really seem as if just a moderate use of common-sense would suggest to parents and all others concerned in building the characters of the oncoming generation at least as judicious a training for life's battles as for baseball or a boatrace.

—But what's the use of talking or preaching? The age is marching under the banners of softness and under the guidance of "softies" to whatever end it may find, later, to slump into. As well try to dam the Thames river by dropping a handful of gravel into the channel at Montville.

Nevertheless, the sentinel who happens to find himself posted on the watch-tower would be derelict in his duty if he didn't fire off his blunderbuss and raise the alarm when he sees the enemy.

It is hardly his fault if the fat burghers snoozing in self-conceited security in their featherbeds refuse to turn out at his warning.

VENTURE IN ELK FARM MAKES THREE HOUSEWIVES "RANGERS"

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., March 17 (AP)—Establishment of a far west elk range in mid New England, made a reality here by the importation of 400 elk from Moose, Montana, caused three Massachusetts housewives to become ladies of the range.

Mrs. E. B. Jones, wife of the contractor, who with his two sons has undertaken the unique project known as the "Elk Grazing and Breeding Association," expresses a quiet interest in the herd that has come across the continent to be fattened and killed for the eastern markets.

"They are wonderfully friendly little animals," she says. "I have fed them from my hand. You become fond of them, and then you can't help but feel badly to think of their being killed. They have become well acclimated to this country—the state and the my husband and sons have had here for a year already—and I suppose the new arrivals will be just as happy.

Mrs. Maurice Jones, whose husband was a cranberry grower until the western craze got him, and turned him into a "chaps" wearing cowboy, has decorated her New England living room with the product of the antlers. "I've been glad to have Maurice go into it because I thought he had a good think in marketing the horns and hides and meat of the elk. I think it ought to be a good new industry for Massachusetts."

Mrs. Percy Jones, whose husband changed from motor mechanic to elk enthusiast, with a full natural history library on the subject, is just a gay, a very youthful and energetic "lady of the range." She is accustomed to striding through the great open spaces of the thousand acre tract; to helping her tenderfoot-cowboy husband round up the new members of the herd, who must be fed until they learn to eat the scrubby oak "browse," with the same gusto as the Montana birch. She has helped him to nurture little sickly calves in a pen near her own kitchen, where they are "invalided" back to health.

THOUSAND ROLLS HOURLY IS RECORD OF LIGHTSHIP

SEATTLE, March 18 (AP)—Life on Umatilla lightship stationed in the Pacific 125 miles off the Washington coast, is a rolling one, Captain E. H. Lindman, master of the vessel, calculates the ship averages 20,000 rolls of ten to 45 degrees every 24 hours, or nearly 1,000 an hour.

The ship is similar to lighthouses but is even more isolated. It warns ships off one of several dangerous reefs near the Strait of Juan de Fuca the entrance to Puget sound.

About a score of seagulls make themselves on the lightship and have been given names by the crew. Sea superstition is that these birds when they die become sea maidens.

The Umatilla is 27 years old and for the last 18 years in government service, has guarded the reef so well there have been no wrecks.

The poor have their trials—but no a poor lawyer.

LABOR ADJUSTERS FIGURE IN ARSON CASE

BRIDGEPORT, March 19—(AP)—Four hours today, Abraham "Whitey" Friedman was on the witness stand before Judge John W. Banks in criminal superior court undergoing a thorough cross examination by Attorney Homer S. Cummings. Friedman is chief accuser of Charles Frost, who is on trial for the second time on a charge of arson in connection with the fire that wrecked his Bethel plant on April 2 last. No important discrepancies occurred in Friedman's story during the long examination.

Two witnesses who were not heard at the last trial appeared today. They were Abraham Goodman, 291 West 35th street, New York and Herbert Kiel, a New York taxicab driver.

Goodman admitted rendering helpful assistance to State Policeman Leo Carroll in obtaining affidavits for the state from several persons. He, like Friedman, is a labor adjuster, and he testified he came into the case after Mrs. Friedman introduced him to Policeman Carroll.

Kiel declared he was shipping clerk in Frost's New York factory in 1925, when there were labor difficulties there. He declared he saw Friedman about the premises at that time. Frost has said he never knew Friedman, nor had any dealings with him.

Daniel Melrose, a professional guard at strikes and a private detective, added to the testimony he gave at the last trial by asserting today that Frost met him six months after the Bethel fire and after he had given State Policeman Carroll a sworn statement concerning what he alleges were the relations he observed between Friedman and Frost.

Melrose testified that Frost said to him: "Why did you make any such affidavit? After this is all over we will be eating pie and cake while Friedman is rotting in jail."

Friedman admitted today that, when he was extradited to Connecticut on the Frost arson case, proceedings for burglary were pending against him in New York state. He denied that he considered it would be to his advantage to come to Connecticut rather than stay in New York and stand trial for a crime punishable by ten years in state prison.

He turned squealer, he said, because Frost "is a dirty rat" and by informing the police got him into difficulties. He was unable to state definitely why he should have likewise squealed on Eddie Baker and Sam Cohen, two pals and accomplices in the arson plot, who had done nothing detrimental to him.

It developed today through admissions made by Friedman that one Jack Noyer paid his wife, after the fire in Bethel, the sum of $1,600. He said Noyer was in the "clothing business," but did not know if he were also another "labor adjuster."

— ACTION!

It isn't the thing that you've thought of
That is sure to bring money and fame;
It isn't the thing that you dream of
That is certain to make you a name.
The world doesn't care much for dreamers
Or value a thing not begun;
If there's anything it will remember,
It may be some thing that you've done.

A dream may be very stupendous,
But the thing that counts most is an act.
The world isn't stirerd much by fancies,
But it may be impressed by a fact.
So turn your fond dreams into action,
And something may bring fame to you,
But remember, it won't be your visions,
It will be just some thing that you do!

Bert M. Haney, of the U. S. Shipping Board, sent his resignation to President Coolidge. Mr. Haney, a Democrat, will be a candidate for United States Senator in Oregon. His resignation climaxed a long and bitter fight over his refusal to yield to President Coolidge's desire to transfer operation of the Government merchant Marine from the board to the Emergency Fleet Corporation. It will be remembered President Coolidge last summer sent a telegram demanding his retirement. Haney declaring to quit, declared he had never entered into a secret understanding with the President to transfer ship operation.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

TIME FOR THE PRUNING OF TREES

This is the season when most fruit growers are pruning.

It is now known that tree growth and fruit yields are closely related. Trees can make too little or too much growth for best fruit production. Those trees which are making a medium, stocky growth are usually the most fruitful.

Annual production can be secured with most varieties if the right kind of growth is secured. The right kind of growth can be secured through a combination of the right kind of pruning and the right kind of fertilization. This usually means that weak growing trees should be pruned and fertilized more heavily than vigorous growing trees. If a tree is growing too vigorously, fertilize it less and prune it less and thus reduce the growth to a point where fruitfulness will result. On the other hand, if a tree is not making enough growth, fertilize or cultivate it more and prune it more until the right type of growth is secured.

Now the question arises—What is the best growth to give maximum yields and good color? Perhaps it can be truthfully said that a stocky growth of from four to 15 inches in length will give best yields under most conditions. Select those trees which are producing regular crops of large, well-colored fruit and then strive to get all the other trees of the same variety to make the same type of growth. Prune and fertilize, little or much, as may be needed until you secure the most fruitful type of growth and tree.

Pruning Varies with Variety

It is generally accepted by our best fruit growers that pruning should vary considerably with the variety.

Those varieties which naturally have spurs of quite uniform lengths (such as Wealthy, Baldwin, Dutchess of Oldenburg, Wagener, Yellow Transparent, etc.) require much local or detail pruning. The older, less vegetative wood of such varieties should be removed by pruning and the younger more vegetative wood allowed to remain. This will frequently mean heading back the weaker branches to relatively large lateral branches.

Do not head back by "tipping" the new growth at the end of the terminal branches, but rather use heading back to remove weak wood and to rejuvenate the balance of any branches which are becoming weak.

Those varieties which naturally have spurs of variable lengths (such as McIntosh, Delicious, Fameuse, Stayman, Jonathan, Wolf River, etc.) are naturally annual bearers or are readily easy to make annual bearers. The pruning of such varieties is largely a matter of thinning out the top so the removal of small branches so as to give the remaining branches good light and growth conditions. With this group of varieties little pruning is needed in their early crop years. More thinning, by the removal of numerous small crossing branches, is needed as the trees grow older.

Thus, we find that the pruning should vary considerably with the variety. As a general rule we say—prune and fertilize those varieties with variable length spurs (and consequent moderate blossoming) so as to keep them in that condition and prune and fertilize those varieties with uniform spur lengths (and bienduce variable length spurs with conduce variable length spurs with consequent annual bearing.—W. H. Darrow in Agricultural College Review.

A proverb is but another name for an undisputed fact with whiskers on it.

RASPBERRY STOCK FREE FROM MOSAIC

All experienced raspberry growers realize the importance of securing planting stock which is as free as possible from mosaic and related diseases. Mosaic has very seriously affected the raspberry industry of Connecticut and other eastern states during the past few years. The situation became so serious that inspection and certification work was started in several states by state departments of agriculture and other agencies. Lists of growers and nurseries in several states whose fields have been inspected and rogued for mosaic are now available. If you desire to secure such a list write to your county agent or to the Extension Service, Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, Conn.

Raspberry growers are warned not to expect too much from this stock. Some diseased plants may develop from even the best lots. Such plants should be dug up, roots and all, and destroyed as soon as observed. The sources of raspberry planting stock which have been listed are believed to be the best obtainable at the present time.

Remember that red and black raspberries should not be planted near each other. It is now known that red raspberry mosaic is transmitted from red raspberries to blackcaps. It is very virulent on blackcaps—first killing the tips for a short distance, stopping terminal growth and then mottling the leaves. Some red raspberries, however, are more or less resistant to mosaic and some may be profitable crops for several years in spite of this disease. This is especially true of Latham, Herbert and St. Regis.

CABBAGE LOSS CAN BE PREVENTED

Those who are contemplating early planting of cabbage, cauliflower and other closely allied plants should remember that three very destructive diseases of these plants can be carried in seed.

One of these diseases known as "black leg" sometimes called "foot rot" and "phoma-wilt" forms a canker-like growth at first generally near the base of the stem and enlarging until the stem is girdled. Another is black rot which is a blackening of the tissue, particularly along the margin of the leaves and the other is the "altermaria leaf spot and blight." This is a small circular yellowed area which as it enlarges forms concentric circles and takes on a black, sooty color. It develops on the foliage.

As these diseases are carried in the seed a large number of plants may be destroyed in their growth.

To treat the seed use a large kettle, partly filled with water which is heated to 122 degrees F. Place the seeds in a cloth bag and put the bag in the water. Keep the temperature constant by using a thermometer to determine that it is 122 degrees F and keep adding boiling water if needed. Do not allow the bag with the seed to remain still. As soon as the time is up dip the bag in cold water to cool and spread the seeds out to dry.

This same treatment would apply to late cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts turnips and other closely allied plants.

WHEN TO SOW HARD SEEDS

Hard seeds germinate best when sown at a time of the year when seeding is not a part of the regular farm routine, late fall, midwinter or very early spring, so that they may be exposed to the weathering of thawing and freezing. These are the conclusions advanced by Dr. David Schmidt, a research fellow of the agricultural college of the University of Wisconsin. Doctor Schmidt expounded the theories developed by the latest research work at Wisconsin, the Boyce Thompson Institute in New York and at other experiment stations before the Association of Official Seed Analysts in Kansas City recently.

Hard seeds are those which for some reason not well understood have harder and thicker coating than their fellows and for this reason are impermeable to moisture necessary to germination at the same time as their thinner-coated brothers. Botanists have a trick of nature to perpetuate a species, so that if the original and main germination of the seed crop is destroyed there will be hard seeded survivors to germinate at a later date.

Whatever is the cause or the reason for them, Doctor Schmidt says they are a distinct problem of agriculture and have been so far for the last half century and one that has proved troublesome to the seed trade which has tried sacrification, roughing the seeds, and other means to increase their germinating power.

"When sown in late spring or midsummer," says Doctor Schmidt, "the germination of hard seeds is very low.

"Thus, it seems, we may expect the best results from the hard seeds if they are sown at times of the year when seeding is not commonly practiced, if at all. If the seeds are sown in spring or after the soil becomes workable, as is usually the case, the germination of hard seeds is very slight and of little agricultural value. But we must always keep in mind the very evident possibility that the present indications of the results at hand may be, and, no doubt, are influenced by one or more factors involved."

The troublesome hard seed problem is slowly nearing a solution due to the work of experiment stations and seed houses. New scarifying machinery to penetrate the hard shell of these peculiarly formed seeds is constantly being invented and new types have been installed this year for the treatment of this class of seeds in the big seed houses.

Germination tests of hard seeds have been conducted under greenhouse as well as outdoor conditions to watch their development and susceptibility to varying conditions.

HOG PRODUCTION AT LOW EBB

Marked decreases in hog production during the past six years in practically all sections of the country with the exception of the corn belt, are shown in figures compiled by the department of agriculture.

The number of hogs in most of the southern states is the smallest in 40 years, the department says. Decreases are shown in both the South Atlantic and South Central groups of states and in the North Atlantic states.

The corn belt now, more than ever before, is the source of the nation's hog supply, the department points out. The hog supply in the North Central states, which compose the corn belt, was 57,923,000 head on January 1 compared with 36,147,000 head on January 1, 1920. The peak was reached in this area on January 1, 1923 when there were 48,080,000 head, the highest on record.

The number of hogs for the country as a whole is placed at 51,223,000 head on January 1 this year, compared with 58,813,000 head on January 1, 1920. The peak during the six-year period was 63,447,000 head on January 1, 1923.

Connecticut College

One of the most exciting mascot hunts ever held at Connecticut college ended Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock when from the steps of the college gymnasium Miss Lois Penney, president of the junior class, followed by all of twenty-seven led Miss Adelaide King, president of the class of twenty-eight, followed by the sophomores in double file to the hiding place of the symbolic mascot of the junior class. This is the first time in several years that the sophomores have been unable to at least temporarily capture their opponents' treasure.

Monday evening at dinner in Thames hall the juniors unveiled the bronze crusader's sword, symbol of twenty-seven. The sword is a huge bronze one supported on a great slab of oak. It will be placed in the living room of the Branford house, one of the college dormitories. Miss Penney drew the wrappings of green and grey from the easel upon which the symbol was standing and told of the reason for the choice of the sword and what it meant to the class that had chosen it. She then told the sophomores how glad the juniors were to enter into the annual game or mascot with them. Miss Penney placed the replica of the sword in a small wooden box lined with tissue paper and tied with green and grey ribbons. Then she and Miss King, president of the class of twenty eight signed their names to the carton. It was this substitute that was to be hidden. Miss Penney read the rules of mascot hunt and passed about the map of the territory to be covered.

Then songs by and to the vieing classes followed, led by Miss Francis Williams, song leader of the juniors and Miss Lucy Norris, song leader of the sophomores. The freshmen sang to their sister class, the juniors. All during dinner Thames hall echoed and reechoed with cheers and mascot songs and calls.

From 8.30 to 9.30 all sophomores were to be indoors, away from all windows and all outlooks. This was "free time" for the juniors to hide their mascot. From 9.30 to 10.00 p. m. searching was permitted the sophomores.

The hunt continued all day Tuesday from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m. All Tuesday there could be found no traces of the hidden treasure, although there were several false alarms that called both sophomores and juniors from all directions to their meeting places. About ten minutes of seven however, a sophomore decided to search one of the college lamp posts, which she had discovered could be opened. Seeing this, and fearing that she was about to search the remaining ones, the juniors rushed the mascot from the neighboring post where it had been hidden all day. The sophomores then trailed all the juniors but the darkness and scarcity of time prevented them from discovering the whereabouts of the mascot.

Wednesday morning at six o'clock the sophomores renewed their efforts with greater vigor than ever. The campus was thoroughly scoured, but no mascot was anywhere to be found. At about six p. m. one of the sophomores discovered the secret hiding place behind Winthrop house only to have a fleet-footed junior dart up and seize it before she could lay her own hands upon it. By then it had grown so dark that it was a difficult matter to trace the bearer of the box in the "rushes" which the juniors instituted. Still the sophomores fought gamely on and trailed every hurrying junior that crossed their tracks. At seven o'clock the whistle blew just as the sophomores blew revelle as a signal that the hunt was over. It was then that Miss Penney led the lower classmen to the hiding place—in the farthest corner of the new bank of Colonial house where the college road leads into the state highway. And the junior class sang to their friends, rivals, the sophomores and the sophomores gamely sang back to the juniors. The "better class had won."

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION IS IMPROVING IN STATE

Increased employment is evident in all sections of the state, the general state survey of Connecticut reveals, according to the labor department at Washington. The following is the general report and the report for Norwich, New London and Willimantic:

General—Reports from all sections of the state indicate increased employment. In those centers where part-time schedules or seasonal slackening created a surplu sof workers the released hands were absorbed in ice cutting and snow removal. Many of the larger cities reported a shortage of skilled men in the metal trades. Overtime, obtains in the hat, cloak, silk, machine, and brass industries. Several new building projects were started during the month providing work for all available craftsmen in their various communities. While most of the cities report a surplus of farm help, in some sections this class of labor is employed in the tobacco warehouses.

Norwich—There is a surplus of labor in this city. One woolen mill and one paper mill are closed, affecting about 175 workers; two other plants are running part time. Building trades quiet. No call for farm help.

New London—All plants are running full time, with the local supply of labor in all lines equal to the demand. Increased activity in the building trades noted. Any surplus common labor was employed during February in the removal of snow.

Willimantic—A surplus of cotton-mill help exists in this city. Industrial conditions at the present are about 85 per cent. normal production. Seasonal slackening in building activities noted durng February.

Within ten days the house hopes to be in a legislative position that will enable it to quit and go home whenever it gets ready.

COAST GUARD OFFICER ARRESTED AT NEW LONDON TOOK $10,000 BRIBE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 18—The arrest of Lieut. John A. McGuire, United States Coast Guard stationed at the state pier, a member of the crew of the patrol boat 186 and residing at 10 Norwood avenue, here, on a charge of conspiracy and is now at liberty on bail of $5,000 furnished by his father-in-law Frederick Zepp, Main street, merchant, awaiting trial the 31st inst., makes the seventh coast guardsman to be apprehended on federal warrants within the last few days for alleged protection of the rum-runners of Long Island and Block Island sounds. Following the apprehension of McGuire, it became known today that the specific charge against the officer is that of accepting a bribe of $10,000 from J. J. Donnelly, Newport, R. I., who with John Campbell, also of Newport, owned a large cargo of liquor that was aboard a schooner in Block Island sound and was awaiting favorable opportunity to land the cargo in Rhode Island. McGuire, it is claimed, was interviewed by Donnelly and after being approached consented to refrain from interfering with the landing of the liquor at a point on the Saknonett river, Narragansett Bay, which has been named in the bribe.

That other arrests connecting the accused with the assisting of rum-runners to land their cargoes along the New England shore will be made within a short time there is but little doubt, for it is known that the authorities are still working on information implicating several more of the coast guardsmen. An idea of the extensive part alleged to have ben played by the coast guardsmen in assisting the transportation of liquor through the waters of New England can be obtained in the statement made today by a man close to the coast guard service, who declared that if the government desired it and instituted a rigid investigation with a purpose not to spare any one implicated in the ring, practically the entire personnel of the coast guard would be under arrest.

CITY'S PROPOSED ROAD WORK IS TO COST A SNUG SUM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 18—This city is declared to be mapping out work on streets that will cost a big sum, to be expended during the spring and summer months. But "mapping out" in this case is only what the diplomats at Washington call "making gestures." The improvements in Bank street will call for the outlay of more than $40,000, for the work contemplated there is very pretentious. The city does not anticipate, in the making of the plans, that the money to pay for that work is to come from the municipal treasury, but from the property owners whose possessions abut the street. It is proposed to change the looks of that highway and to produce a street that will be practically free from congestion during the summer time, when traffic is heavy. The plan is to have double tracks laid in the street with the wires and poles of the public service corporations removed from sigh. Then the street is to be laid in asphalt, the only roadway of that sort which the city will then have, and to widen the roadway by taking some of the sidewalk. Of course the city claims the sidewalk and can make use of it by taking it. But there will be expense to do that. It is understood to be the plan to assess the cost of this work against the abutting property. That course will bring a protest from the owners of the property on the street. The city council members are of the opinion that the improvement will be accepted eventually by the owners as a positive benefit and that they will not object to paying when the matter is presented to them in the light in which it is viewed by the council. When that work is done, it is said to be in contemplation to open a new street that will be an extension of Montauk avenue through the property on the west side of Bank street, opposite Montauk avenue to Connecticut avenue which will continue north, finally to the Norwich turnpike and past Connecticut college That will make a driveway that will be exceptionally fine, but it will imply the city an expenditure of magnitude. It was in contemplation at one time to throw a bridge across Main street at Capitol avenue, but when the cost of that undertaking was estimated the plan was abandoned. The extension of Green street to Tilley and the opening of Washington street to Reed are other improvements contemplated, and if they are accomplished it is estimated that the city will get more for its outlay than it will ever get again for any work of the kind. In this work there is little of real estate to be acquired so that the cost will be at a minimum. Some fanciful brains at one time had in view the extension of Main street through Golden street and to Bank street, but when the cost of that plan was disclosed it nearly paralyzed those who were figuring upon it, and the scheme was dropped as if it were not. It is quite positive that the preparation of permanent streets in certain sections of the city is contemplated the city management and that such a scheme will be attempted. With this fact in mind, there are few who ignore the city extending and improving other highways. The top dressing of tar and gravel which was placed on lower Bank street a year ago as an experiment has not proved to be of the lasting quality anticipated. It is not wearing. That experience will stimulate a plan to lay a cement surface on Montauk avenue, at least on a portion of that fine drive. The intent then will be to keep trucks and heavy vehicles off that highway. The state has a long stretch of cement road in use on Ocean avenue and it has worn so well that the city has cast longing eyes toward it.

The Bank street scheme is understood not to have the endorsement of two of the seven members of the city council, and that being the case, the opposition of property owners is invited at the start of the undertaking.

Theodore Morris, colored, and a lodger at the home of Dorothy Lewis, also colored, of 607 Main street, was taken into custody this afternoon by Patrolmen Clyde Murphy and Bertram Murphy charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. He was unable to secure a surety on his bond of $100 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning and was lodged in a cell.

Morris it is understood, has enjoyed the freedom of the Lewis house at all times and this afternoon he went to the place and showed the effects of having been drinking. It is also understood that after Morris arrived at the Lewis residence he and the woman indulged in strong drink and at least the woman displayed symptoms of having been drinking when Morris was arrested. Attorneys had been in the place but a comparatively short time, he quarrelled with the woman and a short time after the neighborhood was aroused as the couple being in a scrap. So many were the dusky flingers that a neighbor telephoned the police and the officers were dispatched to the Lewis home. When the officers arrived they were unable to gain entrance to the place. Finally when the officers entered Morris was nowhere in sight, but he was located in one of the upper rooms, and taken into custody. The lower rooms of the place indicated that a fight had taken place for the furnishings were smashed and disarranged. Morris had a cut upon his hand. He was accompanied to the police station by the Lewis woman, but the latter was not held. She was advised that when Morris obtains his freedom, whether tomorrow or after he serves a jail sentence, that she had better exercise judgment and order the fellow to find another lodging house. This the woman promised to do.

The funeral of George M. Mosher, of Waterford, whose death occurred on Wednesday night, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Young and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners for Mr. Mosher was one of the best known residents of Waterford. The services were conducted by Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the Waterford Baptist church. Burial was in Mullin Hill cemetery, Waterford.

Hugh Sloan, of Bank street, is in New York where he will attend the annual convention of the Dancing Master of America, now in session in that city.

Carl Nyard, of United States Coast Guard training ship Alexander Hamilton; Miss Lillian Snitkin, 14, Cutler street, and Cyril Hamilton, 53 Franklin street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Morris B. Payne has sold a house and lot on Alger place to Archibald S. Northam.

Rose Herwitz and May Lapuk, of Hartford, have hold a cottage at 14 Midway place, Ocean Beach, to Edward Johnson.

W Selden Carroll has sold a house and lot on Pacific street to Rose Hanson.

Residents of West Colt street have lodged complaint with the police because of the annoyance they have been subjected to the past few nights by the constant barking of a dog owned by a neighbor on that street. The complainants declare that owing to the barking of the dog that their rest is broken, and that they have been unable to cause the alleged nuisance to cease and for that reason have appealed to the police. The complaint was turned over to Dog Warden John Sweeny for investigation.

Simon Hess, under treatment for several weeks at Home Memorial hospital where he underwent an operation has improved considerably the past day or two until now there is every indication that Mr. Hess will recover, although it will be some time before he will be able to return to his business at the Hotel Mohican.

Bernard D., 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Girotti of Thames View, is confined dead yesterday at the residence of his parents after a brief illness.

Funeral services for Mary G., wife of William E Rogers of Center Groton was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Center Groton chapel. Rev George P Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, officiated. Interment was in Ledyard Center cemetery Ledyard.

Mrs. Richard Pendergrast, 61 Monroe street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Pendergrast to Daniel J. Marlowe, of Boston.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Swanson, 342 Broadway, of the marriage in New York August 1, 1925, of their daughter, Miss Bernardina H. Swanson to D. Walton Rossell, of San Antonio, Texas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George N. Vine.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Norris, 21 Henry street, informally celebrated the twenty-sixth anniversary of their wedding at their home this afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Morris received many congratulations from their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Minot have returned to their home on Post Hill place, after having spent a fortnight in Florida.

Alex Johansen, stationed at the state pier, was this afternoon ordered to appear in the police court for failing to have an operator's license when operating an automobile.

C. S. Howe of 86 Connecticut avenue has notified the police that an Indian bicycle, painted black, the property of his son, was stolen from the cellar of the Howe home today. It is supposed the bike was taken by some boy in the neighborhood.

There is every indication that the number of automobiles in service in this city the coming summer will be larger than has ever been operated here constantly. Many new machines have reached this city during the past week and there will be others to arrive as the weather becomes milder. Already there are many machines in use that have been in the garages all winter.

Bank street is to have another restaurant, the number now being close to eighty.

Exce. the fresh country variety have dropped to below 40 cents a dozen.

Truckmen say that there will be fewer residence changes in this city on the 1st of April this year than have been recorded in many years. Tenants seem to be satisfied with their rents or else they are not disposed to make changes in residence because they cannot get rents that are cheaper in price than they are now paying.

It is not known whether the suggestion of Councilor Streeter for an overhead bridge from Riverside Park to the river, made in the meeting of the council a fortnight ago, will be granted and the bridge be provided. Such a provision for the patrons of the park would be greatly appreciated and it may be the saving of life for now the patrons of the park must cross railroad tracks to get to the bathing beach and such a trip is always attended by more or less danger—by some hazard at the best. But perhaps it is because of the very hazardous conditions that surrounds the passage that there are not accidents there. Anyone who crosses the tracks must watch, wait and listen or take his or her life in hand. Trains are very frequently moving there either in switching or passing to or from the railroad yard.

The police of the city have had the quietest time the past week they have experienced in a year or more. That may be the lull before the storm which sailors speak of.

There will be fewer cases from the southern end of the county before the May criminal term of the superior court than usual. At present there are only a few cases to be heard there which have originated in New London, and this city supplies a far larger number of cases ordinarily than do the other towns hereabouts. None of the cases are of the very serious sort.

Railroad men declare that there is more anthracite coal moving over the New Haven railroad now than has been hauled at any time since the strike was inaugurated last September. That sort of coal was not to be had during the time between September and mid-March, so that the sight of carload lots is one that is comforting.

There appears to be business enough ahead for builders as soon as April comes to keep all the mechanics employed. Painters are now having a busy time of it, for most of them have orders ahead that will keep them active for weeks. Also there is much work that has not yet shown up, but which will come on with the advent of settled weather.

NIGHT FIRE ENGINE DRIVERS DISSATISFIED WITH $300

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 18—With the announcement that the members of the fire department are seeking an increase in salaries following the granting of an additional day a month as a vacation to the police department and with the police anticipating asking for an increase in pay. There has already arisen dissatisfaction on the part of the night drivers of the fire apparatus because of the schedule for increased wages as submitted to City Manager William A. Holt. The increase sought for the night drivers is but $300 as against an increase of $500 for the day drivers. The night drivers declare that they have not been treated fairly in the matter and that they are entitled to the same increase that may be given the day drivers especially in view of the fact that the most difficult of the fires combatted occur, as a rule, in the night season and that they are not allowed the time off accorded the day drivers.

Broadway Theater

After writing reviews of every photoplay that comes to Broadway theater it would seem almost impossible to find adequate adjectives and adjuncts to describe the new picture at the Broadway theater one of the two features starting Sunday.

After a few mediocre pictures there is danger of going into hysterics over such fine entertainment as Laura LaPlante offers in The Beautiful Cheat, a Universal-Jewel. After a run of good pictures there is difficulty in finding words to covey the information that this is the best entertainment that has been offered here for many months.

It is gay, riotous laughter amid scenes that disclose the inner workings of a motion picture studio. The story is about a little shop girl who rises to stardom surrounded by the fiction that she is a great Russian emotional actress.

Miss LaPlante is dainty, dashing and beautiful with her portrayal tinged at times with an appealing wistfulness.

Harry Myers, as her press agent, injects a large share of comedy into this picture by his unique ways of publicizing his client.

Alexander Carr, as the producer whose financial fate hangs on the success of the first picture, gives an amusing and touching portrayal.

Bertram Grassby deserves mention for his part of the nobleman who loses the girl Yonoca Troubetskov, a real Russian prince, has his biggest role in American pictures. The youth is so handsome that he passes all understanding. Helen Carr is very sweet as Lady Violet Armington, while Robert Anderson is a riot as the truck driver admirer of the little actress.

The story is from Nina Wilcox Putnam's Saturday Evening Post series and was adapted by A. P. Younger. Edward Sloman directed the picture ture admirably.

Palace Theatre

Five great vaudeville acts. Every one off the big time and going back on again. The finest bill of variety the Palace has had this season. A strong statement but the bill will back it up. Archer and Belford and by the way Mr. Archer is an original boze scored a tremendous hit at last night's performance. His pantomime convulsed the audience. The Deonisio offering of the greatest novelties in the theatrical world. Their feats are nothing short of astounding. Renard & West offer a comedy skit that keeps the audience in an uproar for fifteen minutes. Teng & Williams with Baby Williams have a dancing act they can feel well proud of. Wadda Norraine the lady with the double voice who sings both grand opera and popular numbers is a finished artist. The Scarlet Streak ends today and the mystery is finally solved. On the screen "The Limited Mail" is the feature attraction. With Monte Blue and Vera Reynolds in a leading role.

There are four excellent reasons for seeing "The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. classic of the screen. First there is the story. Elmer Vance's successful melodrama and book, with its thrilling romance Then there is Monte Blue in the leading role of a handsome, husky young eastern ne'er-do-well, who finds peace and happiness as a train engineer in the west. Then the magnificent backgrounds of the Colorado mountains where the picture was screened. And then a brilliant cast that includes Vera Reynolds Willard Louis, Tom Gallery, Master Jack Huff, Edward Gribbon, Otis Harlan.

Breed Theater

Wherever the stage farce of Charley's Aunt has been played of late years the experience has been that fathers who saw the play and laughed heartily years ago have gone and taken their sons, probably for a good excuse to go and have a good laugh again, and mothers have taken their daughters, thus passing the fun of Charley's Aunt down from generation to generations.

Now that the famous old laughing success is a film with Syd Chaplin in the title role all those who have seen the play will probably go again to see how the laughs have been secured in the movie version. Those who have already seen it say there are even more laughs and roars in the film than there were in the play, and if that is true, it must be a howl for Charley's Aunt as a play has records of more laughs than any other farce which has ever been written.

It is really the patriarch or rather the mother of all farce comedy plot written since Brandon Thomas created the laughing classic in 1892.

Charley's Aunt will be shown at the Breed theater today and tomorrow and other pictures on the bill include the seventh chapter of The Green Archer and the Pathe news.

SEEKING TRACES OF OLD RACES IN MANY REGIONS

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—In efforts to reveal secrets of the human race long hidden by time and to bring new specimens of life to this country, scientists of the American Museum of Natural History are working in many lands—some in the far stretches beyond civilization.

Not all the work is being done in foreign countries, however for out in Arizona Erich Schmidt, of the department of anthropology, has made valuable archaeological discoveries.

One important ruin was on top of a mountain where an old cemetery gave up skelotons of people of a past age. At the request of Phoenix officials, Schmidt examined a ruin there which proved of such historical interest as to merit restoration by the city.

In company with Harvey S. Ladew, who financed the trip, George H. H. Tate is collecting mammals and birds in Peru, Argentina and Bolivia. Dr. Frank M. Chapman, curator of the department of birds; Francis L. Jaques and Raymon Porter are in Panama, collecting specimens of bird life as representative of the American tropics. The party will be away six months.

Working on Maya ruins with the Mason-Spinden expedition, sent out by the Peabody Museum, is Ludlow Griscom, assistant curator of birds. Already he has reported many interesting and heretofore unrecorded facts of existing bird life.

Carl F. Akeley, the explorer and sculptor, is on a big game hunt in Africa for groups to be placed in the new African hall. He has mounted three gorillas and will obtain material for the physical reproduction of the background which includes studies of the vegetation, color notes and specimens of soil.

In East Africa, Dr. James P. Chapin associate curator of birds, is with De Witt L. Sage and Frank P. Mathews, who financed the expedition, collecting birds of the sub-tropical zone. They also will visit Kivu Volcano, the western edge of the Congo and through Katango on their return.

A biological survey of Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands is being conducted by H. E. Anthony, assistant curator of mammals, and C. G. Goodwin under the auspices of the New York Academy of Sciences.

When this is completed, they will make a study of the West Indies to determine if the islands once were parts of a great island continent. Existing forms of life there, many of which require dry land to travel, suggest the islands once joined a mainland rather than having been raised from the floor of the sea by volcanic action.

Clarence L. Ray is making an extended trip examining the most recently excavated ruins and other archaeological remains in Mexico, in furtherance of the plans for the new Mexican Hall of Archaeology, proposed for erection at the museum.

Through the patronage of Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, wife of Major General Sturgis, retired, Dr. Willard G. Van Name is collecting marine invertebrates near Pearl Islands, on Panama coast. The discoveries of the Third Asiatic Expedition, under Roy C. Andrews, continue interesting and officials believe further important light on the origin and migration of the primitive races will be revealed.

During the month, Dr. William D. Matthew sailed for Mongolia to visit the fossil fields covered by the Andrews party. In June, the Putnam-Williams expedition to Greenland to collect material for the museum's newly completed Hall of Ocean Life also will set sail. H. C. Raven will head the party, which will include Robert Peary, son of the famous explorer, and Captain Bob Bartlett, who commanded Admiral Peary's vessel on the successful North Pole hunt.

In England it is a belief of many mothers that the head of a newborn baby should be washed in brandy to prevent it from catching cold.

MARKET WAS WEAK

NEW YORK, March 19—(AP)—Further weakness developed in today's stock market which was featured by the heavy selling of the motor shares as unconfirmed rumors of disappointing spring sales of several makes of passenger cars. The selling originating with bear traders, but the severity of the decline resulted in the liquidation of a large volume of long stocks with the result that closing quotations disclosed a large number of losses ranging from 1 to 16 points. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000 mark for the first time in a fortnight.

The reaction came after an opening outburst of strength which followed the execution of buying orders presumably inspired by the announcement, after the close yesterday of substantial dividend distributions on the stocks of three of the so-called Van Sweringen roads, Chesapeake and Ohio common, which opened with a block of 10,000 shares at the "spread" price of 122 3-4, a maximum overnight gain of 5 points, advanced to 124 1-4 and then dropped to 120 1-2. "Nickel Plate" common closed unchanged at 94 1-8, after having sold five points above that figure.

Trade and financial news was largely constructive in character. Time money rates eased to the lowest general level prevailing since October 1925. The annual dividend of the International Harvester company was advanced from $5 to $6 a better inquiry was noted for pig iron, and the stock offering of the Lambert company was promptly oversubscribed. Indications that the market harbors a large short interest were seen in the long list of stocks loaning "flat" or at a premium after the market closed.

Sellers of the motor stocks assumed aggressive proportions when bear traders succeeded in making headway against such issues as General Motors, Hudson and Chrysler which previously had offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure. General Motors was hammered down from 128 1-2 to 125 1-2, Hudson from 110 3-8 to 108 1-4 Chrysler from 40 1-2 to 39, Jordan from 50 1-2 to 46 and Mack Trucks from 125 to 119, all closing at or near the day's low levels for net losses of 3 to nearly 5 points.

Selling weakness also developed in a number of high priced industrials and specialties. American Can, old stock, broke 16 points to 187 1-2, closing at the bottom. American Hide and Leather preferred tumbled 11 points and then rallied feebly, and Stewart-Rumely preferred. Allied Chemical, American Ice, American Continental Insurance, Electric Auto-Lite, General Electric, Texas and Company, Savage Arms, Remington Arms, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Woolworth shares were declines of 3 1-2 to 7 points. Rails shared with the industrials but the declines were not as large as common and preferred broke 7 and 4 points, respectively on a small turnover. Atlantic Coast Line dropped 5 points but the recessions in issues as Baltimore and Ohio common, Central, New Haven and Reading were held to 2 point or two.

The rally in wheat prices on reports of an increased export demand featured the commodity markets. May wheat closed 3 1-2 cents above the low of 21.66 1-4. Cotton was unchanged to 2 points lower. Coffee and sugar prices were slightly easier.

The renewal rate on call loans was established at 4 1-4 per cent., which figure was maintained all day. Time money was in more plentiful supply and available as low as 4 1-2 per cent. Prime commercial paper was unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved within narrow irregular limits. Demand sterling at one time was $4.85 3-4 and cable transfers were fairly steady at 4.87 cents. Norwegian krone declined 25 points to 21.32 cents and Swiss francs dropped 25 points to 12.50
